PREFACE.

THE BOOK we present to our readers this year and to the trade in general is somewhat an improvement on our previous publications. The amount of information it gives, and which is the result of a conscientious and arduous work, indicates that our agency is now on a perfect footing and in a position to render to the financial and commercial community the services they expect from us.

It contains a STATISTICAL AND HISTORICAL SKETCH carefully compiled of our commercial, financial and industrial institutions, banks, insurance companies and others of primary interest, and we firmly believe that this portion of our book will meet the approval of all business men.

These improvements are also, in our opinion, a sort of expression of our gratitude towards our clients for their past encouragement and for the patronage we expect in the future.

The portion of this book containing statistical and historical datas was gathered from various valuable publications, and from the "Star," one of the most enterprising amongst Canadian papers.

We are hopeful that this book for the year 1890 will meet with cordial reception from business men to whom it is specially dedicated.

CHAPUT FRÈRES,

MONTREAL:

HER PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE.

HER HISTORY FROM 1535 TO 1889.

MONTREAL, the Queen City of the St. Lawrence, and the Commercial Metropolis of the Dominion of Canada, sits enthroned upon one of the finest sites of the continent of America, and indeed of the world itself. Constantly reiterated testimony is borne to the advantages which nature has lavished upon her, in her majestic river, wooded heights and beautiful surroundings.

As is well known, three hundred and forty-six years ago on the 2nd October 1535, Jacques Cartier, with a small company of French soldiers and sailors under his command, stood for the first time on the top of the mountain crowning the Indian city or town of Hochelaga, and discovering an immense extent of fine country, watered by noble rivers and interspersed with woods, hills and islands, he was filled with feelings of joy and gratitude and gave to the elevation the name of Mount Royal, which, with small change, has since extended to the city. Truly the name was most appropriately chosen. From the summit, whichever way he turned east, west and south, the forest was over all, while the broad blue line of the great St. Lawrence gleamed in the ocean of foliage. But how greatly changed is the scene since the Breton voyageur gazed upon it. The city, with its domes, its spires and its tall chimneys, lies spread out before the astonished spectator. The noble river, dotted with craft of every size and build, and spanned by the magnificent Victoria Bridge with the beautiful country beyond, make a picture which the eye loves to dwell upon.

THREE HUNDRED YEARS

is but a brief space in the history of some ancient and time-worn cities, where the hand of Old Father Time himself seems to stand still, but it has done wonders for Montreal. During that period Montreal has never relapsed into torpor, has never retrograded; but has in spite of many difficulties marched on overcoming by steadfastness and perseverance those obstacles which temporarily barred her progress, until to-day she occupies the position of the Key of British North America, and the commercial metropolis of the Dominion of Canada.

It is interesting to note that some 230 years after Cartier landed, Montreal had attained a condition of considerable importance. In an old book termed Jones' Geography, published shortly before the Declaration of Independence, the following account of Montreal appears: "Montreal stands at the foot of a mountain on an island ten leagues in length and almost four in breadth formed by the River St. Lawrence. While the French possessed Canada both the city and island of Montreal were private property, and were so well improved that the whole island was a delightful spot producing everything necessary for the conveniences of life. Since the town has been in the hands of the English it has suffered extremely by fire. When reduced by General Amherst, it was of an oblong form, well peopled, and surrounded by a wall flanked by eleven redoubts which served instead of bastions. The streets were laid out and the houses built in a very handsome manner. The ditch was about eight feet deep, and of a proportional breadth, but dry. It had also a fort or citadel, the batteries of which commanded all the streets of the town. These fortifications have since been much improved by the English. The town itself is divided into two parts, the Upper and the Lower. In the latter the merchants and traders principally reside. Before the last peace, the place of arms, the magazines, and the nunnery hospital were situated in the Lower Town. The former, or Upper Town, contained the principal buildings, as the palace of the governor, the houses of the chief officers, the convent of the Recollects, the Jesuits Church and the Seminary, the free school and the parish church. The Governor's palace is a fine large building. The general hospital and many elegant villas decorate the adjacent country, which produces all the vegetables of Europe."

It is not the purpose of this article to trace Montreal step by step in her triumphant march, to note how she weathered the storms and kept progress with the requirements of the times and the necessities of her gradually increasing population. Its object is rather to point out the position to which she has now arrived, and to note her fitness to fill the proud position she is called upon to occupy in the present and future of this rapidly expanding Canada of ours, a position that can never be taken from her, as it is the result of economic law, the working of which is seen in the neighboring republic, where, in spite of the jealousy of certain other cities, New York remains and necessarily must remain the capital and commercial centre of the nation. As

A COMMERCIAL CITY

Montreal occupies a specially advantageous position at the head of oceanic navigation and at the commencement of lake and river navigation, having direct railway communication with the chief cities of Canada and the United States. In order to accommodate the magnificent fleet of ships that come to her port from all lands the ship channel of the River St. Lawrence has been deepened to 25 feet at lowest condition of the river and a further deepening is now in progress; in order to achieve this she had to borrow some three million dollars, and the removal of this debt will lift from her shoulders the last and greatest burden she has had to bear. In consequence of this debt the scale of harbor dues imposed were necessarily heavy, giving smaller and in other respects less convenient ports an unfair advantage over Montreal. In compliance, however, with many urgent representations the Federal Government has assumed the responsibility of this debt. The city is the terminus of one of the completest railway systems in the world. Two divisions of the Grand Trunk Railway, and various lines run in connection with its magnificent system, afford easy access to the United States and the principal cities of Canada, while the marvelous monument of national enterprise and engineering skill, the Canadian Pacific Railway, traverses the continent from sea to sea, opening up magnificent tracts of fertile country and developing stores of wealth hitherto unknown, while it is becoming the great highway for commercial intercourse between the eastern and western limits of the Old World. In addition to its importance as and forwarding station of Canada, Montreal is also the largest manufacturing centre in the Dominion. Among its industries are foundries, sugar refineries, tanneries, silk mills, manufactories of hardware, carriages and sleighs, corn brooms, woodenware, glass, paints and drugs, edge tools, locomotives, steam engines, boilers, india rubber goods, printing presses, agricultural implements, musical instruments, paper, rope, sewing machines, types, pins, tobacco, woolen and cotton goods, boots and shoes and other smaller industries. There are besides saw and flour mills, rolling mills, leadworks, brass foundries, and many other industrial establishments. The educational means of the city comprise the University of McGill with faculties of law, science, art and medicine, a branch of the Laval University with faculties of divinity, law, medicine and arts. Theological colleges belonging to the Roman Catholic, Anglican, Presbyterian and Methodist bodies, a Jesuit college, a high school, two Normal schools, several classical and scientific academies. The elementary schools are under the control respectively of the Catholic and Protestant School Commissioners, and there are also two affiliated medical colleges one to Bishop's college, Lennoxville, the other to Victoria college, Cobourg. As a sign of the business transactions carried on by the community, it may be noted that there are no fewer than sixteen banking establishments, twenty-six Fire and sixteen Life Insurance offices located in the city. There are thirteen public markets, the finest of which is the Marché Bonsecours with its bronze cupola and imposing façade. This market, formerly the old City Hall, is the largest market in the city, whose total sales of farm produce amount yearly to some $650,000, that of Bonsecours being about $250,000. In order to facilitate the vast intercourse with foreign countries, the following nations are represented in the city by consuls and vice-consuls, viz: the Argentine Confederation, Austro-Hungary, Belgium, Chili and Peru, Denmark, France, the German Empire, the Kingdom of Hawaii, the Netherlands, Sweden and Norway, the Republic of Uruguay, Spain, Switzerland and the United States. Montreal is the centre of a judicial district presided over by seven judges. The Court of Queen's Bench also holds sittings in the months of February, May, October and December. The section of the Bar of the Province of Quebec located in Montreal numbers about 370 members. The city is the seat of a Roman Catholic Archbishop, and an Anglican Bishop. Montreal is governed by a mayor and city council composed of thirty-six aldermen. It returns three members to the Federal Parliament and three to the Provincial, and is the largest and wealthiest city in the Dominion of Canada.

IMPROVEMENTS IN PROGRESS.

Not yet satisfied with Montreal as it is, the foremost city of the Dominion, a number of prominent and public-spirited citizens in the month of February last organized what is called a City Improvement Association, to conserve the city's interests, and to promote and develop all matters that may tend to improve it. At the preliminary meetings there were appointed, besides the officers, seven committees, namely: One executive committee, whose duty it shall be to consider and finally settle all business which affect the association; a committee on parks and thoroughfares, to deal with parks, boulevards, city extension, street construction, etc.; a committee on finance; a committee on harbors, floods and docks; a committee on house building and sanitation; a committee on legislation and a committee on exhibitions and attractions.

Headed by men who thoroughly understand the city's needs in those respects these committees have in the short space that they have been in existence, especially those on parks and thoroughfares, on house building and sanitation, on exhibition and on legislation. The members of the first-named committee, after laboring hard individually as well as in a body for some time past, have decided upon a plan by which the suburbs may be brought in direct relation with the centre of the population, and the number of parks and squares, the lungs of the city, may be increased upon a scale adequate to the city's future needs. With the commercial and manufacturing quarters closely adjacent to the river, the wharves and the canals, and with the localities for residential purposes running in a north, east and northwest direction, a plan was formulated by which two great diagonal boulevards would unite the western and northern suburbs with the heart of the city, its commercial centre, while a number of suitable grounds, now lying useless and waste, would be converted into beautiful, health-giving parks, and a system of local improvements be adopted in regard to coupled with more liberal expropriation laws. The committee on house building and sanitation on their part have not been idle, and with the aid of several expert engineers have recommended means by which the general health of the city at large may be improved and infectious diseases may be forestalled and made almost powerless. The committee on exhibition is working on a plan by which our city will become the site of permanent and periodical exhibitions, which will attract not only the people, the wealth and industries from other cities of the Dominion but from the whole continent of America, and if necessary from the countries separated from ours by the vast ocean. The committee on legislation have shown their willingness in connection with the revision of the city charter, and thus they all are working through different channels for one common end. At present this association has over a hundred members, men of wealth and prominence, men whose interest it is to push the work undertaken because they know that they will reap a manifold profit and because they are proud of having the city of their birth, the city where they battled for the wealth and prominence attained, shine out above all others. And they are cordially seconded by the press, which is ever ready to assist in making the city more beautiful, more prosperous than it is. And it may be safely said that with such men working with such an aim in view, in order that in beauty, convenience and health, the city of Montreal should be that which its position, natural and commercial, and its population entitle it to, its growth and prosperity in the future will far surpass that which has already taken place in the past.

THE CITY WATER WORKS.

The rapid increase of Montreal in area and population has rendered necessary the continuous addition to the means of supplying the city with an abundant supply of water, yet, notwithstanding all that has been done to improve the water works and the heavy sacrifices which the city has been subjected to in order to maintain this important branch of civic government, it is obvious the present works are, if not inefficient, at all events strained to their utmost limit to meet the increased demand. Such being the case the city had looked the matter squarely in the face and no temporary patching up arrangement is the result, but a noble scheme propounded by the Superintendent, Mr. Louis Lesage, C. E., for the enlargement and remodelling of the Montreal water works. It is proposed to construct a large canal 78 feet wide at the bottom, and 130 feet wide at the level of the water, with a depth of 14 feet, starting at the River St. Lawrence, above the Lachine Rapids, a little below Fraser's Hill, forming a junction with the present aqueduct, about 3400 feet below the entrance of the latter, crossing the aqueduct at that point and running parallel to it as far as the Wheel House, where its water will be received in a larger subsiding reservoir of an area of one hundred arpents. At the entrance in the St. Lawrence a large and deep still water basin will be made by heavy embankments thrown in the river and formed with the surplus earth coming from the excavation of the canal. The new subsiding reservoir will form a nearly square basin of about 1800 feet on each of the sides, wherein the water before being admitted to the wheels and pumps will be allowed to deposit impurities.

This aqueduct will be able to discharge, when covered with ice two feet thick, enough water to give power to the machinery to raise thirty millions of imperial gallons per twenty-four hours to the level of the present reservoir. This work is reckoned at about 1600 effective horse-power; in summer, at medium high water, the capacity of both aqueducts will be about 5000 effective horse power, that is, sufficient to raise daily into the present reservoir 100 millions of gallons. The estimated cost of making the new works, exclusive of new machinery and buildings, pumping mains and other matters, is $1,850,193. The total cost being $4,019,972. Enormous as the cost of those works may appear it is obvious that the city has been wise in adopting this large and effective scheme which will entirely relieve the fears and anxiety that exist in the public mind in reference to the supply of water, and not only will the bountiful supply of water prove the wisdom of the city, but the power in the aqueduct will prove an effective force for turning machinery for other and useful purposes, such as lighting entirely our already partially lighted streets with electricity, ventilating our sewers and drains and thus, in the long run, proving not only very beneficial to the city but a positive annual economy.

DEVELOPMENT.

GENERAL VIEW OF CITY GOVERNMENT, PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND PARKS.

From the year 1766 up to the year 1833, the municipal affairs of Montreal were administered by Justices of the Peace sitting in special session for that purpose. In 1832 the city was incorporated by an Act of Parliament 1 William IV, c. 59, and to that end was divided into eight wards, viz., East, West, St. Ann's, St. Joseph, St. Antoine, St. Lawrence, St. Louis and St. Mary, each ward electing two members. The first meeting of the corporation was held on 5th June, 1833, at which Jacques Viger, Esq., was elected Mayor, an office which he continued to hold until the new incorporation in 1840. Prior to that time the village of Montreal was but a small and unimportant settlement. In an old manuscript in the possession of Mr. Black, the City Treasurer, and being the assessment roll of the town for the year 1817, the total number of houses then in the town is set down as being 1757. It is interesting in this old document to note the names of the fathers and ancestors of some of our most respected and wealthy citizens of to-day. Perhaps few have taken note of the steady but certain developments which our city has gradually and silently exhibited. In area she has increased on every side, the smaller municipalities having yielded to the natural law of gravitation and been absorbed into the larger body. Whereas at her incorporation she covered an area of 3498 acres, she now includes within her borders an area of 5366 acres, including 1230 acres added by the annexation of the municipality of Hochelaga in 1885; 308 acres by the annexation of St. Jean Baptiste in 1886, and 330 acres by that of St. Gabriel in 1887. These accessions to the city limits were severally formed into wards, making with the ward of St. James, which had been previously added by the subdivision of the other wards, twelve wards in all, into which the city is now subdivided. But it is not in the matter of actual acreage covered that the city has shown the most conspicuous progress. What were but a few years since open fields and pastures have become the populous sections of St. Antoine, St. Ann's, St. Mary's and St. James Wards, while the East, Centre and West Wards, constituting the city mercantile, have within the same time been altered by the magnificence and magnitude of their buildings. The population of the city in 1800 was 9000, in 1825 it was 22,000, and in 1831, 27,937. The last census, taken in 1887, added to the annexed ward of St. Gabriel, shows the population now to be 200,000.

The Government takes a general census in every tenth year, and the following are the figures since 1851, viz.:

"	1871	"	107,225
"	1881	"	140,727
* Present population			200,000

It is difficult to account for the diminished increase during the decade between 1861 and 1871, but the reason probably is that while the immigration may have been equal to if not exceeding previous years, the exodus was still greater, this being about the time when the French Canadian population were induced by

to leave their native country—in vast numbers—and cross the line into the neighboring republic. In addition to the census taken by the government, the assessors occasionally take a census when going their annual rounds, and although the results arrived at are merely an approximation, it is useful in shewing the gradual increase in the various wards. The increase according to such civic census from 1877 runs as follows:

WARD.	1877.	1887.	Increase.
East.....	3,159	4,186	1,027
West	1,156	2,989	1,833
Centre	1,412	1,434	22
St. Ann's.....	19,641	25,452	5,811
St. Antoine.....	27,506	42,542	15,036
St. Lawrence.....	14,410	16,547	2,137
St. Louis	16,452	22,308	5,854
St. James....	19,146	23,293	4,147
St. Mary	14,983	29,329	12,346
Hochelaga		6,343	6,343
St. Jean Baptiste.....		8,834	8,834

From the above figures it will be seen that while the increase in the central wards has been small the outside districts, which but a few years since were fields and pasture lands, have now become covered by long streets, having on each side rows of magnificent mansions, stores, or pretty villas. This increase in buildings is not caused merely by the accretions to the population but by the change in the habits and tastes of the citizens. The tendency is to build residences in the outskirts of the town, leaving the heart of the city to be occupied solely by business premises. The merchant or trader whose father resided in a few comfortable rooms over his office or store on Notre Dame, St Paul or one of the business streets, and made a large fortune there, now resides in a villa residence in what a few years ago were the suburbs of the town. The consequence of this is two fold; not only has accommodation in the way of new residences had to be provided in the suburbs, but the old dwellings have been pulled down, and in their places have reared their heads, consisting of banking and insurance establishments, blocks of offices and warehouses and magnificent rows of stores. In fact so far have the open spaces become built over, that it is estimated that to day Montreal contains no fewer than forty-six thousand buildings.

The cost of ten years' building operations to 1887 may be estimated at $15,964,497, in which amount is not included the value of the ground nor the various improvements and changes which have been made at great cost to buildings already erected. The buildings now in course of erection are finer and of a better class than ever before built in the city, yet most of them are being built without borrowing money. Although so many new houses have been erected, there are very few residences untenanted, in fact houses are frequently rented before their foundations are laid. The dwellings and public edifices of the city are substantially built, being for the most part of cut stone, giving them a solid and lasting appearance, and giving much comfort, being cool in summer and warm in winter. Montreal claims, and certainly deserves the title of the "City Churches," and, as Mark Twain observes, "is the only city on the continent where you cannot throw a brick without breaking a church window." It contains some seventy-five churches of all denominations, many of which are magnificent edifices. Among the finest and largest buildings erected of late years may be mentioned the Post Office in St. James street, erected in 1876, at a cost of $400,000. The new City Hall, which cost close on $125,000. The majestic Cathedral of St. Peter, upon Dominion Square, is to cost when completed $300,000. The Windsor Hotel, built in 1878, at a cost of $1,100,000, and having 434 rooms, and accommodation for 750 guests, is not inferior to any establishment of the kind on the continent. The Bank of Montreal is one of the finest buildings in America, and there are now two the Grand Trunk Railway and Canadian Pacific Railway, a spacious and handsome new Gothic Church for the Methodists, and several splendid blocks of buildings for offices, including new offices for two Life Insurance Companies, the New York and the Imperial; while a new building for the law courts, nearly opposite the present building, which has become too small for present requirements, is soon to be erected. Montreal has at present about 145 miles of streets. Between the years 1878 and 1886, no less than 15 miles, 165 yards of sewers were laid down by the city, making a total of 90 miles of sewers existing. One of the most important acquisitions for the city was the purchase by the Corporation, between the years 1772 and 1875, of Mount Royal, and laying it out with drives as a public park, the cost to date being $1,622,337. The mountain, which stands alone in the wide river plain, is some 550 feet in height. It is ascended by a winding carriage road, by a series of about 427 steps for foot passengers, and by an elevator. The winding road opens up to the public two very beautiful vistas, one looking down the valley of the St. Lawrence with its many islands, and the other giving a view of the Lake of Two Mountains, whilst in the far distance the Green Mountains of Vermont and a portion of the A Irondacks are plainly discernible on a clear day. This drive is acknowledged by visitors to be by far the most beautiful of any park on this continent.

LAST YEAR'S BUILDING OPERATIONS.

We have the assurance of the building inspector that the year has been a busy one, and he fixes the number of houses erected in the city limits at one thousand, or three hundred more than those of the previous year. This he alleges is far ahead of anything seen since the boom of 1871. But there was a difference of a very marked character between the two periods. In the latter, speculation largely entered into the undertakings, and many of the houses were unfinished for a number of years. The construction entered into this year has been of a solid nature, and the great demand for houses and the marked increase of rent shows that the houses were built to meet an actual demand. Some difference of opinion exists as to the actual value of the buildings constructed during the year. There is no law to compel any statement being made, and as there is at the same time no law to compel the submission of the plan of every building to be erected in the city, difficulty is found in computing the number of houses constructed. Thus the building inspector places the cost of construction this year at three millions, or nearly one million in excess of last year. Others, however, place it at a higher figure, both as regards value and number of houses. One architect alleges that fully three thousand houses have been put up, while another states that not less than four thousand new houses have been erected in the city proper and outlying municipalities. Certain it is that a mass of houses are arising up in St. Jean Baptiste, and in that ward alone there have been erected during the past year 240 new dwellings.

St. Antoine ward is on the rise as far as numbers of buildings and values are concerned. In addition to the new depots of the G. T. and C. P. Railways, the New Methodist church on St. Catherine street, and a number of handsome and costly private dwellings have been erected.

MONTREAL'S INCREASE IN REVENUE PROPERTY, ETC.

While extension in area, increase in population, and large additions in size and number of the buildings mark the gradual but sure progress of Montreal, her advancement is seen by a glance at her income and sources of revenue. The principal source of revenue is the tax levied upon real estate, and the following table, shewing the assessable value of property within the city during the last seven years, indicates the rapid progress in value which the increase in buildings would indicate.

1881.....	66,483,810	1885.....	72,877,834
1882.....	68,157,655	1886.....	74,786,581
1883.....	70,478,380	1887.....	101,758,512

In addition to this assessed value of real estate there is also in the city property of the value of $17,117,340 exempted from taxation under the following heads:

Government property.....	$2,419,500
Corporation property.....	4,282,500
Seminary property.....	754,750
Churches { Catholic.....	1,462,000
{ Protestant.....	1,202,500
Parsonages { Catholic.....	279,500
{ Protestant.....	190,300
Benevolent { Catholic.....	4,461,690
Institutions { Protestant.....	1,289,100
Manufactories.....	772,500
Total	$17,117,340

The assessed property in the City of Quebec—the far older and next largest city in the Province—for the year 1886-7 was $15,386,700. The property subject to exemption being $3,372,000.

The valuations are made annually by a board of assessors who visit every property for that purpose, and while the law directs the appraisalment to be made at the actual market value, it is generally conceded to average about twenty-five per cent. under that ratio, so that the actual market value of real property may be set down in round figures at nearly $125,000,000.

The rate of actual assessment is one per cent. on value. There is an additional one-fifth of one cent for school tax which is levied and collected by the city, but handed over for administration to the School Commissioners (a body appointed by the local Government and the city jointly).

In addition to this one and one-fifth per cent. on Realty there is a water rate based on a sliding scale, which amounts to about seven and one-half per cent. on annual rental values, and an assessment of seven and one-half per cent. on the rental of all business premises, which is known as the Business Tax; and also on certain businesses, and the usual taxes on horses, carriages, dogs, etc., which come under the head of Personal Taxes. The city also derives a considerable revenue from the markets and from penalties imposed by the Recorder's Court. Drains and street improvements are made by special assessments borne in whole or in part by the persons benefitted.

The revenue from all sources in 1886 was $1,908,859, and as an illustration of the more recent progress of the city, the following comparative statement is given :

	Gross Revenue.		Gross Revenue.
1850	$150,000	1870	800,000
1855	225,000	1875	1,325,000
1860	450,000	1880	1,500,000
1865	600,000

An analysis as the actual details of taxation is subjoined for the year 1886, showing Montreal to be a very lightly taxed city, the sum of $665,034, out of a revenue of nearly two million dollars, being all that its real property had to bear that year. The school tax represents (or should do so) a saving of a more than equivalent outlay for fees; the water rate is the supply of a household necessity, which if in the hands of a private corporation, such as the Gas Company, would not be regarded as a tax; the market rents are so to speak the interest on the city's investments, and so on.

From—

Assessments of 1 per cent. on realty	$665,034
Do. for School Tax, one-fifth per cent. on realty	133,006
Arrears	142,872
Business duty of 7½ per cent. on rentals of business premises	166,970
Arrears of the above	19,132
Water rates and arrears of same	520,145
Market rents	89,086
Police licenses	65,579
Recorder's Court	18,004
Private butchers' stalls	24,975
Innkeepers' licenses	7,760
Road Department permits	3,481
Other licenses	11,749
Ground rents	3,246
Miscellaneous (extraneous items)	1,007
Statute labor tax	2
Interest collected on arrears, and arrears in annexed municipalities	86,197

The annual appropriations for the administration of the city's affairs are based on the actual receipts of the preceeding year, five per cent. being reserved for unforeseen expenditures. Provision for the interest and for the sinking fund on its funded debt is made, by law, a first charge on the revenue.

The credit of the city stands so high that it had no difficulty in floating four per cent. securities at par last year to redeem six per cent. debentures then maturing.

REAL ESTATE.

INTERESTING ABSTRACT OF THE ASSESSMENT ROLL.

The real estate comprised within the City of Montreal is of enormous value. According to the assessment rolls for the year 1887 it was valued at the sum of $101,758,512. The intrinsic value however of the property is considerably above that set upon it by the board of assessors, which consists of six gentlemen, each of whom is governed by ideas of his own in making his computation. The valuation, however, is in every case considerably below the price the property would fetch in the market, so that an addition of twenty-five per cent. may safely be added to the amount, thus giving the value of real estate in the city as being $127,198,140. This property is owned in various proportions by no less than 1317 proprietors. And it must be considered a satisfactory state of affairs, the wide distribution of property among the members of a community being a decided mark of its prosperity, and tending to promote that freedom, independence of action, and enterprise that the tying-up of the property in the hands of one or two large owners has so often been found to prejudice. This amount of property is divisible into wards, as follows:

East.....	$4,315,200	St. Louis.....	7,340,520
Centre.....	5,791,700	St. James.....	8,950,510
West.....	9,023,300	St. Mary's.....	6,934,260
St. Ann's.....	10,119,070	Hochelaga.....	2,969,555
St. Antoine.....	34,072,150	St. Jean Baptiste.....	2,124,465
St. Lawrence.....	9,267,710	St. Gabriel.....	1,734,290

The three old central wards are so well built over that it is not possible for much increase to take place therein; the only addition to the values of properties in those wards can be by actual improvements made in existing buildings; but rapid strides are being made in the more recently annexed wards, particularly in that of St. Jean Baptiste, Property in St. Ann's and St. Gabriel wards must necessarily be considerably raised in value by the costly work of erecting the St. Gabriel levee to keep out the unwelcome periodical encroachments of Old Father St. Lawrence, and which levee effected its purpose with such marked success during the break up of the river this spring. St. Antoine ward, it will be perceived, is by far the most wealthy ward as far as regards its real estate in the city, embracing the most magnificent dwelling houses, and long lines of well-kept streets, containing the residences of the best to do portion of the community. It is still progressing in value very rapidly, as buildings are being erected to cover the hitherto vacant lots; its increase in value in one year, 1886-7, was $1,978,250. There is healthy activity in the real estate market, and a great deal of property changes hands yearly. During the month of January, which is the most active time on the part of diligent houses hunters and intending purchasers, there was great activity, resulting in 162 real estate transfers, amounting in value to $503,430. The population of Montreal is increasing so rapidly that the demand for houses will be likely to exceed the supply for some years to come. It is a cheering sign for any city when her citizens take a lively interest in matters concerning her progress, and that Montreal is not behind in that respect is proved by the existence of an aggressive body terming itself the "City Improvement Association," which has for its object the making of the city beautiful as well as rich and great. Subjoined is a list of the principal owners of real estate in Montreal, and the value of there properties taken from the assessors' roll for the year 1887.

INVESTMENTS.

THE WEALTHIEST CITY IN THE DOMINION OF CANADA.

The vested wealth of Montreal is very large, far outstripping any other city of its size on the continent. The numerous corporations, the business enterprises, the centring railways, the great commercial output necessarily have also collateral workings, not upon the surface visible, but yet causing a great of one kind and another which strictly should be considered in any contemplation of the aggregate wealth of the city. But this lesser, though almost equally important, element can not be touched on within the space of the present article. By taking the largest owners and investors of capital an approximate estimate can be formed of the vast accumulation of property now centred in the city.

The centre of financial improvements in Canada is necessarily Montreal, the commercial capital of the Dominion, and the first monetary establishment in the country is situated within her walls. The development of the Montreal banking system and corresponding commercial facilities has been both marked and almost PHENOMENALLY RAPID.

For long there were but two banks in the vicinity, the Montreal and the Quebec establishments. For commerce then in its infancy this was deemed sufficient. Of the manner followed in carrying into effect the financial business of the period but little is known, and the only information, statistical or otherwise, upon the subject has to be gleaned from such of the older records of these two banks which now exist. The tremendous expansion in business can accurately be gauged by a comparison between the working of the Bank of Montreal half a century ago and the present day. Established in the year 1817, that now vast institution had a capital of only $350,000. At the end of its first year of business its books show it to have possessed a reserve of $4,000. It was rechartered in 1837 with a capital of £500,000 currency. To-day it stands about second only to the Bank of England with a capital of $12,000,000, a reserve of $6,000,000, thirty branches, and a name known all over the world. To-day Montreal has sixteen banks, eight with headquarters in this city. Into these institutions much of the

has been placed. Some of the investors of stock have very large holdings in several banks.

Among the largest may be noted Sir Donald A. Smith, who holds stock in the Bank of Montreal, having a market value of between four and five hundred thousand dollars.

Mr. W. C. McDonald is another of Montreal's largest capitalists, holding stock to the value of upwards of half a million in the Montreal Bank; $200,000 in the Merchants; $130,000 in the Bank of Commerce.

Mr. R. Hamilton, brother of the late Hon. John Hamilton, is also a large stockholder in the leading financial institutions. He holds more than $450,000 in the Bank of Montreal; in the Merchants' Bank $137,000; $17,280 in the Bank of Commerce; $13,500 in the Imperial Bank; $6,000 in the Quebec Bank; £11,760 in the Bank of British North America, and $9000 worth of stock in the Toronto Bank.

Many of the

in the city represent very large amounts. The Molson family holds stock in the Bank of Montreal, Bank of Commerce, Merchants, Ontario and Imperial banks of the value of nearly a million dollars, while in the Molsons Bank the amount is close on three-quarters of a million.

The Allan family hold a great deal of bank stock. The estate of the late Sir Hugh Allan is credited with stock in the Merchants' Bank of the market value of upwards of $300,000, and other members of the family amounts in the neighborhood of $290,000.

One of the largest individual holders of bank stocks is Mr. Robert Anderson, who has $280,000 in the Merchants', and nearly $250,000 in the Bank of Montreal, taking the stock list quotations.

In the list of shareholders of the

BANK OF MONTREAL,

the names of the following Montreal investors appear:

Mr. W. C. McDonald, $260,000; Sir Donald A. Smith, $200,000; Mr. J. G. Mackenzie (estate), $150,000; Mr. W. Murray (estate), $120,000; Mr. R. Anderson, $100,000; Mr. J. Redpath (estate), $100,000; Mr. G. A. Drummond, $100,000; Mr. J. H. R. Molson, $100,000; Mr. W. Molson (trust), $91,800; Mr. H. B. Clark, $90,000; Hon. F. Ryan $75,000; Mr. F. McCulloch, $67,000; Mr. R. B. Angus, $60,000; Hon. John Hamilton, (estate), $60,000; Miss Orkney, $60,000; Mr. J. O'Brien (trust), $54,009; Mr. H. O. Andrews (trust), $52,000; H. Mackenzie (trust), $50,000; R. McIntyre, $48,800; Executors of Mr. W. Dow, $40,000; H. D. Clark, $39,600; Mrs. M. Masson, $35,000; Executors of T. Molson, $34,000; C. Gilman, $34,000; R. W. Shepherd, $34,000; Mr. W. E. Lyman, $33,400; Mrs. M. Peck, $33,000; Mr. C. S. Watson, $33,000; Mrs. M. C. Lyman, $34,000; Hon. J. Masson (estate), $32,000; Mrs. A. Molson, $31,400; Mr. E. G. Benny, $31,500; Mrs. S. E. Molson, $31,000; Mrs. A. R. Hunt, $30,000; Mrs. L. G. Molson, $26,000; J. Cassils, $26,000; Miss Jessie Dow, $25,000; Miss Mary Dow, $25,000; Mrs. Mary Dow, $25,000; Cochrane, Cassils & Co., $25,000; Mrs. S. Fisher, $25,000; J. M. Douglas, $25,000; St. Bridget's Refuge, $24,600; Mr. John Crawford, $24,000; Dr. R. P. Howard, $23,200; Mr. H. W. Shepherd, $22,400; Mrs. Esther Wilson, $21,800; St. Patrick's Orphanage, $21,000; Mrs. J. Macfarlane, $20,600; Mrs. Reddy, $20,400; A. R. McDonnell, $20,000; Mrs. J. Redpath, $20,000; J. Caverhill (estate) $20,000; A. Clerk, $20,000; J. D. Gibb (estate), $20,000; Mrs. M. Henderson, $20,000; Mr. Jesse Joseph, $20,000; Mr. W. Kerr (estate), $20,000; J. J. Arnton, $20,000; D. Macmaster, $20,000; A. McIntyre, $20,000; M. C. Gibb, $0,000; H. McLennan, $00,000; J. McLennan, $20,000; Dr. J. Reddy (estate), $20,000; Mrs. J. Macfarlane (in trust), $18,600;

Mrs. A. Masson, $18,400; Mrs. A. Phillips, $17,200; T. A. Dawes, $20,000; Mr. B. A. Boas, $17,200; Mrs. Redpath, $15,000; J. Tempert, $15,000; E. T. King, $15,000; J. W. Buchanan, $15,000; V. Beaudry, $15,000; Mrs. Kane, $14,600; T. Workman (executors of), $13,400.

Among the largest stockholders of the family of the founder stands prominent. The estate of the late Sir Hugh is credited with 2432 shares, valued at $243,200, and a further sum of $218,300 is distributed among the family.

THE MERCHANTS' BANK,

The next largest holders are:

Mr. R. Anderson, $210,000; Mr. W. C. Macdonald, $150,000; Mr. J. Duncan, $122,900; Mr. Andrew Allan, $92,500; Mr. H. Mackenzie, $65,000; Mr. J. H. R. Molson, $60,000; Mr. R. B. Angus, $50,000; Hon. J. J. C. Abbott, $55,000; W. Francis, $36,500; J. O. Connor, $30,000; J. Moore, $33,600; J. Fraser, $43,000; A. St. Denis, $32,500; Geo. Hague, $35,000; Church of Scotland, $32,200; W. H. Benyon, $29,000; H. Barbeau, $20,000; J. Curran, $27,800; Mrs. L. G. F. Molson, $20,000; J. Pratt, estate of, $21,600; J. D. Gibb, $17,500; Jonathan Hodgson, $16,300; W. N. Anderson, $16,500; J. P. Dawes, $16,000; J. M. Kinghorn, $15,000; J. A. Dawes, $15,000; N. B. Corse, estate of, $15,400; J. Crawford, $15,300; J. Crathern, $12,500; T. D. Hood, $12,000.

IN THE MOLSONS BANK

the executors of the late Mr. W. Molson hold seven thousand odd shares valued at $365,000, and the family are credited with further stock to the extent of $280,150. Other large stockholders are as follows:

Mrs. A. R. Hunt, $20,000; Mr. J. Hutchison, $25,000; Mrs. M. A. Spragge, $25,000; Mr. T. Workman, $24,750; do, in trust, $25,900; J. T. Carter, $17,500; J. Atkinson, $17,450; Rev. J. Braithwaite, estate of, $15,600; J. and B. Cox, estate of, $15,000; R. W. Shepherd, $11,300; John Crawford, $10,000; Miles Williams, estate of, $15,750; Miss Orkney, $13,750; Mrs. H. Frothingham, $15,500; Mrs. E. N. Frothingham, $15,500.

IN THE BANK OF COMMERCE

the largest stockholders are: Mr. W. C. McDonald, $150,000; Mr. E. Mackay, $65,000; Mr. R. Anderson, $50,000; Mr. W. Murray, $40,000; Mr. J. Arnton, $35,000; Mr. J. H. R. Molson, $30,000; Father Dowd, $20,000; Mr. W. H. Withall, $21,000; Mr. A. B. Boas, $18,000; Mr. J. Crathern, $15,000; Hon. John Hamilton (estate of), $15,000; Mr. H. Clark, $12,500; Mr. J. Robertson, $12,500; Mr. J. Moore, $12,500; Mr. G. B. Burland, $10,000; St. Patrick's Orphanage, $12,600; Mr. E. Neild, $10,000; Mr. W. O. Smith, $10,500; Duncan McEntyre, $516,000; R. B. Angus, $60,000.

IN THE BANK JACQUES CARTIER

the largest stockholders are: A. Desjardins, $49,125; A. L. Hamelin, $36,000; J. O. Gravel, $26,750; J. B. Beaudry (estate of), $29,050; T. W. McAnulty, $23,500.

IN THE BANQUE DU PEUPLE

we find the largest holders of stock as follows:

Mr. H. B. Smith, $26,000; John Pratt (estate), $21,200; Mde. A. Prevost, $10,550; E. Scholes, $10,000; Miles Williams (estate), $10,350; C. Glackmeyer, $10,000; E. Galt, $9,100; C. G. Hill, $8,195; T. S. Brown, $7,100; G. A. Drummond, $7,500.

IN THE BANQUE VILLE MARIE

the largest holders are Mr. W. Weir, $37,400; L. G. Guimond, $15,200; J. G. Davie, $8,800.

IN THE BANQUE NATIONALE

there are also some large holders of stock.

G. N. Moncel, $15,200; D. Lacroix, $11,650; Dame Robertson, $8,450; E. Parent (estate of), $5,200; J. Pratt (estate of), $4,800; W. Withall, $3,000.

The largest sums of Montreal money invested in the

W. Withall, $100,000; Hon. J. Masson (estate of), $20,000; Mary Jane Fry, $10,000; the Hon. P. Chauveau, $20,000.

Montreal capitalists have also enough idle capital to place various sums in outside financial institutions. Thus, Mr. G. R. Burland has invested in the Federal Bank of Toronto $33,000, and Mr. H. Barbeau, $57,000. Mr. W. R. Miller holds $25,000 worth of stock in the Ontario Bank, and the Hon. D. A. Macdonald $25,000 in the same institution. Mr. Joseph Hickson holds $11,500 stock in the Standard Bank. Mr. T. Williams has shares to the amount of $35,500 in the Eastern Townships Bank.

Mr. Andrew Allan has invested $17,000 in the Bank of Manitoba.

The $2,000,000 of the capital of the

is chiefly subscribed for by Montrealers, and the largest holders of this valuable property are as follows:

J. H. R. Molson, $164,000; Henry Judah, $144,000; Edward Murphy, $160,000; Thos. Workman, $120,000; James O'Brien, $98,000; Mrs. Atwater, $86,400; Dr. W. H. Hingston, $80,000; A. Larocque, $65,200; Thomas Workman (executor), $61,000; Mrs. M. P. Guy, $50,000; Mrs. F. G. Molson, $48,000; H. McLennan, $48,000.

In addition to these large holdings Montrealers have, in sums of $10,000 and under, money invested in the banks as follows: Canadian Bank of Commerce, $331,800; Dominion Bank, $6,550; Federal, $34,000; Imperial, $4,000; Ontario, $171,100; Standard, $26,050; Toronto, $283,100; Traders' Bank, $3,500; Bank of Hamilton, $47,720; Bank of Ottawa, $2200; Western Bank, $5000; Bank of Hochelaga, $276,800; Bank Jacques Cartier, $147,025; Merchants, $1,500,700; Molsons, $301,900; Bank of Montreal, $5,000,000; Banque du Peuple, $469,980; Banque Ville Marie, $148,660; Banque Nationale, $45,400; Quebec Bank, $71,200; Union Bank, $53,790; Eastern Townships, $31,050; Banque de St. Hyacinthe, $18,000; Banque de St. Jean, $11,625; Halifax Banking Co., $1360; Union of Halifax, $1250; Bank of British Columbia, $2000; Bank of Manitoba, $2100.

THE INSURANCE COMPANIES

are all more or less heavy recipients of Montreal's vested wealth. In the Accident Insurance Company Montreal capitalists are represented as follows:

Sir A. T. Galt, $13,500; Hon. James Ferrier, $21,000; Edward Rawlings, $58,600, R. Campbell, $5000; and holders of lesser amounts which make a total of $21,500.

Among the largest holders of the Citizens stock are Mr. Andrew Allan, $42,000; Sir Hugh Allan (estate), $40,000; Adolphe Roy, $36,800; F. W. Kay, $29,000; F. X. Beaudry (estate), $28,000; Hon. J. J. Abbott, $21,250; John Pratt (estate), $17,086; Mr.

Henry Lyman, $17,000; R. Anderson, $8500, Bishop Bourget (estate), $8500; and Montreal capital is further invested in the same company in amounts under $10,000 to the extent of $547,830.

In the Confederation Life the heaviest stockholders in this city are: Mr. A. Cameron, $10,000; Dr. Hingston, $10,000; H. J. Johnson, $11,000; M. P. Ryan, $10,000, and lesser amounts swell the amount by $14,000.

In the Guarantee Company the following are the largest shareholders: Mr. E. Rawlings, $36,790; Hon. James Ferriet, $20,310; Mr. R. Campbell, $10,840; Sir A. T. Galt, $11,000. Stock of the value of $39,050 is held by Montreal investors in smaller amounts.

The Royal Canadian has on its roll the following holders of large amounts of stocks: Mr. D. McIntyre, $97,950; Mr. T. McDougall, $67,500; Mr. Andrew Robertson, $37,650; Mr. J. Hodgson, $24,475; M. W. Moss, $19,225; Mr. R. Archer, $14,775; Hon. J. R. Thibaudeau, $13,775; Mr. W. Smith, $10,420; Montreal holders of stock in various sums less than $10,000 do so to the extent of $115,195.

In the Sun Assurance Company capital is invested to the following extent: Mr. R. Anderson, $39,000; Mr. A. Buntin, $20,000; Mr. M. Mackenzie, $22,500; Mr. R. Macaulay, $44,500. Lesser amounts of stock worth $99,400 are also held by Montrealers.

In the British American Company Mr. Alexander Buntin holds stock to the extent of $14,250, and minor holdings swell the Montreal capital in the company to $9550. The city also contributes, in small amounts, $16,000 to the Canada Life Assurance Company, $18,000 to the Federal Life, $5000 to the London Life, $24,000 to the North American Life, $5000 to the Hand-in-Hand, $5000 to the Life Association of Canada, $18,170 to the Quebec Fire Assurance Company, $2,000 to the Boiler Inspection and Insurance, and $4,600 to the Western Assurance Company.

The Montreal capital invested in the Canada Life Assurance Company may fairly be set down as $1,012,000. It is not largely held by individuals, but mostly in trust funds. The shares have reached the handsome figure of 420.

On the Sun Life Montreal share list the following names are conspicuous: Thomas Workman, $10,000; Hon. A. W. Ogilvie, $15,000; A. Buntin, $20,000; R. Anderson, $39,000; W. J. Withall, $20,000; M. McKenzie, $22,500; R. Macaulay, $49,400; C. Alexander, $10,000. Besides its stock it has liens on a very large amount of the real estate owned by our citizens, and is yearly adding largely thereto, thus materially aiding in its development, while receiving in the shape of interest and rents large revenues therefrom. At 31st December last the properties thus held by it in trust aggregated $2,225,928, upon which $891,908 had been loaned, mostly on city property.

SHIP CHANNEL.

HISTORY OF THE GREAT UNDERTAKING FROM 1825 TO THIS DAY.

The history of the inception and development of the St. Lawrence route, embracing the ship channel, and the construction and enlargement of the magnificent system of canals, which connects ocean with inland navigation, may without danger of contradiction be credited to the energy and far-seeing judgment of the mercantile community of Montreal. The men of half a century ago who realized the possibilities of the noble river which Providence had endowed their country with, and who scrutinized the future of Montreal as the commercial emporium of the Dominion, were imbued with the same spirit of enterprise and confidence in their adopted country as those who subsequently projected and carried to a successful issue a transcontinental railway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, thereby increasing the importance of Montreal as the great centre of Canada's commerce, and as one of the connecting points in the imperial chain of communication between the East and West. Ever since 1825, when the first agitation was commenced with a view of impressing upon the Government of the day the necessity of deepening the natural channel of the St. Lawrence, so as to enable ocean steamers to reach Montreal without partially unloading at Quebec, until the 28th of March last, when the veteran Premier of the Dominion announced through the Montreal Junior Conservative club that the Cabinet had resolved to assume the debt of this vast undertaking, the business men of this city have year after year with unceasing devotion and persistency been petitioning and praying, first, that the work should be inaugurated without delay, and in after years that the burden which had been imposed upon the business of the port of Montreal for its consummation should become a charge upon the Dominion at large. Throughout all these years the one great cry, always from Montreal, has been: "Improve and cheapen transportation by the St. Lawrence route, promote the trade and develop the resources of the Dominion, retain Canadian trade to Canadian channels and, in spite of the efforts of the Americans to thwart it, secure a large portion of its North-West trade. That this has been successfully carried out after the most persistent opposition from prejudiced and short-sighted politicians is a feather in the cap of and of their commercial guilds, which in conjunction with the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway will go down to posterity as two of the greatest achievements in the history of the development of the young Dominion. The profile of the St. Lawrence navigation shows that it extends half-way across the North American continent with a little over seventy miles of artificial navigation in the shape of canals. There is, therefore, more than a purely local interest in the ship channel; it is not only the great ocean highway of the Dominion, but it is the natural route to Europe for three-quarters of the continent of North America, embracing the granaries of the North-West, the pine lands of Wisconsin and the milling centres of St. Paul and Minneapolis, which are now in direct communication with Montreal via the "Soo" route. Its existence goes back into the past far enough to give it an historical interest. Many of the men who were active in bringing about its improvement have passed away, and the personal memories of them no longer exist except with one or two of our oldest citizens. The names of the late Hon. John Young, the late Thomas Cramp, Mr. Hugh McLennan and Mr. Andrew Robertson, however, are still closely connected with everything appertaining to this great work and in the advancement of St. Lawrence navigation. As an engineering work the ship channel has a special interest from the fact that when it was first mooted opinions were at variance as to its feasibility; some of the great pilots of half a century ago having no faith in its permanency, and believing its sides would either fall in, or that it would slit up. This opinion is happily found to be erroneous, and experience has proved that the dredged channel entails no cost for maintenance.

The earliest agitation to improve the ship channel dates as far back as 1825 or 1826. In the latter year a petition from the merchants of Montreal was read before the Assembly of Lower Canada, in which it was set forth "that in consequence of the shallowness of the waters of the river at Ile Platte and in some parts of Lake Saint Peter, vessels from sea are subject to inconvenience and difficulties in their voyages between Quebec and Montreal, with the exception of such as are performed during the two months immediately following the opening of the navigation. That at later periods of the season, such vessels are either prevented from reaching Montreal, or are only enabled to do so after having discharged the principal part of their cargo. That the interest and as well as of Upper Canada, require that the obstructions to the navigation of this their great and common channel of communication should be removed whenever practicable, and the river to as great an extent as possible rendered at all times navigable to vessels from sea. That with such views of improvement, the merchants of the city of Montreal during last autumn, appointed a committee to obtain information as to the practicability of the object, and in due time to make the necessary application to the Provincial Legislature, to whom peculiarly belong the honor and power of achieving a work of such extensive importance."

A committee of the assembly investigated the matter, examined witnesses and reported that the importance of the subject required that further information should be obtained. In 1831 a survey of the river and of Lake St. Peter was made by the British Admiralty, and in 1836 the subject was again discussed and more evidence taken before the standing committee of trade. The first success attending the many memorials of Montrealers was a grant of £500 voted in 1838 for the purpose of making a survey of Lake St. Peter. This was the outcome of a petition of the Montreal committee of trade signed by its chairman, Austin Cuvillier, in which it was set forth that: The draught of water in the vessels crossing the Atlantic average from 14 to 16 feet, which rendered it necessary to transfer a considerable portion of their cargoes before passing the lake; that scientific men had declared that the channel on the lake could be deepened to sixteen feet at no very considerable expense, and asking for an appropriation to defray the expenses of a survey. After a lengthy investigation into the extent of the burden imposed on the trade by the obstructions to the navigation which it was sought to remove and an estimate of deepening the channel to 16 feet it was recommended to commence the work. Then arose a question as to the best location for the channel through the lake, whether the natural channel should be deepened or what was known as the straight channel. Work was finally commenced in the spring of 1844 on the straight channel, but the oppositions to it were so strong that in 1847 work was suspended. Discussions and investigations continued until 1850 when the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal first appeared on the scene of operations and proposed to take hold of the work, asking that they should be authorized to borrow money the interest on which should not exceed eight per cent., the interest as well as a sinking fund of two per cent. to be provided for by a tonnage duty not to exceed one shilling per ton register on all vessels drawing ten feet and upwards for each time they passed through the channel, any deficiency to be made up by the HARBOR OF MONTREAL.

The same year an act was passed authorizing the commissioners to borrow £30,000, the dredging plant being also transferred to them. By November, 1851, the natural channel on the lake of about 10 feet 6 was deepened 2 feet in August, 1853, a vessel drawing 14 feet passed through; in 1856, a depth of 16 feet was dredged and 18 feet in 1857. The Harbor Commissioners at this date represented to the Government that the work so far carried out established the feasibility of obtaining a channel of the required depth throughout the entire length of the river to the entrance of the Lachine canal, the junction of the ocean and inland shipping of the country, and in 1860 it was decided that the river improvements should be considered as public works. The work has since been conducted with great energy by the Harbor Commissioners under the able direction of their Engineer-in-Chief, Mr. John Kennedy, and his staff of assistants. In 1878 a depth of 22 feet was attained, in 1882 this was increased to 25 feet, and before the close of the present season of the navigation a channel of $27\frac{1}{2}$ feet will be dredged, thereby concluding the work.

The cost of excavating the ship channel from its natural depth of 10 feet 6 inches to 25 feet in 1882 was \$4,108,470, including plant which cost \$534,809. To complete the work to $27\frac{1}{2}$ feet will require a further outlay of \$900,000, making a sum total of \$5,008,470 spent in facilitating the coming of sea-going vessels to the head of ocean navigation.

PORT OF MONTREAL.

The port of Montreal, forming as it does the junction between ocean and inland navigation possesses, advantages which constitute it the distributing point inwards and outwards of the immense western country which borders upon the great inland seas of the North American continent. At the time of confederation the indebtedness of the Harbor of Montreal was about $1,126,000. Since then there has been expended on the harbor proper over $1,520,000, making in all $2,646,000. The present indebtedness is $1,881,000, being a difference of $765,000, which has been paid out of revenue. Much more than this sum, however, has been paid out of revenue, and the total cost of the harbor, embracing as it does nearly five miles of wharfage front and extending from the river St. Pierre to Longue Pointe, is about $3,200,000. All this has been met by tonnage dues and taxes levied upon vessels and their cargoes coming to Montreal. The facilities of the port while quite inadequate to handle the ever-increasing volume of freightage which the enterprise of its citizens is attracting towards it, are far in advance of those of any of its Canadian competitors. It is the third on the continent of America. Montreal is not only nearer to Liverpool by 259 miles than any of its American competitors, but it is the nearest ocean port on the Atlantic side to ports on the Pacific, and is nearer to the nearest Asiatic ports than New York as is shown by the following statement :

	Miles.	Miles in favor of Montreal,
From Liverpool to Montreal.....	2,790
From Liverpool to New York.....	3,040

The deepening of the ship channel, and the accommodation afforded by the port of Montreal, has undoubtedly led to the increased railroad connection. It has developed business to such an extent that we have it on no less authority than the Vice-President of the Canadian Pacific Railway that unless increased harbor accommodation both in the shape of wharves, elevators and facilities for handling and transferring freight from the cars to the vessels the port of Montreal will be unable to cope with the freight brought from our own and the American North-West. An average increase of at least 150 cars per day may be expected by the "Soo" route alone. At the original depth of 10 feet, 6 inches, vessels of 250 tons could not pass Lake St. Peter with a full cargo, but as if it were keeping pace with the deepening of the channel year by year, the size and tonnage of the vessels has increased. The first ocean mail steamer between England and Montreal, the "Genoa," of seven hundred tons burden, arrived in port in 1853, and since then the growth of commerce on the St. Lawrence has been such that to-day there are over twenty lines of regular ocean steamships, while the yearly tonnage has increased from 358,000 tons in 1851 to 870,883 in 1887. So rapidly has the country advanced that we find the Government calling for tenders for the Atlantic mail service, which business men stipulate must be equal to, if not superior to that of any port to the south, while more than 90 per cent. of the entire foreign trade of the country passes through the St. Lawrence, and nearly one half of the of the Dominion is entered at the Customs at the Port of Montreal. While the inward commerce of Quebec has decreased by 146 vessels and 69,736 tons from 1876 to 1886 that of the port of Montreal has increased in the same period by twenty-six vessels and 132,439 tons. Again, while the imports to Quebec from 1876 to 1886 show a decrease of $336,807 and the exports a decrease of $3,030,671, those of Montreal show an increase of $9,843,027 and of $4,596,153 respectively. And during all this period the harbor and commerce of the port of Montreal has been unjustly taxed and an unfair discrimination practised against it by the Government. From the reports of the Minister of Public Works it is seen that Montreal alone of all the harbors of Canada has failed to receive any expenditure of public money for its improvement. Here are the items of expenditure on some of the other harbors since confederation :

Quebec, harbor and graving dock.....	$2,384,000
Toronto " "	536,000

while Montreal has not received a single copper for harbor improvements. It is true that Parliament has voted $1,603,504 for the ship channel, but the interest on this has been paid out of the obtained by a direct tax on the commerce of the port, while in the case of the Quebec harbor improvements the interest on the expenditure is paid by Government, and thus far has not been a charge on the shipping of the port. It is true that the Government will assume the debt of the ship channel, but there is in addition to this $800,000 of the revenues of the harbor of Montreal, which the Government has received in payment of interest, all of which would have been available for the enlargement of the harbor, which is so urgently needed. If Montreal with its harbor taxed and its commerce taxed to meet the interest on undertakings of a purely national origin has prospered so much, what influences may be exerted in the future when its facilities are enlarged and its harbor dues still further reduced it is impossible to speculate upon.

OCEAN MAIL.

THE ALLAN AND DOMINION STEAMSHIP LINES.

LETTERS AND PARCELS CARRIED ANNUALLY BY OUR MAIL FLEET.

When Sir Hugh Allan was a boy of 13 years he entered a counting house in Greenock, Scotland. The business carried on was chiefly the agency of several vessels engaged in the Canada trade. He remained in that house a little more than a year when his father, who commanded a vessel trading between Greenock and Montreal, advised him to go out to Canada. Being a far-seeing and shrewd man in his day Mr. Allan, senior, hoped that by having Hugh in Canada, he might, in time, obtain for his family a permanent footing in colonial trade. Hugh Allan left Greenock on the 12th of May, 1826, and arrived opposite Longueuil on the 21st of May.

There was then only one tow boat on the river, the steamer "Hercules," commanded by Captain George Brush. The "Hercules" was not able to tow the "Favorite," a brig of 276 tons, against the current, and a message was sent to Mr. Hiram Gilbert, a butcher, whose establishment was at the river side and who kept a supply of oxen for towing purposes, to assist in towing the brig up the rapids. A hawser was sent on shore and ten oxen attached to it; but still the united force of steamer and oxen was not enough. The "Favorite" had been built by a Mr. Johnstone who carried on his business at Hochelaga; and he, seeing the plight in which the brig found itself, sent down forty or fifty of his men to lend a hand. A second hawser was sent on shore and to this the fifty men put their strength. The "Hercules" had just steamed up afresh, the "Favorite" carried every inch of available sail, the oxen and the men tugged and pulled as well they could; and these combined forces enabled the vessel to get to her anchorage without further trouble. The aspect of Montreal at that time was very different from what it is now. There were no wharves; the bank of the river sloped down from Commissioners street, then a narrow lane, to the river. A ship coming into the harbor was obliged to let go an anchor to prevent her from drifting to the beach. A cable was then sent on shore and fastened there; all hands then manned the capstan until the stern of the ship touched the shore.

To enable vessels to discharge and load, gangways made of long spars with cross pieces were let down from the vessel. The goods were placed on them, and the carters' trucks backed into the water, sometimes up to the axles. Under those circumstances the work could only proceed slowly, but the vessels were small and did not carry much cargo then.

There was at that time a steam ferry over to Laprairie, and a regular steamship line between Montreal and Quebec. But the steamers, though comfortable enough, were very slow; it took them from 40 to 48 hours to make the passage. The Lachine canal was just completed, but it was on a very small scale and no steamers passed through it.

After two years' apprenticeship in a grocery business and a trip by water and stage to New York, Buffalo, and the Falls of Niagara, Hugh Allan returned to England where he saw the first railroad in the world, the Liverpool-Manchester line; and returned in 1830 to Montreal on the "Canada," a new brig of 330 tons, built by his father. She was a fine ship and was then the largest in the Montreal trade.

In the same year the construction of the first wharf in the harbor was commenced, the commissioners for the work being the Hon. George Moffatt, Colonel Piper of the Royal Engineers, and the Hon. Jules Quesnel; but for some time the progress was slow. On his return Mr. Allan entered the office of Mr. James Miller, who carried on an extensive business embracing shipbuilding, ship owning and the management of ships. He received also large consignments of heavy goods, wines and liquors, and was a considerable exporter of grain, ashes and produce of all other kinds. At that time there was but little whiskey manufactured in Canada, and among the laboring classes was rum. This was imported to a large extent both direct from the West Indies and by way of Great Britain. Mr. Miller often received consignments of 100 to 150 puncheons of rum in one shipment. This was invariably sold by auction as soon as landed. There being no room on the small wharves for such large lots, it was carted up to St. David's lane off St Paul street where Mr. Miller's office was situated.

When the habitants were bringing in their grain in September of each year Mr. Hugh Allan was sent to Laprairie and took charge of it, and shipped it from that place in a small steamer, the "Edmund Henry," to Montreal. In the month of April of each year he visited St. Matthew's, St. Hilaire, Belœil, St. Mark's, St. Charles, St. Antoine, St. Ours, and all the villages on the river, also Contrecoeur, Vercheres and Varennes, a first-class wheat district then, to collect the grain brought up during the winter.

Navigation with heavily laden ships was a difficult matter in those days, the water sometimes falling lower than 11 feet in Lake St. Peter. When that was the case only very small vessels could carry cargo through the lake, and when larger vessels attempted a passage, it often became necessary to discharge all the cargo on a raft alongside. Even the anchors, chains, spare yards and whatever else could be moved, were put on the raft to lighten them.

In 1835 Mr. Allan entered into partnership with Mr. Miller.

In 1845 Mr. Andrew Allan, brother of Mr. Hugh Allan, entered the partnership, and in 1851 the two brothers determined to build steamships of iron and to fit them with screw propellers, which were then already beginning to take the place of paddles. The first steamers of that line built were the "Indian," the "Canadian," the "Anglo-Saxon" and the "North-American." The "Canadian" made her first trip in the autumn of 1853. From this brief sketch of the Montreal shipping trade, it will be seen that Mr. Hugh Allan was its pioneer and principal promoter.

THE ALLAN LINE.

Foremost in the port of Montreal stands the Allan Line of Royal Mail steamers. The pioneer of Montreal's shipping trade, it has kept pace with the growth of the Dominion and the city of Montreal, and has been so closely identified with the interests of this city that we cannot but put it at the head of the magnificent lines that have built up the ocean trade of Montreal.

The Allan Line dates its origin back to the year 1852, when the Canadian Government advertized for tenders for the establishment of a line of ocean steamers to run between Montreal and Liverpool in summer, and between Liverpool and Portland during the winter months. By the terms of the tender a monthly service was to commence within twelve months from the date of signing the contract, and a fortnightly service ten months after notice had been given to the contractors. For this service the Government offered an annual subsidy of $120,000. The Canadian Steam Navigation Company, which was then being organized, tendered for the service and the contract was signed in August, 1852. This company relinquished the contract in 1854, after serving about 17 months. Before the relinquishment of this contract Messrs. Hugh and Andrew Allan made arrangements for building and equipping a fleet of first-class steamers for the Canadian trade. The first contract was given to a firm in Dumbarton, Scotland, for building the "Canadian," the "Indian," the "Anglo-Saxon" and the "North-American." These fine steamers possessed the latest improvements, namely, the propeller screw in place of the paddle, were built for an independent trade and were not sustained or encouraged by any subsidy.

WORLD FAMED ALLAN LINE.

The "Canadian" made her first trip on the 20th of September, 1853, and when she arrived in port her means of propulsion was a mystery to the many spectators that crowded the wharf to see the largest ship that up to that time had entered the harbor of Montreal. On the completion of the "Canadian's" voyage to England, and before she could again make the westward passage, the navigation on the St. Lawrence was closed for the season; and during the time that river was frozen over she made a voyage to New York. On her return to Liverpool in the spring of 1855, powerful, first-class steamers being urgently wanted to convey troops and military stores to the Crimea, the "Canadian" was chartered by the British Government as a transport ship, and in this service she continued to be employed until the end of the war. Soon after the engagement of the "Canadian" for that purpose, her sister ship, the "Indian," was also taken up for a similar purpose. When the allied fleet stormed and took the Kinburn Forts, the "Indian" was engaged in carrying ammunition, and in addition to this critical service, on account of her superior sailing qualities, she was employed as the Admiral's dispatch ship.

While the Crimean war was being carried on the steamship trade between Liverpool and Canada was greatly interfered with and curtailed, or rather totally suspended. At the close of the war, however, the Canadian Government, yielding to the pressing representations of the people of Canada, advertized for tenders to establish and operate a line of mail steamers to run once a fortnight during the summer months between Montreal and Liverpool and between Liverpool and Portland while the navigation on the St. Lawrence was closed. The Allan line were successful with their tender, and they began the service under contract in April, 1856. But at first great difficulties had to be encountered, and sometimes disasters met and borne with patience. There were in those early days only very few lighthouses in the river and gulf of St. Lawrence. And as the direction of the currents was and as the captains had not yet acquired experience in the handling of steamships, the dangers of ocean passage can easily be imagined. On one of her first trips under the contract with the Government, the "Canadian" ran ashore by the fault of the pilot and was wrecked in the river. Other disasters followed, but the Allans did not lack fortitude and they succeeded in demonstrating that the St. Lawrence route could be made at once safe and pleasant. Their captains, who were enjoined to be prudent above all things, soon gained experience as to the position of the shoals and the course of the different currents, the Government also increased the number of lighthouses and buoys.

Under the provisions of the first contract the Allan line continued to run their mail steamers till the month of April, 1857, when a new arrangement was entered into. At this period the Government, highly satisfied with the manner in which the contract had been carried out, and the services performed, entered into a new contract with the Allan Line to supply a weekly service. This contract came into operation in April, 1859, and still continues in force. As time went on more ships were built, each an improvement on the last, culminating, for the present, in the superb and popular "Parisian."

Steamers (iron and steel):

"Acadian," 931 tons; "Assyrian," 3970 tons; "Austrian," 2458 tons; "Buenos Ayrean," 4005 tons; "Canadian," 2906 tons; "Carthaginian," 4214 tons; "Caspian," 2628 tons; "Circassian," 3724 tons; "Corean," 3488 tons; "Grecian," 3613 tons; "Hibernian," 2297 tons; "Lucerne," 1925 tons; "Manitoban," 2975 tons; "Monte Videan," 3500 tons; "Nestorian," 2689 tons; "Newfoundland," 919 tons; "Norwegian," 3523 tons; "Nova Scotian," 3305 tons; "Parisian," 5359 tons; "Peruvian," 3038 tons; "Phœnician," 2425 tons; "Polynesian," 3983 tons; "Pomeranian," 4364 tons; "Prussian," 3030 tons; "Rosarian," 3500 tons; "Sardinian," 4376 tons; "Sarmatian," 3647 tons; "Scandinavian," 3068 tons; "Siberian," 3904 tons; "Waldensian," 2256 tons. An aggregate of 30 steamers with 96,820 tons.

Besides these the Allan Line own a sailing fleet of Clyde built iron clipper ships, consisting of 12 vessels with 17,432 tons of burthen.

The largest steamers of this line are fitted out exclusively for the passenger traffic, while those of less tonnage are devoted to freight.

Ever improving, the Allan Line has won for itself an envied name on the both continents.

THE DOMINION LINE.

After many years of experience in the river shipping between Montreal and Quebec, Messrs. David Torrance & Co., originated the idea of putting into the Montreal-Liverpool trade another line of first-class steamers. Mr. Cramp, one of the partners, went to England in 1872, and made arrangements with the firm of Messrs. Flinn, Main & Montgomery, then managing a steamship line plying between New Orleans and England. A company was formed, and the new line was named the Mississippi and Dominion Steamship Company. The capital furnished was mostly from Liverpool, still a large share of it was contributed by Montreal capitalists. D. Torrance & Co. were entrusted with the management of the line on this side, whilst Messrs. Flinn, Main & Montgomery took charge of the business on the other side. As the years rolled on steamer after steamer was added to the fleet, until the Dominion Line now numbers ten large iron steamers, the acme having been reached by the latest venture, the "Vancouver," measuring 5790 tons. The "Oregon," measures 3850 tons; the "Montreal," 3284 tons; the "Ontario," 3176 tons; the "Texas," 2700 tons; the "Sarnia," 3850 tons; the "Toronto," 3284 tons; the "Dominion," 3176 tons; the "Quebec," 2700 tons; and the "Mississippi," 2680 tons; an aggregate of 31,829 tons.

At first general merchandise was carried almost exclusively by this line. Gradually it entered upon the cattle trade, and soon made a specialty of it, without success. As the steamers increased in size and in accommodations the passenger traffic became a feature of the Dominion Line. Immigration also has been carefully fostered, and since the building of the "Sarnia," the "Oregon," and especially the "Vancouver," it has in passenger traffic become a rival to that of the older lines. The Dominion Line has always been running in connection with the railway systems of Canada.

For many years the Allan Line monopolized the contract for carrying the mails between England and Canada, but about three years ago, in consequence of the demand for speedier service, the subsidy was shared between the Allan and Dominion Lines, which carried the mails on alternate weeks. There are twelve steamers engaged in this service, viz., nine belonging to the Allan Line and three to the Dominion. The average journeys made last year between Liverpool and Halifax, from the 5th November to the 8th of May, was as follows, for 23 trips:

Average run westward, Allan Line.....	9	5	42
" " " Dominion Line.....	9	22	—
" " eastward, Allan ".....	8	23	18
" " " Dominion ".....	9	10	34

The amount of subsidy paid for the year 1886 for carrying mails between Halifax and Liverpool via Moville in winter and Quebec and Liverpool via Moville in summer was $126,533.33.

Between the 22nd of April and 18th November, the average runs were as follows, for 28 trips:

Average run westward, Allan Line.....	9	20	0
" " " Dominion Line.....	9	1	39
" " eastward, Allan ".....	8	15	50
" " " Dominion ".....	9	22

The average number of mail bags carried by each steamer is about forty, but of course this does not represent more than about a third of the European mail matter coming to Canada and arriving at New York.

The steamers also bring on an average two boxes of parcel post matter, which are handed over to the Customs officials for collections of duties.

SHIPPING.

MONTREAL'S MERCANTILE MARINE.

ASIATIC AND AUSTRALIAN TRADE INAUGURATED AND GROWING.

The Beaver Line is a purely Canadian line. It was incorporated by act of the Dominion of Canada in the year 1868, the incorporators being Messrs. William Murray, A. Urquhart, J. Ogilvie, W. Dow, E. H. King, C. Scott, G. W. Campbell, A. Gunn, T. Rimmer, G. H. Frothingham and T. Workman. At first the line owned iron clipper sailing ships trading between Montreal, Liverpool and Glasgow. In 1875, however, they built steamships, and owned the following iron steamers: "Lake Superior," of 5200 tons;

"Lake Huron," 4100 tons; "Lake Manitoba," 3300 tons; "Lake Winnipeg," 3300 tons; "Lake Nepigon," 2300 tons; "Lake Ontario," 5300 tons. The sailing ships of the Company are now employed in the Australian trade. The steamers of this line are chiefly fitted out for passenger traffic, and as to cargo they are specially fitted for carrying cattle. In 1885 they carried 1846 passengers, 9374 cattle and 11,791 sheep. In 1886 the number of passengers was 3234, whilst 9201 cattle and 24,436 sheep were exported. In 1887 there were 3914 passengers, 10,364 cattle and 11,581 head of sheep carried by this line. Other cargoes consisted of grain, deals, flour, meal, phosphates, potash, cheese, butter, whilst the imports consisted mostly of dry goods, iron, groceries and chemicals. The Beaver Line visits New York during the winter season.

THE WHITE CROSS LINE.

The White Cross Line has run between Antwerp and Montreal ever since 1883. Besides the passengers that it carries, it imports the greatest amount of Belgian goods brought to this country, and it exports chiefly grain, phosphates, canned goods, agricultural implements and bark. It employs for this port three steamers, the "Grassbrook," "Wandrahm," and "Baumwall," Mr. W. C. Munderloh, German Consul, is its agent here, as well as for which came to Montreal in 1883, and is chiefly instrumental in supplying the demand in Canada of German, French and Belgian goods. The line consists of the "Cremon," "Roma," "Kehrwieder," and "Corona." It exports the same quality of goods as the White Cross Line.

THE BLACK DIAMOND S.S. COMPANY was organized in 1881, and is a genuine Montreal company, its president, Mr. Hugh McLennan, and nearly all its directors being well-known citizens of Montreal.

The company now owns three steamships, the "Cacouna," of 2000 tons, the "Bona Vista," of 1650 tons, and the "Coban," of 1350 tons. The two latter boats are fitted with first-class passenger accommodation, and during the summer season carry large numbers of pleasure-seekers to Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. The steamers of this company carry cargoes of flour, butter, pork and manufactured goods of all descriptions to the Lower Provinces and Newfoundland, and have been instrumental in building up a large export trade in that direction. On the return voyage they call at Pictou or Sydney for cargoes of coal. Since its establishment this line has carried annually over 40,000 tons of soft coal and 100,000 barrels of flour. Of the coal that is brought to Montreal much remains in the city, but part of it is carried further inland by canal and rail, it also carries to Newfoundland a great part of the breadstuffs and other Canadian products which that colony needs.

THE FURNESS LINE.

For more than twenty years back the Furness Line, owned by Mr. Choistopher Furness, of West Hartlepool, Eng., after some experimental trips in search of profitable cargoes and good markets, finally arranged a regular service between London and Baltimore, and London and Boston, and London and Halifax. Its vessels occasionally called at Montreal, and as the advantages of the port increased with the growing distributing powers vested in it, the Furness Line, last year, made Montreal one of its regular ports. The steamers plying between here and Newcastle-on-Tyne and London are the "Durham City," 3092 tons; the "Gothenburg City," 2526 tons; "Ripon City," 2141 tons; "Wetherby," 2129; "Washington City," 2298; "Boston City," 2334; "Katie," 2795, and the "Madura," 2315 tons.

The outward cargoes are grain, deals, cattle, sheep and manufactured goods, butter cheese, staves, canned meats, organs, bones, tierces of beef, peas, timber, etc. These goods are distributed in England, Germany, France and Belgium. On the inward trip these ships carry the various products of the Old World.

THE THOMSON LINE

chiefly supplies the direct trade between Canada and the Mediterranean Sea. Originated in the year 1860 by Mr. William Thomson, of Dundee, Scotland, with a fleet of sailing vessels which plied regularly between English ports and the Levant and intermediate countries, this line extended its trade also to Montreal in the year 1861, when a regular service between this port and the Mediterranean was inaugurated with three clipper ships, the "Deodorus," the "Deodora," and the "Deador," and has been continued uninterruptedly ever since. In 1870 finding sailing vessels insufficient for the transatlantic trade, Mr. Thomson began building steamers, and he now has a service of six well-fitted iron steamers. The "Avlona" of 1953 tons, the "Barcelona" of 1856 tons, the "Dracona" (steel) of 1903 tons, the "Escalona" of 1904 tons, the "Gremona" of 4300 tons, and the "Gerona" of 4600 tons. Four steamers annually supply the Mediterranean trade, whilst the other two ply between Montreal and Newcastle-on-Tyne. The goods brought to Montreal by this line are largely consigned to dealers in Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Cleveland and other American cities and Canadian ports. The trade is increasing so rapidly that at the close of last year's navigation it was found that the cargoes carried by these steamers were nearly five times as large as at any previous year. The cargoes carried from here consist chiefly of grain, deals and cattle. Regarding the shipments of cattle the record of this line is very pronounced, as the following table will show :

	Cattle.	Sheep.
1884	3830	5183
1885	4455	3538

These steamers are also largely patronized by passengers from England as well as from the Mediterranean.

THE DONALDSON LINE.

In 1874 Messrs. Donaldson Bros., of Glasgow, opened a transatlantic service between Glasgow and Montreal, the first steamer being the "Astarte." Gradually they built a fleet of fine steamers, of which the "Alcides" (steel) is the largest with 3400 tons burthen. The "Concordia" with 2600 tons, the "Cynthia" with 2200 tons, the "Colina" with 2000 tons and the "Circe" with 2400 tons, complete the fleet. Their service is weekly. Besides passengers they carry general cargo, such as iron, coal, Scotch manufactured goods; whilst the line carries from here grain, deals, flour, butter, cheese, cattle and sundries. They also have been very successful cattle carriers.

The share they took in the cattle trade of the Dominion is shown by the following figures :

	Cattle.	Sheep.
1884	7929	5806
1885	6631	2887
1886	9316	5140

In winter this line runs from Glasgow to Halifax.

THE TEMPERLEY LINE

was established by Messrs. Temperley, Carter and Darke, of London, in 1877. The company now runs three steamers between Montreal and London, the largest being the "Scotland" of 2700 tons. The "Ocean King" of 2500 tons and the "Erl King" of 2200 tons complete the number. Their inward cargoes are mostly cement, whiting, iron and continental goods shipped from places of production. From Montreal they chiefly carry cargoes of deals, grain, flour, butter, cheese and cattle. The cattle trade carried on by this line is shown in the following table :

	Cattle.	sheep.
1884	3019	3824
1885	2720	3302
1886	3497	7422

OCEAN TRAMPS.

- There are more than 60 "tramps" visiting this harbor annually, not mentioning the so-called coal tramps. These are steamers owned by various companies or individuals seeking trade wherever it is to be found. Usually they bring coal from the Lower Provinces and cargoes from the West Indies, especially Cuba, and take from here cargoes of deals and phosphates, or full cargoes of grain, when obtainable. The coal tramps run into harbor with coal from the Lower Provinces and return on water ballast. There are some 20 of them plying between Montreal and the Gulf Ports. A number of these vessels are consigned to Messrs. Anderson, McKenzie & Co.

Besides these are the steamers running between Maryboro', in the North of England and Inverness, with cargoes consigned to Mr. Robert Reford. This does not include the sailing vessels which continually trade in this port and of which there are between 50 and 60 annually. Individuals and small companies own them. Most of them are consigned to Messrs. Anderson, McKenzie & Co., ship brokers. They load for South America and principally take cargoes of lumber, deals, and an occasional cargo of grain. They also visit English ports.

ASIATIC SERVICE,

A regular Asiatic service of steamers and sailing ships has also been put in operation. There are every season from 3 to 5 steamers arriving in port from the East Indies, Akyab, Bassein, Rangoon and Calcutta, bringing cleaned rice, rough and uncleaned rice, for the Mount Royal Milling Company of Montreal, which cleans it and makes it fit for the table. Two steamers, the "Victory" and the "Bonnington," mostly supply the trade. From here they take cargoes to England, consisting of grain, deal and cattle. There is also a line of sailing ships from ports of Siam to Montreal and British Columbia.

THE BOSSIÈRE LINE.

Montreal for many years back has had an indirect connection with French markets. English, German and Belgian lines as well as tramps in those days would supply Montreal with the staple goods of the French capital and the Departements. In 1884 an attempt was made towards a direct trade when the Franco-Canadian Line was established. That line, however, was only short lived and sold out to the Compagnie Postale, which also retired from the field after 6 months. The French authorities, anxious not to lose so valuable a market as Montreal, conferred with the authorities at Ottawa, and asked the Bossière Brothers, well known shipowners of Havre, to organize a line of Franco-

Canadian steamers. Last year an agreement was arrived at, and on the 10th of May the first steamer of the Bossière Line, the "Comte D'Eu," sailed from Havre with Montreal as its destination.

The Bossière Line now consists of five steamers, the "Chateau Leoville," measuring 4500 tons; the "Obock," of 3300 tons (steel); the "Panama," 3100 tons measure; the "Sully," 2100 tons, and the "Henri Quatre," of 2200 tons.

All these steamers are fitted up for passenger traffic, which, however, is chiefly confined to the "Chateau Leoville" and the "Obock."

The Bossière Line enjoys the confidence of nearly all the leading exporters in France and is established on a solid financial footing.

MONTREAL'S TRADE.

An examination of the following comparative statements will show the relative importance of Montreal as a commercial centre in a very strong light:

Montreal	43,948,594	8,874,147
Whole Dominion	112,892,236	22,469,705

This shows that considerably more than one-third of all the goods imported into Canada last year were entered at the Port of Montreal, and more than the same proportion of the aggregate Customs revenue was collected there.

EXPORTS, 1887.

Hamilton	$490,940
Kingston	615,113
London	428,250
Ottawa	2,759,054
Toronto	3,192,157
Quebec	5,318,533

Winnipeg	816,260
Victoria	2,094,384
Montreal	29,032,613
Whole Dominion	89,515,811

Here again Montreal maintains her trade supremacy. The value of the exports from Montreal in 1888 was greater by nearly three millions than that shown by the Custom House returns from every port in the flourishing Province of Ontario. It is more than three times that of the Province of Nova Scotia, and very nearly five times as great as the total export of the Province of New Brunswick. The export from Montreal is very nearly nine millions of dollars greater than the aggregate export of Nova Scotia,

New Brunswick, Manitoba, British Columbia and Prince Edward Island. When the exports of Montreal are taken from the whole export of the province of Quebec, which was $40,364,720, there are only $11,032, 613 left for all the other ports of the province.

SHIPS AND FREIGHT.

This large volume of imports was brought to Montreal by a splendid fleet of merchant vessels, among them some of the finest steamships in the world.

The following is a record of the number of vessels then that entered the port of Montreal in the season of 1887, their nationality and their tonnage :

	Vessels.	Tonnage
British.....	320	532,932
French.....	2	1,555
Norwegian & Swedish.....	11	5,899
German.....	13	22,640
Spanish.....	1	1,427
Russian.....	1	1,148
Total.....	348	565,601

The number and nationality of the vessels cleared from same port were :

	Vessels.	Tonnage.
British.....	373	584,669
French.....	3	3,199
Norwegian & Swedish....	14	9,641
German.....	17	21,060
Spanish.....	1	1,427
Russian.....	1	1,148
Total.....	409	621,144

These vessels carried 446,384 tons of freight into Montreal, and took from it 524,851 tons. The quantity of freight brought into the whole province of Quebec last year was 537,667 tons, only 91,283 tons more than was brought into Montreal along. The discrepancy between quantity exported from Montreal and from the whole province is even greater than this. The quantity of freight in outward vessels for all the ports of the province was 586,195 tons. The vessels cleared from Montreal as has been shown carried 524,851 tons of freight. This leaves only 61,344 tons for the rest of the province.

RIVER AND CANAL.

THE INLAND TRADE ON OUR WATER WAYS.

HISTORY OF THE RICHELIEU & ONTARIO NAVIGATION CO.

THE TRANSPORTATION LINES AND THE OTTAWA RIVER TRADE.

THE WEST AND NORTHWEST SHIP THEIR PRODUCE TO MONTREAL.

The river as well as the canal system contributed their quota to the shipping trade of Montreal, not only in forwarding goods received from the ocean carrier, and placing them into the hands of the merchant to whom they are consigned all through the cities of the Dominion and the principal northern business centres of the United States, but also by conveying full cargoes of grain and other produce of the soil, the forest and the mine, direct to Montreal, where they form export cargoes for one of the finest fleets of transatlantic steamships in existence.

As early as 1789 the importance of the canal, river and lake system of Canada was clearly seen, and it was then that the first effort was made to overcome the Lachine Rapids by dredging a canal for boats and batteaux via River St. Pierre to Montreal. But the canal was not deep enough, an average of only $2\frac{1}{2}$ feet of water was secured in it. In 1821 the Lachine barge canal was commenced and it was completed in 1825 at a cost of nearly \$500,000. Its length was $8\frac{1}{2}$ miles; lockage, $44\frac{1}{2}$ feet; bottom width, 28 feet, and 48 feet at water surface; seven locks, 100 feet long, 20 feet wide, and a depth of $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet of water on the sills.

In 1843 the ship canal was begun and completed in 1849 at a cost of \$2,149,128; length, $8\frac{1}{2}$ miles; lockage, $44\frac{1}{2}$ feet; width at water surface, 120 feet. It contains five locks, 200 feet long each and 45 feet wide, with 9 feet of water on the sills.

The last improvement was made in 1875, when a depth of 14 feet on the sills was reached. The lock walls are of cut stone laid in cement, and along its whole length the canal is contained by walls of solid masonry, excepting at the entrance to Lake St. Louis, where the walls are of crib work.

THIS MAGNIFICENT WATERWAY

overcomes all the difficulties of the Lachine Rapids, and opens the way from Lake Superior to the ocean, and enables the rich cargoes discharged by the seagoing vessels into a fleet of commodious lake steamers and barges at the wharves of Montreal to reach such interior distributing points as Kingston, Oswego, Rochester, Toronto, Hamilton, on Lake Ontario, Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit on Lake Erie, Goderich, Owen Sound and Saginaw on Lake Huron, Chicago and Milwaukee on Lake Michigan, and Port Arthur and Duluth on that vast "Inland sea," Lake Superior.

To what extent this waterway, the finest in the world, has contributed to make Montreal, the metropolis of the north, the principal distributing centre for the Dominion and the northern States of the Union, the following table will go far to show :

THE RICHELIEU AND ONTARIO NAVIGATION COMPANY.

The deepening of the river channel between Montreal and Quebec transferred the head of navigation from Quebec to Montreal. Still transatlantic passengers continued to be landed at Quebec and had to continue their inland voyage by rail. This suggested the usefulness of a line of steamers plying between the two cities.

The Richelieu company, which had been formed by Mr. Sincennes in 1845, and owned a steamer "Richelieu," took up the idea and built a new steamer, the "Jacques Cartier," and in 1855 the "Victoria" and "Napoleon," of 350 tons each. The Torrance Line also came into existence, and both companies carried on a keen competition for three years when the Torrance Line sold their steamer, the "Quebec," to the Richelieu. Without a rival on the river the latter company now set to work and bought up one after the other the Lake St. Peter Line, and the Terrebonne and L'Assomption Line. In 1861 the magnificent steamer "Montreal" was launched and was followed in 1864 by the superb "Quebec," two floating palaces which rival in size and commodity the finest boats on the Hudson. But the Richelieu Company were not satisfied with the control of the northern portion only of the St. Lawrence, and in 1875 they amalgamated with the Ontario Company which owned the boats running from Montreal west to Toronto and Hamilton. From that date on the Richelieu company spread its branches over the whole course of the River St. Lawrence and the Lake Ontario and styled itself the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company. The company's capital now was raised to $1,500,000, represented by a fleet of eight splendid steamers to which were added in rapid succession the "Athenian," the "Abyssinian," the "Cultivateur" and the "St. Francis." Under the presidency of Sir Hugh Allan, from 1876 to 1882, the company made rapid strides in its development. After Sir Hugh's death, in 1882, Mr. L. A. Senécal was elected president. Since that time the equipment of the line has been perfected and put on a level with the finest inland fleet of Europe or America.

After so small a beginning, a little mustard seed planted in the basin at Sorel, the company now controls the whole river carrying trade with little opposition.

Its lake fleet at present consists of the "Corsican," of 714 tons; the "Spartan," of 678 tons; the "Algerian," of 575 tons; the "Passport," of 592 tons; the "Magnet," of 686 tons; the "Corinthian," of 640 tons; the "Bohemian," of 690 tons; the tonnage given is the registered tonnage.

Its Quebec line is composed of the "Quebec," 1794 tons; the "Montreal," 1279 tons; and the "Canada," 1169 tons.

The "Three Rivers," 1049 tons, runs between Montreal and Three Rivers; the "Chambly," 397 tons, to Chambly; the "Terrebonne," 361 tons, to Vercheres; the "Berthier," 671 tons, to St. Helen's Island; the "Sorel," 89 tons, to Yamaska; the "Rivière du Loup," 97 tons, between Varennes and Bout de l'Isle; the "Mouche à Feu," 129 tons, between Berthier and Sorel; the "Cultivateur," 432 tons, is reserved for excursions, whilst the "Hochelaga" runs to Boucherville and measures 256 tons.

The Saguenay Line consists of two steamers: the "Union," 800 tons; and the "St. Lawrence," 750 tons. The company also run a ferry to Laprairie, the "Laprairie," a boat of 306 tons; to Longueuil, the steamer "Longueuil," of 230 tons, and have a spare ferry, the "South Eastern," of 230 tons.

The management of the company is at present in the hands of Messrs. ——— president; Alphonse Desjardins, vice-president and Julien Chabot, general manager, and its resources increase from year to year, keeping pace with the growth in population and importance of the city of Montreal. It is admitted that the Company's fleet and equipment should be improved, and it is confidently believed that another season will see the work of reconstruction commenced.

THE MONTREAL TRANSPORTATION COMPANY.

The ocean trade of Montreal, growing larger, as it did, with rapid strides from year to year, required also an increased carrying capacity on the part of the distributors along the river and the canal.

Accordingly a stock company, composed mostly of Montreal merchants, with Mr. Hugh McLennan as president, hastened to supply and take advantage of that want. They bought a few barges, and built others. This was the beginning of the Montreal Transportation Company. Since that time the company has been steadily increasing in its capacity until at present its fleet is four times as large as it was at the outset. The lake fleet consists of the steam barge "Glengarry," with consorts "Glenora," and "Gaskin;" lake carrying capacity 105,000 bushels per trip. Lake tug "James A. Walker," with consorts "Brandon," "Jennie" and "Regina;" lake carrying capacity 105,000 bushels. Lake tug "Active," with consorts "Kildonan," "Bella" and "Maggie;" lake capacity, 100,000 bushels.

The river fleet consists of steam tugs D. G. Thompson, Bronson, Clyde and Jessie Hall, with a fleet of 35 barges, having a total carrying capacity of 700,000 bushels per trip.

The company's elevator capacity at Kingston is 20,000 bushels per hour, and the busy wheels during the shipping season make little intermittance in their work of increasing Montreal's prosperity. The business of this line consists largely in the transportation of grain from United States and Canadian ports to the ocean carriers. This year the company expect to move quite a quantity of grain from Port Arthur, a new feature in the river St. Lawrence trade.

The transportation of coal forms one of the features of this line. Its barges ply the five lakes and load the black diamond along the shores of Lake Erie and Lake Ontario, especially at Oswego, the northern outlet for the Pennsylvania mines, and carry back merchandise of all kinds, distributing them all along the route.

THE KINGSTON & MONTREAL FORWARDING COMPANY.

A small line of steamers had for some years been carrying on trade between Kingston and Montreal, when in 1879 the increasing want of means to convey goods up and down the river, owing to the growth of importance on the part of Montreal, induced a stock company to take hold of the matter in a more systematic manner in 1879. The company, under the presidency of Mr. Alexander Gunn, of Kingston, assisted by the Hon. J. G. Ross, of Quebec, as vice-president, and Mr. Wm. Stewart as managing director, put on the route 23 barges with a number of tugs. These barges have a capacity of 400,000 bushels per trip. The company own two floating elevators. The boats make 10 trips annually and bring from the Western States by way of the lakes which they traverse grain of all kinds consigned mostly to England and other European countries. They also carry a vast amount of coal from Oswego, Fair Haven and Charlotte. The trade has been increasing so rapidly that the company are obliged to add new barges every year to keep pace with the demand for canal and river carriers. The line is no more confined to the distance between Montreal and Kingston, but visits the principal ports all along the lakes, taking from each its quota of cargo, which it disgorges at the wharves of Montreal into the bosom of the ocean carrier, and in exchange carries manufactured goods hailing from all the European ports to the interior of the Dominion as well as by means of the distributing centres of the Union, throughout the Northern and Western States, bearing the name and fame of Montreal all through the vast Continent.

THE OTTAWA RIVER NAVIGATION CO.

The other great waterway, the Ottawa river, immediately connecting the metropolis with the political capital, has not been allowed to pass unutilized. As early as 1845 a steamer, the "Oldfield," belonging to Mr. R. W. Shepherd, plied between the two cities, carrying inland whatever freight was consigned to merchants on the road, and for the accommodation of the traveling public. The line was found to be inadequate for the ever growing trade and a stock company, of which Mr. Shepherd is the president, established a line of large and commodious steamers. In 1850 the "Lady Simpson" was launched, and was followed in 1860 by the "Prince of Wales," which, on her first trip, carried His Royal Highness to Ottawa. The "Queen Victoria" (1861) and the "Dagmar" (1865), together with the large Clyde built iron steamer, the "Peerless" (1873), were added to the company's fleet. She was the largest vessel ever built for Canadian inland waters. In 1885 she was destroyed by fire at the wharf of Montebello. The "Maud," "Empress" and "Princess," passenger and market steamers, were brought out within the last 10 years. A considerable portion of the country along the river banks is supplied with goods by these steamers. On their return trip to Montreal the boats of this line take cargoes of cattle and agricultural products for transatlantic ports.

Indeed, so rapidly is the trade on the Ottawa River growing that the Ottawa River Navigation Company intend purchasing a number of steel hulls; one to replace the "Prince of Wales" has already been ordered and will enter service next season.

THE MERCHANTS' LINE.

The large fleet of the Merchants' Line is still another evidence of the opulence and importance of Montreal.

Dating as far back as 1836, the line has been owned successively by Messrs. Holden, Hooker, Hooker, Holden & Co., Hooker & Jaques, and finally by G. E. Jaques, Tracy & Co.

From Chicago to Montreal every port of importance is touched by the steamers "Acadia," 569 tons; the "Alma Munro," 581 tons, and the "Cuba," 599 tons. Points on Lake Ontario are visited by the "Persia," 500 tons, and the "Ocean," 454 tons. the "Lake Ontario," of 412 tons, the "Lake Michigan," of 440 tons, and the "Celtic," 440 tons. The "Welshman" and the "Henry Bate" traverse the Rideau Canal, also several other smaller craft visit ports along the Ottawa river, the Rideau canal, Kingston, Toronto and Hamilton, St. Catharines and Detroit.

Immense amounts of salt are carried annually to Chicago by this line; also tin plates, caustic soda and soda ash and liquors of all kinds from the continent of Europe as well as bottled ale from England. On their way back to Montreal they return heavily laden with the fruits of the soil mostly from the Western states of the union.

But even with this fleet the amount of trade that flows towards Montreal is fast outgrowing the accommodations, and there has of late years been a want of carriers. This deficiency, it is hoped, will be supplied in the near future.

TABLE OF DISTANCES.

The great lake and river system of Canada has been made continuously navigable for a distance of 2384 statute miles, by a connecting chain of ten canals, comprising 71½ miles of artificial navigation. This system extends from the Straits of Belle Isle to Thunder Bay, at the head of Lake Superior. The following table of distances indicates also the respective positions of these canals:

MONTREAL'S CABLE CONNECTIONS.

TELEGRAPH SYSTEM OF THE DOMINION RUN BY MONTREAL CAPITAL.

RAPID DEVELOPMENT OF THE TELEPHONE BUSINESS.

Montreal must necessarily, from the fact that it occupies the proud and commercially impregnable position at the head of navigation, always be the "King City" of Canada. Nothing can deprive Montreal of this dignity, because it is the result of an economic law, the working of which is seen in the neighboring republic, where in spite of the growth of Western cities, New York remains the commercial capital of the United States. As in the case of the latter city, so in that of Montreal the railways make the Metropolis their objective point. Below is given in as brief a form as possible a sketch of the rise of the great lines of railway in Canada. How strenuously their managers have endeavored to push their lines and Canadian trade interests with them to the front is abundantly evidenced in the sketches given, and how far they have been successful is amply shown by the enormous expansion seen in the record of the pioneer line, the Grand Trunk and the story of the Pacific Railway. The latter might almost be taken, so far as many features in connection with its construction are concerned, from the "Arabian Nights." Thousands of miles of railway within our borders are now linked with the hundred and forty thousand miles of rails in the neighboring Republic. Further links are being constructed, and the lines from Caughnawaga to Dundee completed by the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the completed line touching the State of New York, made by the Grand Trunk Railway, will afford shipping facilities for the people of the western portions of that State, which otherwise would utilize the system connecting with New York. Further tribute is paid directly to Montreal at present by the Delaware & Hudson line, which enters the city over the Grand Trunk Railway tracks, giving connection with some seven hundred miles of road. The Central Vermont comes in over the same line, and also gives hundreds of miles of direct traffic and connection with important points. The Canadian Pacific now has its own direct connection with Boston and Portland, and taps on its way several of the lines running through the Eastern States. In addition, Montreal has direct communication over the Intercolonial with Halifax. So far as transit is concerned, Montreal is provided with traffic facilities not enjoyed by any other city in the Dominion, and from her railway depots merchandise may be despatched and received from all points on the continent. Thus it is that Montreal holds the position of the distributing centre of Canada.

The vast expansion of trade in this country and the powerful influence of the railways upon its growth may be gauged by the increase in their carrying capacity. The report for the year 1854 showed that the number of passengers carried by the Grand Trunk amounted to 117,806, and the tons of freight carried to 116,571, the receipts being in all $412,590. During the year 1883-4 the same line carried six millions of tons of freight and five millions of passengers. In 1886 its freighting was nearly as large and its passenger list about the same, its earnings being $14,100,000.

The development of the Canadian Pacific Railway has been as phenomenal. In 1884 the total earnings amounted $5,750,521. In 1887 they had sprung up to $11,606,412. These figures are a good indication of the commercial development of Canada, a development in which Montreal has played one of the most important parts.

TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE.

Montreal can probably be called the telegraphic centre of the Dominion. From it and through it run vast numbers of wires connecting the north with the south, the east with the west; telling the furred inhabitants of Upper Russia about the beauties of the soft balmy air of southern California, and whispering into the astonished ears of the almond-eyed sons of China messages from the great manufacturers and capitalists of the United States. Occupying an advantageous position from a geographical point of view, it becomes the means of communication between two hemispheres, and so great are its resources and facilities that no matter how rebellious the elements are, it is always in position to connect any two places on the globe as was shown at the time of the last blizzard, when all the direct lines between Chicago and New York being down they communicated by way of Montreal and Sydney, C.B., sending messages over a circuit of 1936 miles.

A few minutes delay, a small break in the wire might cause no end of confusion, while almost any of the foreign messages that pass by hundreds daily through our Montreal offices, say from Hong Kong to San Francisco, or Paris to Chicago, if intercepted and withheld would cause the gravest consequences. But every thing that human hands can make and human ingenuity can devise, has been done to prevent the occurrence of anything of the kind. In April, 1845, the first public telegraph line in the world was opened for business between Baltimore and Washington. Montreal, the first city in the Dominion, could not long remain idly looking on which science, through a citizen of a neighboring country, had offered to the world, and two years later, in 1847, the Montreal Telegraph Company was organized with a capital of $60,000. Mr. Andrew Shaw was elected president, and Mr. O. S. Wood, Prof. Morse's first pupil, and a brother-in-law of Mr. Ezra Cornell, the founder of Cornell University, was appointed its superintendent. Being a man of the highest character and having a thorough knowledge of his profession, he pushed matters with great energy, economizing at the same time, and the result was that at the close of the first year of its existence, 1847, the Montreal Telegraph Company had 540 miles of wire and nine offices; employed 35 persons and had sent 33,000 messages. As usual, the first line in Canada was regarded with astonishment and awe. People used to stand outside the office to watch the messages go, and the wag who put a pair of dirty boots on the wire was believed when he told the gaping multitude that they had grown dusty while traveling so fast over the wire.

This first company could hardly expect to keep the field all to itself, and it did not. Numerous smaller ventures both on the part of Canadians and Americans sprang up. But somehow or other they were unsuccessful. They were swallowed up by the Montreal Company and the diet seemed to suit its constitution, for it grew larger and more powerful. In 1851 Sir Hugh Allan became its President, and thanks to his enlightened and vigorous policy, the business became more and more extensive, and in a single year, when 1321 miles of wires had been added, the increase in the number of despatches was 254,366. In 1868 a formidable competitor arose in the Dominion Telegraph Company, managed by Mr. C. R. Hosmer, whose shrewdness, industry and personal popularity made the company worth buying out, and afterwards the two lines amalgamated under the name of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company, which also controls the lines of the Grand Trunk system and the Manitoba Company, the whole now under the able management of Mr. Angus Grant. Its principal office is in Montreal as is also that of its rival, the Canadian Pacific.

When the Canadian Pacific Railway resolved to start a commercial telegraph line, care was taken to secure the very best telegraphic material that could be obtained, and, in consequence, the Canadian Pacific Telegraph Company, having, like the Great Northwestern, its principal office in Montreal, controls one of the most extensive telegraph systems in the world, managed by Mr. Hosmer, favorably known in telegraph circles all over the continent. These two companies make use of no less than ten cables. Three from North Sydney, C.B., to Heart's Content, Newfoundland, and thence to Valentia, Ireland; one from North Sydney, C.B., to St. Pierre, Miquelon, thence to Brest; two from St. John, N.B., to Canso, N.S., and thence to Penzance; one from Halifax to Ballinskellen, Ireland; one via New York to Canso, N.S., St. Pierre, Miquelon, and thence to Brest; two via New York to Canso, N.S., and thence to Waterville, Ireland, where it connects with Weston-Super-Mare, England. Thus it seems as if they could never be at a loss to communicate with the continent, and if greatly pressed, they use the new duplex and quadruple instruments, by which the capacity of the cables can be doubled or quadrupled at will. As to the reliability and usefulness of the cable system it was proven when Mr. Stead, in London, and Mr. Henry Norman, the Star correspondent, at Vancouver, conversed with each other a few months ago. Canada is doubtless ahead in the telegraph business, it has more offices, more wires, comparatively speaking, and handles more messages than any other country on the globe, and Montreal, with its two magnificent companies, whose 49,892 miles of wire, supported by 32,776 miles of poles draws news from everywhere, is the fit telegraphic centre of a progressive and growing country.

Montreal's telephone system and service is very good, nearly every prominent business firm and many private citizens being provided with an instrument. Statistics show that it has a telephone for every 100 inhabitants, which exceeds the service of any other large city on the Continent of America.

In the winter of 1878, the year when the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise entered Canada, the first telephone service was used in the Dominion. The line ran from the Montreal office of the Montreal Telegraph Company to Rideau Hall, Ottawa, and was strung by Mr. Angus Grant, at present Montreal Superintendent, who had suggested a test to Sir Hugh Allan. The instrument used was the Edison telephone, and it worked most satisfactorily to the delight of Princess Louise, who was greatly amused at being able to hold such a plain conversation with Sir Hugh Allan at a distance of some 130 miles. This was but a very short time after the telephone had come into general use in the United States, and it was not long after this successful test till the Bell Telephone Company of Canada was started. It has since been generally adopted, and in some places has become a rival to the telegraph. The only drawback on long distance speaking is the number of offices on the line which can only speak one at a time, and consequently no good service can be had on a distance exceeding 225 miles. As it is, the banks make considerable use of the telephone to receive intelligence from their branch offices. Formerly the manager of the branch used to send a telegram to headquarters, but now a-days he sits down, and with his lips to the mouthpiece and the receiver to his ear tells the manager of the bank.

EVERYTHING THAT HAS HAPPENED, and is worth mentioning. This is one of the strongest points of the Montreal exchange. Outside of its city connections, which are made through the medium of cables with from 50 to 100 distinct wires each, and of which there are 600 miles, they make use of 5000 miles of wire. There are eight wires running to Toronto and Hamilton, three to London, two to Sarnia and Detroit, two to Buffalo, two to Niagara and many others.

The plant and instruments of a telephone company are somewhat expensive, as is shown in this city. The first operating station was on St. John, near Notre Dame street, and its plant cost $10,000. The place becoming too small, the operating department was removed to the corner of Notre Dame and St. François Xavier streets, where new plant was put in at a cost of $40,000. Here everything is to be found that can promote quick and satisfactory work, and thirty-five girls are constantly employed to attend to the wants of the subscribers. A great many people do not understand the working of the telephone at all, and it is not strange to see men standing in front of an instrument and shaking their fist at it in impotent rage, because they do not receive a reply quick enough, but it must be remembered that the delay is usually caused by the party at the other end of the line, and not by any fault of the operator. What makes the telephone business so expensive is the continuous depreciation in the value of its material, there being not an instrument or part of an instrument that can be used four years without renovation with the exception of the hard rubber receiver, which does not wear out by the constant generation of electricity.

The company has a repair department near its principal operating rooms where small repairs can be

while those that involve new parts to an instrument are taken care of in the workshops on Craig street, near St. George. Here everything pertaining to a telephone is made, from the silk covered wire to the provoking little bell. The machinery which turns out the different parts of the instrument works so accurately that no matter what instrument is selected the piece always fits in its right place. In this department 65 men are employed, while in this city 42 female operators are engaged, besides some 56 men for various duties, such as those of inspector, linemen and others. The greatest enemy that the company has to contend with is cold rough weather, and a severe sleet storm often causes a loss of several thousand dollars. Another foe is lightning, but by means of the newest lightning arrester now in use, its powers for evil are somewhat curtailed. It can only enter the operating room as far as the arrester, where it meets a wire as thin as a hair which burns away under its influence and leaves a gap which it cannot cross. These minute wires are all numbered, and the inspector, who by constant use knows most of the numbers by heart, can see at a glance which wire was touched, and can, if he thinks it necessary, immediately send a man to see if it is broken, or if the instrument, which is the terminus of that particular wire, has suffered any damage. It is worth one's while to go through the operating rooms, and, starting on the roof, where the cables and single wires from all parts of the city come in, supported by heavy wooden frame works, follow them down to where with the receiver fastened to the ear by means of a little contrivance made of light steel bands and called by courtesy a cap, are making connections, answering questions, explaining the absence of certain parties who are wanted or denying accusations of negligence, which people are so apt to bring against them when a ring is not immediately answered. In the middle of the room behind the operators stands the manager's table, which contains a most treacherous little instrument by means of which she can hear everything the operators are saying, no matter how low they whisper, and thus prevent unnecessary talk, flirtation and other little vagaries to which young ladies are addicted. One of the expensive items in the telephone business is the number of poles used to carry the lines; not that the price of the bare wood is so enormous, but the labor and finish of them cost more than is imagined, and the erection of each pole causes on an average an entry on the wrong side of the ledger of $20. For stores and repairs about $5000 is expended every year, and salaries swallow up about $45,000. People seem to become more and more convinced of the fact that a telephone, which some fifteen years ago was not even thought of, is an absolute necessity for the successful carrying on of business.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

THE PIONEER OF CANADIAN COMMERCE.

HOW MONTREAL BECAME THE RAILWAY CENTRE OF

ITS VICTORY OVER THE VANDERBILTS IN ENTERING CHICAGO.

The operations of the Grand Trunk Railway and the trade and commerce of Montreal are so intimately connected that a history of the one to a great extent involves that of the other. The construction of that line has wonderfully developed the resources of the Dominion, and has done very much for the growth and the prosperity of Montreal. It was the Grand Trunk that made this city the great railway centre of the Dominion as well as its powerful shipping port, and enabled it to maintain its superiority among the cities of Canada which it had attained at an early period of its history.

It was chiefly due to the encouragement offered by the Act of the old Parliament of Canada passed in 1848, which held out certain inducements to railways, that the scheme which to-day has developed into the Grand Trunk system was initiated and the first steps taken to float the great undertaking. Previously the people had been content to jog along as they best could. The frontier water way was, in conjunction with the old toll roads, deemed sufficient, and it may seem strange to be told that a leading engineer of the present day, who was, in the early period of the road, by no means in his "green and salad days," argued that the existing roads of Canada were sufficient for her use for forty years to come, and that a railway would be wholly superfluous. Fortunately, others were more enterprising and less pessimistic, and the passage of the Act of 1849, during the Government of the Earl of Elgin, was the signal for the commencement of the Great Western Railway, now a part of the Grand Trunk, the Northern, and the first link of the present Grand Trunk system, known as the St. Lawrence & Atlantic Railway, from Longueuil to Island Pond. Almost immediately after, namely, in the year 1851, an Act was passed, providing for the charter of a Trunk line throughout the provinces. The vast issues depending on the building of the road, and the immense benefits which, it was evident, the accomplishment of the scheme would confer on the country, caused the project to be widely supported by the entire community. Its claims to public support were pressed upon the Administration of the day with such effect that the Government offered many concessions, and, what was at the moment of more importance, some substantial assistance. Upon the strength of this the prospectus of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada was issued in the spring of the year 1853. It announced that the projected line would be capitalized to the extent of ten million sterling, and that nearly a thousand miles of road was to be built. In addition to completing the road by giving it an outlet on the seaboard, the track of the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Road, one hundred and forty-eight miles through Maine to Portland, was to be acquired. The sections in progress under the Act at the time were as follows: Grand Trunk of Canada, 142 miles; Québec & Richmond, 96 miles; St. Lawrence & Atlantic, 141 miles; Grand Junction, 50 miles; Toronto & Guelph, 51. A glance at

of which a few copies are still to be seen, shows the following list of Directors: President, the Hon. John Ross, Solicitor-General; Hon. Francis Hincks, Inspector-General; Hon. E. P. Taché, Receiver-General; Hon. J. Morris, Postmaster-General; Hon. Mr. Cameron, President of the Council; Hon. R. E. Caron, Speaker of the Legislative Council. Mr. Thomas Baring, M.P., and Mr. G. C. Glynn, M.P., were the agents of the Province of Québec and directors of the proposed company on behalf of the Canadian Government in England; the managing-director was Sir C. P. Roney, with Mr. S. B. Biggar as the general manager, and Mr. A. M. Ross, chief engineer. The prospectus was an enticing one; it seemed as if the undertaking was bound to coin money. The vastness of the country which the line was to tap and the diversity of its products bade fair to afford an endless traffic, and the promoters naturally painted their project in colors of the most radiant hue. Money was plentiful in England, and good investments were at a premium. As a result the stock list was filled by hundreds of people who transferred their all from investments which paid small interest, in the confident expectation of reaping tenfold by the vast transatlantic scheme. The promoters speedily had ample funds at their disposal, and an army of laborers were soon at work, and the construction was pushed on with such vigor that the rapid progress enabled traffic to go on over sections of the road in a very brief period. In 1853 a road was open between this city and Portland. The following year witnessed the completion of the road between Richmond and Quebec, and two years later the first train ran through from Montreal to Toronto, the event being duly marked by "joyful ceremonies," as a journal of the period notes. It was fitting that this should have been, for the event marked an epoch, not only in the commercial, but the social history of Canada. The building of this great line was also marked by the most of the period—the construction of the Victoria Bridge. It was early made evident that it was out of the question that so serious a gap as the St. Lawrence could break the continuity of the line of railway, and gigantic as the proposition was, and quixotic as it seems to have been considered by very many, the construction of a bridge across the mighty river of the North was determined upon. The man to whom the daring attempt was entrusted was himself a giant in his art and worthy of his task, and Montreal may feel proud in having at her doors the greatest of the works of Robert Stephenson and one of the engineering wonders of the world. The forces of nature in their most mighty aspects were boldly faced by the master mind of the engineer, and stand impotent before the granite and iron outcome of his deliberative genius. Largely is it due to this marvelous piece of work that we are able to-day to appropriately refer to Montreal as a distributing centre. The history of the Victoria Bridge has been written at length more than once, and it is not necessary to say more of it at the present than that it cost between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000; that it is about two miles long; that the first passenger train crossed in December, 1859, and that the year following, the Prince of Wales formally opened it with ceremonies yet in the recollection of a large number of our citizens.

The line when it was so opened may be said to have consisted of one thousand miles—strictly a hundred miles more—and its growth has since been steady and persistent. At present its records show a mileage of 1550 miles, but, in addition, it has leased and partially owned lines which bring the grand total up to close on

THREE THOUSAND MILES.

Negotiations are in progress for the securing of other acquisitions. It need hardly be said, as the fact is unluckily too notorious and has been the subject of most acrimonious writing and discussion, that the line did not at first realize the bright anticipations which had been indulged in by those who built it. The enormous and certainly extravagant outlay on construction, and various economic causes which militated against the success of the road, made the prospects of the shareholders very dark. The report of the commission appointed by the Government to investigate the matter is to be seen in the Parliamentary papers by any one desirous of going deeper into the subject. The debtor and creditor sides on the ledger of the line were discouraging. At this dark moment Mr. C. J. Brydges took charge of the line. He seemed the right man for the position and, though made the object of most virulent vituperation by enemies of the institution, worked steadily and well to advance the interests of his trust. He saw that want of connections was, notwithstanding the magnitude of the line, a weak point, and it is due to his determination that the great Canadian line now touches, as a part almost of its own system, New York, Chicago, and the principal commercial points in the north of the United States. Mr. Brydges' name will always be bound closely with the advances towards prosperity made by the Grand Trunk. One of the results of the Royal Commission referred to was that application was made in 1861 to the country for assistance. The demand was made on the ground that the aid granted by the Act of 1849 had not been fairly or proportionately expended, so far as the Grand Trunk route was concerned, that it had already done marvels for the country, and that it had especial claims on the Government which had really done a great deal to encourage its construction, and in fact had practically officially endorsed as the first directorate indicated. In 1874 was effected, Mr. Brydges being succeeded by Mr. Joseph Hickson. Shortly after the latter gentleman's assumption of office the gauge of road was changed throughout so as to bring it into harmony with the lines in the United States. This was necessarily a costly matter, as steel rails were also adopted, but from a business point of view the advantages of the change were very great. At the commencement of the present decade dividends were paid in full on the first and second preference stock and in part upon the third. The Great Western Railway from Niagara to Detroit, with a link running to Toronto, has been acquired, adding a total mileage to the system of one thousand miles. Of the earnings it was determined to give seventy per cent. of the net earnings to the Grand Trunk and thirty to the Western. In the year 1879 the Government took over the Rivière du Loup section, and with the funds a great deal was added to the western portion of the line, and direct communication was effected with Chicago in the face of the most obstinate opposition by some of the most wealthy capitalists and railway men of the United States. The Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway, which connects the system with Chicago, is under the management of Mr. W. J. Spicer, for many years the General Superintendent of the G. T. R., and right-hand man of Mr. Hickson, in Montreal. Since his appointment to the General Managership of the C. & G. T. Mr. Spicer has had many flattering offers from American roads, but has remained loyal to the great system whose service he left England to enter upon. Both the Vanderbilt and Gould systems opposed Mr. Hickson's efforts to the utmost, but he finally succeeded in attaining his object, and his conduct of the negotiations has always been regarded as a masterpiece of railway zeal and enterprise.

A CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT

THE NORTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM has lately been obtained by the company, giving further connections on Lake Huron and elsewhere. The mileage is about 450. The connections of the line have latterly been still further increased by the construction of a line from Fort Covington to Massena Springs in the State of New York, a distance of some twenty-five miles. This gives the line a connection with a large system of railways in the State of New York, the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg in particular. A new communication with the west is by this obtained. Another link from Beauharnois to Valleyfield is of use as a feeder.

The commercial advance of the Grand Trunk and the increasing demands made upon its resources necessitate the double tracking of the line throughout its entire length, and this work is being proceeded with as the finances of the company render it possible, some sections being already completed.

The Board of Direction is composed as follows: President, Sir H. W. Tyler, M. P., Lord Claud Hamilton, M. P., Messrs. Robert Young, Robert Gillespie, W. N. Heggate, James Charles, John Mainham, Major A. G. Dickson, M. P.

The workshops usually absorb 2000 men in Montreal, 600 or so in Hamilton, 400 in London and Stratford, severally, 300 in Brantford, 250 in Fort Gratiot, 100 in Gorham, and a small force in Portland, more or less as required. The balance of the mechanical force consists of engineers and firemen. The workshops always find plenty to do. During the past seven years 150 new locomotives have been built and several hundreds of new cars of all kinds from the palatial order down to the flat car.

Since the commencement of the road the population of the city has grown from about 40,000 to an approximated number of 200,000.

THE BONAVENTURE TERMINUS.

The company has completed the construction of a very fine depot on the site of the old one, St. James street. This is a building of remarkably fine architectural design, pointing eastward and extending back to the portion of the depot into which the trains will run. The building is two stories high and is built of red brick faced with white stone surmounted by a Mansard roof. Three handsome towers, north, centre and south, one containing a clock, give an imposing finish to the building, which is designed with special regard to the needs of the passengers who enter it. A covered way for carriages will be provided, and the waiting rooms elaborately finished and so arranged as to provide the maximum of comfort for those using them. The station now completed is a great ornament to the city and a credit to the Grand Trunk Railway. The cost amounts, as stipulated with the city, to $300,000.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.

FROM THE ATLANTIC TO THE PACIFIC.

VAST TERRITORIES TRIBUTARY TO MONTREAL.

THE SHORT LINE FROM ENGLAND TO JAPAN.

THE NEW SAULT STE. MARIE ROUTE.

MONTREAL THE OCEAN PORT FOR THE WESTERN STATES.

To Montreal and her prominent citizens Canada and the world's commerce is indebted for that "eighth wonder of the world," and greatest railway triumph of the age—the Canadian Pacific Railway. To whom may be attributed the honor of having originated the idea of a transcontinental route across Canada as is now witnessed in this railway is not very clear. Many claim the credit, but the first person to make a serious proposition to the Government for its construction appears to have been the late Mr. Waddington, an engineer of considerable skill, and a brother of the sometime minister of education in France. The necessity for such a connecting link between the East and West, forming also a chain to bind together the scattered provinces and to give communication with the almost inaccessible region of the Northwest, was naturally self evident. Nearly half a century ago an old pioneer in the county of York, Ont., wrote, with almost prophetic force, of the future "Unity of British North America."

I see thee not a natal hour,
But ages hence in sovereign power,
When the fleet iron horse shall roar
From Northa Sound to Labrador:

When thy rich belt with commerce spanned
 Shall send its wealth from land to land.
 And millions cherish happy homes
 Where now the untamed buffalo roams ;
 When teeming cities, villas fair
 And all the arts of peace are there ;
 When college, school and church's spires
 All glitter in solstitial fires,
 And mountain, mine and spreading plain Diffuse their wealth from main to main,
 And jarring races fused in one Rejoice in name Canadian.

The admission of British Columbia into the Confederation in 1871, with a condition that such a railway was to be built, caused the scheme proposed by Mr. Waddington to be considered by the Government after a lengthy interview with Sir John Macdonald.

The practicability of the scheme was doubted by many and as earnestly championed by others. There was, however, an eager competition for the privilege of constructing the road. At the outset it was not designed to make the undertaking purely and simply a Governmental work, but liberal assistance in money and land was promised. Two companies were successively formed, but they expired without advancing the line an inch. A third, headed by the late Sir Hugh Allan, was formed and empowered to construct the line from Lake Nipissing to the Pacific. To this enterprise the sum of $30,000,000 and 50,000,000 acres of land were granted by the administration. Sir Hugh Allan, with that keen business foresight which was his strong characteristic, accurately gauged the vast importance from a commercial point of view of the construction of the line, and seeing what would be afforded to his splendid fleet of steamers, bent much of his indomitable energy to the accomplishment of the project. There was a strong opposition to the scheme both in and out of Parliament. The agitation caused by the Pacific scandal proved effective enough to put out of power the then Cabinet headed by Sir John Macdonald.

The agreements with British Columbia in the first instance promised that the road should be completed in ten years, but it very soon became evident that this could not be done. The company of which Sir Hugh Allan was president gave up the charter. The British Columbians began to complain of bad faith and the new government, led by Mr. Mackenzie, had to take measures to satisfy them and to do something towards the construction of the road. An arrangement was made with the Pacific province by means of which the time of the building of the road was extended, the year 1891 being named. The progress of the railway during the years 1872-80 was not very rapid. It was well known at the time that the survey was pushed on under Mr. Sandford Fleming, but the difficulties reported seemed very great, and caused Mr. Mackenzie on one occasion in the House of Commons to state that all the resources of the British Government would not construct the line in ten years. A beginning was, however, made. A line was constructed from Winnipeg to the United States boundary, and sections of the road between Fort William on Lake Superior and Manitoba were commenced.

In 1878 there was a CHANGE OF GOVERNMENTS,

and in 1880 a new and radical change was made in the Canadian Pacific Railway policy. A new company was formed and an agreement entered into with the Government by means of which the syndicate, as it was called, was to receive as a gift the completed lines of which some 711 miles in all were under construction east of the Mountains and 83 miles from Port Moody and Yale. In addition to this the Government granted the company $25,000,000 and 25,000,000 acres of land. On the part of the company, it was agreed that the line should be completed by the first of May, 1891. The agreement was not strictly observed, for the construction was pushed forward in a most remarkable manner, and on the 7th of November, 1885, three months short of five years from the signing of the agreement, the Canadian Pacific Railway was an accomplished fact, and through traffic from Quebec to the Pacific coast made practicable.

The construction of the road involved great expenditure, the difficulties confronting the engineers were imposing, especially was this the case on the Lake Superior section, where the rock cutting and tunnelling necessitated enormous labor and an outlay of very great sums of money. This was the most costly portion of the line, and as a channel of probable traffic for some time at least necessarily the most unprofitable. From $600,000 to $700,000 per mile was expended on this section. The sections in the Rockies were also costly, averaging $370,000 a mile. The company has also in connection with its service a system of steamers running between Vancouver, Yokohama and Japan. In the words of the Premier of the Dominion, Hong Kong may be considered the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Connection is also held by the line with Boston, thus giving it an outlet on the Atlantic. A charter has been obtained during the recent session of Parliament for a line of railway to be constructed between Caughnawaga and the State of New York, touching Beauharnois, Valleyfield and crossing the international line near Dundee, and forming a connection with the very extended and complicated system of railways that has its ramifications in the State.

The first "through" train left Montreal on the 2nd of November, and the occasion was fitly observed as one of general importance. The line had during the time intervening between the signing of the agreement with the Government been progressing in various ways. In addition to the main line more than 1000 miles of branches had been acquired or built, and the stock issued raised to $65,000,000. A line of Clyde built steamers was also placed on Lake Superior. In brief, the completion of this great work gives Canada possession of a line of railway from Quebec to Vancouver, 3,077 miles in length, 366 miles shorter than any road connecting San Francisco and New York. From Liverpool to Vancouver the distance is 5,761 miles by the Canadian Pacific, and from the first named port to San Francisco, by New York, 6,401 miles, thus giving the Canadian route an advantage of 640 miles. Two-thirds of the route are in charge of one company; the whole is in British territory, and the line constitutes the only real in the world. The "lines" crossing the United States are merely a succession of links.

The officers of the company are: President, Sir George Stephen, Bart.; Vice-President and General Manager, W. C. Van Horne, who may be looked upon as the guiding spirit in the grand undertaking, whose complete confidence in the future of Canada and of the ultimate success of Canada's transcontinental road has never for a moment flagged. Mr. C. Drinkwater, for many years assistant to Mr. Hickson, of the G.T.R., is Secretary while Mr. Van Horne has for Assistant Manager Mr. T. G. Shaughnessy, whose push and enterprise, coupled with his extended experience in matters of detail have proved him an invaluable help to the Vice-president. Mr. George Olds, the Traffic Manager, and Mr. Lucius Tuttle, Passenger Traffic Manager, were both well known in the railway world of the United States before they came here, and have done good work in building up the business of the road. The other officers are: Comptroller, I. G. Ogden; Treasurer, W. Sutherland Taylor; General Superintendent Ontario and Atlantic division, T. A. Mackinnon; General Superintendent Eastern division, C. W. Spencer; General Superintendent Western division, W. Whyte; General Superintendent Pacific division, Harry Abbott; General Freight and Passenger Agent Western and Pacific division, R. Kerr; General Passenger Agent Ontario and Atlantic division, D. McNichol.

Another line of railway of great importance to Montreal must be described, which may be termed second in importance to the main line of the C. P. R. itself. The Sault Ste. Marie route starts from Sudbury Junction, proceeding to the bridge at the "Soo" via Algoma Mills. A line had been made in 1882 as far as the Mills as an eastern port of the C. P. R. steamers. There was a good deal of money spent on a pier and a hotel of some size was projected, but circumstances arose which prevented the projected port being made the use of for which it was intended, though it may yet be made available in the future. A year and a half ago the work of extending the road was continued, and it was completed about the commencement of the present year. The line will afford facilities for much local trade, as it taps a portion of country which is very fertile and has a very fair settlement. The Great Manitoulin, St. Joseph's Island and other sections are of a very high class of agricultural land, and the line will doubtless be a spur to those who are interested in the very rich mining districts which it taps. The road is constructed on the same liberal and thorough scale as the main line. The heaviest and best steel rails have been laid down, the plans having been so drawn as to make the gradients as easy as possible and the curves extended. The ballasting is particularly good and one of the engineers, in conversation, stated that this is largely due to the fact that an enormous quantity of crushed quartz, the refuse of a deserted copper mine at Bruce mines, was ready to hand and formed a specially fine ballast. The bridge over the St. Mary's river is a splendid piece of work. Mr. J. W. Moffatt, C.E., of Lachine, made the

and the masonry was constructed by Mr. R. G. Reid of the same place, the iron work of the main bridge being constructed by the Dominion Bridge Co., and the Draw by the Detroit Bridge Co. Mr. G. H. Massey was the chief engineer. The main bridge has ten spans, each of 242 feet in length and 250 tons in weight. The "Draw" is very large, weighing over 300 tons and being 396 feet in length. The entire length of the bridge is, including certain trestling on the Canadian side, one mile and one hundred and twenty feet. It cost $500,000. This important line was fitly inaugurated on Jan. 8 and 9 of the present year by the passage of what was known as the "great flour train" from Minneapolis, an event duly noted in the press of the city at the time. It consisted of 99 cars with 14,820 barrels of flour on board, all of which passed to the sea over the new road. The importance of this link to Montreal trade may be realized by the consideration of the following statement of distances. Minneapolis, the great milling depot of the west, manufactured last year more than six millions of barrels of flour, of which nearly three millions went to England. How this route will bear on the shipping of our port may be easily realized. Minneapolis to Liverpool via Chicago is 4413 miles, and via the Soo and Montreal only 3900, and the greater part of the export of this section of the west should find its way to this port. A saving of forty miles is also effected by the line between Minneapolis and Boston. The Sault route may confidently be looked to as one of the chief elements in the gradual increase of Montreal's grain and other exports from the Western States.

THE WINDSOR TERMINUS.

One of the leading features in connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway is the magnificent depot now completed on Windsor, Osborne and Donegani streets, called the New Bonaventure, as distinguished from the Bonaventure. On the first-named street it will have a frontage of 200 feet, extending from Osborne to Donegani streets. This is one of the finest railway stations on the continent. The waiting rooms front on Windsor street, but level with Osborne street. The train house is ninety feet wide and five hundred in length. The tracks on which the trains enter the station are 18 feet over the level of Donegani and Windsor streets. The principal entrance is on Donegani, where a long and commodious carriage way will be roofed in. On the corner of Donegani and Windsor streets a magnificent tower is built, ninety feet on the front of Windsor and seventeen feet on Donegani street, and rising to an altitude of 204 feet. Six stories of this tower are utilized for offices and four others in the Osborne street wing. This affords accommodation for the head-quarter offices of the company. The structure is built of Scottish stone in the style of architecture generally known as "Scottish masonry," imposing in style, but simple. Kitchens, dining rooms and quarters fitted up specially for immigrants are in the building, and the station is an ornament to the city, and a fitting terminus for so great a line in so great a city. It has been the aim of the company to make it such, and it has succeeded, as the plans were faithfully carried out. The tracks run out of the city not on the level, but on an elevated trestle work of iron.

THE ST. LAWRENCE BRIDGE.

One of the most striking features of the line in this vicinity is the superb cantilever bridge crossing the St. Lawrence from Windmill Point, Lachine, to Caughnawaga. This fine bridge consists of eight decked trusses, of 240 feet each, and two of 270, together with a pair of cantilever channel spans of 408 feet each, with a headway or height above the water of sixty feet. The bridge is of a peculiarly elegant design, that for the iron work being designed by the late Mr. C. Shaler Smith. The general plan adopted in the work is that of double intersection trusses. The roadway is on spans, and is set between trusses so as to ensure the greatest amount of stability and safety, and timber guards are erected throughout to prevent the possibility of accidents. The cantilever spans have curved cords above and below, and lightness and elegance is thus secured. The bridge stands on masonry piers of a most substantial character built on concrete foundations, and specially designed with reference to the ice which must press on them at the opening of the year. The masonry itself was built by Mr. R. G. Reid, and the iron work was constructed by the Dominion Bridge Company at the Lachine works. The whole work was executed under the personal supervision of Mr. Peterson, the chief engineer of the C.P.R. The bridge, which is of a novel character and combines the greatest amount of lightness and elegance with substantial strength, presents a fine appearance, and, being open, the view from it of the famous Lachine Rapids which it passes almost immediately above is very fine. The cost of this bridge was $1,200,000.

WAREHOUSING.

HOW GRAIN IS HANDLED IN MONTREAL.

FLOATING ELEVATORS AT WORK.

THE ESTABLISHMENT OF STATIONARY ELEVATORS.

No review of the commerce of Montreal would be complete without a substantial reference to her elevator accommodation. Rising from comparatively small beginnings, that trade has advanced to a front rank, and to-day is mentioned in the same category as New York, Baltimore, and other great ocean shipping ports of the neighboring Republic. No city in the Dominion ever has vied, or ever can hope to vie, with Montreal in her elevator and forwarding capabilities.

Of the old-time methods, previous to the introduction of steam elevators, 30 years ago, employed for the raising of grain from the lake barge to the ocean ship, tradition tells interesting tales. Men still in the business speak of the "bagging days," when the elevators consisted of human arms. Gangs of men, stationed one above another on "lifts," handed the grain from the barge to the vessel, in bags, having first measured it in a half bushel measure; two "sroked" half bushels were placed in each bag and lifted on board until 25 bags were sent up. This was called "a tally." Two of the bags were then weighed, and an average was made of the whole 25; one double gang of these "measurers" and "lifters," varying from 12 to 20 men each, would measure and fill 5000 bushels in 10 hours. The present elevators will do the same work in a single hour and at a fraction of the cost.

Such was the system—the old bagging and lifting system. Among the prominent and absolutely representative men in the business then were Messrs. Glass & Jones, James Henderson, George Chaffee, Black & Bonner, John and Hugh McLennan, George E. Jaques & Co., Michael Scanlon and David G. Thompson. Of these Mr. Hugh McLennan is still actively in the business, his brother John having retired on an ample fortune; Mr. Black, our present respected City Treasurer; Mr. Scanlon, now Superintendent of the Dominion Steamship Line, and D. G. Thompson of the Montreal Transportation Company, are all or very nearly all that were then active in the business still survivors of the ante-steam elevator days alluded to. The time was now approaching when a change was absolutely demanded. There were not wanting men who had long seen that Montreal as the head of ocean navigation must be the great entrepôt for grain on its passage to the ocean from the West; they were of the right metal, and took measures to accomplish their purpose.

THE FLOATING ELEVATOR SYSTEM.

In the year 1857 the "Montreal Steam Elevating Company" was organized with a subscribed capital of $80,000. John Esdaile, President; directors, H. L. Routh, Andrew Shaw, Jas. H. Henderson and C. J. Cusack. The object of the company was set forth at a meeting of the subscribers held in March of that year, by a resolution passed as follows, viz.: "That a company be now formed, having for its object the facilitating of the shipment and weighing of grain." Those who attended this meeting were all more or less interested in the forwarding and shipping business, and abundantly foresaw that for the development of the grain trade at this port, such facilities were indispensable. The company formed, contracts were immediately given out for the construction of a floating elevator, which was ready for the following spring (1858). The quantity shipped that and the following season was small, being altogether not over 500,000 bushels; but in the season of 1860 there was a marked increase in the quantity coming to this port for shipment so much so that it became apparent that additional elevators were required for the increasing trade. A second elevator was provided for the autumn trade of that year (1860), and at the same time a third was ordered to be in readiness for 1861, which year still showed an increase, necessitating two more elevators for the season of 1863, making five in all. For several years after this, the business decreased slightly until 1866. From 1866 onward to 1871 there was a more steady development of the trade, when over 10,000,000 bushels were handled and shipped, the plant of the company consisting of seven elevators.

In 1872 the company was recognized to meet the increasing needs of Montreal as a grain shipping port by amalgamation with a new company that had been formed under the name which it still bears, the "Montreal Elevating Company." The capital of the thus amalgamated company was placed at $160,000. The directorate consisted of: Andrew Allan, president; directors: Hugh McLennan, Daniel B. Butters, J. H. Joseph and A. T. Patterson. The primary object of the company was, by a fusion of capital, to furnish such facilities as would effect the prompt transshipment of all grain coming to the Port of Montreal at a moderate cost. In this the company have to all appearance succeeded. The company's plant to-day (1888) consists of 14 elevators, each costing $15,000, total $210,000, with an average capacity of 5000 bushels per hour. In 1880 the shipments of grain reached nearly 20,000,000 bushels, requiring the use of the whole of the elevators; and since that time the trade of the port has required the same more or less continuously.

Recapitulation is unnecessary, suffice it to say that from a petty single floating elevator in 1857, handling only half a million bushels of grain, but at the same time sufficient for the port's requirements, so much has our trade increased that at present we find 14 elevators in active requisition, with a handling capacity altogether of 70,000 bushels per hour, employing a substantial and commensurate portion of our laboring population, and costing in the aggregate $210,000.

Mr. Andrew Allan has remained president of the amalgamated company since its formation. The present directors are Messrs. Hugh McLennan, A. T. Patterson, J. A. Crane and Alex. McDougall, the latter being manager.

THE WAREHOUSE OR STATIONARY ELEVATORS.

More important if possible than floating elevators to the grain trade, are stationary elevators. The pioneers of the stationary elevator business were Messrs. Ira Gould & Sons, who in the year 1848 erected a commodious warehouse on the canal basin in connection with their extensive flour mills widely known almost from that day to this as "Gould's City Mills." Shortly after this Mr. McDougall erected the "Canal Mills" with a grain warehouse attached, and, at a later date, the Ogilvie Brothers, now on a larger scale than the combined capacity of their two predecessors. These three milling firms have a capacity for nearly 1,000,000 bushels of grain, a great part of which is available for the use of Montreal grain dealers who require storage room. The "Montreal Warehousing Company," whose establishment marked the next step in the trade, was the first firm that provided storage for grain as a business enterprise, confining themselves to storage only. Their extensive premises on both sides of the canal have accommodation for upwards of 1,000,000 bushels of grain, besides large quantities of general merchandise. But the latest and most complete grain warehouses are those of the Canadian Pacific Railway near Dalhousie square, which are on a scale commensurate with the business of the railway, and in keeping with every other work undertaken by the managers; they have a capacity for about 1,250,000 bushels.

The amount of capital invested in those various elevators is moderately estimated at $2,000,000.

The grain brought to Montreal by craft is not as a general rule put into warehouses. It is a great saving in expense to the receiver to put his grain direct from the inland craft into the ocean craft, and he endeavors to do so whenever practicable. With rail carried grain it is otherwise, it being more convenient and less costly to send the cars to warehouse. The total quantity of grain passed through these warehousing elevators the past year was about 10,000,000 bushels, which quantity, it is expected, will be largely exceeded during the coming year. For a stationary elevator to handle in a year ten bushels for every bushel capacity, is a very moderate calculation, and when trade is brisk twenty bushels is not out of the way.

It will thus be seen that both as regards floating and stationary elevators, Montreal is well equipped for work, and abundantly capable of handling the greatly enhanced traffic that may reasonably be looked for through the opening of the Great North-West, the taking off the canal tolls and eventually the making of Montreal a free port.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Montreal has undoubtedly become the supply centre for boots and shoes for the entire Dominion owing to the large number of its factories, the superior quality of goods turned out, and the fact that a large number of our shoe houses buy goods largely in Quebec and elsewhere and dispose of them in this city. There are thirty establishments in Montreal for the making of boots and shoes. Fifteen of these may be designated as large; the rest are of less importance.

The aggregate number of persons employed in these factories is about 4000 of both sexes, and the number dependent for subsistence upon the boot and shoe industry may safely be set down as 15,000. As a general rule no children under 14 years of age are employed, and about 25 per cent. are grown up girls or women. There are not less than 275 different grades of goods produced, the average number of pairs made by the large factories being 1200 to 1500 per day. The value of that large and varied per diem yield is nearly if not quite $20,000, or a fair average cost price of $1.20 per pair; and reckoning 300 working days to a year, the average production per annum of the thirty factories in this city would be somewhat over 4,500,000 pairs, valued at $5,400,000. It is reckoned that 94 per cent. of the quantity manufactured in Montreal, or 4,230,000 pairs, is consumed in Canada; 4 per cent. being exported to Great Britain and 2 per cent. to foreign countries. Some years ago a good trade was done with the West Indies, but it has now greatly declined owing, the manufacturers say, to the action of the Dominion Government which has increased the duty on raw material. The Americans have taken the trade from the Canadians. With one manufacturer in College street, that trade aggregated over $50,000 per annum.

Nevertheless the increase in manufactures and trade in the last ten years has been most encouraging and equal to any other branch of manufacturing industry in this city.

The machinery introduced in the factories in late years places Montreal in this respect on a par with any other manufacturing centre in the world. Among these are lasting, nailing and crimping machines. The first machine will nail a man's shoe in eight seconds, and the work it performs is considered 50 per cent. more durable and better done than hand-made work. With the new crimping machine an experienced hand will crimp 300 pairs of uppers per day and do the work 50 per cent. better than ever it has been done by hand.

The following enumeration indicates with tolerable accuracy, the numbers of the various labor-saving machines in use in Montreal, by steam power, in the boot and shoe manufactories:

	1883.	1888.
Sewing Machines.....	675	750
Pegging Machines.....	34	45
Sole Sewers.....	28	34
Sole Cutters.....	28	29
Heeling Machines.....	8	12
Eyeletting Machines.....	40	53
Punching Machines.....	28	32
Skiving Machines.....	75	87
Rolling Machines.....	34	43
Heel Burnishing Machines.....	23	29
Edge.....	23	29
Sand Paper Burnishing Machines.....	25	33
Beating-out Machines.....	17	23

Notwithstanding the fact that the continuous increase of improved labor-saving machinery seems to have been to the advantage of the general public, the wages paid have remained almost stationary for the past few years. An ordinary machine hand makes $12, $14 and even $16 per week, and the average wages made are $12 per week or $48 per month. The female hands make an average of $7, and none are paid less than $3 per week.

It may safely be stated that there are at least five million dollars invested in the boot and shoe industry in this city.

A matter that cannot fail to have an important bearing on the boot and shoe industry in Montreal is the establishment of a for boot and shoe makers in connection with the free evening Industrial classes established in this city by the Council of Arts and Manufactures. The class was opened last autumn and has been attended with great regularity during the winter. Instruction is given in the French and English languages, and illustrated by specimens of materials and workmanship. The classes treat specially the following:

Patterns for flat, half-curved and curved lasts, reduction of a square, reduction of back part of slipper pattern, enlargement of square, enlargement of slipper pattern, patterns of laced boot, laced boot foxed, crimped congress boot, foxed congress boot, buttoned boot, buttoned boot foxed, crimped long boot and Napoleon boot.

As the object of the class is to teach pattern making, the pupils are required to actually make the patterns in the class-room. Many of the pupils express themselves as being deeply grateful for this means of instruction, and the work turned out shows that they have not failed to benefit by it. The establishment of practical technical classes of this kind has had a most beneficial effect on industries in Europe, and if it be continued here there is no reason why it should not be a valuable factor in helping to maintain the supremacy of Montreal as the leading centre in Canada for the manufacture of boots and shoes.

With thirty boot and shoe factories employing over four thousand persons of both sexes, and with a capital of over five million dollars invested in them, Montreal, foremost in every other branch of commercial industry, need not blush for her trade in footwear, when compared with other cities of this great and mighty continent, producing as it does 4,500,000 pairs per annum, representing a capital of $5,400,000, and embracing at least seventy-five different kinds, from the heavy congress with iron nails to the dainty little slipper fit for angels' feet; besides supplying the Dominion with about 4,250,000 pairs while exporting the balance to Great Britain and other far away countries, it can fairly claim the first place in Canada. Taking all and all no less than 15,000 people are dependent directly or indirectly upon this particular trade, and as twenty-five per cent. of these are grown up girls and women it gives a chance to many who otherwise would be deprived of the means to either gain a livelihood for themselves or assist in the support of the family to which they belong.

TANNING.

The tanning interest of Montreal has ever been among its most important, and will so continue as long as the city holds her present proud position as a manufacturing and commercial centre. According to the census of 1881, there were 50 sole leather tanneries in the Dominion, the larger number being situated in Quebec Province. Of these thirty were engaged alone in supplying the trade of Montreal proper. But in addition and according to the same census there were in the city and vicinity, all told, 23 tanneries, employing in aggregate 852 operatives, to whom was paid in total annually $244,000. It is sufficient to remark that the manufacture of leather in Montreal has not retrograded thus far in the decade. The quantity of tan bark used aggregates annually 50,000 cords, grown chiefly in the Eastern Townships.

HISTORY OF THE BANKS IN MONTREAL.

ONE OF THE LARGEST IN AMERICA.

PRESENT SITUATION OF THE CANADIAN BANKS.

If we take the forward movement of the Canadian Banks as an indication of the prosperity of Canada, there are good reasons to be proud of our country. At all events, the gradual increase of banking operations is the best proof of an increasing commerce in a country.

Such increase has been altogether extraordinary in Canada during the late years. The following table, which gives the ensemble of the situation of the Canadian Banks to the 30th of November, 1889, is a proof of the correctness of our saying, and sufficient to strengthen the faith of all in the astonishing progress accomplished by our native land.

On the 30th of September, 1887, the bank assets amounted to $233,352,748. On the corresponding date in 1889, the assets had reached $258,483,038; an increase of more than $25,000,000 in two years.

In September, 1887, the surplus of the liabilities over the assets, amounted to $80,586,908; in the same month 1889 that surplus was $81,166,042. A very important item is that concerning loans to the trade and to industrial corporations. In September, 1887, discounts to the trade figured up to $140,877,007; in September, 1889, they reached $149,154,645. The demands from industrial corporations were, in September, 1887, $15,613,024. In 1889 those demands were $22,421,952.

As to public deposits, i.e., the funds of the trade and manufactures entrusted to the bank for immediate call, they were, in Sept., 1887, $107,853,249; in the corresponding month of 1889 they were $124,767,764.

The above are very eloquent figures. However, let us judge best by regarding the last statement of the principal banks doing business in the Commercial Metropolis of Canada.

The Canadian banking system is modelled partly upon that of the United States and partly upon that of Scotland. The limited liability attached to our banks, and their method of doing business are American, while the comparatively large capital, the note circulation and the numerous agencies are Scottish in origin.

It is to be expected, since Quebec is the oldest province, that, in it Canada's first bank would be established, and Montreal being Quebec's most important city, it is but natural that we should look within its limits for this pioneer institution. We do not look in vain, for we have here, under the shadow of Mount Royal, the earliest established Canadian bank, which is to-day, not merely the largest in the Dominion, but the largest on this continent, as far as capital is concerned.

THE HISTORY OF THE BANK OF MONTREAL.

This bank was established in 1817 by a number of leading merchants and other prominent men of this city. It began operations with a capital of £87,500 or $350,000, the intention of its founders being to bring its capital up to $1,000,000. The smallness of this capital compared with what the capital now is, shows that, even in those days, Canadians were modest in their estimates of their country's future.

The bank had no charter when first it began business, it being a matter of considerable delay to obtain such authority in those days, for not only had the Provincial Legislature to sanction the charter, but the Home Government's ratification had to be secured. The absence of the charter made the institution a private bank, and, long-headed men that they were, the organizers prepared against the consequences of failure even in the first flush of hope. To protect their private fortunes in case of trouble their first notes issued bore words to the effect that they were "to be paid out of the funds of the bank, and no other."

The bank was incorporated in 1818, and its first authorized issue was dated January 1st of the same year. It may not be generally known that the name of this institution was at first "The Montreal Bank," the inversion to "Bank of Montreal" taking place later.

THE FIRST OFFICIALS were: President, John Grey, a retired dry goods merchant; cashier, John Griffin; directors, Hon. John Richardson, his son-in-law, George Auldjo, Samuel Gerard, Thomas Thain, Horatio Gates, John Molson, Thomas A. Turner, William Ermatinger, Zabdiel Thayer and David David.

For some time the bank found it difficult to get the French population to accept its bills. The habitants had suffered severely through the assignats, issued under the French regime, and redeemed at only a fraction of their nominal value. They naturally feared a return to paper money, and for some time offered a passive resistance to the new circulating medium and continued to count down their crowns and caroluses to one another as their fathers had done for generations. For quite a time, so dubious were the habitants about the solidity of the bank, it was the custom of the Molsons to endorse the bills which they themselves paid out, but finally the country people lost their prejudice, and the bank prospered.

This prosperity was not lasting. In 1824 Samuel Gerard was made president, and under his management, or rather mismanagement, the capital of the bank was much impaired, and in 1827, when John Molson became president, nearly one half of the capital was lost. In 1837, owing to the American panic, the Bank of Montreal suspended specie payment for a time, but in 1861 it was well under way towards its present efficiency. That its scope was extending is shown by the fact that in the same year the proviso, that every director should be domiciled within nine miles of Montreal, was done away with. In the same year, also, the name of cashier was changed to the less plebeian designation, General Manager, and the annuity and guarantee fund established. The fund enabled the bank to guarantee its own clerks, and was afterwards merged into the Pension Fund Association.

At no time did the bank so rapidly progress as when it was under the management of Mr. E. H. King. This was due largely to the fact that circumstances were such as to give him many opportunities, and that he knew how to avail himself of them. Mr. King held office late in the sixties and early in the seventies. At that time the United States was just emerging from the smoke of an unparalleled conflict, its strength well-nigh spent and its trade nearly paralyzed. Specie was at a high premium and the money market feverish and panicky. Here was Mr. King's opportunity, and with consummate skill and, in the opinion of many, somewhat unscrupulous measures, he made himself master of the New York gold market, being the only Canadian who has ever done so. He had large sums at his command, and could at will tighten or depress the market by purchases or sales, and in the interest of his bank never hesitated to do either.

THE "GOLD DRAY" STORY

will be old to many, but to many also it will be new, and will bear repetition as showing one of Mr. King's most masterly strokes.

He had a large amount of foreign exchange on hand. New York had very little gold, and what it had Mr. King bought up. He then gave out that he had done this in order to ship it to England, and, loading it in a dray, had it carted through the leading streets of New York in sight of the whole population and stored on board an ocean steamer. The natural consequence was that gold at once rose to a high premium. He then sold both his gold and exchange at high figures, realizing a handsome profit therefrom, and removed the gold from the vessel for delivery to the purchasers.

At that time the capital of the bank was $6,000,000, but in 1871, on a motion by Mr. Wm. Murray, at the annual meeting, authority was given to the directors to double the capital at their convenience. On January 15th, 1872, the capital was increased by $2,000,000, and on November 27th of the same year the final $4,000,000 of stock was sold to such shareholders as wanted it at 25 per cent. premium, the remainder being sold in the open market. The bank realized about $1,500,000 which was added to the reserves. Mr. King's resignation followed shortly afterwards, and he removed to London, Eng., where he is chairman of the advisory board of the English branch of the Bank of Montreal.

Shortly after the establishment of the Bank of Montreal the Bank of Canada was started with a capital of £300,000 or about $1,500,000. In 1824 a traveler writing about these institutions commends them for the caution they exhibited and their careful business ways, characteristics which, when the banks amalgamated, they did not lose, and which to this day the Bank of Montreal retains.

The most important of Canadian monetary institutions is without any doubt the Bank of Montreal. This bank is to Canada what the Bank of England is to England, and the Bank of France to France. And it is admitted in Canadian financial circles that this bank is the thermometer which gives the correct temperature of Canadian capital.

During the last nine years the net profits of the Bank were as follows, for the six months ending on the 31st October, each year :

The above statement speaks more by itself than any comment that could be made on the standing of the Bank of Montreal, and the financial status of Canada.

HISTORY OF LA BANQUE DU PEUPLE.

If we except the ill-fated City Bank which was established about the year 1821, with a capital of $1,200,000, no other bank was established in Montreal until 1835. In that year Viger, Dewitt & Co. organized La Banque du Peuple with a paid-up capital of $300,000, which in 1844 was raised to $800,000. To review the changes in its capital in a sentence, it may be said that in 1861 authority was obtained to a further issue of 16,000 shares of $50 each, making the capital $1,600,000, and that in 1885 this capital was reduced by 25 per cent., to $1,200,000, which it now is. This bank is unique, being on a principle foreign to British usage and pertaining more to that of France. In the words of Mr. C. S. Cherrier, spoken at the annual meeting of 1884, "The directors are the sole members of the corporation, and the shareholders are capitalists who lend money to the bank, the directors of which are personally liable for repayment." There is no election of directors by shareholders. The board fills any vacancies that may occur.

This bank is counted amongst the most prosperous institutions of Canada. It is an essentially Canadian bank in every detail of its organization. The report of its business for the period ending 28th February, 1889, is of great interest. The reserve fund of the bank is now of $350,000, and the directors are confident of reaching in a short future $600,000, i.e. 50 per cent. of their capital.

THE BANK OF BRITISH NORTH AMERICA, which was established by Royal Charter in 1840, with a capital of £1,000,000 or $4,866,616. According to the "Act relating to the Banks and Banking," 34 Vict (1871), section 58. "In the event of the property and assets of the bank becoming insufficient to pay its debts and liabilities, the shareholders of the Bank shall be liable for the deficiency so far as that each shareholder shall be so liable to an amount (over and above any amount not paid up on their respective shares) equal to the amount of their shares respectively.

This is known as the double liability section, and applies to all banks except that of British North America and La Banque du Peuple, both banks being governed in this and a few other respects by the terms of their original charters. Shareholders in these banks are liable only to the par value of their shares.

The head office of this Bank is in England. It is a first-class monetary institution, whose managers have contributed very much by their sound liberality to the rapid development of the trade and manufactures of Canada. The last statement of the affairs of this important bank gives the following interesting figures for the year 1887.—

which began doing business in 1853 under "The Free Banking Act" of Sir Francis Hincks, obtained a charter in 1855, and had at that time a paid-up capital of $370,000. It has now a paid-up capital of $2,000,000, of which $500,000 was paid up in October, 1871, and $500,000 in the same month a year afterwards.

This bank has had a very successful career. During the whole period of its existence it has paid dividends which were almost always 8 per cent. In 1871-72, after the issue of its new stock, the bank began to enlarge its influence and usefulness, and from being a merely local institution, aspired to become a Dominion corporation. In this effort it has also met with success. It has now nineteen branch offices, in addition to the head office, and has a rest of $875,000.

The "Free Banking Act" was passed in Canada ten years before the National Bank Act of the United States, which closely resembles it. Among other privileges it permitted any firm to do a banking business without a charter, even to the extent of issuing notes, but such notes had to be secured by Government bonds deposited with the Government. Several houses besides the Molsons Bank availed themselves of this Act, but as it was not hard to obtain a bank charter, which saved the locking up of funds in government bonds, the Act fell into disuse and is no longer in force.

It is always gratifying to chronicle steady progress in the career of any financial institution, especially one so important as one of our leading banks, because their progress and well doing bear a quiet but convincing testimony to the growth of trade throughout the Dominion. We find that the percentage of profit for the year ending 30th September, 1889, reaches 13 11-16 per cent. upon the paid-up capital, and that, after paying dividends to the amount of $160,000, the General Manager was able to add $75,000 to the Rest and then leave a surplus to carry forward.

HISTORY OF THE MERCHANTS BANK.

The Merchants Bank of Canada was incorporated in 1861 with an authorized capital of $2,000,000. The promoters of the scheme would seem to have found it difficult to obtain the $200,000 of paid-up capital necessary to the establishment of the bank; for in 1863 we find them petitioning for authority to begin business with only $100,000 paid-up. This permission was accorded them, and in 1864 the bank commenced operating.

In connection with this petition it may be of interest to note that among the men who pleaded poverty and inability to raise more than $100,000 were Sir Hugh (then Hugh) Allan, Harrison Stephens, William Edmondstone, Andrew Allan, John Smith, Ira Gould and Robert Anderson, any one of whom in later years could have given his individual check for the deficit without difficulty. The capital of this bank was increased in 1867, by $1,000,000, in 1868, by $2,000,000, and in 1869 by $2,000,000, and subsequently to the total of $9,000,000. In 1868 the bank had taken over the assets of the Commercial Bank of Kingston, among which were Detroit and Milwaukee railway bonds, to the extent of nearly $2,000,000. In this action the bank seems to have made a mistake, for it lost by the bonds, and this loss, together with others, necessitated a reduction of capital to $6,000,000. The reduction took effect in May, 1878, and the number of directors was at the same time increased from 7 to 9.

A prosperous institution, and at the same time an honor to Canadian finance. The total profits earned by that bank during the twelve months ending on the 31st May, 1889, was $617,858. From that amount $405,944 were paid in dividends, and $215,000 carried to the reserve; $5,484 were transferred to credit of Profit and Loss for 1889-90. The high level of the business of the bank was well maintained during the last period, and there are indications of further progress during the running period.

HISTORY OF LA BANQUE JACQUES CARTIER.

This bank got its charter in 1861 and began business with $700,000 of its authorized $1,000,000 capital paid-up. It prospered and increased its capital to $2,000,000. Then reverses ensued, a reduction of the capital to $1,000,000 followed in 1877, the bank also getting authority to amalgamate with any other bank that was willing to do so. Two dark years followed, and in 1879 the capital was reduced to $500,000, when Fortune once more smiled and the bank has prospered ever since.

In one of the amendments to the charter was a clause that indicates the loyalty of the Franco-British subject. No alien was to have a vote in the bank, no matter how many shares he might hold. With the passage of the "Bank Act" of 1888 this clause disappeared.

There was a great deal of trouble in 1876 over the affairs of this bank. The directors were accused of gross carelessness in management, and as a compromise, without, however, acknowledging any justice in the accusation, made over $250,000 in shares to Jacques Grenier as trustee for the shareholders, for whom the shares were to be sold, and among whom the proceeds were to be divided, the directors getting no share in the profits, but being promised immunity from prosecution for any act of mismanagement up to June, 1875.

The last report of this institution is most encouraging. The increasing confidence of the public in this bank has resulted in an increase of $261,482.37 in the deposits and circulation. The profits of the last year were $42,276, out of which dividends to the amount of $35,000 were paid, at the rate of seven per cent., besides a sum of $7,276 carried to its reserve. Like its sister banks of Montreal, La Banque Jacques Cartier enjoys success, as the following figures will show :

THE VILLE MARIE BANK.

The Ville Marie Bank was established in 1872 with an authorized capital of $1,000,000, of which $202,000 was paid up. It got into difficulties, and in 1880 was authorized to liquidate. New management however took possession, and in 1881 another Act was obtained authorizing the reduction of the capital to $500,000, of which $478,430 is now paid-up.

The operations of this bank for the twelve months ending 31st May, 1889, have netted a profit of $48,419. During that period the bank has paid dividends at the rate of 7 per cent., to the amount of $33,490 and carried $6,000 to the next year.

There has been a considerable increase in the business of this bank during the period which makes the object of the following statement. The profits were $10,000 larger than for the last period. The bank is in the way of prosperity.

THE HOCHELAGA BANK.

Since 1873 no bank has been established in Montreal. In that year the Hochelaga Bank was incorporated with a paid-up capital of $203,000, which has since been increased to $710,100. Its authorized capital is $1,000,000.

This is one of our good financial institutions which renders valuable services to the trade. Its clients are numerous, and are a source of great profit to its shareholders. Its operations are carried on on a sound basis coupled with great liberality.

The following figures are a demonstration of its prosperity :

THE CITY AND DISTRICT SAVINGS BANK.

Distinguished from the other banks by charter and method of making Government returns is the Montreal Savings Bank. This institution was announced May 25th, 1846, under the patronage of the Catholic Bishop. It obtained a charter in 1871, and has an authorized capital of $2,000,000, of which $600,000 is paid-up. The bank has no note circulation, but is authorized to own bank stocks, a privilege denied to other banks.

This banking institution has been in existence for forty-two years, and they were years of uninterrupted success. The last yearly report shows a state of full prosperity and fully justifies the confidence of the public in the bank.

A close examination of the accounts will show that this institution has always been "the savings bank" with its original character, a bank for small depositors.

Out of 42,466 deposit accounts, there are 25,320 deposits of $50 and under, against 837 deposits of $1,600.00 and under.

LA BANQUE NATIONALE.

Like most of our French Canadian financial institutions this bank has alternately seen bad and good days, the cause of which it would be out of place to comment in this book ; but we can say to-day that it can support comparison in the money market and render most valuable services to the mercantile community.

The profits netted by the bank during the last period amounted to $124,770 which must be considered altogether promising, for the successful future of the bank.

The Profit and Loss Account for the year 1888-89 stands as follows, viz. : —

THE BANK PREMISES.

It is natural to judge by appearances and the advice of Polonius, "Costly thy habits as thy purse can buy," is full of sound sense. The banking institutions of Montreal have recognized the value of appearances, and their solid exteriors are soothing indications of an equal solidity within.

Montreal is famous for its stately buildings, but even in this city, the banks are one of the sights shown to visitors. With three exceptions the banks are situated on the two parallel streets, St. James and Notre Dame, and by far the larger number are on the former magnificent highway.

The following are the banks on St. James street from west to east : Merchants, Molsons, Savings, Toronto, Commerce, Ville Marie, British North America, Nova Scotia, Montreal, National, People's and the Hochelaga.

The following are on Place d'Armes square : Jacques Cartier and Ontario. Two, the Quebec bank and the Merchants Bank of Halifax, are on Notre Dame street.

EIGHT BRANCH BANKS

have been established in Montreal, some in recent years, which carry on quite an extensive business. These branches are : The Canadian Bank of Commerce, head office in Toronto, capital $6,000,000; the Bank of Toronto, head office, Toronto, capital $2,000,000; the Union Bank, Quebec, capital $1,200,000; La Banque Nationale, Quebec, capital $1,200,000; the Bank of Nova Scotia, Halifax, capital $1,114,300; the Merchants Bank of Halifax, capital $1,000,000; the Quebec Bank, Quebec, capital $2,500,000; and the Ontario Bank, Toronto, capital $1,500,000.

BANKING.

ENORMOUS INCREASE IN DEPOSITS.

SEVENTY MILLION DOLLARS TO WORK WITH.

The total capital of the eight Montreal banks, including the Bank of British North America, whose head office in Canada is in this city, is $27,554,396, with reserve funds amounting to $10,309,595, forming a total of $37,863,961, the capital and reserve funds of all the other banks in the Dominion amounting to $40,442,182.

Much of the capital of the Montreal Banks is invested outside this Province, the four principal institutions having sixty-eight branches in Ontario, seven in New Brunswick, five in Manitoba, four in British Columbia, two in Nova Scotia, besides agencies in New York, Chicago and San Francisco, and in London.

The Banks having branches outside the Province are the Montreal, the Molsons, the Bank of British North America and the Merchants. The smaller banks, namely, the People's the Hochelaga, the Jacques Cartier and the Ville Marie, have together twenty-four branches in the Province of Quebec, but none outside the Province.

The city banks, it will be seen, are in no sense local institutions, but extend their operations and influence over the whole of the Dominion from Halifax to Vancouver. They have in all one hundred and eighteen branches, besides the foreign agencies already mentioned.

The extension of railroads throughout the Dominion has contributed largely to the establishment of bank agencies, and these in their turn have contributed to the prosperity of the railways and of the country at large. The facilities afforded by banks and railways to various agricultural, commercial and manufacturing enterprises, have awakened to a new life the dormant energies of the people of the whole Dominion, and brought into closer communion the distant provinces, which, twenty-five years ago, were struggling, isolated communities.

Looking back only one generation the growth of the Banks having their head offices in Montreal may well, as has been said, give confidence in the future. At the same time the serious losses arising from inexperience, mismanagement, and other causes, losses which will be referred to later on, should not fail to act as a warning to those in charge of the monetary institutions of the city.

Looking first at the bright side of the picture, there is presented below, in tabular form, the progress made during the last thirty years.

Capital.	Deposits.	Circulation.	Discounts.	No. of Banks.	No. of Branches.
1853—13,457,904	6,123,958	6,205,866	1858—26,803,031	5	39
1868—18,781,283	20,388,171	2,462,317	1868—28,167,554	8	68
1878—33,895,111	30,718,571	10,147,426	1878—58,746,750	11	112
1888—27,554,396	43,489,428	13,503,531	1888—53,245,217	8	118

The statement of deposits does not include these of the Government, except for 1858, at which date the bank returns did not distinguish such deposits.

It will be seen that in 1868 the circulation fell to $2,462,317. This was partly due to the large influx of American silver coin which, to a great extent, took the place of bank notes, and was only removed in 1870, and partly to the use by the Bank of Montreal of Provincial and Dominion notes from 1866 to 1871, at which latter date the total outstanding circulation of the leading bank was only $182,683. The other banks having declined the offer of the Government to pay them a commission to abandon their own circulation and to use that of the Government, the attempt to monopolize the bank circulation was abandoned. The Bank of Montreal resumed its own issues, and by the 30th April, 1872, had an outstanding circulation of $3,116,037. The increase in bank circulation since that date shows how remarkable has been the development of Canadian trade.

The greatest advance, however, is seen in the increased deposits, which have risen from $6,153,958 in 1858 to $43,439,428 in 1888.

Over twenty millions of these deposits bear no interest; adding to this amount the reserve funds, over ten millions, and the circulation, over thirteen millions, it is found that the city banks have (including capital) the use of over seventy million dollars to earn dividends on $27,554,396, to say nothing of the profits on interest-bearing deposits.

The apparent decrease in current loans is much more than made up by the extra amount loaned to corporations and invested in other securities, while the wants of the mercantile and manufacturing interests have been fairly supplied without the undue expansion which existed in former years.

Upon the whole it may safely be stated that at no former period did the earning power of our city banks equal that of to-day, good management alone being required to realize satisfactory results.

One must not, at the same time, shut one's eyes to the fact that there is a dark side to the picture. Since 1878 four banks, namely, the Mechanics, the Metropolitan, the

Consolidated and the Exchange, have been wound up, entailing a loss to the shareholders of nearly

FIVE MILLIONS OF DOLLARS.

The Consolidated and Metropolitan paid dividends to their shareholders, while in the case of the Mechanics and Exchange, all capital was lost and the double liability enforced.

Within this period four city banks have reduced their stock, namely, the Merchants, the Jacques Cartier, the Ville Marie and the People's, the total reductions amounting to over five million dollars. It is proper however to state that there has been a change in the administration in every case where the stock has been reduced and more prudent management introduced, notably in the case of the Merchants Bank, which is now one of the most prosperous monetary institutions in the Dominion.

The losses above referred to may suggest the question whether the business of banking in Canada is extra hazardous, or whether the losses have arisen from incompetence or dishonesty? To this it may be answered that banking is at all times more or less hazardous, particularly in a new country, and that while considerable losses have arisen from incompetence and downright dishonesty, the greater portion have resulted from undue expansion and a too sanguine view of the various enterprises in which ambitious men have been engaged.

The success which has marked the administration of the city's leading Bank in view of the dangers through which it passed, may well challenge a passing notice. For seventy years its doors have opened with the regularity of the rising sun, and it has not failed to pay its regular dividend within the memory of the "oldest inhabitant." Some disappointed shareholders occasionally attack the management when the dividend is not to their liking, just as some African tribes whip their gods when the weather is unfavorable, but the gods do not seem to feel the chastisement.

Another institution, the Bank of British North America, while perhaps less ambitious, has had a most successful career, and stands, in point of credit, on a par with its great neighbor. Having the bulk of its shareholders in Great Britain, it is entirely removed from the arena of local speculation, and thereby escapes the April storm through which its elder sister has to pass. And it is here worthy of remark that the Bank of British North America has furnished the Bank of Montreal with some of its ablest officers, among whom may be mentioned D. Davidson, E. H. King and C. F. Smithers. Before closing this notice of our banking institutions it may be of interest to compare their business and resources with those of the banks in the Queen City of the West, the business centre of the great Province of Ontario, and the only other banking centre of any pretensions in the Dominion,

The city of Toronto has seven banks (leaving out the Federal, now winding up), whose principal resources and liabilities are as follows:—

Capital.....	$14,002,022
Deposits.....	32,616,507
Circulation.....	8,177,192
Discounts.....	41,825,450
Rests.....	4,245,000
Branches.....	100

Reviewing carefully the above figures it is seen that, while the Toronto banks, although comparatively small in the total of their business, are doing more business in proportion to their capital, they are still working at a higher pressure, and in the event of a serious crisis, such as occurred in 1857, the country would have to look largely to Montreal to sustain its credit.

The Toronto banks, like those of Montreal, have in some cases been very successful and in others very unfortunate. The Bank of Toronto, under the management of Mr. Hague, now of the Merchants, rose to a position of great strength, which his successors have well maintained, while the Dominion Bank, under Mr. Bethune, has had a career of remarkable prosperity. But there is a dark side to the picture as in the case of the Montreal banks. The first important Canadian bank to suspend payment was the Bank of Upper Canada in 1866, its capital of nearly four millions being entirely lost. Later came the suspension of the Royal Canadian, and last of all the Central Bank collapsed equalled only in point of mismanagement by that of the Exchange Bank here.

It is to be hoped that for many years to come no like failures will occur, and that those entrusted with the management of banking institutions here and elsewhere, will discharge their important duties with honesty and sound judgment.

POST OFFICE STATISTICS.

Montreal is the great forwarding centre for the postal service of the Dominion, and as that service has expanded so has the Montreal Post Office increased and is still increasing to meet the largely grown and still growing demands upon it. When forty years ago a gentleman, now holding a responsible position in the Post Office, entered upon his duties, the office was a small place, situated on St. François Xavier street, and the staff consisted of thirteen men and six carriers only. But forty years have wrought many changes, not only in the largely increased population of the Dominion, in general and of Montreal in particular, but in strides of progress made by the Postal department, so that the former humble establishment has developed into the present building on St. James street, and the staff has grown to 187 men, including 65 letter carriers; and whereas in those old days six or seven thousand letters passing through the office would be considered a heavy day, the number now reaches the vast sum of 122,000 to 125,000 daily. The increase referred to will be seen at a glance by a comparison of the following figures, showing the difference made in the short period of ten years between December, 1878, and December, 1887, of the weekly average of letters and papers posted in Montreal.

1878.....	13,594	966	23,375	37,935
1887.....	45,790	2,618	52,625	101,041

	Newspapers.	Total letters, newspapers, etc.	Number of letter carriers employed.
1878.....	1,216	50,051	47
1887.....	32,636	133,677	65

The average daily number of bags of postal matter that leave the Montreal Post Office is about 500, and the number of incoming about 450. About 98 bags of mails, and one or two cases of parcel post arrive weekly from Europe, by the Canadian, Inman, Cunard, and General Transatlantic mail service, while bags also arrive at irregular periods from the West Indies and Bermuda, and the organization of the daily postal car service between Vancouver and Montreal brings daily increasing quantities of correspondence between Canada, Japan and India. In connection with the Postal system is the Money Order Office, which shows the same rapid increase.

The following interesting statement prepared by Mr. H. A. Bourret, superintendent of the department, shows the nature of the business transacted in those years in the Montreal Money Order Exchange Office.

The savings bank system was engrafted on to the postal department in Montreal on the 1st April, 1868, and has shewn by its increase in depositors and amounts the appreciation of the people of the advantages and inducements to thrift thus offered.

The above tables shew that the total increase in money order and savings bank business in these three years is $433,307. These postal statistics are interesting as furnishing a further proof of the increase in population, wealth and commercial importance of the city of Montreal.

With the growth of population a necessity had sprang up for affording the public greater facilities than had hitherto been provided for the transmission by mail of small articles in packages, frequently intended for destinations not readily accessible by any other means of conveyance than that afforded by the Post Office. To meet this necessity, provision was made for the transmission by mail between all places in Canada, from 1st February, 1888, of matter of the nature adverted to.

RETAIL TRADE.

MONTREAL COMPARES WELL WITH OTHER LARGE CITIES.

It is with difficulty that the present generation of Montrealers, or strangers to Montreal, can form any idea of the enormous and rapid growth of the retail trade of the city. Walking along Notre Dame, St. James, or St. Catherine street, one sees at the present day evidences of Montreal's prosperity in the large and well-kept retail stores. Montreal's retail stores now compare most favorably with those of any city of its size in the world for the quality of the stocks kept, and the attractive manner in which the goods are displayed. Very different was the state of matters in the beginning and during many decades of the present century, when as yet what is now Craig street was represented by a creek, crossed which afforded communication with the city proper and the few existing suburbs on the higher ground. Business at the period spoken of was almost entirely confined to St. Paul street, and was more especially clustered around that portion from Jacques Cartier to what is now Custom House Square. On Notre Dame street there were, about the year 1820, some three or four groceries and one dry goods store, while there might be some half-a-dozen others on the cross streets between St. Paul and Notre Dame. On St. James street were the residences of the well-to-do portion of the population, stores on that street being at that time unknown. There was a number of small taverns, chiefly kept by Germans, on St. Lawrence Main street, in which were kept small stocks of coarse groceries to retail to those in their immediate neighborhood, and a few of the same class may have been scattered along the other outlets of the city.

After the war, business in 1815 and the following years became somewhat more systematized. Previous to this the old established houses of Forsyth, Richardson & Co., Girard, Parker & Ogilvy, predecessors of Gillespie, Moffat & Co.; Maitland, Gardiner and Auldjo, and a few of minor note did the importing, and supplied customers with dry goods hardware, liquors and groceries. But the retail organization was very imperfect. The hardware dealers, with the grocers and crockery men, sold both wholesale and retail; the wholesale, except in liquors, being very small. About the bottom of the new market at Jacques Cartier square there was a cluster of retail houses, dry goods stores, and another cluster filled most of the space from St. Peter street to Custom House square. These were all French Canadians, keeping small stocks and depending for their daily supply on the houses of Robertson, Masson & Co., who imported nothing but dry goods. These shops were small, and usually had many doors and no windows. Near these doors, in front of the shop, the shopkeeper and his clerks ensconced themselves, ready to pounce upon the who escaping from the clutches of a clerk at the first door, was immediately seized upon at the second. Vainly would he protest that this was the same store; he was led to believe that he could not trust the evidence of his own eyes, and almost invariably, before he had run the gauntlet of the half-dozen doors, he had made one or more purchases. Many were the good-natured tricks played upon the habitant, who, however, did not always come off second best. Notwithstanding the inconveniences and evident discomforts attending this style of doing business it continued in vogue for upwards of thirty years, when it was abolished by a common agreement among all the traders.

Those in other lines of retail were scattered along the whole line of St. Paul street, from the present Jacques Cartier square to McGill street. The fashionable and well assorted dry goods stores were those of Richard Watkins, successor to Miller, Parlane & Co., whose name long remained on the door, and Hector Russell & Co., about two doors west of Custom House Square. Mr. Miller, of the firm mentioned above, went home, while Mr. Parlane went into the wholesale and shipping business, and helped to found the great house of H. & A. Allan & Co. Hector Russell & Co.'s store spoken of communicated with the retail store of coarse goods, facing on the market square. Over the whole was their large dry goods establishment, the whole being managed by Mr. John Mackenzie, the late Mr. John G. Mackay being the bookkeeper, while the handsome Wm. McCormack, long known in the city, was salesman to the ladies. Outside the retail dry goods trade were a few French in commercial business, but there were the remains in various places of the old stock, where money had been made in a small way during the war, and the merchants had retired on comfortable competences. There was a continued clearing out of the merchants of that time by bankruptcies or abandonments, and but few firms were long lived, or left money. Pratt, in the hardware, left an estate which still continues rich, and John Frothingham, in the same line, also left a large property, as did John Torrance in the grocery business. He, already rich, greatly enlarged his business, and from 1822 became active in the then in its infancy, although what were considered elegantly fitted up steamers were then plying regularly between Montreal and Quebec. About the year 1823 the Hon. Jas. Ferrier started a wholesale and retail grocery business on Notre Dame street, and in 1827 or 1828 the firm of Thos. Mussen opened on St. Paul street, afterward moving to Notre Dame street where it has since remained.

Retail business worked very slowly up to Notre Dame street, the only dry goods store for a long time being that of James Fleming, after which the store at the corner of Place d'Armes was fitted up with great pretensions, and continued a leading store for many years, under several changes, afterwards being occupied as a drug store. On St. James street there were many vacant lots, and no store of any kind was opened there until Richard Watkins removed about 1845 to a brick building in the neighborhood of where the St. Lawrence Hall now stands. That business must have been on a comparatively small scale in the beginning of this century can be gathered from the fact that in 1818 the population of the city must have been under 20,000; the population of Lower Canada about 300,000, and that of Upper Canada 100,000.

Speaking of this time, Mr. T. S. Brown, from whom much of the foregoing has been gathered, said: "We did a wholesale and retail hardware business on two flats of about 17 feet by 30. If the sales were small, the profits must have been good, for my employer paid $400 house rent, kept a horse, carriage, and man servant, gave first-rate dinners, and very fine evening parties. But trade in those days as now was not all profit. Bankruptcies among small people, and a breaking down of many who had for a time held their heads very high, were familiar to us. There was no brokers, and the only person named as a money lender was an old Italian, a dealer in pictures, frames and looking-glasses, who kept a flourishing drinking place called

"Being too conscientious to take more than six per cent. interest he made it a condition with every borrower that he should buy a looking-glass, and several of his customers were noticed to have their rooms abundantly ornamented with these extravagances. His premises were an old building on Commissioners street, directly in rear of the Montreal House, and the first lesson I got in French was the notice on his shutters."

With the increase of steam navigation, the opening of the country and the general introduction of railways, Montreal's trade grew to such an extent that the wholesale trade gradually absorbed the property on St. Paul street and the cross streets to Notre Dame, and retailers were compelled to take up new quarters. As the retailers invaded Notre Dame and St. James streets, the residents retired further up-town, only to be again routed, and now, in addition to the streets named, St. Lawrence Main street, Bleury, and still more recently, St. Catherine street have been taken possession of by the retailers. The grocer, butcher and baker seem to form the advance guard of the invading army, and are followed at intervals by the dry goods man, the merchant tailor, and others more or less necessary to the existence of a civilized community.

As showing the extent of the retail business in Montreal, and the number of hands employed, it may be mentioned that on the seven leading streets of Montreal there are no fewer than 149 grocery stores; 139 boot and shoe stores; 115 tailor and clothing stores; 94 dry goods stores; 53 jeweller stores; 39 hat and fur stores; 37 hardware stores and 31 drug stores, entirely confined to the retail business. One dry goods store employs 300 hands, and has capital invested to the amount of half a million dollars; another employs about 250 hands, with an invested capital of $350,000; and another has some 80 hands with capital invested to the amount of $140,000. It is to be understood that these figures in each case represent the amount of money actually invested in the business and not the amount of stock carried.

A vast change has been made in the manner of conducting the retail business of the city. In the dry goods the departmental system has been adopted, and even the work-rooms are divided into departments. Under this system it is possible for the employer to know exactly in what part of his establishment a weakness exists, and he can at once devise a remedy. Since it was first introduced, about ten years ago, it has proved beneficial both to employer and employes. The bonuses system is also a new feature introduced into some establishments. A great improvement in the matter of hours has taken place. Formerly it was no uncommon thing for large establishments to remain open till midnight on Saturdays. Now a number of houses close at six at night, and on Saturdays, during July and August, a half-holiday is given. In some houses two weeks' holidays is given, wages being paid. It is generally conceded that the tone of the employes has much improved, and it is said that more money is saved by them than formerly. The grocery business too has made vast strides, the introduction of canned and glass goods having to a certain extent created a new era. Almost anything eatable can now be had in can or in glass, and it has been necessary to take this into consideration. Of late years trade with outside places has considerably increased especially, for the finer class of goods, and one firm has family customers in Ottawa, and as far away as British Columbia. This same firm has opened out a new line in supplying fishing parties from the States with their provisions, for the season, so that there seems a possibility of Montreal becoming a distributing centre for the finer class of groceries. To meet the demand for the higher class of goods the enterprising retailers import canned salmon from British Columbia or the Maritime Provinces; jams, jellies, pickles, from the States, and more especially New York State. A great advantage to the grocer of the present day is the improvement made in the matter of credits. In former years it was nothing uncommon to give three, six, or twelve months' credit to customers, but now a month is about the longest time given, unless in exceptional cases. Formerly too it was the custom of retailers from all parts of Canada to assemble at Montreal for the purpose of attending the trade fairs. That is a thing of the past, largely due to the retention of the auction duty on import from which Toronto is free, travelers having taken the place of these sales.

On all sides the opinion is expressed among retail men that the prospects in Montreal are brightening more every year : a remunerative and increased volume of business is hopefully anticipated.

WHOLESALE CLOTHING.

The enterprise and push of the business men of Montreal, coupled with the cheapness of labor in the city, have given the wholesale clothing trade in the city a wonderful impetus within the last twenty years, and secured to the commercial metropolis the supply centre for the whole Dominion. There are eight large establishments engaged in this industry in Montreal, two of which are of vast extent and importance, and the others doing a large and profitable turnover. Twenty years ago the annual sales of these establishments amounted in the aggregate to about $400,000, while to-day the annual turnover is upwards of $2,500,000, the range of market extending from Halifax on the Atlantic to Vancouver on the Pacific. The capital invested in the trade is in round numbers $1,500,000. This industry has been greatly improved and perfected in recent years. The clothing is put together by piece work, the cutting being done in the establishments. It is then given out to women who work on it at home and who reside in the suburbs and adjoining country. Among the localities where the largest amount of clothing is put together are Ste. Cunegonde, St. Henri, Ste. Rose, Terrebonne, Chambly, St. Hilaire, Belœil and St. Remi, all working for Montreal houses. A striking proof of the increase of the industry is the great sale of sewing machines within the region indicated in the past several years. It is believed that about 5000 hands are given employment by the wholesale clothing industry, and averaging five to each family it may be stated that about 20,000 people depend upon the industry for sustenance. The number of hands employed in the establishments in the city is in the vicinity of 2200. Half a million dollars are paid out in wages annually by the eight houses. The industry in Toronto and Hamilton cannot compete with that of Montreal. "The reason," said a well-known business man, who has been engaged in the industry for the past thirty years, "is simply that Montreal is a more advantageous manufacturing centre than either Toronto or Hamilton."

The cheapness of labor here is all in our favor and handicaps the other manufacturing centres in the Dominion. We may venture the assertion that the cheapest labor on the continent is to be found in Montreal. The goods manufactured here comprise full lines of mens', youths', boys' and children's clothing.

MINOR INDUSTRIES.

The manufacture of leather board in Canada was begun in 1873, by a company started in Montreal. Previously the article was imported from the States, and much of it continued to be so until the change in the Customs Tariff in 1879. But in spite of the sharp competition of the foreign article, our home product was of such superior quality that it easily held its own, receiving prizes at the U. S. Centennial in 1876, at the Sydney Exhibition and at Berlin, Germany, 1877, at the Paris Exhibition, 1878, as well as at Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. The mill capacity is about 450 tons per annum.

TRUNKS, VALISES AND SATCHELS.

This branch is attaining large proportions in Montreal, and two of the five existing factories occupy large premises in the east and west end of the city. It is estimated there is $700,000 invested in the trade, and that about 400,000 trunks are turned out per annum.

PAPER HANGINGS.

The manufacturing of wall paper is one of the younger industries of Montreal, which is quietly and unostentatiously attaining vigorous proportions. From comparatively small beginnings the establishment now employs in the neighborhood of 100 persons. There are several printing machines in operation, producing nearly 2000 different styles of paper hangings. Wholesale prices range from 3½ cents per piece up to $2.50 per piece.

IRON AND COAL.

MILLIONS INVESTED IN IRON MANUFACTURES.

Montreal, the industrial heart of Canada in every other way, is also the manufacturing and distributing centre of the iron and steel trade in the Dominion. Realizing the advantages to be derived from a national policy which protects the home-made article, it exerts itself to the utmost, and by the grimy incense arising through its numerous tall and stately chimneys and the monotonous music of its hundreds of anvils and monstrous steamhammers pays homage to Vulcano, the patron saint of ironworkers and blacksmiths. With native mines that will supply the necessary fuel for years and years to come, with an unlimited supply of water that can be used both in its natural state and as steam for motive power, it strives not only to supply its own wants but those of less favored towns in the Dominion, and even sends its handiwork beyond the border, where in point of workmanship, durability and price it equals if not excels the native product. The principal establishments of the kind are probably the workshops of the two great Canadian Railways, the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk, which employ in these departments alone considerably over 2000 men, the first named being situated in the East end, near the suburbs of Hochelaga; the last in the far western point of the city, near Point St. Charles. Here everything needed in the railroad business is made, from the coupling pin to the locomotive, and from the simple brake handle to the monstrous snow plow; everything necessary to transport the surplus stock of other iron and steel factories to the nearest as well as the most out-of-the-way corner of the country.

One of the largest iron establishments in Montreal is that owned by the Montreal Rolling Mills, whose massive buildings, some of them over 100 feet in length in which over 500 men and boys are working, are noticeable to any one going along Notre Dame street west. This establishment alone can turn out 8,000,000 feet of iron pipes per annum, with the aid of one of Swindell's regenerative gas furnaces in the building of which 150,000 red and firebricks were employed. To fully understand the enormous capacity for making pipes it should be stated that the imports of pipes in the Dominion for 1885 were 3,368,765 feet, and in 1886, 4,209,884 feet, or a sum total for the two years of 7,578,649 feet, thus showing that the new mills will be in position to turn out in one year more than the quantity that has been imported for the last two years. They also make a specialty of nails of every kind and description, and horse shoes, of which industries more is said later on. Taking all parts of these extensive works together they consume on an average 10,000 tons per annum. Montreal also possesses the largest establishment in the Dominion for the manufacture of chilled steel car wheels, on which carloads of men and beasts and freight roll daily to and from every part of the continent. Over six hundred men are employed within its walls on the banks of the Lachine Canal, and it supplies all the wheels for the Grand Trunk as well as the Intercolonial railways. Right near the eastern end of the city in the suburb of Hochelaga is one of the largest steel and axle factories in Canada, which turns out annually enough springs and axles to meet the demands of all the railways in the Dominion and have some to spare besides. It employs 100 skilled mechanics, besides machinery that will do the work of a thousand hands. The nail and spike industry, perhaps, comes next. There are eight firms in the city manufacturing them, and the amount turned out annually may be guessed when it is stated that from ten to fifteen thousand tons of puddled iron is used per year, besides an equal amount of old rails and scrap iron, and several thousand tons of nail plate, with thirty thousand tons of native coal to work it up. Over two millions of dollars are invested in these industries alone, and it furnishes bread and employment to more than sixteen hundred laborers and their families. Montreal possesses four horseshoe factories, the only ones in the Dominion, and five firms devote themselves entirely to making nails wherewith to fasten these on the horses feet. Tacks and fancy nails, including those used in laying the carpets and supporting the pictures of the Canadian people, are also made in this city only by three different firms, and the same is the case with wrought iron pipe, of which there is one factory. Soft iron castings and fittings of all varieties such as used for stoves, ranges, furnaces, pumps, lantern posts, fences, fountains and innumerable other things are made in our twelve large foundries, while one firm makes a specialty of malleable iron castings, another of those in crucible steel, and one of everything necessary to make a gas or oil stove. To keep secure the money made and handled in the pursuit of these industries three firms make it their business to manufacture safes, and their reputation for being burglar proof is very high. Two firms devote themselves to the manufacture of cast iron ranges now so much in use, while two others produce the so necessary cast steel saws. Though the making of sewing machines is essentially a Yankee industry, two firms, employing over 600 hands, are engaged in it in this city, and many a Canadian housewife considers them a blessing and invaluable aid in her manifold daily duties. Axes and picks are made by another firm, while still another manufactures augers, bits, tools, spades and shovels, cutlery embracing every variety of sharp instrument from the unwieldy butcher's knife to the little pocket instrument used by tireless newspaper men in sharpening their mighty pencil, and from the shining carving utensil used by the ponderous cook to the dainty little scissors reposing in the silk-lined work baskets of our uppertown belles, is also manufactured here, while two establishments make scales and one pumps. We support six wire factories, one of which draws the article from iron rods, weaves it into ropes, and turns it into barbed fences, while four other establishments manufacture springs for carriages and beds. The workshops of the Royal Electric Light Company and the Bell Telephone Company, employing several hundred men, come also under this head. A mention of the extensive works of the Dominion Bridge Company in our suburbs and the twelve boiler and machine shops must bring this summary of the iron and steel trade in Montreal in which, according to a careful estimate, not less than 10,500 men are employed to an end.

The brass founding, which is a kindred interest to iron and steel, has made rapid strides in the last few years; one large factory in the west end having been erected this year at a large cost and giving employment to over 200 men. In the city proper there are four large establishments, which employ in round numbers six to seven hundred men, with an invested capital of nearly half a million dollars, and turning out some of the finest specimens of brass goods manufactured in America.

COAL.

Thanks to the National Policy which protects the owners of Canadian mines against an overflow of foreign fuel, Montreal is the heart of a most flourishing and continually increasing coal trade. With an ever growing population and the rise of new industries, it has become the place where the greater part of the products of the coal mines in the lower provinces, which are in great part owned by citizens of Montreal, find a market. Over three million dollars of money belonging to Montreal is invested in the Canadian Coal Mines. This money is divided among the Intercolonial Coal Mining Company, the International Coal Company, the Vale Coal Company, and the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company, all of them situated in Cumberland, Pictou and Cape Breton, all situated in the province of Nova Scotia. This coal, which is all of a bituminous quality, is brought to Montreal by water, though some of it, especially from Cumberland, arrives by rail. It is principally used by railways and manufacturers, and for the sake of showing what amount of coal a good sized railway company needs annually, it may be stated that last year the Canadian Pacific Railway company consumed 80,000 tons. The Gas Company used 50,000, and the Grand Trunk Railway Company, 35,000. This is about the amount of coal brought here by water; about 25 per cent. more comes from the Nova Scotia mines by rail. In all, Montreal used during the last year some seven per cent. of which was imported from Great Britain and Ireland. Six years ago the amount consumed was only 334,000 tons, and in three years it had increased only some 10,000 tons. The consumption for 1885 was :

	Tons.
From Great Britain and Ireland.....	48,000
“ Cape Breton.....	139,600
“ Pictou.....	76,000
By Rail.....	83,000
	346,600

A year later the consumption had increased somewhat and was :

	Tons.
From Great Britain and Ireland.....	23,277
“ Cape Breton.....	200,000
“ Pictou.....	66,000
By Rail.....	75,000
	364,277

	Tons.
From Great Britain and Ireland.....	31,000
“ Cape Breton.....	272,000
“ Pictou.....	65,000
By Rail.....	75,000
	443,005

Prices for bituminous coal do not change much though last year they were lower than ever before.

The following statement shows the prices for bituminous coal from the Pictou mines, during the last eleven years :

For 1877	$4.00	to	$4.50		For 1883.....	4.50	to	5.00
" 1878.....	3.50	"	3.60		" 1884.....	4.15	"	4.40
" 1879	3.75	"	4.25		" 1885.....	3.50	"	4.00
" 1880.....	3.75	"	4.25		" 1886.....	3.30	"	3.50
" 1881.....	4.00	"	4.50		" 1887.....	3.30	"	3.50

To obtain the corresponding prices for Cape Breton coal, from 30 to 50 cents per ton should be added. As to the prices of transportation coal dealers declare that they are far lower than elsewhere.

Anthracite coal, coming mostly from Pennsylvania, is almost entirely used for domestic purposes. It is transported by barges from Oswego, and by the Delaware & Hudson Railway direct from the mines. Over two hundred and twenty thousand tons of this favorite fuel are used annually in Montreal. In 1885 the consumption of hard coal was 190,000 tons, in 1886, 194,000. In former years it was brought to Montreal in American canal boats on their way to Ottawa to load lumber. The demand for this kind of coal, however, soon grew so large that the railways were brought into play for its transportation, and some of the mining companies built their own roads to facilitate the trade. Through these means coal has been pouring into the large yards by the train load to supply the ever increasing demand which Montreal, continually growing as it is, and drawing to it laborers and their families from all over the Dominion, makes on every coal producing country in America and Europe.

PAPER MAKING.

Even in the art of paper making, Montreal is far ahead of every other city in the Dominion, and gives many of the larger cities in the United States a close race for supremacy in that particular line of industry. At the beginning of this century paper for wrapping as well as writing was an article scarce as well as expensive in Montreal, and every other part of Canada, and home-made paper was an entirely unknown thing. The first mill in Canada was built with Montreal capital in St. Andrews, on the North River, near Montreal, and it needed a considerable amount of courage to embark in such an enterprise. It was opened in 1806, and at that period, in all the country between Halifax and Toronto, only half a dozen small weekly papers were published, and they consumed in all not more than 300 pounds of material a week. As it was, the capacity of the mill amounted to about 100 pounds of paper a day, all made by hand, and though seemingly a small supply, far beyond the demand. Since that time the paper industry in and near Montreal has had many ups and downs, and from one small mill has grown to fifteen, which control half of the total value of the paper industry in Canada; and situated in a province provided with an inexhaustible supply of wood for pulp, with hundreds of miles of low wooded mountains, innumerable lakes, waterfalls and other water powers, it bids fair to monopolize the paper-making business within a few years to come. As a proof of this it may be stated that the largest paper warehouse in Canada has just been completed in Montreal. It cost not less than $100,000, without furniture, stock or anything, and is eight stories high. It is built of terra cotta brick and Perth sandstone, which was used in this case for the first time in Montreal, and is devoted not only to the keeping of stock but to the manufacture of bags, envelopes and shipping tags, in which industry one hundred and fifty people are employed. It is but lately also that in the suburb of St. Jerome another large paper mill has been erected with a capital of $250,000, and a capacity relative thereto, and which is entirely owned by French Canadian capitalists of Montreal.

THE SILK INDUSTRY.

The silk industry, which has continued to prosper from the outset, is practically controlled, like most others, by Montreal, there being but one mill outside the city in which Montreal capital is said to be largely invested. The proportions of this industry to-day show a large increase, the ribbons and handkerchiefs which have been added to its lines of production having been received by the trade with satisfaction. Operations, which at first were naturally on a small scale, have so much increased that one firm at least has been more than once compelled to double its productive capacity, and now employs, on an average, upwards of two hundred hands. The wages paid amount to somewhere in the neighborhood of $50,000 per annum, the value of the raw material being close on $200,000, while the value of the manufactured article must amount to something between $350,000 and $400,000.

Notwithstanding the difficulties met with, the goods manufactured are equal to the best produced in the United States, the raw material used being Canton, Tsattee and the best Japan, and the Canadian price list is the same as that adopted by the silk trade in the United States. Every improvement in machinery or make up is introduced as soon as possible, and thus Montreal is enabled to keep pace with the times, her silk goods finding ready sale all over the Dominion; and it is stated that even the lower class of goods is purchased here and sold side by side with higher class goods at the high class price. This does not, however, in any way deteriorate the quality of the goods of higher grades of dress silks, satins, etc., produced by the same firms, but rather stimulates to still further production of high-class goods, compatible with a reasonable rate of profit, and the paying of such wages as shall procure the services of the best operatives. That Montreal has secured a high position in this particular line is amply demonstrated by the fact that buyers, acquainted with the trade, find it impossible to discriminate between the productions of the Montreal looms and those of other cities so many years longer in the business.

COTTON.

ONE OF THE GREATEST INDUSTRIES OF THE AGE.

HISTORY OF THE DEVELOPMENT OF MANUFACTURE OF COTTON.

The throne of King Cotton is placed in the commercial metropolis of Canada. More than half the entire number of mills in British North America are wholly controlled by Montreal capital and business men. The thrifty development of cotton manufacturing began in the Dominion of Canada with the advent of the National Policy. At that time there were but seven cotton mills in operation, all about the same capacity. Under the new dispensation the lagging cotton interests of the Dominion revived, and greatly extended their markets and product even going beyond the requirements of the country in number and capacity, shewing not too much faith in the new policy but too little calculation as to the consumption. Many of the old mills doubled and trebled their product within a few years, and all new plants were started upon a very much enlarged basis. To-day there are twenty-three mills in Canada, and half a million spindles, about 10,000 looms and between 8000 and 9000 persons ringing out the music of labor, the burden of whose song is the recital of something accomplished in the line of manufactured cotton.

The earliest operations of this industry in Canada were retarded, in great measure, through the lack of judgment on the part of the manufacturers. There was no diversity in the character of their product. The markets of the Dominion were overstocked with grey or unbleached cottons, while other styles and qualities of cotton goods of domestic make were unobtainable. This condition of affairs, however, has been thoroughly revolutionized, and the Canadian markets are now carrying some of the finest and as large a variety of native cotton manufactured merchandize as can be anywhere found, embracing all grades of grey and white cotton, bleached sheetings, pillow cottons, and a new and highly desirable seamless pillow cotton woven without seams, towels, piques, fancy ginghams, plain and checked crinkled seersucker, plain and fancy striped shirtings, tickings and awnings, denims, all grades of sheetings, knitting yards, cottonades, and braid and lamp wicks. It is claimed that the white cotton manufactured in the Dominion excels any product of like nature produced in America. The annual product of the 23 mills now in operation in Canada amounts to about 9,000,000 yards of cotton cloth, which is divided among the following mills, the Hochelaga Cotton Co. being the largest :

Hochelaga Cotton Co.	St. Croix Cotton Co.
Windsor Cotton Co.	Nova Scotia Cotton Manufacturing Co.
Moncton Cotton Co.	St. John Cotton Mill
Wm. Parkes & Son. (Ld.)	Gibson Cotton Mill
Chambly Cotton Co.	Coaticook Cotton Mill
Montreal Cotton Co.	Merchants Cotton Co.
Canada Cotton Co.	Stormont Cotton Co.
Kingston Cotton Co.	Hamilton Cotton Co.
Ontario Cotton Mill	Meritton Cotton Co.
Lybster Cotton Mill	Brantford Cotton Co.
Dundas Cotton Co.	Magog Print and Textile Co.

Of the above number the Hochelaga Cotton Co., with 110,000 spindles and an annual product of 1,500,000 yards of cotton cloth, the Chambly Cotton Co., Coaticook Cotton Co., Montreal Cotton Co., Merchants' Cotton Co., Canadian Cotton Co., Stormont Cotton Co., Kingston Cotton Co., Hamilton Cotton Co., Ontario Cotton Mills, Dundas Cotton Co., and the Magog Print and Textile Company are mainly controlled by Montreal capital in Montreal.

The geographical location of the Canadian markets in manufactured cotton in relation to the largest growers of this national staple in the world, admit of a great expansion here in this industry for export, and Montreal capital and business men should by all the natural laws of cause and effect control it. They best can place a large export trade with all the markets of the world directly tributary to their port, and on through that vast area of the earth represented in the East via the Canadian Pacific route to China, Japan and India.

EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS.

The Council of Arts and Manufactures, with the intention of affording every facility to mechanics, artisans, apprentices and others to whom a knowledge of drawing would be of benefit in its practical application in the various trades and branches of industry, established free evening drawing classes in 1873.

The number of pupils in the school is 1346, and five years ago classes in wood carving, lithography and wood engraving were added. The list of subjects on which instruction is given comprises freehand drawing, mechanical drawing, architectural drawing, modelling, lithography, building, construction and stair building, decorative painting, and scagliola and plaster work.

It is difficult to appreciate the benefit resulting to these who are thus enabled to supplement the generally narrow instruction of the workshop, where, by the present division of labor, an apprentice is as a rule confined to one department, and indeed prefers that he should be, as it brings him immediate wages. It makes him familiar with the processes and tools, which, in most of the special industries and trades, have a certain degree of analogy; and he soon perceives the fundamental principles that underlie all manual operations.

A direct advantage to be gained by the proper training of artisans in the same way as engineers, lawyers and physicians are trained, is that the number of these last mentioned, whose preponderance in the city is widely deplored, may be immediately decreased, as boys having some education will no longer object to follow a trade, as their dreary and drudging period of apprenticeship is almost done away with, and entering a shop with some practical ideas, and already somewhat advanced, they may hope for higher immediate wages—which is after all the great lever that impels both parents and children in their choice of industrial pursuits. A much higher idea of the importance and dignity of labor is also created by these schools. Their careful management and the founding of workshops in connection with them, such as exist in the manual training school of St. Louis, Mo., which Mr. S. C. Stevenson, B. A., visited some three or four years ago, and the adoption of which he strongly recommended at the time, would result in our skilled labor in the decorative arts standing at a premium in the world's markets, in our artisans commanding the best remuneration elsewhere, and in the really artistic bent of the French Canadian mind being cultivated in its utmost ramifications, and bearing abundant fruit.

Indeed, there is no reason why the French Canadian should not distinguish himself in the sphere of art, as do his kinsmen in the Old World, the French, whose deft hands add beauty to everything they touch, even the most common object not being thought too mean for adornment. But in France the facilities for the students of industrial arts are very great.

SUGAR.

MONTREAL THE CENTRE OF THE REFINING TRADE. HISTORY AND DEVELOPMENT OF THE TRADE IN MONTREAL.

Montreal supplies three-fourths of all the sugar consumed in the Dominion of Canada and its sugar refineries have weathered the dangers of competition with the sugar importers, which caused nearly every other refinery in Canada to succumb.

In the early part of this century all the sugar consumed in Canada was imported from England and the United States. In 1854, however, Mr. Peter Redpath, the pioneer of sugar refining in Canada, bought a site in St. Patrick street and started a small refinery. For many years the young enterprise struggled hard for existence, but perseverance was finally crowned with success. It was then that the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Company also established itself here, in the year 1879.

The Canadian Sugar Refinery at its inception only produced about 20,000,000 lbs. a year, and has now reached a production of 150,000,000 lbs. per annum. The total consumption of sugar in Canada is a little more than 200,000,000 pounds every year. As nearly all the sugar that is produced in Canada is consumed within the Dominion it is clear that our refineries supply nearly the entire want.

The raw sugar comes principally from the West Indies, Brazil and the Philippine Island. All grades of sugar are produced here from the lowest yellow to the Paris, lumps.

The capital of the Canada Sugar Refining Company is $1,000,000, whilst that of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Company is in round figures $850,000. The output of the refineries at Halifax, Moncton and Berthier varies annually between 50 and 100 millions of pounds, whilst their capital does not exceed $800,000.

The St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Company also has more than tripled its capacity, and produced about 2000 barrels every day before the disastrous fire which destroyed their vast buildings in Queen street last spring.

A further proof of the growth of the industry is the fact that in 1874 the total tonnage of vessels bringing raw sugar to Montreal was about 10,000 tons, whilst it reached 54,000 tons last year.

The quality of the article coming from the Montreal refineries is unexcelled, the high grades showing 100 per cent. in the polariscope. The St. Lawrence company have nearly completed their magnificent refinery building at Maisonneuve, in which operations will begin early in summer.

The margins for the sugar refiner being small, owing to the strong competition from foreign countries, where labor is cheaper, the chief success of the Montreal sugar refiners has been in the past due to strict economy and careful management. These two qualities have secured for Montreal the bulk of the sugar refining trade of Canada. The enterprise employs directly about 4,200 persons, and affords indirect employment to more than 40,000 persons. The imports of refined sugar are becoming less and less from year to year.

In 1878 the total amount of refined sugar imported was 107,412,307 lbs.

In 1880 it sank down to 31,080,064 lbs. This figure was still further reduced in 1881, when the total amount hardly reached 16,000,000 lbs., and in 1882, only 14,275,560 lbs. were brought into the country.

These figures were still reduced in the following years to 13,884,621 lbs., until it hardly reached 8,000,000 lbs. last year.

Beet root sugar making has hitherto proved to be a failure, though considerable amounts of money and work have been sunk in the enterprise. The cause of the persistent failure is ascribed to the fact that farmers cannot grow the roots at the price which it would pay the sugar-makers to give for them.

However, it is expected that with increased facilities the enterprise will soon be taken up again by Montreal capitalists and brought to a successful issue.

The officers of the Canada Sugar Refining Company are: Messrs. Geo. A. Drummond, president; Gilbert Scott, vice-president; W. W. Watson, secretary.

The officers of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Company are: Messrs. W. R. Elmenhorst, president; A. Baumgarten, vice-president; and T. Labatt, secretary.

CIGARS.

The following interesting summary shows the magnitude attained by this important industry in the Dominion of Canada.

During the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1886, there were manufactured in the Dominion 90,409,025 cigars from foreign leaf, and 19,250 from Canadian leaf; of which Montreal produced 45,241,275; Toronto 6,613,100; and Hamilton 6,738,225. The total number of licenses issued being 123, of which there were 24 in Montreal, 9 in Toronto, and 14 in Hamilton, the total amount of leaf used in manufacturing the above being 1,733,896 lbs. Montreal using 830,367 lbs.; Toronto 132,821 lbs.; and Hamilton 135,675 lbs., the balance being distributed amongst the remaining factories throughout the country.

In the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1887, there were 125 licensed factories in Canada; 25 of them being in Montreal, 10 in Toronto, and 15 in Hamilton, the number of cigars manufactured being 85,587,505, consuming 1,600,780 lbs. of tobacco. Of this amount Montreal furnished 40,436,190, which required in their manufacture 760,538 lbs. of tobacco; Toronto contributed 5,665,700, made from 104,213 lbs. of leaf; and Hamilton 6,221,525, made from 115,375 lbs. of leaf.

One Montreal firm alone sold and delivered four million more cigars in 1886-7 than were manufactured by all the factories in Toronto and Hamilton combined; their trade extending from Newfoundland to British Columbia, their output being one-sixth of the total quantity manufactured in the Dominion.

The number of hands employed in Montreal in this branch of manufacture is about 1800. The wages earned vary a great deal, depending entirely upon the skill of the workmen, some earning as much as seventeen or eighteen dollars per week, almost any man who knows his business at all being able to earn from eight to ten dollars or more per week of eight hours per day; Saturday half day.

The tobacco used in this country for the purpose of manufacturing cigars is obtained principally from the West Indies, the Eastern Archipelago, and the United States. The packages come in different forms; some in bales weighing from 85 to 160 lbs., and some in cases weighing from 300 to 400 lbs. each. When the tobacco is received it is comparatively dry; and after being taken carefully from the packages is first dipped into clear water; and then covered up and placed aside for about twenty-four hours; the time depending greatly upon the weather. It is not required to lie as long in summer as in winter. Sometimes when tobacco is not sufficiently well cured it has to go through a process of resweating. The leaves are then taken to the stemming department where the stem running through the centre of the leaf, dividing it into what is known as the right and left sides, is removed, and the tobacco sorted into the different classes called fillers, wrappers and binders. The fillers are generally put into cases loose; and the wrappers and inner leaves of the cigars, known as binders, are put up in little bundles weighing from $\frac{1}{4}$ lb. to 1 lb. each. The tobacco is then handed over to the cigarmakers. Some cigars are made by hand and some by moulds. The tools used consist of a piece of hard-wood board costing from 75 cents to \$1.25, a knife costing about 25 cents, and a gauge to measure the length of the cigar, costing from 75 cents to \$1.50; a good cigarmaker being able to make from 200 to 300 per day of 8 to 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ hours, by hand, and from 300 to 500 per day by mould work. The ends of the cigars are fastened by gum tragacanth, generally of the best quality. The cigars are gathered up each evening and sent where the different grades of colors are selected, placed in boxes and marked accordingly, such as Claro, Colorado Claro, Colorado, Colorado Maduro, Maduro and Oscuro, there being generally some of each of the above named colors in each package of tobacco. The boxes, before being packed, are papered and labelled, showing the name of the brand of the cigars, etc. There are several different kinds of wood used in the manufacture of the boxes, the principal being Spanish cedar, butternut and basswood, the best quality cigars being packed in the best quality of boxes. The cigars are then ready for shipment after the Revenue tax of \$6 per thousand has been paid.

The estimated increase in the cigar manufacturing industry of this country during the past ten years is about fifty-five per cent.

MILLING.

The expansion of our Dominion flour trade must ever command interest while Dominion trade lasts, and it is refreshing to note that Montreal holds the lead in flour manufacture that will be difficult to wrest from it. The city contains the largest mills in the Dominion. The mills in Montreal have a capacity at present in the aggregate of nearly 3000 barrels per day. Montreal flour can be found at nearly all points from Vancouver to Halifax; also in Great Britain, Antwerp and Hamburg, and a considerable trade with China and Japan has opened since the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and is growing every day. Until within about fifteen years ago milling had made very few advances. The same old millstones and grinding powers everywhere obtained. In 1868 the machinery at Pesth was still the primitive system of stone rollers. The Hungarians, however, subsequently devised a small porcelain roll, and when this was known to be successful, several firms in Canada sent a skilled millwright across to Europe to acquire information about it. This agent perfected a roller in Zurich, Switzerland, which with slight improvements is the best roll now in use, and with which the big mills in Montreal are fitted. The mills of the big firms have been rebuilt and refitted during the past few years, and are magnificent establishments. A considerable quantity of American flour comes into Montreal, but with the splendid wheat crops of Manitoba, American houses will experience every year a greater difficulty in competing with Canada. Montreal milling merchants have expended about three-quarters of a million dollars in constructing works in the Province of Manitoba, and enormous elevators upon the Canadian Pacific Railway.

DOMINION INSURANCE BUSINESS.

The annual report of the Superintendent of Insurance, addressed to the Honorable the Minister of Finance, has been issued. The list of companies doing Fire and Inland Marine Insurance, which is made up of six Canadian, twenty-one British and five American companies, differs from last year only as regards one company, the Phenix of Brooklyn, which has ceased to transact marine business, and one, the British & Foreign Marine, which has been licensed to transact inland marine insurance. The cash received for premiums during the year has amounted to $5,437,263, an increase of $192,761 over the previous year; and the losses paid, $3,073,822, a decrease of $329,692. The Canadian companies have paid out $750,448, and received $1,131,991; the British companies $2,094,465, and received $3,859,282, and the American $228,909, and received $445,990. During the past twenty years the companies have received $74,413,984, and paid $53,734,641, a gain of $20,679,343. The gross amount of policies, new and renewed by the fire companies during the year, was $341,580,007, showing an increase of $8,822,919 over 1877. The decrease in the amounts taken in 1888, as compared with 1877, among British companies is $1,150,582, and among American companies $978,166. Among Canadian companies there is an increase of $10,951,667. The increase in the Canadian companies is as follows: British America, $4,936,743; Quebec, $351,386; Royal Canadian, $882,396; Western, $3,319,642, total $12,490,167; decrease Citizens, $1,131,741; London Mutual, $406,759, total, $1,538,500, total increase, $10,951,667.

THE NET EARNINGS

of the British Fire Companies have been $752,956; they have paid for losses $2,094,465; expenses, $1,011,863, and received for premiums $3,859,284. For every $100 of premiums received there were spent on the average $54.27 in payment of losses, and $26.22 for general expenses, leaving $19.51 for the companies, as against $62.21 for losses, and $27.06 for expenses, leaving $9.73 in 1877. Hence these companies have done a less volume of business than in 1877, at a higher rate of premium, at a less rate of expense and at a less rate of loss. During the last fourteen years these companies have paid for losses (1875 to 1888) $27,609,225; for general expenses, $8,935,239; total $36,544,464, and received for premiums $37,639,358, being an excess of receipts over payments of $1,094,894. An adverse balance during these years was occasioned by the St. John fire in 1877, when they paid nearly $5,000,000.

As regards the American companies they have received for the past year $446,768, paid $233,075, and general expenses have amounted to $111,405. Hence for every $100 of premiums received there were spent on the average $52.17 in payment of losses, and $24.94 in general expenses. The total balance in favor of the companies for the year has been $102,288, and for the years 1875-88 $500,282.

The Canadian companies took out $104,098,716 risks for the year, received $1,002,109 in premiums, and paid $655,191 in losses; the rate of losses paid per cent. of premiums being $65.38. In other countries they have taken risks for $136,616,116, receive $1,453,410; paid $1,008,509; being at the rate of $69.39 per cent. The gain or improvement of the Canadian companies on paid-up capital during the year has been as follows: British America, $844.32; Citizens, $549.29; Quebec, $4133.76; Royal Canadian, $8005.68; Western, $63,085.11, and loss or deterioration, London Mutual Fire, $21,-934.19.

THE APPARENT GAIN

in the case of the British America is caused by the fact that the head office at Toronto valued in 1877 at $90,000, has been raised to $150,000 in 1888. The total cash income, of the companies from 1875 to 1888, inclusive, has been $47,329,447, and the total expenditure $48,425,498.38. For the three Canadian companies doing Marine insurance, for the Inland navigation, the premiums received have amounted to $497,150; losses incurred $363,823; of which $309,479 was paid, leaving an unsettled balance of $53,944. There was also paid during the year $45,298 on account of losses incurred in previous years. The premiums received for Ocean Marine were $271,452; losses incurred, $241,774. The Marine business has been, on the whole, more favorable than the year previous.

The business of life insurance is carried on by 30 active companies, of which 11 are Canadian, 10 British and 9 American. Two American companies were licensed during the year, the Germania and the Provident Savings Life Assurance companies. The total amount of policies taken during the year was $41,226,529, an excess of $3,218,219 over 1887. The Canadian companies show a gain in 1888 of $1,370,710, while in 1887 they gained $4,216,855; the American companies have a gain of $928,762 against a decrease of $391,654 in 1887, and the British companies have also an increase of $918,747, whilst in 1888 they had a decrease of $987,239, the total increase in 1888 being $3,218,219 as stated above. The respective amounts affected are: Canadian Companies, $24,876,259; British Companies, $3,985,787; American Companies, $12,364,483. The excess in favor of the native companies is $8,500,000.

THE TOTAL AMOUNT of life insurance in force at the close of the year was $211,761,583, divided as follows: Canadian, $114,034,279; British, $30,003,210; American, $67,724,000. The amount of insurance terminated in natural course by death, maturity, or expiry, was $2,867,533, which is greater by $422,012 over the previous year, and the amount terminated by surrender and lapse was $18,375,555, being greater than that in 1887 by $4,330,587. The total amount paid to policy holders in 1888 was as follows: Death claims, including bonus additions, $2,214,901; matured endowments, $333,197; annuitants, $16,391; paid for surrender policies, $286,442; dividends to policy holders, $590,698; total, $3,440,729. Hence for every $100 premium received there has been paid to policy holders $51.70, leaving $48.30 to be carried to reserve, expense and profits. The premiums received by the guarantee companies were $62,549 and paid $22,589 with $39,825.

There are some of the largest shareholders residing in Montreal in paid up amounts in different companies: Accident Insurance, Sir A. T. Galt, $5800; estate Edward Mackay, $8000; Edward Rawlings, $42,600; Mrs. M. W. Torrance, $7000; Mrs. M. W. Torrance as executrix and James Ferrier, executor, $8100.

British American Assurance Company, G. M. Kinghorn, $6050 in trust, $1000; Hugh McLennan, $10,000.

Canada Life Assurance Company, W. M. Ramsay, $7540.

Citizens Insurance Company, estate of Sir Hugh Allan, $7616 ; Andrew Allan, $8000 ; Hon. J. J. C. Abbott, $4000 ; estate of F. X. Beaudry, $4000, and Adolphe Roy, $6928.

Dominion Plate Glass Insurance Company, A. Ramsay, $8400 ; Guarantee Company, Robert Campbell, $10,500 ; Sir A. T. Galt, $11,000 ; Edward Rawlings, $53,030, in trust $1280 ; Wm. J. Withall, $6000.

Royal Canadian Insurance Co., R. B. Angus, $40,000 ; A. M. Crombie, local manager Bank of Commerce, $17,000 ; Mrs. E. F. Gilman, $5000 ; J. Hodgson, $21,560 ; La Banque du Peuple, $26,000 ; Hugh Mackay, $32,760 ; Duncan McIntyre, $98,600 ; Andrew Robertson, $29,760 ; G. R. Robertson, $11,460 ; W. Smith, $14,560.

Sun Life Assurance, Robert Anderson, $4875 ; R. Macaulay, $6400.

The amount of assessments made in the different companies under the provisions of the Insurance Act reached $7,611.80.

PREFACE.

INVESTIGATION, it is said, frequently leads to doubts, where there were none before,—so much the better.

“ If a thing is false, it ought not to be received .

“ If a thing is true, it can never lose in the end by inquiry.”—HERBERT MARSH.

The character, capacity and capital, of individuals, firms and corporations, carefully investigated results in confidence, or the absence of it on the part of those with whom they seek business relations, and our credit ratings are the inference drawn.

We give more attention to the causes that lead to success or failure than the mere announcement of the result.

This work is intended for the private use of Banks, Bankers, Buyers of Commercial Paper, Commission Houses, Importers, and others.

The credit markings have been made with less regard to capital than is customary in similar works, and are based upon honesty, business ability, nature and extent of business (hazardous or otherwise), and manner of paying bills, promptness being the first consideration.

SMALL CONCERNS DOING A CAREFUL, SNUG BUSINESS ARE RATED HIGHER THAN IS CUSTOMARY IN WORKS OF THIS CHARACTER.

We again draw the attention of subscribers to our repeatedly-expressed desire that they should ADVISE US DIRECT of any rating or report that does an injustice, to enable us to re-investigate and collect the same. Our aim is to protect our patrons from losses and, at the same time, to promote legitimate trade.

Good faith on the part of our employers will secure unreserved communication from us. Breach of faith, by impairing our usefulness, necessitates a cancellation of relations with us, as protection for our honorable employers.

The importance of consulting the detailed information on record at the Office cannot be over-estimated, as also of making changes in this work to correspond with the corrections on our notification-sheet, so far as it COVERS LINES OF BUSINESS that the holders of the work may be interested in.

No claim of infallibility is made; but our subscribers may be satisfied that an honest effort has been made to do impartial justice to all, assisted as we have been by friendly criticism of our subscribers, embracing the most liberal and discriminating dispensers of credit in banking and commercial circles in the Dominion.

PRÉFACE.

LE LIVRE que nous présentons cette année à nos clients et au commerce en général est une augmentation sur nos publications précédentes, et la somme d'informations qu'il fournit sont l'indication d'un travail ardu et consciencieux fait dans le but de démontrer que notre agence est aujourd'hui sur un pied d'organisation parfaite et est en mesure de rendre aux cercles financiers et commerciaux du pays les services qu'on attend de nous.

Les augmentations à ce volume sont aussi une expression de notre reconnaissance envers nos clients pour leur bienveillant patronage et pour leur encouragement continuel qui nous ont permis d'espérer un succès ininterrompu.

La partie qui a trait à l'histoire des institutions de la métropole du Canada a été recueillie par fractions dans divers journaux et publications d'un grand mérite, et dans le "Star," une des feuilles les plus entreprenantes de Montréal.

Nous avons l'espoir que notre volume de 1890 recevra un accueil favorable de la part des hommes d'affaires auquel il est spécialement destiné.

MONTREAL :

SON PASSE, SON PRESENT ET SON AVENIR.

SON HISTOIRE DE 1535 A 1889.

MONTREAL, la reine des villes bâties sur les bords du St. Laurent, et la métropole commerciale du Canada, occupe le plus beau site du continent américain, on pourrait même dire du monde entier. Tous ceux qui la visitent sont unanimes à reconnaître les avantages de toutes sortes dont la nature s'est montrée prodigue à son égard, et ils ne trouvent pas d'expressions assez fortes pour décrire dignement son fleuve majestueux, sa montagne et ses hauteurs si splendidement recouvertes de bois verdoyants, ses environs enchanteurs.

Comme chacun le sait, il y aura, le deux Octobre de cette année, 398 ans que Jacques-Cartier, à la tête d'une faible troupe de soldats et de matelots, foula le premier du pied le sommet de la montagne. De là il promena ses regards sur le paysage qui l'entourait ; au-dessous de lui la bourgade d'Hochelaga ; au loin, à perte de vue, une vaste étendue de territoire, arrosée par des cours d'eau considérables d'où se détachaient de ci de là des bouquets de bois, des îles, des collines ; partout la nature dans toute sa beauté pittoresque. Le grand explorateur ne put réprimer un cri d'admiration à la vue d'un si grandiose panorama, et, sur le champ, il donna à l'endroit sur lequel il se trouvait le nom de Mont Royal, dont on a fait, par le temps et l'usage, Montréal, nom que porte la ville aujourd'hui. On n'aurait jamais pu trouver d'expression plus heureuse pour rendre le sentiment que faisait éprouver le spectacle qui se déployait alors sous les yeux. Du point élevé où Jacques Cartier se trouvait, de quelque côté qu'il dirigeât sa vue, à l'est, à l'ouest, au sud, ce n'était que forêts au travers desquelles le St. Laurent se déroulait comme un long serpent, et dont les flots bleus mariaient leur couleur à la verdure du rivage.

La scène a bien changé depuis. Les arbres ont disparu et ont été remplacés par une forêt de dômes, de clochers et de cheminées. Le fleuve est sillonné en tous sens par des vaisseaux de toutes grandeurs et de toutes dimensions, pendant qu'un pont immense le traverse dans toute sa longueur, et l'œil aime à se reposer sur le paysage qui s'étend au loin.

TROIS CENTS ANS

c'est peu de chose dans l'histoire de certaines villes anciennes, où la main du temps semble avoir arrêté son travail destructeur, mais si on reporte ces trois siècles sur Montréal, il faut dire qu'ils ont accompli des merveilles. Pendant tout cet espace de temps, point de repos, point de relâche ; la ville, mettant en œuvre toute son énergie, toute sa persévérance, a renversé les obstacles qui se sont dressés sur son passage et marché de progrès en progrès. Aussi, aujourd'hui, elle est considérée comme la clef de l'Amérique britannique du Nord, et elle se glorifie du titre de métropole commerciale du Canada.

Un fait digne de remarque, c'est que 230 ans après la première visite de Jacques Cartier, Montréal avait déjà acquis une importance considérable.

"Montréal est construit au pied d'une montagne qui fait partie d'une île de dix lieues de longueur sur à peu près quatre de largeur, et qui est baignée par le fleuve St. Laurent. Tant que le Canada fut sous la domination française, la ville et toute l'île de Montréal acquirent un développement considérable; on aurait dit un vaste jardin où se trouvaient réunies toutes les commodités de la vie. Depuis que les Anglais en ont pris possession, le feu l'a ravagée en différentes circonstances. A l'époque où le général Amherst l'occupa, la ville affectait une forme oblongue, était protégée par une muraille flanquée de onze redoutes destinées à remplacer les bastions, et comptait une nombreuse population. Les rues étaient régulièrement tracées et bordées de jolies résidences; le fossé qui entourait la ville avait huit pieds de profondeur sur une largeur proportionnée; il était à sec; sur un point élevé se dressait un fort ou une citadelle dont les batteries commandaient toutes les rues de la ville. Depuis, les Anglais ont beaucoup perfectionné ces fortifications. On distingue la haute et la basse ville, cette dernière partie est occupée par le gros et le petit commerce. Lors des dernières invasions, c'est aussi dans la basse ville que se trouvaient les arsenaux, les magasins militaires et l'hôpital tenu par les Sœurs. C'est dans la haute ville qu'on rencontrait les principaux édifices, tels que : le palais du gouverneur, les résidences des principaux officiers et employés, la maison des Récollets, l'église des Jésuites, le séminaire, les maisons d'éducation et l'église paroissiale. L'hôpital général mérite une mention spéciale, ainsi que grand nombre de villas construites avec beaucoup de goût, et qui servent d'ornements à la campagne environnante où l'on trouve toutes les productions de l'Europe."

Il n'entre pas dans le cadre de notre ouvrage de suivre Montréal pas à pas dans tous ses progrès comme dans toutes ses vicissitudes. Nous devons nous contenter de montrer le degré d'importance qu'elle a acquise, et de faire ressortir ses avantages qui la mettent en état d'occuper si dignement le premier rang parmi nos villes du Canada, position qui ne peut lui être enlevée, parce qu'elle est la conséquence d'une loi d'économie publique qu'on remarque chez toutes les nations, et en particulier chez nos voisins, où New York sera toujours la métropole commerciale en dépit de la jalousie des autres villes qui lui disputent ce titre.

COMME VILLE COMMERCIALE

la position de Montréal est particulièrement privilégiée. Elle est à la tête de la navigation océanique et de celle des lacs et des rivières, tandis que ses voies ferrées la mettent en communications directes avec toutes les villes du Canada et des Etats-Unis. Afin de permettre aux vaisseaux de tous les pays de pénétrer dans son port, le chenal a été creusé à une profondeur de vingt-sept pieds aux eaux les plus basses, et on s'occupe encore actuellement à améliorer davantage la condition du fleuve. Pour l'exécution de ces travaux la ville a contracté un emprunt de quatre millions de piastres, ce qui est le plus lourd fardeau qu'on lui ait imposé jusqu'ici. Afin de diminuer cette dette autant que possible, les autorités se sont vues obligées de prélever des droits de port élevés sur les navires, ce qui a donné aux villes d'importance secondaire un avantage d'exercer une concurrence injuste en chargeant moins cher pour les droits de port. Heureusement que le gouvernement fédéral, cédant à des représentations répétées, a consenti à assumer la responsabilité de la dette.

Montréal se trouve être le terminus du réseau le plus complet de chemins de fer : le Grand Tronc avec ses deux embranchements, et plusieurs autres voies ferrées, facilitent les communications avec toutes les grandes villes du Canada et de la république américaine, pendant que le chemin de fer Canadien du Pacifique, ce magnifique produit de l'industrie humaine, cette merveille du génie civil, vient aboutir à cette ville après avoir traversé le continent d'un océan à l'autre. La construction du Pacifique Canadien a contribué le plus à la prospérité du pays, en ouvrant au commerce et à la civilisation d'immenses étendues de terres d'une fertilité et d'une richesse sans égales, et en établissant des communications régulières entre les limites occidentales et orientales de l'ancien monde.

MONTREAL N'EST PAS SEULEMENT LE PREMIER PORT

du Canada, elle en est aussi le centre le plus manufacturier. Au nombre de ses industries elle compte des fonderies, des raffineries de sucre, des tanneries, des fabriques de soie, des manufactures qui produisent les articles de feronnerie, les voitures d'été et d'hiver, les balais, la menuiserie, les outils, les locomotives, les machines et les chaudières à vapeur, les marchandises en caoutchouc, les presses à imprimer, les instruments aratoires, les instruments de musique, le papier, la corderie, les machines à coudre, les caractères d'imprimerie, les épingles, le tabac, les articles en laine et les cotonnades, les chaussures, sans compter nombre d'autres petites industries qu'il serait trop long d'énumérer. Mentionnons, en outre, des scieries, des moulins à farine, des laminoirs, des plomberies, des fonderies pour le cuivre, et une foule d'autres établissements industriels.

Sous le rapport de l'éducation, Montréal possède l'Université McGill avec ses facultés de droit, de médecine, de science et des arts, une succursale de l'Université Laval où l'on enseigne la théologie, le droit, la médecine et les arts; ajoutons à ces dernières des institutions où Catholiques Romains, Anglicains, Presbytériens et Méthodistes peuvent suivre les cours complets et réguliers de théologie; un collège tenu par les Jésuites, une école modèle, deux écoles normales, et plusieurs académies où l'on peut faire des études classiques ou scientifiques. Les écoles élémentaires sont sous le contrôle respectif de commissaires catholiques et de commissaires protestants. Il y a aussi deux écoles de médecine, dont l'une est affiliée au Collège Bishop de Lennoxville et l'autre au Collège Victoria, de Cobourg. Comme preuve du volume d'affaires qui se transigent dans cette ville, disons qu'on trouve à Montréal seize banques, vingt-six bureaux d'assurance contre le feu, et seize sur la vie; il y a treize marchés publics, dont le plus remarquable est le marché Bonsecours avec sa coupole en bronze et sa façade imposante. C'était là où le conseil-de-ville tenait autrefois ses séances. On calcule que la vente des produits de ferme rapporte annuellement un montant de $650,000; sur ce chiffre, le marché Bonsecours, le plus grand de toute la ville, réclame à lui seul $250,000.

Afin d'accommoder les relations d'affaires qui sont nombreuses avec les différents pays étrangers, les nations suivantes sont représentées à Montréal par des consuls et des vice-consuls: La Confédération Argentine, l'Autriche et la Hongrie, la Belgique, le Chili et le Pérou, le Danemark, la France, l'Allemagne, le royaume de Hawaï, les Pays-Bas, la Suède et la Norvège, la République d'Uruguay, l'Espagne, la Suisse et les Etats-Unis.

Montréal est le chef-lieu d'un district judiciaire où neuf juges rendent la justice. Il y a aussi la cour d'appel qui y siège dans les mois de février, mai, octobre et décembre. La section du barreau de la province de Québec qui pratique à Montréal compte environ 370 membres. Un archevêque catholique romain et un évêque anglicain veillent aux intérêts spirituels de la population. La ville est représentée au parlement fédéral par trois députés et par trois autres à la législature locale. En résumé, Montréal est la ville la plus riche et la plus considérable de toute la Puissance du Canada.

L'AVANCEMENT DANS LE PROGRÈS. D

Non satisfaits de voir Montréal la première ville du Canada, un certain nombre de ses principaux citoyens se sont réunis au mois de février 1887, et ont formé une organisation qui porte le nom de "Association pour l'avancement et le progrès de la cité." Comme il est facile de le supposer, le but de cette organisation n'a été que les intérêts de la ville et les moyens à adopter pour promouvoir son avancement. Les procédés préliminaires furent le choix des officiers et la nomination de sept comités, savoir:—un comité exécutif, dont le devoir est de prendre en considération tout ce qui se rattache à l'Association et d'en décider finalement; un comité des parcs et voies publiques, dont le rôle est de s'occuper des améliorations à la voirie; un comité de finances; un comité du havre, des docks et des inondations; un comité de construction et de salubrité; un de législation; et un autre d'amusements.

Ayant à leur tête des hommes actifs, ces comités ont déjà fait beaucoup pour provoquer les améliorations désirées. Le comité des parcs et voies publiques a conçu un plan de boulevards, ayant pour objet de mettre toutes les parties de la cité en communication avec le centre, ainsi qu'un système de parcs publics pour répondre aux besoins à venir de la ville.

Par ce moyen on pourrait convertir en parcs et en jardins publics, qui contribueraient pour une si large part à la salubrité publique, de grandes étendues de terrains qui sont et qui demeurent vacants. Pour en arriver à cette amélioration, il suffirait d'amender le système actuel d'évaluation et de donner au mode d'expropriation aujourd'hui une portée plus libérale.

De leur côté les membres du comité sur la construction des maisons et sur l'état sanitaire de notre ville ne sont pas restés oisifs. Mettant à profit les connaissances et l'expérience de plusieurs ingénieurs distingués, ils ont suggéré au conseil de ville tout un système d'améliorations par lesquelles la santé publique y gagnerait considérablement, et qui mettraient la population de Montréal à l'abri des maladies épidémiques.

Le Comité des expositions a mis à l'étude un projet qui, s'il réussit, assurera à Montréal la préséance sur toutes les autres villes du Canada, comme site pour des expositions permanentes et périodiques qui attireront au milieu de nous, non seulement des visiteurs de toutes parties de notre continent, mais des pays étrangers qui sont séparés de nous par l'Océan. Ils viendront contribuer de leurs deniers et de leurs connaissances industrielles à la prospérité générale.

Le comité de la législation a prouvé lui aussi son utilité en prenant part à la révision de la charte, de sorte que tous, bien qu'avec des attributions différentes, s'acheminent vers le même but.

L'association pour l'avancement et le progrès de la ville compte aujourd'hui au-delà de cent membres, tous citoyens de fortune et de renom, qui ont à cœur le succès de l'entreprise, pas tant parcequ'ils prévoient qu'il en résultera pour eux une source de profit, que parcequ'ils veulent la faire grande au-dessus de toute la ville qui les a vus naître et pour laquelle ils éprouvent un légitime orgueil. Ils sont aidés dans leurs efforts par la presse, qu'on voit toujours disposée à faire Montréal encore plus intéressante, plus prospère qu'elle ne l'est en réalité. En face d'une entente aussi générale, d'un but aussi patriotique, on peut affirmer sans crainte, qu'avant longtemps, Montréal deviendra sous le rapport de la beauté, des avantages et de la salubrité, comme sous celui du site et du commerce, une ville sans rivale.

L'AQUEDUC DE MONTRÉAL.

Le développement rapide de Montréal, en étendue comme en population, a eu pour effet de démontrer la nécessité indispensable d'aviser aux moyens d'augmenter sa provision d'eau, de manière à subvenir aux besoins de la population. Malgré tous les efforts tentés dans ce but jusqu'aujourd'hui, les sommes considérables dépensées pour donner à cette partie du service public toute l'efficacité désirable, il est évident que notre aqueduc, tel que constitué maintenant, s'il n'est pas insuffisant, dans le sens absolu du mot, demande pour répondre aux besoins de la population le déploiement incessant de toutes ses forces, de toutes ses ressources. Dans de semblables circonstances, les autorités ont abordé la question de front, et décidé mettre fin à semblable état de chose. Après des études approfondies, voici le plan soumis par le surintendant du département, M. Louis Lesage, ingénieur civil, à l'effet d'agrandir et de construire l'aqueduc sur de nouvelles bases. Il s'agirait de creuser un grand canal d'une largeur de 78 pieds à sa base et de 130 pieds au niveau de l'eau, avec une profondeur de 14 pieds. Ces travaux seraient exécutés sur le fleuve St. Laurent en amont des rapides de Lachine, et quelque peu en aval de Fraser Hill. A cet endroit ils rejoindraient l'aqueduc actuel à peu près 3400 pieds plus bas que son embouchure, le traverseraient, et se continueraient en ligne parallèle avec lui, jusqu'à la maison des pompes, où les eaux seraient reçues dans un réservoir d'une superficie de cent arpents. De fortes jetées faites avec le surplus de la terre retirée des excavations, et s'avancant dans le St. Laurent, formeraient un grand bassin à eau tranquille. Le réservoir projeté représentera un carré parfait, dont chaque côté mesurera 1800 pieds ; c'est de là que l'eau, une fois les impuretés déposées, pénétrera dans la chambre aux pompes.

Cet aqueduc pourra, en hiver, lorsqu'il sera recouvert d'une couche de glace de deux pieds d'épaisseur, fournir assez d'eau pour permettre aux machines de transférer trente millions de gallons d'eau, mesure impériale, par vingt-quatre heures, à la hauteur du présent réservoir. Cette opération nécessitera un pouvoir représentant 1600 chevaux-vapeur ; pendant la saison d'été, à l'époque où les eaux ont atteint leur hauteur moyenne, le pouvoir des deux aqueducs sera de 5000 chevaux-vapeur, et pourra repousser dans le réservoir actuel cent millions de gallons d'eau par jour. La construction de ces travaux, non compris la machinerie et les nouveaux édifices, les pompes, les tuyaux principaux et autres accessoires, coûtera $1,850,193 ; le tout inclus s'élèvera à $4,019,972. Bien que cette dépense paraisse énorme, il faut admettre que les autorités ont agi avec sagesse en adoptant ce nouveau projet, qui aura pour effet de faire disparaître tout sentiment d'inquiétude dans la population au sujet de l'approvisionnement de l'eau ; sans compter toutes les autres améliorations auxquelles on pourra servir l'aqueduc, tels que l'éclairage complet de toutes nos rues au moyen de l'électricité, ou le nettoyage et la ventilation des égouts et tuyaux de renvoi. Dans la suite des temps on constatera que cette entreprise non seulement rapportera des profits, mais représentera annuellement une économie véritable.

De 1766 à 1833, les affaires municipales de Montréal furent administrées par des juges de paix tenant des sessions spéciales à cet effet. La ville obtint son incorporation en 1832 en vertu d'un acte du premier parlement, George IV, chap. 59. Elle comprenait alors huit quartiers :—Est, Ouest, Ste. Anne, St. Joseph, St. Antoine, St. Laurent, St. Louis et Ste. Marie, avec le droit pour chaque quartier d'élire deux conseillers. Le nouveau conseil se réunit le 5 juin 1833, et élut comme maire Jacques Viger, Ecr., qui occupa cette charge jusqu'à l'époque de la seconde incorporation en 1840.

Le village de Montréal n'était auparavant qu'une petite bourgade de peu d'importance. M. Black le trésorier de la cité a en sa possession un vieux manuscrit qui représente le rôle d'évaluation pour l'année 1817. On constate d'après ce document que Montréal comptait à cette date 1757 maisons. On lit avec intérêt dans cette vieille relique des premiers temps de la ville, les noms des pères et des ancêtres de plusieurs de nos citoyens les plus respectables et les plus fortunés.

Peu, probablement, ont tenu compte du développement ferme et constant de Montréal. Elle s'est agrandie en étendue dans toutes les directions, les petites municipalités environnantes suivant la loi de la gravitation, et devenant absorbées dans le tout principal. Sa superficie qui, à la date de son incorporation, était de 3498 arpents est aujourd'hui de 5366 arpents, en y comprenant 1230 arpents par l'annexion de la municipalité d'Hoche-laga en 1885; 308 arpents par l'annexion de St. Jean Baptiste en 1886; et 330 arpents par celle de St. Gabriel en 1887. Chaque municipalité en devenant partie intégrante de la ville a été constituée en quartiers, ce qui fait que Montréal la ville est subdivisée en douze quartiers. Mais ce n'est pas dans l'agrandissement de son territoire que les progrès se sont faits surtout remarquer. Ce qui n'était, il y a encore que champs déserts ou vastes pâturages, s'est transformé aujourd'hui en quartiers populeux, qui s'appellent St. Antoine, Ste. Anne, Ste. Marie, et St. Jacques. D'un autre côté, les faubourgs Est, Ouest, et Centre qui constituent la partie commerciale de Montréal se font remarquer par la richesse et les proportions grandioses de leurs édifices.

En 1800, la population de la ville était de 9000 âmes; en 1825, de 22,000; en 1831 de 27,937. Le dernier recensement qui a eu lieu en 1887 élève ce chiffre, en y comprenant le quartier St. Gabriel, à 200,000 habitants.

Le rapport du recensement de 1881 accuse l'augmentation suivante depuis 1851. Ces recensements se font à tous les dix ans et d'après l'ordre du gouvernement.

En 1851 la population s'élevait à	57,715 âmes
En 1861 " "	91,323 "
En 1871 " "	107,225 "
En 1881 " "	140,727 "

Montréal compte actuellement au-delà de 220,000 habitants.

Il est difficile d'expliquer cette diminution dans l'accroissement de population pendant la décade comprise entre 1861 et 1871. Peut-être pourrait-on l'attribuer au fait que d'un côté l'immigration s'est toujours continuée sur le même pied pendant cette période, si elle n'a pas été plus grande; et que de l'autre une immense quantité de Canadiens-Français ont quitté leurs pays et traversé la frontière, attirés par les promesses alléchantes de spéculateurs éhontés qui les ont attirés dans la république voisine.

En outre du recensement officiel du gouvernement, les évaluateurs de la ville au cours de leur visite annuelle font aussi de temps en temps des relevés, dont l'exactitude, bien que simplement approximative, n'a pas moins son utilité en indiquant le développement graduel dans les différents quartiers. Voici, suivant ces données, le progrès qui s'est opéré de 1877 à 1887 :—

Quartiers.	1877.	1887.	Augmentation.
Est	3,159	4,186	1,027
Ouest	1,156	2,39	19,833
Centre	1,412	1,434	22
Ste. Anne	19,641	26,462	5,811
St. Antoine	27,506	42,542	15,036
St. Laurent	14,410	16,547	2,137
St. Louis	16,452	22,308	5,854
St. Jacques	19,143	28,293	9,147
Ste. Marie	14,983	29,329	12,346
Hoche-laga		6,343	6,343
St. Jean Baptiste		8,834	8,834

D'après ces chiffres, il appert clairement que pendant que les quartiers du centre de la ville ont demeuré à peu près à l'état stationnaire, une transformation complète s'est opérée dans les districts extérieurs. De longues rangées de maisons, de riches résidences, de nombreux magasins ou de gracieuses villas s'élèvent aujourd'hui sur ce qui, il y a à peine quelques années, n'était que des terrains perdus ou des pâturages. D'un autre côté il faut non pas attribuer ces développements successifs à l'augmentation de la population, mais bien plutôt au changement qui s'est fait dans le genre de vie et les goûts des citoyens de Montréal. La tendance générale à l'heure qu'il est est de construire et résider aux confins de la ville, abandonnant aux affaires et au commerce la partie centrale ou le cœur de la cité. Jadis, le marchand de gros ou le commerçant se contentaient de quelques pièces au-dessus du magasin ou du bureau, sur les rues Notre Dame ou St. Paul, c'est là qu'ils ont fait leur fortune. Aujourd'hui leurs fils ont leurs résidences dans ce qui n'était alors que les faubourgs de la ville.

De ce changement dans la manière de vivre il est résulté deux choses : non seulement les parties reculées de la ville se sont vues occupées par des résidences nouvelles, mais les vieilles maisons ont été démolies pour faire place à des comprenant des banques, des bureaux d'assurance et d'hommes d'affaires, et de longs blocs de riches magasins. Qu'il nous suffise de dire que Montréal compte aujourd'hui quarante-six mille maisons. Le coût de la construction à venir à 1887 s'élève à un montant de $15,964,497, et ce chiffre ne comprend ni la valeur du terrain, ni les différentes améliorations ou changements apportés aux édifices qui existaient déjà. Les constructions annuelles sont plus belles et plus dispendieuses qu'elles n'ont jamais été jusqu'ici, et pourtant, détail remarquable, la plupart de ceux qui les élèvent n'ont pas besoin de recourir à des emprunts pour subvenir aux frais des travaux. Bien que le nombre des maisons nouvelles se soit si rapidement accru, bien peu sont inoccupées ; plus que cela, il arrive souvent qu'elles sont louées avant même que leurs fondations soient posées. Toutes ces maisons, tous ces édifices sont de construction solide, la plus grande partie en pierre de taille, ce qui ajoute à leur apparence ; elles y gagnent ainsi sous le rapport du confort, donnant la fraîcheur en été et étant à l'épreuve du froid en hiver.

Montréal réclame le titre, et elle le mérite certainement, de "Ville des Eglises." Comme Mark Twain le faisait remarquer, "c'est la seule ville où un homme ne peut lancer une brique sans s'exposer à briser le vitrail d'un temple religieux." On y compte soixante-et-quinze églises de toutes dénominations, et sur ce nombre plusieurs sont des constructions remarquables.

Au nombre des riches et splendides édifices élevés depuis quelques années, mentionnons le bureau de poste sur la rue St. Jacques, bâti en 1876, et qui a coûté $400,000, et le nouvel Hotel-de-Ville, $225,000. La Cathédrale, cet immense monument qu'on admire sur la place Dominion, coûtera, terminée, $1,300,000. Citons encore l'Hotel Windsor avec ses 434 chambres, et qui peut recevoir et accommoder 750 voyageurs de passage ; sa construction a coûté $1,100,000. Cet établissement peut marcher de pair avec aucun autre de ce genre sur tout le continent.

L'édifice de la Banque de Montréal est un des plus beaux de toute l'Amérique. On remarque aussi, en voie de construction :

DEUX SPLENDIDES GARES

de chemin de fer, la propriété du Grand Tronc et du Pacifique Canadien ; une église, style gothique pour les Méthodistes ; de riches blocs pour bureaux d'avocats et d'hommes d'affaires, y compris les édifices imposants des compagnies d'assurance sur la vie de New York et de l'Impériale. Enfin, on verra d'ici à quelque temps s'élever une nouvelle annexe qu'on ajoute au Palais de Justice, devenu insuffisant pour les besoins de la profession.

Les rues de Montréal représentent aujourd'hui un parcours de 145 milles. De 1878 à 1886, les autorités ont fait construire 15 milles et 165 verges d'égouts, ce qui ajoute à ceux qui existaient déjà, représentant une longueur de 90 milles. La plus forte acquisition faite par la ville a été celle du Mont-Royal, dans l'intervalle entre 1872 et 1875. La montagne qui se dresse au milieu de la plaine a une hauteur de 550 pieds. Elle a été convertie en parc public, et jusqu'aujourd'hui la corporation a dépensé $1,622,337 pour en faire un lieu d'amusements. On parvient au sommet de trois manières: d'abord par une route carrossable, qui, partant de la base, contourne en spirale les flancs et conduit au point le plus élevé; il y a aussi les escaliers qui se composent de 427 marches; enfin on peut parcourir le même chemin au moyen d'un élévateur. Les touristes sont unanimes à déclarer que la route du parc offre une des plus belles promenades de tout le continent. A un certain endroit elle offre à l'admiration du spectateur deux points de vues incomparables: un sur le St. Laurent avec ses mille îles verdoyantes parsemées sur son parcours et l'autre sur le lac des Deux-Montagnes, pendant que dans le lointain on distingue, lorsque l'atmosphère est pure, les montagnes du Vermont et une partie des Adirondacks.

LES CONSTRUCTIONS DE L'ANNÉE DERNIÈRE.

L'inspecteur des édifices déclare dans son rapport officiel que les opérations de 1888 ont été considérables, et il fixe à mille le nombre des maisons nouvelles qui ont été construites pendant l'année dans les limites de la ville, ce qui est une augmentation de trois cents sur l'année précédente. Selon lui, semblable résultat ne s'est pas encore présenté depuis 1871, époque où tout le monde était pris de la fièvre de construire. Mais quelle différence entre 1871 et 1888. Dans le premier cas, la spéculation seule était le mobile de la construction, et c'est tellement le cas qu'un grand nombre de maisons commencées demeurèrent ainsi plusieurs années avant d'être terminées. Il en a été bien autrement: l'année dernière on constate un besoin réel de nouvelles maisons, et n'y aurait-il que les loyers, qui ont été et demeurent à un chiffre élevé, que cela suffirait pour prouver que la construction était nécessaire.

Les opinions se divisent sur la valeur réelle des maisons nouvelles bâties l'année dernière. Comme il n'existe aucune loi exigeant un rapport exact et officiel, ou la production des plans devant accompagner chaque permis de construire dans la ville, il est assez difficile d'établir le chiffre certain des maisons nouvelles et du coût de leur construction. L'inspecteur le fixe à trois millions de dollars, ce qui représente un excédant de près d'un million sur l'année précédente. Les calculs d'autres personnes sont encore plus élevés, tant pour le nombre que pour la valeur des maisons. Ainsi, d'après un architecte, il ne s'est pas construit moins de trois mille maisons au cours de l'année dernière; un autre élève ce chiffre à quatre mille, tant dans la ville que dans les municipalités environnantes. Fait certain, c'est que la construction est très active dans Saint Jean Baptiste; dans ce seul quartier on compte dans une seule année 240 maisons nouvelles.

En autant qu'il s'agit de constructions, on constate aussi que le quartier St. Antoine se développe rapidement, sans compter les deux nouvelles gares du Grand Tronc et du Pacifique, l'église Méthodiste sur la rue Ste. Catherine, on remarque un grand nombre de nouvelles résidences privées d'un prix élevé et d'un goût exquis.

AUGMENTATION DANS LE REVENU DE MONTRÉAL, D'APRÈS SES PROPRIÉTÉS IMMOBILIÈRES.

Pendant que Montréal recule ses limites d'année en année, que sa population augmente, que le nombre et la valeur de ses constructions se multiplient, il est facile de juger que sous le rapport financier, ses ressources et ses revenus accusent un progrès qui va toujours croissant. En jetant un regard sur le tableau ci-dessous, qui indique la valeur de la propriété taxable, et sa progression toujours ascendante pendant la période de temps écoulée de 1880 à 1887, on verra que la taxe imposée sur la propriété foncière constitue la principale source de revenu pour la ville.

1881.....	66,483,810	1885.....	72,877,834
1882.....	68,157,665	1886.....	74,786,581
1883.....	70,478,380	1887.....	101,758,512

En sus de la propriété immobilière évaluée, il y a à Montréal des terrains représentant une valeur de $17,117,340, et qui sont exempts de taxes, ce sont :—

Les propriétés appartenant au gouvernement	$2,419,500
Les propriétés appartenant à la Corporation	4,282,500
Les propriétés appartenant au Séminaire.....	754,700
Eglises { Catholiques	1,462,000
{ Protestantes.....	1,202,500
Les propriétés curiales { Catholiques	279,500
{ Protestantes.....	190,300
Institutions { Catholiques	4,464,600
de bienfaisance { Protestantes.....	1,289,100
Manufactures.....	772,500
Total	$17,117,340

On comprendra l'éloquence de ces chiffres lorsque nous dirons qu'en 1886-87 le total du montant d'évaluation pour Québec, qui est pourtant de date beaucoup plus ancienne, et la deuxième ville de la Province sur le rapport de l'importance, s'est élevé à $15,386,700, avec une autre somme de $3,372,000, représentant les terrains exempts de taxes.

L'évaluation des propriétés est faite chaque année par des employés spéciaux qui visitent toutes les parties de la ville. Bien que les évaluateurs aient pour instruction de donner la valeur réelle et vendable de chaque immeuble, il est entendu que leur estimation doit être considérée comme étant en moyenne vingt-cinq pour cent au-dessous de ce chiffre, de sorte qu'on peut dire en toute sûreté que la valeur réelle de la propriété immobilière à Montréal représente le joli chiffre de $125,000,000.

Le taux de l'évaluation annuelle est de un cent sur la valeur réelle. On ajoute un cinquième pour la taxe scolaire, qui est prélevée et perçue par la ville et remise aux commissaires des écoles nommés par le gouvernement et par la ville; elle sert à payer les frais d'administration.

Outre cette taxe de un et un cinquième qui affecte la propriété, il en est une autre portant le nom de taxe de l'eau, et qui est déterminée d'après le revenu annuel de la propriété foncière; elle représente un montant d'à peu près sept et demi par cent. Il y a aussi la taxe d'affaire imposée sur tous les établissements de commerce d'après leur revenu annuel, et qui, elle aussi, s'élève à sept et demi pour cent. Mentionnons aussi en passant certaines qu'on applique sur les chevaux, les voitures, les chiens, etc. ; ces dernières portent le nom de taxes personnelles. Les marchés et les amendes imposées par le recorder représentent aussi une source de revenus considérables pour la ville. Les frais pour construction d'égouts ou améliorations des rues sont supportés en tout ou en partie par les contribuables qui bénéficient ou de ces égouts ou de ces améliorations.

Les différentes branches du revenu ont rapporté en 1886 $1,908,859. Nous donnons ci-dessous un tableau comparatif, qui démontrera les développements successifs de la ville par les montants perçus chaque année :—

1830.....	$150,000	1870.....	$ 800,000
1835.....	225,000	1875.....	1,325,000
1860.....	450,000	1880.....	1,500,000
1865.....	600,000

Une courte analyse du revenu réel perçu en 1886 servira à démontrer qu'en tenant compte de tous les détails, le montant des taxes que les contribuables ont à payer chaque année n'est en somme pas trop élevé. Il ressort de ces chiffres que dans cette année-là, sur un revenu de près de deux millions de dollars, la propriété immobilière ne s'est trouvée affectée que pour un montant de $665,034. La taxe scolaire représente (ou du moins devrait représenter) une économie, si on compare les recettes avec les dépenses ; au sujet de l'eau, il s'agit d'un besoin, c'est une nécessité pour l'entretien de la maison, et c'est tellement le cas, que si elle était fournie par une institution comme la compagnie du gaz, cette dépense ne serait pas considérée comme une taxe ; les loyers des étaux et autres revenus des marchés ne sont à bien dire que l'intérêt sur les placements de la cité, et ainsi de suite.

Les crédits annuels votés pour l'administration des affaires de la ville sont basés sur le chiffre des recettes de l'exercice financier précédent, cinq pour cent sont réservés pour les dépenses contingentes. La loi prévoit à ce qu'un montant soit mis de côté chaque année, pour le paiement de l'intérêt sur la dette générale et à l'acquit du fonds d'amortissement.

Montréal jouit d'un crédit si bien établi que, pas plus tard que l'année dernière, les autorités municipales réussissaient à placer, à quatre pour cent, sur le marché monétaire, un grand nombre d'obligations en garantie, ce qui permettait le rachat de certaines obligations dues directement par la ville, et sur lesquelles un intérêt de six pour cent était payé.

VALEUR IMMOBILIÈRE DE MONTRÉAL

PUBLIQUE ET PARTICULIÈRE.

La propriété immobilière dans Montréal représente une valeur considérable. En consultant le rôle d'évaluation de 1887, on arrive au montant de $101,758,512, ce qui est pourtant bien au-dessus de la valeur réelle, attendu que les évaluateurs qui font cette estimation sont le plus souvent guidés dans leurs calculs par des sentiments personnels qui compromettent beaucoup l'impartialité qui devrait toujours se faire remarquer dans leur rapport.

On peut donc garantir en toute assurance que la valeur ainsi donnée aux biens-fonds est très inférieure au prix du marché. Cette différence en moins peut certainement être fixée à vingt-cinq pour cent, de sorte qu'en rectifiant les calculs nous arriverons à un chiffre de $127,198,140. La propriété foncière se distribue entre 1317 propriétaires. Il faut considérer comme un gage de prospérité cette diffusion des immeubles entre un grand nombre de personnes. En effet, elle ne peut que produire l'indépendance d'action provoquer l'émulation, et inspirer l'esprit d'entreprise, trois conditions de succès qui font défaut lorsque le monopole de la propriété est entre les mains d'une ou deux personnes. On peut diviser la propriété immobilière comme suit, par quartiers :

Est....	$4,315,200	St Louis.....	$7,340,520
Centre.....	5,791,700	St Jacques.....	8,950,510
Ouest....	9,023,300	Ste Marie.....	6,934,260
Ste Anne.....	10,119,070	Hochelaga....	2,968,555
St Antoine.....	34,072,150	St Jean Baptiste.....	2,124,465
St Laurent.....	9,267,710	St Gabriel.....	1,734,290

Dans les trois quartiers les plus anciens, on ne peut s'attendre à plus de développement, attendu que tout le terrain disponible est occupé ; la valeur n'en pourrait augmenter que si on opérât des changements dans les bâtisses, ou si on améliorerait leur construction actuelle. Le progrès se fait surtout sentir d'une manière considérable dans ces quartiers qui ont été dernièrement annexés à la ville, surtout dans St Jean Baptiste. Dans les quartiers Ste Anne et St Gabriel, la propriété a acquis une valeur nouvelle par la construction de la levée, destinée à opposer une barrière aux invasions annuelles du St Laurent, et qui a si bien préservé, le printemps dernier, les parties en danger contre les conséquences désastreuses de l'inondation. Comme on peut le voir, le quartier St Antoine est de beaucoup le plus riche de toute la ville. En effet, c'est là où on admire les plus riches résidences, et les rues les plus larges et les mieux entretenues ; nos capitalistes les plus fortunés y ont là leur demeure. Ce quartier continue de jour en jour à s'agrandir, et les lots vacants se couvrent de constructions nouvelles ; dans la seule année de 1886 à 1887, la valeur de la propriété foncière a augmenté de $1,968,250.

En général, la demande est très active pour la propriété immobilière, et les propriétaires se succèdent chaque année dans l'achat des terrains. Au mois de janvier dernier (ce mois est l'époque de l'année où il se fait le plus d'achats de maisons et de terrains), on a constaté qu'il s'était vendu 162 immeubles représentant un montant de $503,430

La population de Montréal augmente si rapidement, que d'ici à quelques années le nombre des maisons sera insuffisant pour la demande qui en sera faite.

Il fait toujours plaisir de voir les citoyens d'une ville lutter entre eux de zèle et d'émulation pour promouvoir ses intérêts et activer son développement. Tel est le fait qu'on peut voir à Montréal. Il s'est formé dans son sein une société qui a pris nom : "L'association du progrès et de l'avancement de la cité de Montréal," et dont le but est de lui conquérir le sceptre sur toutes ses rivales pour la richesse, la beauté et la grandeur

CAPITAL ET PLACEMENTS DIVERS.

La fortune investie de Montréal est très considérable, dépassant de beaucoup celle d'un grand nombre de villes de même population sur ce continent. Les nombreuses corporations, les entreprises commerciales, la concentration des lignes de chemins de fer, e grand surplus d'affaires, ainsi que les travaux collatéraux qui s'y rattachent, mais ne sont pas nécessairement visibles à première vue, sont la cause de de tous genres, que l'on doit strictement admettre comme formant la richesse de cette cité ; mais toute l'étendue d'un examen de semblable importance ne peut guère être traitée à souhait dans l'espace trop restreint du présent livre. En prenant les principaux possesseurs du capital, il est aisé de se former une idée réelle de l'accumulation des propriétés de notre ville.

Nécessairement, le centre du mouvement financier pour le Canada se trouve être à Montréal ; le capital commercial de la Puissance et le premier établissement monétaire du pays se trouvent dans nos murs. Le développement du système de banques de Montréal et les facilités commerciales en découlant ont toujours été marqués pour ne pas dire davantage

D'UNE RAPIDITÉ PHÉNOMÉNALE.

Pendant fort longtemps, il n'y eût que deux établissements financiers, ici et dans le voisinage : les banques de Montréal et de Québec ; ceci put être suffisant à l'enfance du commerce de Montréal. Quant à la manière de conduire les opérations financières de ces deux banques pendant cette première période d'opération, nous n'en puissions que de faibles informations dans les statistiques qu'elles présentaient de temps à autre. La formidable expansion du commerce peut être jugée par une comparaison du travail opéré dans la banque de Montréal depuis 50 ans. Etablie en l'année 1817, cette si grande institution d'à présent n'avait alors qu'un capital de $350,000. A la fin de la première année, elle nous montra sur ses livres une réserve de 4,000 dollars. Elle fut réincorporée en 1837, avec un capital de 500,000 livres. Aujourd'hui elle arrive seulement seconde après la banque d'Angleterre, avec un capital de 12 millions de dollars, une réserve de 6 millions, trente succursales, et un nom connu dans le monde entier. Aujourd'hui, Montréal a seize banques, dont huit ont leurs quartiers généraux dans notre cité, et c'est dans la plupart de ces établissements que se trouve et quelques-uns des possesseurs de stock financier en ont des parts vraiment larges parts dans diverses banques. Parmi les plus considérables on peut citer Sir Donald A. Smith, ayant un stock dans la banque de Montréal seule, estimé sur le marché à quatre ou cinq cent mille dollars.

M. W. C. McDonald est un autre des plus grands capitalistes de cette ville, dont le stock dans la Banque de Montréal seule atteint un demi million de dollars, plus, deux cent mille dans la Banque des Marchands, et cent quatre-vingt mille dans celle du Commerce.

M. R. Hamilton, frère de l'honorable John Hamilton, est aussi un des plus grands possesseurs de stock financier de nos institutions. On lui connaît quatre cent cinquante mille dollars dans la Banque de Montréal, cent trente-sept mille dans celle des Marchands, dix-sept mille deux cent quatre-vingt dans celle du Commerce, treize mille cinq cents dans la Banque Impériale, six mille dans celle de Québec, onze mille sept cent soixante livres dans la Banque British North America, et neuf mille dollars au moins dans celle de Toronto.

PLUSIEURS BIENS DE FAMILLES

représentent dans cette cité de très gros montants. La famille Molson possède un stock dans la Banque de Montréal, dans celle du Commerce, celle des Marchands, d'Ontario et Impériale, d'une valeur approchant de bien près un million de dollars, tandis que dans la Banque Molson est renfermé un trois quart de million.

La famille Allan possède un fort stock de banques; les valeurs de feu Sir Hugh Allan se montaient dans la Banque des Marchands à trois cent mille piastres, et les autres membres de la famille atteignent le voisinage de deux cent quatre-vingt-dix mille dollars.

Un des plus larges porteurs de parts est encore M. Robert Anderson, qui a $280,000 dans la Banque des Marchands, et près de $250,000 dans celle de Montréal, d'après la liste des cotes. Nous remarquerons dans cette nomenclature des porteurs de parts de la se lit comme suit :

W. Withall, $100,000; Hon. J. Masson (succession de), $20,000; Mary Jane Fry $10,000; l'Hon. P. Chauveau, $20,000.

Les capitalistes de Montréal ayant assez d'argent pour en placer dans diverses autres institutions financières, sont : M. G. B. Burland qui a dans la Banque Fédérale de Toronto $33,000, et M. H. Barbeau, $57,000; M. W. R. Miller, $25,000, dans la Banque d'Ontario; Hon. D. A. Macdonald, $25,000 dans la même institution; M. Joseph Hickson a $11,500 de parts dans la Standard Bank. Mr. T. Williams possède $15,000 dans la Banque des Cantons de l'Est.

M. Andrew Allan a investi $27,000 dans la Banque du Manitoba.

Les $2,000,000 du capital versé de

ont été souscrits principalement par des Montréalais, dont les principaux sont :

J. H. R. Molson, $164,000; Henry Judah, $144,000; Edward Murphy, $160,000; Thos. Workman, $120,000; James O'Brien, $98,000; Mde. Atwater, $86,400; Dr. W. H. Hingston, $80,000; A. Outre ces porteurs de parts il y a des sommes de dix mille piastres et au-dessus, en épargnes dans diverses banques, comme suit : Dans la Banque de Commerce, $331,800; dans la Banque Dominion, $6,550; dans la Fédérale, $34,000; dans l'Imperiale, $4,000; dans la Banque d'Ontario, $171,100; dans la Standard, $26,050; dans celle de Toronto, $283,100; dans la Traders' Bank, $3,500; dans la Banque d'Hamilton, $47,720; dans la Banque d'Ottawa, $2,200; dans la Banque de l'Ouest, $5,000; dans la Banque d'Hochelaga, $276,800; dans la Banque Jacques Cartier, $147,025; dans la Banque des Marchands, $1,500,700; dans la Banque Molson, $301,900; dans la Banque de Montréal, $5,000,000; dans la Banque du Peuple, $469,980; dans la Banque Ville Marie, $148,660; dans la Banque Nationale, $45,400; dans celle de Québec, $71,200; dans la Banque Union, $53,790; dans la Banque des Townships de l'Est, $31,050; dans la Banque de St. Hyacinthe, $18,000; dans la Banque de St. Jean, $11,625; dans celle d'Halifax, $1,360; dans la Banque Union d'Halifax, $1,250; dans la Banque British Columbia, $2,000; dans la Banque du Manitoba, $2,100.

LES COMPAGNIES D'ASSURANCE

sont plus ou moins des récipiends de la fortune de Montréal. Dans les assurances contre les accidents, les capitalistes sont représentés comme suit :

Sir A. T. Galt, $13,500 ; Hon. James Ferrier, $21,000 ; Edward Rawlings, $58,600 ; R. Campbell, $5,000 ; et les porteurs de moindres montants au total de $21,500.

Parmi les parts les plus fortes de la Citoyenne, sont : M. Andrew Allan, $42,000 ; succession de Sir Hugh Allan, $40,000 ; Adolphe Roy, $36,800 ; F. W. Kay, $29,000 ; succession F. X. Beaudry, $28,000 ; Hon. J. J. Abbott, $21,250 ; succession John Pratt, $17,085 ; M. Henry Lyman, $17,000 ; R. Anderson, $8,500 ; succession de l'évêque Bourget, $8,500, et le capital investi se compte par parts de dix mille piastres au montant de $547,830.

Dans la Confederation Life, les plus forts porteurs de parts sont :

M. A. Cameron, $10,000 ; Dr. Hingston, $10,000 ; H. J. Johnson, $11,000 ; M. P. Ryan, $10,000, et les moindres montants atteignent la somme de $14,000.

Dans la Compagnie de Garantie les plus importants sont : E. Rawlings, $36,790 ; Hon. James Ferrier, $20,310 ; M. R. Campbell, $10,840 ; Sir A. T. Galt, $11,000, et le surplus du stock d'environ $39,050 par plus petits montants.

La Royale Canadienne a sur ses livres comme plus forts propriétaires de parts, Messieurs D. McIntyre, $97,950 ; T. McDougall, $67,500 ; Andrew Robertson, $37,650 ; Mr. J. Hodgson, $24,475 ; G. W. Moss, $19,225 ; R. Archer, $14,775 ; Hon. J. R. Thibaut, $13,775 ; W. Smith, $10,425, et différentes sommes non moindres de $10,000, formant un montant de $115,195.

L'assurance Sun possède un capital investi des montants suivants : M. R. Anderson, $39,000 ; A. Buntin, $80,000 ; M. M. Mackenzie, $22,500 ; M. R. Macaulay, $44,500. Les moindres montants également souscrits par des Montréalais atteignent $99,400.

Dans la British American Co., M. Alexander Buntin possède $14,250, et les moindres porteurs arrivent encore à $9,550. La cité contribue aussi par des moindres montants, $16,000 pour la Compagnie d'assurance sur la vie, la Canadienne ; pour $18,000 à la Fédérale, pour $5,000 à la London Life, $24,000 à la North American Life, $5,000 à la Hand-in-Hand, $5,000 à la Life Association du Canada, $18,175 à la Quebec Fire Insurance Co., $2,000 à la Boiler Inspection and Insurance, et $4,600 à la Western Assurance Company.

On peut grandement estimer le capital investi dans la Canada Life Assurance Co. à $1,012,000, et ce, non partagés entre les individus que divisés en fonds de garanties.

Les parts ont atteint le joli chiffre de 420.

Quant à la Sun Life de Montréal, les noms qui suivent méritent le plus d'être considérés : Thomas Workman, $10,000 ; Hon. A. W. Ogilvie, $15,000 ; A. Buntin, $20,000 ; R. Anderson, $39,000 ; W. J. Withall, $20,000 ; M. McKenzie, $22,500 ; R. Macaulay, $49,400 ; C. Alexander, $10,000. En outre, le stock atteint un très fort montant et une réelle valeur par le fait de nos concitoyens qui contribuent les uns et les autres à son plein accroissement en favorisant l'accroissement et le revenu.

Au 31 décembre dernier, les propriétés données en garantie atteignaient la somme énorme de $2,215,928 au moins, dont $891,908 ont été hypothéqués sur la partie la plus riche des propriétés de cette ville.

NAVIGATION.

SON HISTOIRE DEPUIS 1825.

L'étude première et le développement de la route du St. Laurent, embrassant sous le même point de vue le canal de navigation, la construction, l'élargissement de ce magnifique système de canaux qui relient l'Océan avec le commerce fluvial intérieur, peut être sans contradiction portée au crédit et à l'énergie de la communauté mercantile de Montréal. Les hommes d'un demi siècle passé qui ont tiré partie des possibilités offertes par la noble rivière dont la Providence a doté cette contrée, et qui ont su scruter l'avenir du brillant commerce de Montréal, agglomération réelle de celui du Canada, ont tous été imbus du même esprit d'entreprise et de confiance en leur patrie. De même, ceux qui plus tard ont songé au projet grandiose d'un chemin de fer transcontinental de l'Atlantique au Pacifique, augmentant par la force des choses le commerce de Montréal, le point de concentration du commerce canadien, ont jugé sainement de l'importance de Montréal, car cette ville se trouve être le maître anneau de la chaîne commerciale et industrielle du Canada entier, de l'est à l'ouest.

Depuis 1825, d'années en années, les hommes d'affaires de Montréal n'ont cessé de demander et d'agir afin d'obtenir que les navires océaniques fussent en mesure d'arriver tout droit dans notre port, avec leur cargaison entière sans être obligés d'en débarquer une partie à Québec. Ils ont en outre demandé que le creusement du chenal pour arriver à cette fin, qui après tout était à l'avantage de tout, tombât à la charge au trésor fédéral, ils y ont réussi, et le 28 mars 1888 le premier ministre du Canada, annonçait cette bonne nouvelle au Junior Conservative Club. Cette entreprise est une victoire éclatante pour les et leurs associations commerciales, qui, avec le chemin de fer du Pacifique Canadien passer à la postérité comme un des plus grands exploits dans l'histoire du développement du Canada. Le parcours de la navigation du St. Laurent montre qu'il s'étend à moitié à travers le continent de l'Amérique du Nord, avec un peu plus de soixante et dix milles de navigation artificielle sous forme de canaux. Il y a, cependant plus qu'un simple intérêt local au chenal des navires; ce n'est pas seulement la grande route océanique du pays, mais c'est la route naturelle vers l'Europe pour les trois quarts du continent de l'Amérique du Nord, comprenant les terres à grain du Nord-Ouest, les forêts de pins du Wisconsin, et les centres meuniers de St. Paul et de Minneapolis, qui sont maintenant en communication directe avec Montréal, via la voie ferrée du "Sault Ste. Marie." Son existence date d'assez loin dans le passé pour lui donner un intérêt historique. Plusieurs des hommes qui ont travaillé activement à son amélioration sont passés, et leur souvenir n'existe plus, si l'on n'en excepte un ou deux de nos plus vieux citoyens. Les noms de feu l'Hon. John Young, feu Thomas Cramp, M. Hugh McLennan, and M. Andrew Robertson, cependant, sont intimement liés à tout ce qui concerne cette grande œuvre, et à l'avancement de la navigation du St. Laurent. Comme œuvre de génie maritime, le chenal des navires offre un intérêt tout particulier par le fait que, lorsqu'il fut d'abord projeté, les opinions variaient sur la possibilité de son exécution, quelques-uns des grands pilotes d'il y a un demi siècle n'ayant pas foi en sa durée, croyant que ses côtés s'effondreraient ou qu'ils se fendraient. Cette opinion heureusement était fausse, et l'expérience a prouvé que le chenal n'entraîne presque aucune dépense d'entretien.

Les premières agitations pour perfectionner le chenal de navires datent d'aussi loin que 1825 ou 1826. Dans cette dernière année, une pétition des marchands de Montréal fut lue devant l'Assemblée du Bas-Canada, dans laquelle il était avancé, qu'à cause du peu de profondeur de l'eau de la rivière à l'Ile Platte et dans quelques parties du Lac St. Pierre, les navires de mer étant sujets à des inconvénients et des difficultés sans nombre dans leurs trajets entre Québec et Montréal, à l'exception de ceux qui se font durant les deux mois qui suivent immédiatement l'ouverture de la navigation. Qu'à des périodes plus avancées de la saison, de tels vaisseaux sont, ou empêchés d'atteindre Montréal, ou capables d'y arriver qu'après avoir déchargé la plus grande partie de leur cargaison. Que l'intérêt et la ainsi que celle du Haut-Canada, exigeaient que tout obstacle à la navigation de ce grand chenal de communication soit enlevé aussitôt que possible, et, qu'en autant qu'il se pourrait, que la rivière soit rendue navigable en tout temps pour les vaisseaux de mer. Qu'avec de telles vues d'améliorations, les marchands de la cité de Montréal, durant l'automne dernier ont nommé un comité pour obtenir des informations sur la possibilité de ce projet, et en même temps pour faire les demandes nécessaires à la Législature Provinciale, à qui appartient spécialement l'honneur et le pouvoir d'exécuter une œuvre d'une importance aussi considérable."

Un comité de l'assemblée fit des investigations à ce sujet, examina des témoins, et décida que l'importance du sujet exigeait de plus amples informations. En 1831, un examen de rivière et du Lac St. Pierre fut fait par l'Amirauté Britannique, et en 1836 le sujet fut de nouveau discuté, et de nouvelles preuves déposées devant le Bureau de commerce. Le premier succès atteint par les Montréalais fut un bonus de £500, voté en 1838, pour le mesurage du Lac St. Pierre; ceci était le résultat d'une pétition faite par le Bureau de commerce de Montréal, signée par son président, Austin Cuvillier, dans laquelle il était établi que : le tirage d'eau des vaisseaux traversant l'Atlantique était d'une moyenne de 14 à 16 pieds, ce qui rendait nécessaire le déchargement d'une grande partie de la cargaison avant le passage du lac, que des hommes savants avaient assuré que le chenal pouvait être creusé de seize pieds à très peu de frais, et demandant une appropriation pour défrayer les dépenses de mesurage. Après une longue investigation sur l'étendue du fardeau imposé au commerce par les obstacles à la navigation que l'on demandait de faire disparaître, et un estimé du creusage du chenal à 16 pieds, il fut résolu de commencer les travaux. Alors s'éleva la question de savoir quelle était la meilleure location pour le chenal à travers le lac, savoir si le chenal naturel devait être creusé ou celui qui était connu comme étant le chenal droit. Les travaux furent enfin commencés au printemps de 1844 dans le chenal droit, mais il s'éleva tant d'opposition qu'en 1847 les travaux furent suspendus. Les discussions et investigations continuèrent jusqu'en 1850, lorsque les commissaires du Havre de Montréal firent leur apparition sur la scène d'opérations et proposèrent de prendre les travaux en mains, demandant l'autorisation d'emprunter de l'argent dont l'intérêt n'excéderait pas huit par cent; l'intérêt de même qu'un fonds d'amortissement de deux pour cent devant provenir d'un droit de tonnage n'excédant pas un chelin par tonneau sur tout vaisseau tirant dix pieds et au-delà pour chaque fois qu'il passerait dans le chenal; les déficits éventuels devant être couverts par le havre,

HAVRE DE MONTREAL.

La même année, un acte fut passé autorisant les commissaires d'emprunter £30,000, les dragueurs leur étant aussi transférés. En Novembre 1851, le chenal naturel sur le lac, d'environ 10 pieds 6 pouces, fut creusé de 2 pieds. En Août 1852, un vaisseau tirant 14 pieds y passait; en 1856, on creusa le chenal à une profondeur de 16 pieds, et à 18 pieds en 1857. Les Commissaires du Havre à cette époque représentèrent au Gouvernement que les travaux exécutés jusqu'alors assuraient la possibilité d'obtenir un chenal de la profondeur requise sur toute la longueur de la rivière jusqu'à l'entrée du canal Lachine, reliant la marine océanique avec la navigation intérieure du pays; et en 1860, il fut décidé que les améliorations sur le fleuve seraient considérées comme travaux publics. Des travaux ont depuis été dirigés avec une grande énergie par les Commissaires du Havre sous l'habile direction de leur ingénieur-en-Chef, M. John Kennedy, et de ses assistants. En 1878, une profondeur de 22 pieds fut atteinte, en 1882 elle fut augmentée à 25 pieds, et aujourd'hui un chenal de 27½ pieds est creusé, complétant ainsi les travaux.

Les frais de creusage du chenal des navires, de sa profondeur naturelle 10 pieds 6 pouces à celle de 25 pieds en 1882, étaient de $1,108,470, comprenant les appareils qui ont coûté $534,809. Pour compléter les travaux à 27½ pieds, il faudra déboursier $900,000, c'est-à-dire une somme totale de $5,008,470 pour faciliter le passage des vaisseaux de mer à l'embouchure de la navigation océanique.

PORT DE MONTRÉAL.

Le port de Montréal, formant ainsi qu'il le fait l'union entre l'océan et la navigation intérieure, possède des avantages qui le constituent le point de distribution à l'intérieur et à l'extérieur de l'immense territoire qui borde les vastes mers intérieures du continent de l'Amérique du Nord. Lors de la Confédération, la dette du Havre de Montréal était d'à peu près $1,126,000. Depuis ce temps il a été dépensé au delà de $1,520,000, formant un total de $2,646,000. La dette actuelle est de $1,881,000, ce qui fait une différence de $765,000 payée par le revenu. Beaucoup plus cependant, a été payé par le revenu, car le montant dépensé pour le havre, qui embrasse une distance d'environ cinq milles de longueur, s'étendant de la rivière St. Pierre à la Longue Pointe, est d'à peu près $3,200,000. Tout ceci a été payé avec les droits de tonnage et les taxes imposées aux vaisseaux venant à Montréal et à leur cargaison. Quoique les améliorations au havre soient encore insuffisantes à la manœuvre de la quantité toujours croissante de fret, que l'esprit d'entreprise de nos citoyens y attire, néanmoins il est encore beaucoup en avant de tous ses compétiteurs canadiens. C'est le troisième des sur le continent d'Amérique; non seulement Montréal est de 250 milles plus près de Liverpool qu'aucun de ses compétiteurs Américains, mais c'est aussi le port le plus rapproché du côté de l'Atlantique des ports sur le Pacifique, et plus près des ports Asiatiques que New York, ainsi qu'il est démontré dans les données suivantes :

PLUS GRANDS PORTS

	Milles.	Milles en faveur de Montreal,
De Liverpool à Montréal	2,790

Le creusement du chenal, et les commodités fournies par le hâvre de Montréal, ont sans doute beaucoup contribué à l'augmentation de ses connections par voie ferrée. Il en est résulté un tel développement du commerce, que d'après l'opinion du vice-président du chemin de fer du Pacifique Canadien, qu'à moins de nouvelles améliorations au port, tant sur les quais, élévateurs et autres facilités pour manier et transporter le fret des chars aux vaisseaux, le port de Montréal sera, incapable d'accomoder le fret venant de notre Nord-Ouest et de l'Ouest Américain. Une augmentation moyenne d'au moins 150 chars par jour peut être attendue par la voie du "Sault Ste. Marie" seulement. Lors de sa profondeur naturelle de 10 pieds 16 pouces, les vaisseaux de 250 tonneaux ne pouvaient pas passer le Lac St. Pierre avec une cargaison complète, mais comme pour tenir tête au creusement du chenal, chaque année la dimension et le tonnage des vaisseaux augmentaient. Le premier vapeur pour la malle entre l'Angleterre et Montréal, le "Genoa," de sept cents tonneaux, arriva au port en 1854, et depuis cette époque, le progrès du commerce sur le St. Laurent a été tel qu'aujourd'hui il y a au-dessus de vingt lignes régulières de vaisseaux océaniques, et le tonnage annuel a augmenté de 358,000 tonneaux en 1851 à 870,883 en 1887. Le pays a fait de tels progrès que nous voyons le Gouvernement demandant des soumissions pour le service de la malle sur l'Atlantique, que les hommes d'affaires considèrent être égal, sinon supérieur, à aucun des ports vers le sud, pendant que 90 pour cent du commerce étranger au pays passe par le St. Laurent, et qu'environ la moitié du au Canada est entré à la Douane au port de Montréal. Pendant que le commerce intérieur de Québec a diminué de 146 vaisseaux et 69,736 tonneaux de 1876 à 1886, celui du hâvre de Montréal a augmenté durant la même période de 26 vaisseaux et 132,439 tonneaux. De plus, tandis que les importations à Québec de 1876 à 1886 montrent une diminution de $336,807, et les exportations une diminution de $3,030,671; celles de Montréal font voir une augmentation de $9,843,027 et de $4,596,153 respectivement. Et durant toute cette période le hâvre et le commerce du port de Montréal ont été injustement taxés, le Gouvernement faisant contre eux d'étranges distinctions. D'après le rapport du Ministre des Travaux Publics, il est démontré que Montréal, seul, de tous les ports du Canada, n'a reçu aucun argent public pour son amélioration. Voici les items de dépenses sur quelques-uns des ports depuis la Confédération :

Québec, hâvre et bassin.....	$2,384,000
Toronto ".....	536,000
Owen Sound ".....	95,000
Kingston ".....	45,000
Goderich ".....	513,000
Cobourg ".....	154,000
St. John ".....	480,000
Halifax ".....	12,000
Autres ports ".....	5,070,000
Total.....	$9,219,000

tandis que Montréal n'a pas reçu un seul sou pour les améliorations du havre. Il est vrai que le Parlement a voté $1,603,504 pour le chenal de navirés, mais l'intérêt sur cette somme à été payé avec les obtenus par une taxe directe sur le commerce du port, tandis que les améliorations et intérêts des dépenses faites pour le havre de Québec sont payées par le Gouvernement, et n'ont pas jusqu'à présent été défrayées par les revenus de ce port. Il est vrai que le Gouvernement se chargera de la dette du chenal de navires, mais il faut ajouter à cela $800,000 des revenus du havre de Montréal que le Gouvernement a reçues en paiements d'intérêts, dont le tout aurait été très utile au prolongement du havre, dont on a un besoin si urgent. Si Montréal a autant prospéré malgré les taxes imposées à son havre et à son commerce pour rencontrer des intérêts destinés à soutenir des entreprises purement nationales, il est impossible de calculer quelles influences il pourra exercer dans l'avenir, quand ses facilités seront augmentées et ses impôts diminués.

MALLES OCEANIQUES.

VAPEURS DES LIGNES ALLAN ET DOMINION.

Lorsque Sir Hugh Allan n'était encore qu'un enfant de 13 ans, il entra dans un bureau de négociant à Greenock, en Ecosse. Les affaires qui s'y faisaient concernaient spécialement les vaisseaux engagés dans le trafic du Canada. Il demeura dans cette maison un peu plus d'une année, quand son père, qui commandait un bâtiment négociant entre Greenock et Montréal, lui conseilla de passer en Canada. Mr. Allan, père, qui était un homme intelligent et profond, espérait qu'en plaçant Hugh en Canada, il pourrait plus tard obtenir pour sa famille, un établissement permanent dans le commerce de la colonie. Hugh Allan laissa Greenock le 12 Mai 1826, et arriva vis-à-vis Longueuil le 21 Mai.

Il n'y avait alors qu'un remorqueur sur le fleuve, le vapeur "Hercules," commandé par le Capitaine George Brush. Le "Hercules" était incapable de remorquer le "Favorite," un brick de 276 tonneaux, contre le courant, et un message fut envoyé à M. Hiram Gilbert, boucher, dont l'établissement était sur le bord du fleuve, et qui gardait toujours une quantité de bœufs pour remorquer les bateaux, lui demandant d'aider à remorquer le brick à travers le courant. Un câble fut envoyé au rivage, et dix bœufs y furent attachés, cependant la force réunie du vapeur et des bœufs ne suffit pas. Le "Favorite" avait été construit par un M. Johnson, établi à Hochelaga; et celui-ci voyant l'embarras dans lequel se trouvait le brick envoya quarante ou cinquante hommes pour prêter main forte. Un second câble fut envoyé à terre, auquel les hommes joignirent toutes leurs forces. Le "Hercules" augmenta sa vapeur, le "Favorite" mit toute sa voile possible, et les hommes et les bœufs tirèrent de leur mieux; de sorte qu'avec toutes ces forces réunies, le bateau parvint à se rendre à son mouillage sans plus de trouble. L'aspect de Montréal alors était bien différent d'aujourd'hui. Il n'y avait point de quais, le bord de la rivière descendait depuis la rue des Commissaires, alors une ruelle étroite, jusqu'au fleuve. Un vaisseau entrant dans le port était obligé de jeter l'ancre afin de ne pas dériver jusqu'au rivage. Un câble fut envoyé à terre et le vaisseau attaché. Toutes les mains alors se réunirent au cabestan jusqu'à ce que la poupe du vaisseau touchât le rivage.

Pour qu'il fut possible de charger et décharger le vaisseau, des passerelles formées de longues barres, avec des pièces mises en travers, furent descendues du navire. Les marchandises y furent placées et les voitures des charretiers reculées dans l'eau, quelquefois même jusqu'aux essieux. Sous de telles circonstances, l'ouvrage ne pouvait progresser que très lentement, mais les vaisseaux étaient petits et contenaient peu de cargaison.

Il y avait alors un bateau faisant la traversée à Laprairie, et une ligne régulière de vaisseaux entre Montréal et Québec, mais ces bateaux, quoiqu'assez confortables, étaient très lents. Il leur fallait de 40 à 48 heures pour faire le voyage. Le canal Lachine venait d'être complété, mais il était encore sur une très faible et aucun bâtiment n'y passait.

Après avoir passé deux années à l'apprentissage du commerce d'épicerie, et après un voyage par eau et par terre à New York, à Buffalo, et aux chutes Niagara, Hugh Allan retourna en Angleterre, où il vit le premier chemin de fer du monde, la ligne "Liverpool-Manchester;" et retourna à Montréal en 1830, sur le "Canada," un nouveau brick, construit par son père. C'était un splendide navire et un des plus grands dans le négoce de Montréal.

Durant cette même année la construction du premier quai dans le port fut commencée, les commissaires des travaux furent l'Hon. George Moffatt, Colonel Piper, des Ingénieurs Royaux, et l'Hon. Juge Quesnel. Mais pendant quelque temps, le progrès fut lent. A son retour Mr. Allan entra dans le bureau de Mr. James Miller qui faisait des affaires considérables, embrassant la construction, la possession, et la conduite des navires. Il recevait d'immenses consignations de marchandises, de vins et liqueurs, et exportait une quantité considérable de grains, alcalis et produits de toutes espèces. Le Canada ne manufacturait alors que très peu de whiskey.

LE SEUL STIMULANT

darml la classe ouvrière était le rhum. Il était importé en grande partie tant directement des Indes Occidentales que par voie de la Grande-Bretagne. Mr. Miller recevait souvent des consignations de 100 à 150 barils de rhum dans un seul chargement. Ceci était invariablement vendu par encan aussitôt débarqué. Comme il n'y avait que très peu de place sur les quais pour d'aussi gros lots, ils étaient charroyés à la ruelle St. David; où était situé le bureau de Mr. Miller.

Lorsqu'au mois de Septembre de chaque année, les habitants apportaient leurs grains Mr. Hugh Allan était envoyé à Laprairie pour en prendre soin et le faire charger sur un petit bateau, le "Edmund Henry," pour Montréal. Au mois d'Avril de chaque année, il visitait St. Mathias, St. Hilaire, Belœil, St. Marc, St. Charles, St. Antoine, St. Ours, et tous les villages situés sur le fleuve, ainsi que Contrecoeur, Verchères et Varennes, un territoire très fertile en blé alors, pour recueillir tout le grain apporté durant l'hiver.

Les bâtiments pesamment chargés naviguaient avec beaucoup de difficultés dans ce temps-là, l'eau descendant quelquefois jusqu'à 11 pieds dans le Lac St. Pierre. Quand il en était ainsi, les plus petits bateaux seuls pouvaient transporter leur cargaison à travers le lac; lorsque les gros vaisseaux tentaient d'y passer, il devenait souvent nécessaire de les décharger sur un radeau placé le long du bâtiment. Même les ancres, les chaînes et les vergues dont on pouvait se dispenser étaient placés sur le radeau afin de l'alléger.

En 1835, Mr. Allan devint l'associé de Mr. Miller.

En 1845, Mr. Andrew Allan, frère de Mr. Hugh Allan, entra dans la société, et en 1851, les deux frères résolurent de construire des bâtiments en fer, et des propulseurs à hélice, qui commençaient alors à remplacer les roues. Les premiers vapeurs de cette ligne qui furent construits, étaient "l'Indian," le "Canadian," "l'Anglo-Saxon," et le "North American." Le "Canadian" fit son premier voyage dans l'automne de 1853. D'après ce court résumé de la marine marchande de Montréal, il est démontré que Mr. Hugh Allan en a été le pionnier et le principal promoteur.

LA LIGNE ALLAN.

La première dans le port de Montréal est la Ligne Allan des paquebots de la Malle Royale, le pionnier de la marine marchande de Montréal ; elle a contribué au progrès du Canada et de la cité de Montréal, et a été si intimement liée aux intérêts de cette ville que nous ne pouvons faire autrement que de la mettre à la tête des lignes magnifiques qui ont fondé le commerce océanique de Montréal.

L'origine de la ligne Allan date de l'année 1852, lorsque le Gouvernement Canadien demanda des soumissions concernant l'établissement d'une ligne de vapeurs océaniques devant faire la traversée entre Montréal et Liverpool durant l'été, et entre Liverpool et Portland pendant les mois d'hiver. Suivant les termes de la soumission, un service mensuel devait commencer dans les douze mois suivant la date de la signature du contrat, et un autre semi-mensuel dix mois après que les contracteurs en auraient reçu avis. Pour ce service, le Gouvernement offrait un subside de $120,000. La Compagnie Canadienne de Navigation à vapeur, qui était alors en organisation, fit des soumissions pour le service, et le contrat fut signé en Août 1852. La Compagnie abandonna le contrat en 1854, après avoir servi environ 17 mois. Avant la cession de ce contrat MM. Hugh et Andrew Allan firent des arrangements pour construire et équiper une flotte de navires à vapeur de première classe pour le trafic Canadien. Le premier contrat fut donné à une maison de Dumbarton, en Ecosse, pour la construction du "Canadian," de l'"Indian," de l'"Anglo-Saxon," et du "North American." Ces splendides navires possédaient les dernières améliorations, savoir : le propulseur à hélice remplaçant les roues, puis étaient construits pour le commerce indépendant ; n'étant encouragés et soutenus par aucun subside.

LA CELEBRE LIGNE ALLAN.

Le "Canadian" fit son premier voyage le 20 Septembre 1853, et lorsqu'il arriva au port sa marche était un mystère pour les nombreux spectateurs qui encombraient le port pour voir arriver le plus grand vaisseau qui jusqu'alors était entré dans le port de Montréal. Lorsque le voyage du "Canadian" en Angleterre fut accompli, et avant qu'il put faire une seconde traversée, la navigation sur le St. Laurent était fermée pour la saison, et pendant que la glace couvrait le fleuve, il fit un voyage à New York. A son retour à Liverpool dans le printemps de 1855, le besoin urgent de puissants navires de première classe s'étant fait sentir pour transporter les troupes et l'artillerie en Crimée, le "Canadian" fut retenu par le Gouvernement comme vaisseau de transport et continua d'être employé à ce service jusqu'à la fin de la guerre. Peu après l'engagement du "Canadian," "l'Indian" fut aussi pris pour le même but. Quand les flottes attaquèrent et prirent les Forts Kinburn, "l'Indian," à cause de ses qualités supérieures, à part ce service périlleux fut employé comme navire de dépêches de l'Amiral.

Durant la guerre de Crimée, le commerce par navires à vapeur entre Liverpool et le Canada fut grandement empêché et diminué, ou plutôt totalement suspendu. A la fin de la guerre, cependant, le Gouvernement Canadien cédant aux pressantes représentations du peuple du Canada, demanda des soumissions pour établir une ligne de navires à vapeurs pour la malle devant traverser une fois par quinze jours entre Montréal et Liverpool, et entre Liverpool et Portland après la clôture de la navigation sur le St. Laurent. Là ligne Allan réussit à faire accepter sa soumission, et commença le service sous contrat en Avril 1856. Mais au début, de grandes difficultés devaient étre contrées et quelques fois des désastres durent être supportés avec patience. Il n'y avait alors que très peu de phares sur le fleuve et le golfe St. Laurent. Et comme la direction des courants n'était et les capitaines n'ayant pas encore acquis d'expérience dans la direction des navires à vapeur, les dangers de la traversée de l'océan peuvent être aisément imaginés. Dans un de ses premiers voyages sous ce contrat avec le Gouvernement, le "Canadian" s'échoua et fit naufrage dans le fleuve. D'autres désastres suivirent; mais les Allans ne manquaient pas de persévérance, et ils parvinrent à démontrer que le St. Laurent pouvait être rendu sûr et agréable en même temps. Leurs capitaines à qui on recommandait la prudence pardessus tout, acquirent bientôt de l'expérience quant à la position des écueils, et le cours des différents courants, et le Gouvernement augmenta le nombre des phares et des bouées.

Sous les clauses du premier contrat la ligne Allan continua son service des malles jusqu'au mois d'Avril 1857, alors que de nouveaux arrangements furent pris. A cette époque, le Gouvernement, hautement satisfait de la manière avec laquelle le contrat avait été exécuté, et les services rendus, passa un nouveau contrat avec la ligne Allan pour un service hebdomadaire. Ce contrat entra en opération en Avril 1859, et est encore en force. A mesure que le temps s'avancait, de nouveaux vaisseaux étaient construits, chacun desquels surpassait le dernier, et dont nous avons le complément dans le superbe navire "Parisian."

Vapeurs (en fer et acier) :

"Acadian," 931 tonneaux; "Assyrian," 3970 tonneaux; "Austrian," 2458 tonneaux; "Buenos Ayrean," 4005 tonneaux; "Canadian," 2906 tonneaux; "Carthaginian," 4214 tonneaux; "Caspian," 2628 tonneaux; "Circassian," 3724 tonneaux; "Corean," 3488 tonneaux; "Grecian," 3613 tonneaux; "Hibernian," 2297 tonneaux; "Lucerne," 1925 tonneaux; "Manitoban," 2975 tons; "Monte Videan," 3500 tonneaux; "Nestorian," 2689 tonneaux; "Newfoundland," 919 tonneaux; "Norwegian," 3523 tonneaux; "Nova Scotian," 3305 tonneaux; "Parisian," 5359 tonneaux; "Peruvian," 3038 tonneaux; "Phœnician," 2425 tonneaux; "Polynesian," 3983 tonneaux; "Pomeranian," 4364 tonneaux; "Prussian," 3030 tonneaux; "Rosarian," 3500 tonneaux; "Sardinian," 4376 tonneaux; "Sarmatian," 3647 tonneaux; "Scandinavian," 3068 tonneaux; "Siberian," 3904 tonneaux; "Waldensian," 2256 tonneaux. Un total de 30 vapeurs de 96,820 tonneaux.

Outre ceux-là la ligne Allan possède une flotte de fins voiliers construits en fer, consistant en 12 vaisseaux de 17,432 tonneaux de pesantier.

Les plus gros navires de cette ligne sont équipés exclusivement pour le trafic de passagers, tandis que ceux d'un moindre tonnage sont destinés au fret.

Toujours s'améliorant, la ligne Allan s'est acquise un nom envié sur les deux continents.

LA LIGNE DOMINION.

Après plusieurs années d'expérience comme armateurs de bateaux sur le fleuve entre Montréal et Québec, MM. David Torrance & Co., eurent l'idée d'introduire dans le commerce entre Montréal et Liverpool, une autre ligne de navires de première classe. M^r. Cramp, un des associés, alla en Angleterre en 1872, et prit des arrangements avec la société Flinn, Main & Montgomery, dirigeant alors une ligne de vapeurs naviguant entre la Nouvelle-Orléans et l'Angleterre. Une compagnie fut formée et la nouvelle ligne appelée, Compagnies de navires Mississippi et Dominion. Le capital fourni venait principalement de Liverpool, quoiqu'une grande partie fut souscrite par des capitalistes de Montréal. D. Torrance & Co. furent chargés de la conduite de la ligne en Canada tandis que les MM. Flinn, Main & Montgomery se chargèrent des affaires de l'autre côté. A mesure que les années s'écoulaient, navire après navire était ajouté à la flotte, de sorte que la Ligne Dominion compte aujourd'hui dix gros vapeurs en fer, le comble a été atteint par leur dernière entreprise, la construction du "Vancouver," mesurant 5,700 tonneaux. "L'Oregon," mesurant 3850 tonneaux; le "Montréal," 3284 tonneaux; "l'Oregon," 3176 tonneaux; le "Texas," 2700 tonneaux; le "Sarnia," 3850 tonneaux; le "Toronto," 3284 tonneaux; le "Dominion," 3176 tonneaux; le "Québec," 2700 tonneaux; et le "Mississippi," 2680 tonneaux; un total de 31,720 tonneaux.

En premier lieu, la ligne ne s'occupait que du transport des marchandises. Graduellement, elle entra dans le trafic des animaux et en fit bientôt une spécialité, mais sans succès. Comme les vapeurs augmentaient en dimension et en commodités, le trafic de passagers devint un trait particulier de la ligne "Dominion." L'immigration a été aussi soigneusement entretenue, et depuis la construction du "Sarnia," de "l'Oregon," et spécialement du "Vancouver," elle est devenue, quant au trafic des passagers, la rivale des plus anciennes lignes. La Ligne Dominion a toujours agi en relation avec le système du chemin de fer du Canada.

La Ligne Allan a monopolisé le contrat pour le transport des malles entre le Canada pendant plusieurs années, mais il y a environ trois ans, vu la demande d'un service plus grand, le subside fut partagé entre les lignes Allan et Dominion, qui transportent les malles chaque semaine alternativement. Il y a douze vapeurs engagés dans ce service, savoir, neuf appartenant à la Ligne Allan, et trois à la Dominion. La moyenne des traversées faites l'an dernier entre Liverpool et Halifax, du 5 Novembre au 8 Mai, a été comme suit pour 23 voyages :

	Jours.	hrs	m.
Moyenne des courses vers l'ouest, Ligne Allan	9	5	42
" " " Ligne Dominion	9	22	—
" " " l'est, " Allan	8	23	18
" " " " Dominion	9	10	34

Le montant des subsides payés pour l'année 1886, pour le transport des malles entre Halifax et Liverpool via Moville en hiver, et Québec et Liverpool via Moville en été, a été de $126,533.33.

Entre le 22 Avril et le 18 Novembre, la moyenne des courses furent comme suit pour 28 voyages :

	Jours.	hrs.	m.
Moyenne des courses vers l'ouest, Ligne Allan	9	20	0
" " " " Dominion	9	1	39
" " " l'est, " Allan	8	15	50
" " " " Dominion	9	22

Le nombre moyen des sacs à malle transportés par chaque vapeur, est d'à peu près quarante, mais cependant cela ne représente pas plus d'un tiers de la malle européenne venant au Canada et arrivant à New York.

Les vapeurs apportent aussi une moyenne de deux boîtes des paquets de matière postales qui sont remises aux officiers de Douane pour la perception de droits.

MARINE.

MARINE MARCHANDE DE MONTREAL

EXTENSION DU COMMERCE AVEC L'ASIE ET L'AUSTRALIE.

La Ligne Beaver est une ligne purement Canadienne. Elle fut incorporée par un acte de la Province du Canada, en l'année 1868, les incorporateurs étant MM. William Murray, A. Urquhart, J. Ogilvie, W. Dow, E. H. King, C. Scott, G. W. Campbell, A. Gunn, T. Rimmer, G. H. Frothingham et T. Workman. En premier lieu, la ligne possédait des voiliers en fer, trafiquant entre Montréal, Liverpool et Glasgow. En 1875, cependant, ils construisirent des bateaux à vapeur, et possèdent les bateaux suivants : "Lake Superior," de 5200 tonneaux ; "Lake Huron," 4100 tonneaux ; "Lake Manitoba," 3300 tonneaux ; "Lake Winnipeg," 3300 tonneaux ; "Lake Nepigon," 2300 tonneaux ; "Lake Ontario," 5300 tonneaux. Les voiliers de la Compagnie sont maintenant employés au commerce Australien. Les vapeurs de cette ligne sont équipés spécialement pour le trafic de passagers, et quant à la cargaison ils sont équipés pour le transport d'animaux. En 1885, ils transportèrent 1846 passagers, 9374 bestiaux, et 11,791 moutons. En 1886, le nombre de passagers était de 3234, tandis que 9201 bêtes à cornes et 24,436 moutons furent exportés. En 1887, il y eut 3914 passagers, 10,364 bêtes à cornes, et 11,581 moutons transportés par cette ligne. D'autres cargaisons consistant en grains, bois, fleur, farine, phosphate, potasse, fromage, beurre, tandis que les importations consistaient principalement de marchandises sèches, fer, épicerie et de produits chimiques. La Ligne Beaver visite New York durant les mois d'hiver.

LA LIGNE " WHITE CROSS."

La " White Cross Line " a toujours voyagé entre Anvers et Montréal, depuis 1883. Outre les passagers qu'elle transporte, elle importe la plus grande partie des marchandises belges apportées dans ce pays ; elle exporte principalement le grain, le phosphate les produits en boîtes, les instruments d'agriculture, et l'écorce. Elle emploie pour ce trafic trois navires, le " Grassbrook," le " Wandrahm " et le " Baumwall." Mr. W. C. Munderloh, Consul d'Allemagne, en est l'agent ici, et il est aussi l'agent de qui vint à Montréal en 1883, et qui a principalement contribué à suppléer à la demande de marchandises Allemandes, Françaises et Belges en Canada. La ligne comprend le " Cremon," le " Roma, le " Kehrwieder," et le " Corona." Elle exporte le même genre de marchandises que la ligne White Cross.

LA COMPAGNIE DE NAVIRES " BLACK DIAMOND " fur organisée en 1881, elle est une vraie compagnie Montréalaise, son président, Mr. Hugh McLennan et presque tous ses directeurs étant des citoyens bien connus dans Montréal.

La compagnie possède maintenant trois vapeurs, le " Cacouna," de 2000 tonneaux ; le " Bona Vista," de 1650 tonneaux ; et le " Coban," de 1350 tonneaux. Les deux derniers bateaux possèdent des commodités de première classe pour les passagers, et durant la saison d'été transportent un grand nombre de touristes à l'Île du Prince Edouard, à la Nouvelle-Ecosse, et à Terre-Neuve. Les navires de cette Compagnie transportent des cargaisons de fleur, beurre, lard et les produits de manufactures de toutes descriptions aux Provinces d'en bas et à Terre-Neuve, et ont beaucoup contribué à établir un commerce considérable d'exportation dans cette direction. En retournant ils arrêtent à Pictou ou à Sidney, prendre des cargaisons de charbon. Depuis son établissement cette ligne a transporté annuellement plus de 40,000 tonnes de charbon mou et 100,000 quarts de fleur. Une partie du charbon apporté à Montréal y reste, mais une autre partie est transportée plus loin dans l'intérieur par canaux et voies ferrées. Elle transporte aussi à Terre-Neuve une grande partie des céréales et autres produits Canadiens dont cette colonie a besoin.

LA LIGNE "FURNESS."

Depuis au-delà de vingt ans passés, la Ligne Furness, dont Mr. Christopher Furness, de Hartlepool Ouest, Angleterre, est propriétaire, après quelques voyages d'expériences pour s'assurer des cargaisons profitables et un trafic avantageux, prit finalement des arrangements pour un service régulier entre Londres et Baltimore, Londres et Boston, et Londres et Halifax. Les vaisseaux passaient occasionnellement par Montréal, et comme les avantages du port augmentaient en proportion de l'administration dont il était investi, la Ligne Furness, l'an dernier fit de Montréal un de ses ports réguliers. Les vapeurs naviguant entre Montréal et Newcastle-sur-Tyne et Londres sont, le "Durham City," 3092 tonneaux; le "Gothenburg City," 2526 tonneaux; le "Ripon City," 2141 tonneaux; le "Wetherby," 2129; le "Washington City," 2298; le "Boston City," 2334; le "Katie," 2795, et le "Madura," 2315 tonneaux.

Les cargaisons destinées à l'extérieur sont le grain, le bois, les bestiaux, les moutons et les produits manufacturiers, le beurre, le fromage, les viandes conservées, orgues, os, quartiers de bœuf, pois, bois de construction, etc. Ces produits sont distribués en Angleterre, en Allemagne, en France et en Belgique. Dans leur voyage de retour ces vaisseaux rapportent les différents produits de toutes les parties du vieux continent.

LA LIGNE THOMSON

entretient, en grande partie, le commerce direct entre le Canada et la Méditerranée. Etablie en l'année 1860 par Mr. William Thomson, de Dundee, en Ecosse, avec une flotte de voiliers qui naviguaient régulièrement entre les ports Anglais, le Levant et les pays intermédiaires, cette ligne étendit son trafic jusqu'à Montréal en 1861, quand un service régulier entre ce port et la Méditerranée fut inauguré avec trois fins voiliers, le "Deodorus," le "Deodora," et le "Deodor," qui a été continué jusqu'à présent sans interruption. En 1870, trouvant que les vaisseaux à voile étaient insuffisants pour le commerce transatlantique, Mr. Thompson commença à construire des navires à vapeur, et il a maintenant un service de 6 vapeurs en fer des mieux équipés. "L'Avlona" de 1953 tonneaux; le "Barcelona," de 1856 tonneaux; le "Dracona" (acier), de 1903 tonneaux; le "Escalona," de 1904 tonneaux; le "Cremona," de 4300 tonneaux, et le "Gerona," de 4600 tonneaux. Quatre vapeurs fournissent annuellement le commerce de la Méditerranée, tandis que les deux autres naviguent entre Montréal et Newcastle-sur-Tyne. Les marchandises apportées à Montréal par cette ligne sont destinées en grande partie à des commerçants de Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Cleveland, et autres villes américaines et les ports canadiens. Le commerce augmente si rapidement qu'à la clôture de la navigation l'an dernier, il a été trouvé que les cargaisons transportées par ces navires étaient près de cinq fois plus considérables que celles de toutes les années précédentes. Les cargaisons apportées ici consistent spécialement en grains, bois et bestiaux. Les registres de cette ligne sont très précis concernant le transport des animaux, ainsi que le tableau suivante le démontre :

	Bêtes à Cornes.	Moutons.
1883	3610	7515
1884	3830	5183
1885	4495	3538
1886	5518	9713
1887	5512	3237

Ces vapeurs sont beaucoup patronisés par les voyageurs venant d'Angleterre aussi bien que de la Méditerranée.

LA LIGNE DONALDSON.

En 1874, MM. Donaldson Frères, de Glasgow, ouvrirent un service transatlantique entre Glasgow et Montréal, le premier vapeur étant "l'Astarte." Graduellement, ils construisirent une flotte de magnifiques vapeurs dont "l'Aleides" (acier) est le plus gros, ayant une pesanteur de 3400 tonneaux; le "Concordia," 2000 tonneaux; le "Cynthia," ayant 2220 tonneaux; le "Colina," 2000 tonneaux, et le "Circe," 2400 tonneaux complètent la flotte. Leur service est hebdomadaire. Outre les passagers, leurs cargaisons sont de diverses espèces de marchandises, tel que le fer, le charbon, les produits des manufactures d'Ecosse; tandis que la ligne exporte d'ici le grain, le bois, la fleur, le beurre, le fromage, les bestiaux et différentes choses. Ils ont aussi eu beaucoup de succès dans leur transport d'animaux.

La part qu'ils ont prise dans le commerce d'animaux du Canada est démontrée par les chiffres suivants :

	Bêtes à Cornes.	Moutons.
1883	5930	2805
1884	7929	5806
1885	6631	2887
1886	9316	5140
1887	9052	2288

LA LIGNE TEMPERLEY

fut établie par MM. Temperley, Carter & Darke, de Londres, en 1877. La compagnie a maintenant trois vapeurs naviguant entre Montréal et Londres, les plus gros étant le "Scotland" de 2700 tonneaux, le "Ocean King" de 1500 tonneaux, et le "Erl King" de 2200 tonneaux complète le nombre. Les cargaisons qu'ils importent sont principalement le ciment, le blanc d'Espagne, le fer et les produits de diverses parties du continent. De Montréal ils transportent des cargaisons de grains, de bois, de fleur, beurre, fromage et animaux. Le commerce d'animaux fait par cette ligne est démontré par le tableau suivant :

	Bêtes à Cornes.	Moutons.
1884	3019	3824
1885	2720	3302
1886	3497	7422

NAVIRES IRRÉGULIERS.

Il y a plus de 60 de ces vapeurs qui visitent notre port annuellement, sans parler de ceux qu'on nomme vagabonds à charbon. Ceux-ci sont des vaisseaux appartenant à différentes compagnies ou individus cherchant du trafic n'importe où. Ordinairement ils apportent le charbon de Provinces d'en bas et des cargaisons des Indes Orientales, surtout du Cuba, et prennent d'ici des cargaisons de bois et phosphates, ou d'entières cargaisons de grains lorsqu'ils peuvent se les procurer. Les vagabonds à charbon venant des Provinces d'en Bas, et retournent sur leurs lest. Il y en a une vingtaine naviguant entre Montréal et les Ports du Golfe. Une partie de ces vaisseaux sont consignés à MM. Anderson, McKenzie & Co.

Outre ceux-là il y a les vapeurs naviguant entre Maryboro', dans le Nord de l'Angleterre et Inverness, avec des cargaisons consignées à M. Robert Reford. Ceci ne comprend pas les vaisseaux à voile qui trafiquent continuellement dans ce port, et il y en a de 50 à 60 annuellement. Des particuliers et des petites compagnies en sont propriétaires. La plupart d'eux sont consignés à MM. Anderson, McKenzie & Co., courtiers de navires. Ils chargent pour l'Amérique du Sud; leurs cargaisons consistent principalement en bois de construction, et bois de chauffage, et occasionnellement une cargaison de grains. Ils visitent aussi des ports anglais.

LE SERVICE ASIATIQUE.

Un service Asiatique régulier de vapeurs et voiliers a aussi été mis en opération. Il y a chaque saison de 3 à 5 navires dans le port, venant des Indes Occidentales, Akyab, Bassein, Rangoon et Calcutta, apportant le riz préparé et le riz brut non nettoyé, pour la Mount Royal Milling Company de Montréal, qui le nettoie et le rend propre au service de la table. Deux vapeurs, le "Victory" et le "Bonnington," fournissent en partie le commerce. D'ici ils transportent en Angleterre des cargaisons de grains, bois et animaux. Il y a aussi une ligne de voiliers des ports de Siam à Montréal et de la Colombie Anglaise.

LA LIGNE BOSSIÈRE.

Pendant plusieurs années Montréal a eu des relations indirectes avec les marchés français. Les lignes Anglaises, Allemandes et Belges, de même que les navires irréguliers fournissaient à Montréal des marchandises de la capitale de la France et des Départements. En 1884, on fit des tentatives pour établir un commerce directe, lorsque la ligne Franco-Canadienne fut établie. Cette ligne cependant fut de courte durée, elle fut vendue à la Compagnie Postale qui se retira aussi des rangs après 6 mois. Les autorités françaises craignant de perdre un marché aussi avantageux que celui de Montréal, confèrent avec les autorités à Ottawa, et demandèrent à MM. Bossières, des armateurs bien connus au Havre, d'organiser une ligne de vapeurs Franco-Canadienne. En 1877, des arrangements furent conclus, et le 10 Mai, le premier navire de la Ligne Bossière, le "Comte d'Eu," laissait le Havre en route pour Montréal.

La Ligne Bossière consiste maintenant en cinq navires, le "Chateau Leoville," mesurant 4509 tonneaux; le "Obock," de 3300 tonneaux (acier); le Panama," 3100 tonneaux; le "Sully," 2100 tonneaux, et le "Henri Quatre," de 2200 tonneaux.

Tous ces navires sont équipés pour le trafic de passagers, qui cependant est réservé en partie au "Chateau Leoville" et au au "Obocock."

La Ligne Bossière jouit de la confiance de presque tous les principaux exportateurs de la France et est établie sur une solide base financière.

LE COMMERCE DE MONTREAL.

Un examen des statistiques suivantes fait voir clairement l'importance de Montréal comme centre commercial.

IMPORTATIONS DE 1887.

		Droit.
Hamilton	$4,345,600	$761,619
Kingston	1,163,135	166,297
London	2,605,260	581,531
Ottawa	1,731,947	327,414
Toronto	21,050,434	4,257,548
Québec	3,668,129	686,392
Halifax	5,411,086	1,395,070
St. Jean N.B.	3,604,662	824,571
Winnipeg	1,929,120	497,197
Victoria	3,008,677	784,790
Montréal	43,948,594	8,874,147
Toute la Puissance	112,892,236	22,469,705

Ceci fait voir que beaucoup plus d'un tiers des marchandises importées en Canada, en 1887, est entré au Port de Montréal, et plus que la même proportion des revenus totaux de la Douane réunis y fut perçue.

EXPORTATIONS DE 1887.

Hamilton	$490,940
Kingston	615,113
London	428,250
Ottawa	2,759,054
Toronto	3,192,157
Québec	5,318,533
Halifax	4,767,792
St. Jean N.B.	3,646,871
Winnipeg	816,260
Victoria	2,094,384
Montréal	29,032,613
Toute la Puissance	89,515,811

Ici encore Montréal maintient sa suprématie commerciale. D'après les rapports de Douanes des différents ports de la florissante Province d'Ontario en 1888, Montréal les surpasse tous d'à peu près trois millions par la valeur de ces importations. C'est plus de trois fois autant que la Nouvelle-Ecosse, et près de cinq fois aussi considérables que le total de l'exportation du Nouveau-Brunswick. L'exportation de Montréal est d'environ $9,000,000 plus élevée que l'exportation réunie de la Nouvelle-Ecosse, du Nouveau-Brunswick, du Manitoba, de la Colombie Anglaise et de l'Île du Prince Edouard. Si nous soustrayons les exportations de Montréal du total d'exportations de la Province de Québec, qui était de $40,464,720 ; il ne reste que $11,032,613 pour tous les autres ports de la Province.

NAVIRES ET FRETS.

Cette immense importation fut apportée à Montréal par une magnifique flotte de vaisseaux marchands, parmi lesquels se trouvent les plus splendides navires du monde.

Ce qui suit est la liste du nombre des vaisseaux qui entrèrent dans le port de Montréal durant la saison de 1887, leur nationalité et leur tonnage :

	Vaisseaux.	Tonnage.
Anglais.....	320	532,032
Français.....	2	1,555
Norvégiens & Suédois.....	11	5,899
Allemands.....	13	22,040
Espagnols.....	1	1,427
Russes.....	1	1,148
Total.....	348	565,801

Le nombre et la nationalité des vaisseaux ayant laissé le même port furent :

	Vaisseaux.	Tonnage.
Anglais.....	373	584,069
Français.....	3	3,199
Norvégiens & Suédois	14	9,641
Allemands.....	17	21,060
Espagnols.....	1	1,427
Russes.....	1	1,148
Total.....	409	631,144

Ces vaisseaux apportaient 446,334 tonneaux de fret dans Montréal et y prenaient de là 524,851 tonneaux. La quantité de fret apporté dans toute la Province de Québec l'an 1887 fut 537,667 tonneaux, 91,283 tonneaux seulement de plus que n'en fut apporté à Montréal seulement. La différence entre la quantité d'exportation de Montréal d'avec celle de la province entière est encore plus considérable que cela. La quantité de fret des vaisseaux étrangers pour les différents parts du Canada était de 586,195 tonneaux. Les vaisseaux laissant le port de Montréal, ainsi qu'il l'a été démontré portant 634,851 tonneaux de fret. Il ne reste que 54,344 tonneaux pour le reste de la province.

RIVIERES ET CANAUX.

AGRANDISSEMENT DES LIGNES CONTRIBUANT AU PROGRES DU COMMERCE INTERIEUR.

Le fleuve aussi bien que notre système de canaux ont contribué chacun leur quote-part au commerce d'exportation de Montréal, non-seulement en expédiant les marchandises reçues des vapeurs océaniques, en les plaçant entre les mains des marchands auxquels elles étaient destinées dans les différentes villes du Canada et les principaux centres d'affaires du Nord des Etats-Unis, mais en transportant de grandes cargaisons de grains et d'autres produits du sol, des forêts et des mines, directement à Montréal, ou des cargaisons destinées à être exportées par une des meilleures flottes transatlantiques qui existent.

Dès 1789, l'importance du système des canaux, rivières et lacs du Canada était reconnue ; c'est alors qu'on fit les premiers efforts pour maîtriser les Rapides de Lachine en creusant un canal pour les vapeurs et bateaux via la rivière St. Pierre à Montréal. Mais ce canal n'était pas assez profond, une moyenne de 2½ pieds d'eau seulement pouvait être assurée. En 1821 le canal de Lachine fut commencé, et fut complet en 1825, au coût d'environ $500,000. Sa longueur était de 8¼ milles ; montant d'élévation d'eau par les écluses, 44½ pieds ; largeur du fond, 28 pieds, et 48 pieds sur la surface de l'eau ; sept écluses de 100 pieds de long, 20 de large, et une profondeur d'eau de 4½ pieds.

En 1843 le canal des navires fut commencé et complété en 1849 aux frais de $2,149,-128 ; longueur 8½ milles ; montant d'élévation d'eau par les écluses 44½ pieds ; largeur sur la surface de l'eau, 120 pieds. Il contient 5 écluses, de 200 pieds de longueur chacune et 45 pieds de largeur, et d'une profondeur de 9 pieds d'eau.

La dernière amélioration fut faite en 1875, lorsqu'une profondeur de 14 pieds fut atteinte. Les parois des écluses sont en pierre de taille posées sur du béton de ciment, et sur toute sa longueur le canal est contenu par des parois de maçonnerie solide, excepté à l'entrée du lac St. Louis, où les parois de revêtement sont en charpente.

CETTE MAGNIFIQUE VOIE D'EAU

évite toutes les difficultés des Rapides de Lachine, et ouvre le chemin du Lac Supérieur à l'Océan, permettant aux riches cargaisons d'être transbordées des navires, etc., aux quais de Montréal, et d'atteindre les différents points de distribution dans l'intérieur du pays, tels que Kingston, Oswego, Rochester, Toronto, Hamilton sur le lac Ontario, Buffalo, Érié, Cleveland, Toledo et Détroit sur le lac Érié, Goderich, Owen Sound et Saginaw sur le lac Huron, Chicago et Milwaukee sur le lac Michigan, et Port Arthur et Duluth sur cette vaste " Mer intérieure " le lac Supérieur.

Jusqu'à quel point cette voie par eau, la plus belle du monde, a contribué à faire de Montréal la Métropole du Nord, le centre principal de distribution du Canada et de la partie nord des Etats de l'Union, la table suivante nous le démontrera beaucoup :

LA COMPAGNIE DE NAVIGATION RICHELIEU ET ONTARIO.

Le creusement du chenal entre Montréal et Québec transféra le terminus de la navigation de Québec à Montréal. Néanmoins les passagers transatlantiques continuaient à être débarqués à Québec et devaient continuer leur voyage intérieur par voie ferrée. Ceci donna à penser combien serait utile une ligne de vapeurs naviguant entre ces deux villes.

La compagnie du Richelieu, qui avait été formée par M. Sincennes en 1845, et qui possédait un vapeur le "Richelieu," prit l'initiative et construisit un nouveau vapeur, le "Jacques Cartier," et en 1855 le "Victoria" et le "Napoléon," de 350 tonneaux chacun. La Ligne Torrance prit alors existence et une vive compétition s'engagea entre les deux compagnies, qui dura trois ans, après quoi la Ligne Torrance vendit le "Québec" à la compagnie du Richelieu. N'ayant plus de rivale sur le fleuve, cette dernière se mit alors à l'œuvre et acheta l'une après l'autre la Ligne du Lac St. Pierre, et celle de Terrebonne et de l'Assomption. En 1861, le magnifique vapeur "Montréal" fut lancé et fut suivi en 1864 du superbe "Québec," deux palais flottants qui rivalisent en dimension et en commodités avec les meilleurs vaisseaux sur l'Hudson. Mais la Compagnie du Richelieu n'était pas satisfaite d'avoir le contrôle de la partie Nord seulement du St. Laurent, et en 1875 elle s'unissait à la compagnie Ontario qui était propriétaire des vaisseaux de la ligne de Montréal à Toronto et à Hamilton. Depuis cette date, la compagnie du Richelieu étendit ses affaires sur tout le cours du St. Laurent et du Lac Ontario, et se nomma Compagnie de Navigation Richelieu et Ontario. Le capital de la compagnie s'élevait alors à $1,500,000, représenté par une flotte de huit splendides vapeurs auxquels furent ajoutés successivement le "Athenian," le "Abyssinian," le "Cultivateur" et le "St. Francis." Sous la présidence de Sir Hugh Allan, la compagnie se développa rapidement. Après la mort de Sir Hugh Allan en 1882, M. L. A. Sénécal fut élu président. Depuis lors, l'équipement de cette ligne s'est toujours perfectionné, tellement qu'aujourd'hui elle est l'égale des meilleures flottes d'Europe ou d'Amérique.

Après un commencement si faible, dans le bassin de Sorel, la compagnie contrôle maintenant tout le commerce de transport sur le fleuve avec très peu d'opposition.

La flotte des lacs comprend le "Corsican," de 714 tonneaux ; le "Spartan," de 678 tonneaux ; le "Algerian," de 575 tonneaux ; le "Passport," de 592 tonneaux ; le "Magnet," de 686 tonneaux ; le "Corinthian," de 640 tonneaux ; le Bohémien," de 690 tonneaux.

La ligne de Québec est composée du "Québec," 1794 tonneaux ; du "Montréal," 1279 tonneaux ; et du "Canada," 1169 tonneaux.

Le "Trois Rivières," 1049 tonneaux, navigue entre Montréal et Trois Rivières ; le "Chambly," 397 tonneaux, à Chambly ; le "Terrebonne," 361 tonneaux, à Verchères ; le "Berthier," 671 tonneaux, à l'île Ste. Hélène ; le "Sorel," 89 tonneaux, à Yamaska ; le "Rivière du Loup," 97 tonneaux, entre Varennes et le Bout-de-l'Île ; le "Mouche à Feu," 129 tonneaux, entre Berthier et Sorel ; le "Cultivateur," 432 tonneaux, est réservé pour les excursions, et le "Hochelaga," qui voyage à Boucherville jauge 256 tonneaux.

La ligne du Saguenay consiste en deux vapeurs : le "Union," 800 tonneaux ; et le "St. Laurent," 750 tonneaux. La compagnie a aussi un bateau qui fait la traversée à Laprairie, le "Laprairie," un vapeur de 306 tonneaux, et à Longueuil, le vapeur "Longueuil," 230 tonneaux, ainsi qu'un bateau de réserve le "South Eastern," de 230 tonneaux.

La compagnie est maintenant sous la direction de Thos. MM. McGreevy, président; Alphonse Desjardins, vice-président; A. Chabot, administrateur général, et ses ressources augmentent d'année en année; se maintenant au niveau de l'augmentation de population et du progrès de Montréal. Nous admettons que la flotte et l'équipement de la compagnie devraient être améliorés, et l'on croit que la prochaine saison verra certainement commencer des travaux de reconstruction.

LA COMPAGNIE DE TRANSPORT DE MONTRÉAL.

Le commerce océanique de Montréal augmentant d'un pas aussi rapide chaque année exigeait de plus grandes capacités de transport de la part des distributeurs le long du fleuve et du canal.

C'est pourquoi une compagnie d'actionnaires, composée en partie de marchands de Montréal, ayant M. Hugh McLennan pour président, prit avantage de cette nécessité et se hâta d'y suppléer. Ils achetèrent quelques barges et en construisirent d'autres. Ce fut l'origine de la Compagnie de Transport de Montréal. Depuis lors, la compagnie a tellement progressé que sa flotte est quatre fois plus considérable qu'à son début. La flotte des lacs consiste de la barge à vapeur "Glengarry," du "Glenora," et du "Gaskin" dont le pouvoir de transport sur les lacs est de 105,000 minots par voyage. Le remorqueur de lac "James A. Walker," et le "Brandon," "Jennie" et "Regina;" d'un pouvoir de 105,000 minots. Le remorqueur de lac "Active," et ses compagnons "Kildonan," "Bella" et "Maggie" d'un pouvoir de 100,000 minots.

La flotte de la rivière consiste en remorqueurs à vapeur "D. G. Thompson," "Bronson," "Clyde" et "Jessie Hall," avec une flotte de 35 barges, ayant un pouvoir total de transport de 700,000 minots par voyage.

La capacité des élévateurs de la compagnie à Kingston est de 20,000 minots à l'heure, et ces vaisseaux durant la saison des chargements perdent peu de temps dans leur œuvre d'augmenter la prospérité de Montréal. Les affaires de cette ligne consistent en partie à transporter le grain des ports Canadiens et des Etats-Unis aux vapeurs océaniques. Cette année la compagnie s'attend à transporter une grande quantité de grain de Port Arthur, une nouvelle addition au commerce du fleuve St. Laurent.

Le transport du charbon forme une autre branche de commerce de cette ligne. Les barges parcourent les cinq lacs et prennent leurs cargaisons le long des rives du Lac Erié et du Lac Ontario, surtout à Oswego, le port de sortie au Nord des mines de Pennsylvanie, et y apportent des marchandises de tous genres.

LA COMPAGNIE DE TRANSPORT MONTRÉAL ET KINGSTON.

Une petite ligne de vapeurs a pendant quelques années entretenu le commerce entre Kingston et Montréal, lorsqu'en 1879, le défaut de moyens de transporter les marchandises sur le fleuve, vu l'importante augmentation de Montréal, décida une compagnie d'actionnaires de prendre l'affaire en main d'une manière plus systématique. La compagnie sous la présidence de M. Alexander Gunn, de Kingston, assisté de M. J. G. Ross, de Québec, comme vice-président, et M. Wm. Stewart comme directeur et administrateur, mit sur la route 23 barges et un certain nombre de remorqueurs. Ces barges ont une capacité de 400,000 minots par voyage. La compagnie possède deux élévateurs flottants. Les bateaux font 10 voyages annuellement et apportent des Etats de l'Ouest par voie des lacs qu'ils traversent, des grains de toutes sortes consignés en partie à l'Angleterre et autres pays Européens. Ils transportent aussi une immense quantité de charbon d'Oswego, Fair Haven et Charlotte. Le commerce a augmenté si rapidement que la compagnie a été obligée d'ajouter de nouvelles barges chaque année, pour fournir à la demande de transport par canal et rivière. La ligne n'est plus limitée à la distance entre Kingston et Montréal, mais passe par les principaux ports situés le long des lacs, prenant à chacun sa part de cargaison qu'elle décharge sur les quais de Montréal au milieu des vapeurs océaniques, recevant en échange les marchandises venant des différents ports Européens, et qui sont ensuite emportées dans l'intérieur du Canada, ainsi que dans les Etats du Nord et de l'Ouest, auxquels elles parviennent par voie des différents centres de distribution de l'Union, semant ainsi le nom et la renommée de Montréal par tout notre vaste continent.

LA COMPAGNIE DE NAVIGATION DE LA RIVIÈRE OTTAWA.

Cette autre grande voie par eau, la rivière Ottawa, qui lie si intimement la métropole à la capitale politique n'est pas non plus restée inutile. Dès 1840 même, un vapeur le "Oldfield," appartenant à M. R. W. Shepherd, naviguant entre ces deux villes transportait dans l'intérieur le fret consigné aux marchands établis sur la route et pour l'accommodation des voyageurs. Cette ligne devint bientôt insuffisante au besoin toujours croissant du commerce, ce qui décida une compagnie d'actionnaires dont M. Shepherd est le président, d'établir une ligne de vapeurs plus grands et plus commodés. En 1850 le "Lady Simpson" fut lancé et fut suivi en 1860 du "Prince of Wales," qui à son premier voyage, amena Son Altesse Royale à Ottawa. Le "Queen Victoria" (1861) et le "Dagmar" (1865) ainsi que le magnifique vapeur en fer le "Peerless" (1873) qui fut ajouté à la flotte de cette compagnie. C'était le plus gros vaisseau qui ait jamais été construit pour voyager dans l'intérieur du Canada. En 1885 il fut détruit par le feu au quai Montebello. Le "Maud," "Empress" et "Princess," destinés au transport des passagers, et des marchandises et produits, furent achevés durant ces 10 dernières années. Ces vapeurs fournissent de marchandises une partie considérable des campagnes situées sur les rives du fleuve. En retournant à Montréal les bateaux prennent des cargaisons d'animaux et de produits d'agriculture destinés aux ports transatlantiques.

Le trafic a augmenté si rapidement sur la rivière Ottawa que la Compagnie de Navigation de la Rivière Ottawa a l'intention d'acheter à certain nombre de vaisseaux à coque en acier, une qui remplacera le "Prince of Wales" a déjà été commandée et commencera son service à la prochaine saison.

LA LIGNE DES MARCHANDS.

La grande flotte de la Ligne des Marchands est encore une nouvelle preuve de l'opulence et de l'importance de Montréal.

A dater d'aussi loin que 1836, la ligne a été successivement la propriété de MM. Holden, Hooker, Hooker Holden & Co., Hooker & Jaques, et finalement de G. E. Jaques, Tracy & Co.

Depuis Chicago jusqu'à Montréal, tous les ports importants sont touchés par les vapeurs "Acadia," 569 tonneaux; le "Alma Munro," 581 tonneaux, et le "Cuba," 599 tonneaux. Certains points sur le Lac Ontario sont visités par le "Persia," 500 tonneaux, et le "Océan," 454 tonneaux, le "Lac Ontario," de 412 tonneaux, le "Lac Michigan," de 440 tonneaux; et le "Celtic," 440 tonneaux. Le "Welshman" et le "Henry Bate" traversent le canal Rideau. Plusieurs autres petits bateaux visitent différents ports sur la rivière Ottawa, le Canal Rideau, Kingston, Toronto et Hamilton, Ste. Catherine et Détroit.

Une immense quantité de sel est transportée annuellement à Chicago par cette ligne ; de même que le fer blanc, le soude caustique, le soda et les liqueurs de toutes espèces, venant d'Europe ainsi que la bière embouteillée d'Angleterre. Ils s'en retournent à Montréal pesamment chargés des fruits du sol venant en partie de l'Ouest des États-Unis.

Cependant, malgré cette flotte la quantité de trafic qui se dirige toujours vers Montréal surpasse de beaucoup les accommodations, et depuis quelques années les moyens de transport sont insuffisants. Il y a tout lieu d'espérer que l'on suppléera à cette lacune dans un avenir très prochain.

TABEAU DES DISTANCES.

Le grand système des lacs et rivières du Canada les a rendus continuellement navigables sur une distance de 2384 milles, par une chaîne de canaux, comprenant 71 $\frac{1}{2}$ milles de navigation artificielle. Ce système s'étend depuis le Détroit de Belle Isle à la Baie du Tonnerre, à la tête du Lac Supérieur. La table suivante des distances indique la position respective de ces canaux :

CHEMINS DE FER ET TÉLÉGRAPHES.

NOS CHEMINS DE FER, TÉLÉGRAPHES ET TÉLÉPHONES.

SYSTÈME TÉLÉGRAPHIQUE DU CANADA
CONTRÔLÉ PAR LE CAPITAL DE MONTREAL.

DÉVELOPEMENT RAPIDE DES TÉLÉPHONES.

Montréal doit nécessairement, par le fait seul de sa position commerciale à la tête de la navigation, être toujours la "Cité Reine" du Canada. Rien ne peut déposséder Montréal de cette dignité qui est le résultat d'une loi prévoyante dont l'effet nous est démontré par la République voisine, qui, en dépit de l'augmentation des Etats de l'Ouest garde New-York comme la métropole commerciale des Etats-Unis. Comme cette dernière, Montréal est le point principal des différents chemins de fer. Ci-dessous est donné en abrégé un aperçu de l'augmentation des grandes voies ferrées en Canada. Avec quelle persévérance leurs administrateurs se sont efforcés de pousser leurs lignes en avant et avec elles les intérêts du trafic Canadien, nous est amplement prouvé par les détails donnés ; les succès obtenus nous sont aussi démontrés par l'énorme étendue de la ligne pionnière du Grand-Tronc, telle que donnée dans ses registres et l'histoire du chemin de fer Pacifique Canadien. Ce dernier sous bien des rapports, en ce qui regarde sa construction semble un conte des "Milles et une Nuits." Des milliers de milles de lisses sur nos frontières sont maintenant liés à des centaines de milles d'autres qui traversent la République voisine. D'autres chemins sont aussi en voie de construction, et la ligne de Caughnawaga à Dundee que le Pacifique Canadien est à construire, ainsi que cette autre touchant l'Etat de New-York que le Grand-Tronc vient de terminer, seront d'une grande utilité au peuple de la partie ouest de cet état, qui autrement utiliserait le système le ralliant à New York. Un autre tribut est directement rendu à Montréal par le Delaware et Hudson qui entre dans cette ville par les voies du Grand-Tronc, donnant une connection avec environ sept cents milles de chemin. Le Vermont Central entre par la même voie et donne des centaines de milles de trafic directe et nous relie avec des points très importants. Le Pacifique Canadien a maintenant sa propre connection avec Boston et Portland et se raccorde sur sa route avec plusieurs des lignes parcourant les Etats de l'Est. De plus, Montréal a une communication directe avec Halifax par voie de l'Intercolonial. Tant qu'aux facilités de passage Montréal offre au trafic des avantages dont ne jouissent aucune des autres cités du Canada, et par ses stations les marchandises peuvent être expédiées et reçues de tous les points du continent. C'est ainsi que Montréal conserve sa position comme centre distributif du Canada.

L'immense étendue du commerce de ce pays et la puissante influence des chemins de fer sur son progrès peuvent être mesurées par l'augmentation de leur capacité de transport. Le rapport pour l'année 1854 démontre que le nombre de passagers transportés par le Grand-Tronc s'élevait à 117,806 et les tonneaux de fret à $116,571, les recettes étant en tout de $412,590. Durant les années 1883-4 cette même ligne transporta six millions de tonneaux de fret et cinq millions de passagers. En 1886 son fret fut à peu près aussi considérable et le nombre de passagers environ le même ; ses recettes s'élevaient à $14,100,000.

Le développement du chemin de fer Pacifique Canadien a été aussi phénoménal. En 1884 ses recettes totales s'élevaient à $5,750,521. En 1887 elles étaient augmentées à $11,606,412. Ces chiffres sont une bonne marque du développement commercial du Canada dans lequel Montréal a joué une partie si importante.

TÉLÉGRAPHE ET TÉLÉPHONE.

Montréal peut être, avec raison, appelé le centre télégraphique du Canada. Un nombre immense de fils de fer le traverse unissant l'est à l'ouest et le nord au sud ; parlant aux habitants de la Russie de la beauté et de l'air embaumé du sud de la Californie, et murmurant aux oreilles émerveillées des fils de la Chine des messages de la part des capitalistes et manufacturiers des Etats-Unis. Occupant une position des plus avantageuses au point de vue géographique, Montréal devient le lien de communication entre les deux hémisphères et ses ressources et facilités matérielles sont si grandes que quelques rebelles que soient les éléments, elle est toujours capable de joindre deux points quelconques sur la surface du globe, ainsi qu'il nous l'a été prouvé lors de la dernière tempête ; quand toutes les lignes directes entre Chicago et New York étaient brisées l'on communiqua par voie de Montréal et Sydney, C. B., en envoyant des messages par un circuit de 1936 milles.

Quelques minutes de retard, une petite rupture des fils peuvent causer une confusion sans fin. Puis les messages étrangers dont des centaines passent journellement par les bureaux de Montréal, disons de Hong Keng à San Francisco, ou de Paris à Chicago, s'ils étaient interceptés ou retenus causeraient les plus graves conséquences. Mais tout ce qui peut être humainement accompli, et que l'ingénuité de l'homme peut imaginer, a été fait pour prévenir de tels accidents. En Avril 1845 la première ligne télégraphique du monde fut mise en opération entre Baltimore et Washington. Montréal, la première ville du Canada, ne pouvait pas longtemps rester oisive en voyant que la science, par l'entremise d'un citoyen d'un de nos états voisins, avait offert à l'univers ; et deux ans plus tard, en 1847, la Compagnie du Télégraphe de Montréal fut organisée avec un capital de $60,000. M. Andrew Shaw fut élu président ; et M. O. S. Wood, premier élève du professeur Morse, et beau-frère de M. Ezra Cornell, le fondateur de l'Université Cornell, fut nommé surintendant. Etant un homme du plus haut caractère, et possédant une profonde connaissance de sa profession, il poussa la chose avec une grande énergie, tout en économisant, et il en résulta qu'à la fin de sa première année d'existence en 1847, la Compagnie du Télégraphe de Montréal avait 540 milles de fils télégraphiques et neuf bureaux ; employait 35 personnes, et avait expédié 33,000 messages. Comme d'habitude, la première ligne en Canada fut regardée avec crainte et étonnement. Les gens se tenaient au dehors des bureaux guettant le départ des messages ; et le mauvais plaisant qui disait avoir placé une paire de bottes sur le fil télégraphique fut cru, lorsqu'il raconta à la foule étonnée que si elles étaient si poussiéreuses c'était à cause de la vitesse avec laquelle elles avaient été emportées par le télégraphe.

Cette première compagnie ne pouvait pas s'attendre à garder le champ libre pour elle seule, et elle ne le fit pas non plus. Nombre d'entreprises moins considérables tant de la part des Canadiens que des Américains surgirent bientôt. Mais pour une raison ou une autre elles ne réussirent pas. Elles furent absorbées par la compagnie de Montréal, et cette absorption sembla convenir à sa constitution, car elle continua à s'agrandir et à devenir plus puissante. En 1851 Sir Hugh Allan devint son président, et grâce à son administration forte et éclairée, les affaires devinrent de plus en plus considérables, et dans une seule année lorsque 1321 milles de fils furent ajoutés, l'augmentation du nombre des dépêches fut de 254,366. En 1868 une rivale formidable s'éleva dans la compagnie de Télégraphe Dominion, administrée par M. C. R. Hosmer, dont la perspicacité, l'industrie et la popularité rendirent la compagnie digne de valeur, et plus tard les deux lignes s'unirent ensemble sous le nom de Great North Western Telegraph Company, qui contrôle aussi les lignes sous le système du Grand Tronc et la Compagnie de Manitoba. Le tout est maintenant sous l'habile direction de M. Angus Grant. Son bureau principal est à Montréal, ainsi que celui de sa rivale du télégraphe du Pacifique Canadien.

Lorsque le Pacifique Canadien entreprit d'établir une ligne télégraphique commerciale, on prit soin de s'assurer les meilleurs matériaux télégraphiques possible, de sorte que la Compagnie de Télégraphe du Pacifique Canadien ayant, ainsi que le Great North Western, son bureau principal à Montréal, contrôle un des systèmes de télégraphe le plus considérable du monde, administré par M. Hosmer, si favorablement connu dans les cercles télégraphiques sur tout le continent. Ces deux compagnies se servent de pas moins de dix cables, trois de Sydney, C. B., à Hearts' Content, Terre Neuve, et de là à Valentia, Irlande; un de North Sydney, C. B., à St. Pierre Miquelon, de là à Brest; deux de St. Jean, N. B., à Canso, N. S., et de là à Penzance; un d'Halifax à Ballinskallen, Irlande; un via New York à Canso, N. S., et de là à Waterville, Irlande, d'où elle se joint à Weston-Super-Mare, Angleterre. Il semble ainsi qu'elles ne doivent jamais être en peine de communiquer avec le continent, et au cas de nécessité elles peuvent faire usage des nouveaux instruments à double et quadruple force, par lesquelles la capacité des cables peut être doublée et quadruplée à volonté. Tant qu'à la sûreté et l'utilité du cablegramme on en a eu la preuve lorsque M. Stead à Londres, et M. Henry Norman, le correspondant du Star, à Vancouver, conversèrent ensemble il y a quelques mois. Le Canada est certainement à la tête tant qu'aux affaires télégraphiques; il a plus de bureaux, plus de fils, et reçoit et expédie plus de messages comparativement parlant qu'aucun autre pays sur la surface du globe; et Montréal avec ses deux magnifiques compagnies et leurs 49,892 milles de fils, supportés par 32,776 milles poteaux apportant les nouvelles de partout, est le centre le plus convenable d'un pays de progrès comme le nôtre.

Le système ainsi que le service de téléphone à Montréal est des meilleurs; presque toutes les maisons d'affaires importantes et plusieurs d'entre les particuliers sont pourvus de cet instrument. Les statistiques démontrent que pour chaque 100 habitants il y a un téléphone, ce qui surpasse aucune des autres villes sur le continent d'Amérique.

Durant l'hiver de 1878, l'année où le Marquis de Lorne et la Princesse Louise vinrent au Canada, le premier usage du téléphone eut lieu dans la Province. La ligne s'étendait du bureau de la Compagnie de Télégraphe de Montréal en cette ville, à Rideau Hall, Ottawa, et avait été mise en opération par M. Angus Grant, aujourd'hui son surintendant à Montréal, qui en avait suggéré l'épreuve à Sir Hugh Allan. L'instrument dont on se servit fut le téléphone Edison, et il fonctionna à la perfection, au grand plaisir de la Princesse Louise, qui fut des plus amusée de pouvoir entretenir une conversation parfaitement distincte avec Sir Hugh Allan, à une distance de quelques 130 milles. Ceci se passait que très peu de temps après que l'usage du téléphone fut devenu général aux Etats-Unis, et ce n'est pas longtemps après cette épreuve satisfaisante que fut établie la Bell Téléphone Company du Canada. Elle a été généralement adoptée depuis, et est devenue dans certaines places la rivale du télégraphe. La seule difficulté pour une longue distance c'est le nombre des bureaux sur la ligne qui ne peuvent parler que l'un après l'autre, et conséquemment on ne peut obtenir un bon service excédant 225 milles. Tel qu'il est, cependant, les banques en font un usage considérable lorsqu'il s'agit de communiquer avec leurs différentes succursales. Autrefois le gérant de la succursale envoyait un télégramme au bureau principal, mais aujourd'hui il s'assied, et la bouche à l'instrument et le receveur à l'oreille, il communique avec le directeur de la banque ses opérations et ses embarras.

C'est là un des meilleurs avantages de la Bourse de Montréal. Outre ses connections de ville qui se font par le moyen de câbles de 50 à 100 fils distincts chaque, et dont il y a 600 milles, il y a en usage de 5000 milles de fils. Il y a huit fils se dirigeant à Toronto et Hamilton, trois à London, deux à Sarnia et Détroit, deux à Buffalo, deux à Niagara, et plusieurs autres.

Les instruments et autres parties du téléphone occasionnent des dépenses très élevées à la compagnie. Le premier bureau d'opération était sur la rue St. Jean, près de la rue Notre Dame, et son appareil s'élevait à $10,000. Ce lieu étant devenu trop petit, le département d'opération fut transporté au coin des rues Notre Dame et St. François Xavier, où on fit placer un nouvel appareil coûtant $40,000. Ici l'on trouve tout ce qui peut assurer la vitesse et la satisfaction : trente-cinq jeunes filles sont constamment employées pour répondre aux demandes des abonnés. Beaucoup de personnes ne comprennent pas l'action du téléphone du tout, il ne faut donc pas s'étonner de voir des gens se placer devant un instrument lui montrant le poing dans leur rage impuissante, parce qu'ils ne reçoivent pas une réponse immédiate. Mais ils devraient se rappeler que le délai est ordinairement causé par la personne à l'autre extrémité de la ligne, ce dont il ne faut pas blâmer l'opérateur. Ce qui rend le téléphone si dispendieux ce sont les réparations fréquentes qu'il exige, car il n'y pas un instrument ni une partie même d'instrument dont on puisse se servir après quatre années d'usage sans le renouveler, à l'exception du receveur en caoutchouc dur, qui ne s'use pas malgré son contact avec l'électricité.

La compagnie a un département pour les réparations près de son bureau principal, où les réparations de peu d'importance peuvent se faire immédiatement, tandis que les instruments qui ont besoin de nouvelles parties sont transportés à la manufacture, sur la rue Craig près de la rue St. George ; là on manufacture tout ce qui appartient au téléphone, depuis la soie qui couvre les fils jusqu'à la cloche d'appel. Le mécanisme des différentes parties de l'instrument fonctionne avec tant de précision, que quelque soit l'instrument sur lequel ces pièces sont placées, elles sont toujours sûres de donner la communication. Dans cet établissement 65 hommes sont employés, et dans la ville il y a 42 femmes engagées comme opératrices, outre 56 hommes environ pour divers autres travaux, tels qu'inspecteurs, réparateurs des lignes, et autres. Les plus grands ennemis que la compagnie ait à craindre c'est le mauvais temps, les froids de l'hiver et le grésil, qui causent souvent pour plusieurs milles piastres de dommage. Un autre adversaire c'est la foudre ; cependant par le moyen d'un "arrêt de foudre," qui est maintenant en usage, l'effet en est beaucoup diminué. Le fluide électrique ne peut entrer dans la chambre d'opération que jusqu'à "l'arrêt de foudre," où il rencontre une petite platine en acier aussi mince qu'un cheveu, qui se consume sous son influence et laisse un vide qui ne peut être franchi. Ces petites platines sont toutes numérotées, et l'inspecteur qui, par un usage continuel, sait par cœur presque tous les numéros, peut d'un coup d'œil dire quel fil a été touché, et envoyer de suite, s'il le juge nécessaire, un homme pour s'assurer s'il est brisé, ou si l'instrument, qui se trouve à l'extrémité de ce fil, a souffert aucun dommage. Il vaut bien la peine de faire la revue de la chambre d'opération en commençant par le toit, où les câbles et les fils simples de toutes les parties de la ville se réunissent, supportés par de fortes structures en bois ; descendre avec eux jusqu'aux qui, le receveur attaché à l'oreille par le moyen d'un petit appareil fait de légères bandes d'acier que par courtoisie on appelle bonnet, font les raccordements, répondent aux questions, expliquant l'absence de certaines personnes demandées, ou réfutant des accusations de négligence que l'on est si sujet à porter contre elles lorsqu'elles ne répondent pas de suite à l'appel. Au milieu de l'appartement derrière les opératrices se trouve la table de la directrice, qui contient un petit instrument des plus traitres, par le moyen duquel elle peut entendre tout ce que disent les opératrices, quelque bas qu'elles puissent le murmurer, empêchant ainsi toute conversation inutile, coquetterie, ou autres petits caprices auxquels s'adonnent si souvent les jeunes filles. Un des items le plus dispendieux du téléphone c'est le nombre de poteaux qui servent à soutenir les lignes. Non pas que le prix du bois seul soit si énorme, mais le travail et le fini coûtant plus qu'on se l'imagine, et l'érection de chaque poteau coûte une moyenne de $20.00. Pour bureaux et réparations environ $5,000 sont dépensées chaque année, et les salaires prennent à peu près $45,000. Les gens semblent commencer à se convaincre de plus en plus que le téléphone, chose qu'on ignorait même il y a une quinzaine d'années, est d'une nécessité absolue au succès des affaires.

CHEMIN DE FER DU GRAND TRONC.

LE PIONNIER DU COMMERCE CANADIEN.

TROIS MILLE MILLES DE CHEMIN DE FER.

COMMENT MONTREAL DEVINT LE CENTRE DU CANADA.

Les opérations du Grand Tronc sont si intimement liées avec le trafic et le commerce de Montréal, que l'histoire de l'un embrasse certainement celle de l'autre. La construction de cette ligne a fortement développé les ressources du Canada, et beaucoup fait pour l'augmentation et la prospérité de cette ville. Ce fut le Grand Tronc qui fit de cette cité le centre et le point de concentration des chemins de fer du pays; aussi bien que la puissance de son port qui l'a rendue capable de maintenir cette supériorité entre toutes les villes canadiennes.

Ce fut principalement grâce à l'encouragement que lui fournit la loi de l'ancien parlement passée en 1848, de laquelle émanèrent certaines attractions sur la création des voies ferrées. De là vint la véritable conception du système du Grand Tronc et les premiers pas faits en ce sens pour pousser cette vaste entreprise.

Autrefois, les gens faisaient pour le mieux. Les rivières s'offrirent donc naturellement comme la première frontière à suivre, ainsi que les vieux chemins déjà exploités. Et ceci paraîtra peut-être étrange qu'un notable ingénieur de cette époque soit venu déclarer que le système d'alors était et serait largement suffisant pour quarante années à venir, pendant lesquelles les lignes construites seraient pleinement satisfaisantes.

Heureusement qu'il y en eut d'autres plus entreprenants et moins pessimistes. La passation de l'acte de 1849, pendant le gouvernement de Lord Elgin, ne fut-elle pas le signal de la création du chemin de fer du Great Western, devenu depuis partie intégrante du réseau du Grand Tronc actuel, connu alors sous le nom de St. Lawrence et Atlantic Railway, allant de Longueuil à Island Pond.

Bientôt après, vers l'année 1851, on passa un acte autorisant le passage de la ligne du Grand Tronc à travers les provinces. L'étendue des intérêts en jeu dans la construction de ce chemin de fer, ainsi que les immenses bénéfices dont évidemment il devait gratifier le pays, furent la raison qui la firent appuyer par le pays tout entier. Ceci réclamait donc le support de tout le public, et plus le gouvernement lui-même lui accordait d'assistance, plus il fallait que tous contribuassent à rendre cette assistance substantielle. Sous de telles auspices, le Grand Tronc se trouva réellement constitué au printemps de l'an 1853. Les lignes projetées devaient être capitalisées au montant de dix millions sterling, et près de 1,000 milles de route devaient être construits. Dans le but de compléter ce projet en poussant un chemin vers la mer, on chercha à acquérir et à diriger la ligne de l'Atlantique et St. Laurent vers Portland, à travers le Maine, soit cent quarante-huit milles environ.

Les sections de la route progressant sous cet Acte se divisent ainsi : le Grand Tronc du Canada, 142 milles ; Québec et Richmond, 96 milles ; St. Lawrence et Atlantique, 144 milles ; Grande Jonction, 50 milles ; Toronto et Guelph, 51 milles. Un coup d'œil sur dont il ne reste que peu de copies, nous montre comme suit la liste des Directeurs : Président, l'Hon. John Ross, Solliciteur-Général ; Hon. Francis Hincks, Inspecteur Général ; l'Hon. E. P. Taché, Receveur Général ; l'Hon. J. Morris, Ministre des Postes ; l'Hon. M. Cameron, Président du Conseil ; l'Hon. R. E. Caron, Orateur du Conseil Législatif ; M. Thomas Baring, M.P., et M. G. C. McGlynn, M.P., comme agents de la Province de Québec, et directeurs de la portion de la présente compagnie, résidant en Angleterre, de concert avec le Gouvernement canadien. Le directeur administrateur fut C. P. Roney, avec M. S. B. Biggar comme gérant général, et M. A. M. Ross comme ingénieur en chef. Ce catalogue se trouva aussi complet que possible, et paraît être fait dans le but de concentrer la monnaie vers l'entreprise.

L'immensité de la contrée dont la nouvelle ligne devenait le pivot et la diversité des produits qui allaient naturellement s'offrir à son trafic, firent que les promoteurs de cette grande œuvre la présentèrent naturellement sous les couleurs les plus souriantes. L'abondance de l'argent se manifesta en Angleterre, et les parts firent bientôt prime, et le premier résultat fut que la population se disputa ces valeurs avec le plus grand enthousiasme, et y transféra l'argent qui ne leur produisait qu'un moindre intérêt, confiante dans le succès de cette œuvre transatlantique.

Les promoteurs eurent bientôt des fonds abondants à leur disposition, et mirent à l'ouvrage toute une armée de travailleurs ; la construction fut donc poussée avec toute l'ardeur et la vigueur possibles, ce qui permit d'obtenir rapidement de vastes tronçons de route.

Dès 1853, une portion de chemin fut ouverte entre Montréal et Portland, et l'année suivante vit le complément de la route entre Richmond et Québec. Deux ans plus tard eut lieu le premier départ du train de Montréal à Toronto, qui fut fêté par de joyeuses cérémonies et célébré par tous les journaux de l'époque. On put parfaitement constater que ceci marquait une nouvelle période commerciale et sociale dans l'histoire du Canada. La construction de cette grande ligne ne fut-elle pas également le plus dans ce fait de la construction du Pont Victoria. N'était-il pas de première évidence qu'une ouverture comme celle du St. Laurent interrompit la continuité de la ligne nouvelle, et quelbue gigantesque que put paraître cette question se présentant à différents points de vue, on décida la construction d'un pont à travers le plus grand fleuve du Nord. L'homme à qui on confia ce travail était lui-même un géant par son art et son goût; Montréal peut être fière d'avoir à sa porte la plus grande œuvre de Robert Stephenson, un des ingénieurs les plus remarquables du monde entier. Il envisagea profondément les forces de toute nature avec son œil de maître, ainsi que le granit et le fer que son génie devait utiliser. Si Montréal est aujourd'hui un centre distributif plein de force, n'est-ce point dû en partie à cette merveilleuse construction? L'histoire du Pont Victoria a déjà été écrite bien des fois, et il ne nous est guère permis d'en dire autre chose quant à présent, qu'il coûte entre sept et huit millions de piastres, qu'il a plus de deux milles de longueur, que le premier train de voyageurs qui le traversa le fit en Décembre 1859, et que cette année-là le Prince de Galles lui-même vint en faire l'inauguration avec une éclatante cérémonie et au milieu d'un grand concours de population.

La ligne telle qu'on l'inaugura à cette époque pouvait comprendre 1,000 milles, à strictement parler, cent milles de plus, et s'est toujours accrue depuis d'une manière permanente. A présent elle montre quinze cent cinquante milles, et on peut encore, en y joignant certaines parties de lignes, obtenir le total énorme de

TROIS MILLE MILLES.

D'actives négociations se poursuivent pour assurer à l'entreprise d'autres acquisitions, et nous pouvons hardiment constater ce fait que cette œuvre a donné lieu à des écrits et à des discussions acerbes. Cette ligne n'ayant pas d'abord réalisé tous les avancements promis par ceux qui en avaient entrepris la construction, l'énorme débordement de constructions, joint à plusieurs autres causes économiques, ont travaillé contre le succès de cette route, qui par ce fait a présenté aux actionnaires un horizon quelque peu sombre.

Le rapport de la commission parlementaire chargée d'étudier la question peut être lu dans les archives du Parlement sur ce sujet,

A cette époque un peu sombre, M. C. J. Brydges prit charge de la ligne; homme droit et de haute position, il se trouva en proie aux plus violentes attaques de la part des ennemis de l'institution, et se mit à travailler avec ardeur aux intérêts de la compagnie.

Il vit de suite que tout manquait d'unification, et malgré la vaste étendue de la ligne, c'est grâce à son initiative que la grande voie canadienne a accepté son système en grande partie pour le relier avec New York, Chicago, et les principaux centres commerciaux des Etats-Unis du Nord. Le nom de M. Brydges sera toujours intimement lié avec la prospérité acquise par le Grand-Tronc.

Un des résultats apparents de la Commission Royale dont il a été question déjà a été une demande d'aide en 1861, adressée au pays. On se basa sur le motif que l'aide accordé par l'Acte de 1849 n'était pas en proportion de la grandeur de l'entreprise, que déjà ce chemin avait produit des merveilles pour le pays, et qu'il avait droit à des marques spéciales d'encouragement. En 1874 un eut lieu, M. Joseph Hickson venait de succéder à M. Brydges. Peu après le déplacement de ce dernier monsieur, la voie fut élargie elle aussi, mais d'un bout à l'autre, dans le but surtout de mettre en harmonie les diverses lignes du Grand Tronc avec celles des Etats-Unis.

Ce fut là nécessairement une opération fort coûteuse; d'ailleurs, les rails d'acier furent adoptés; au point de vue de l'usage ce fut d'un grand bénéfice. Dès le commen-

Le Great Western Ry. de Niagara à Détroit, avec une branche roulant vers Toronto fut acheté, ajoutant ainsi quelques nouveaux milles à ceux déjà existants. Un des résultats calculés fut d'ajouter un gain de soixante et dix pour cent au revenu net du Grand Tronc, et trente pour cent au revenu du Western lui-même. En l'année 1879, le Gouvernement prit le contrôle de la section de la Rivière du Loup, et avec ses fonds un grand avantage fut acquis à la portion ouest de la ligne principale, de même qu'une communication directe se trouva établie avec Chicago, malgré une opposition obstinée de la part des capitalistes les plus haut placés des Etats-Unis. Le Chicago et Grand Tronc connectant, le système avec Chicago est sous la direction de M. W. J. Spicer, depuis de bien longues années surintendant du G.T.R., et la main droite de M. Hickson à Montréal. Depuis sa nomination à la charge de directeur du Grand Tronc, M. Spicer a reçu des offres flatteuses de plusieurs compagnies américaines, mais il sut rester fidèle aux grands intérêts pour lesquels il avait quitté l'Angleterre.

En dépit des combinaisons Vanderbilt et Gould, et d'une opposition puissante, M. Hickson réussit à faire entrer le Grand Tronc à Chicago, et sa conduite des négociations dans cette entreprise est considérée comme un chef-d'œuvre de diplomatie dans l'histoire des chemins de fer.

Il n'y a pas longtemps le Grand Tronc a acquis le réseau du "Northern Railway," qui lui fournit de nouvelles sorties vers le Lac Huron et ailleurs. Ce réseau représente environ 450 milles de voie ferrée. Les raccordements avec sa ligne principale se sont dernièrement accrus par la construction d'une ligne de Fort Covington à Massena Springs dans l'état de New York, d'une longueur de 25 milles ou à peu près. Cette dernière fournit au Grand Tronc des relations avec un réseau considérable de chemins de fer dans l'Etat de New York, en particulier la route de Rome, Watertown et Ogdensburg. Il y a de la sorte une communication additionnelle avec l'Ouest. Un autre embranchement, celui de Beauharnois à Valleyfield, est un chemin d'alimentation de trafic. Le progrès du Grand Tronc, et les appels croissants faits à ses ressources, exigent une voie double sur tout le parcours, et c'est ce que l'on est en frais de faire avec toute la rapidité que le permettent ses finances. Il y a actuellement quelques sections complètes sous ce rapport.

Les usines du Grand Tronc donnent de l'emploi à 2000 ouvriers à Montréal, à 600 à Hamilton, à 400 à London et Stratford, et 650 à divers autres points. Depuis les débuts du Grand Tronc la population de Montréal s'est accrue de 50,000 à 200,000 âmes.

LE DEPOT BONAVENTURE.

La compagnie vient d'élever un dépôt magnifique sur l'ancien emplacement, rue St. Jacques. C'est un magnifique édifice, d'une fort jolie architecture, dont la façade principale regarde l'est, le côté opposé servant au garage des trains. La bâtisse a deux étages en élévation, elle est en briques et en pierres, surmontée par un toit élevé. Trois jolies tours, au nord, au milieu et au sud, forment clochers, et donnent à cette construction un imposant aspect. Elle est tout particulièrement aménagée avec soin pour le confort des passagers qui y arrivent par une voie couverte, permettant aux voitures d'approcher des salles d'attente meublées avec élégance. Cette station, qui est un ornement pour Montréal, a coûté au-delà de $300,000.

LE PACIFIQUE CANADIEN.

DE L'ATLANTIQUE AU PACIFIQUE.

VASTES TERRITOIRES TRIBUTAIRES DE MONTREAL.

MONTREAL LE PORT OCEANIQUE DES ETATS DE L'OUEST.

C'est à Montréal et à ses citoyens que le Canada et le commerce du monde entier doivent la "huitième merveille du monde," le plus grand triomphe de nos jours en matière de chemin de fer : Le chemin de fer Canadien du Pacifique.

Il n'est ni clair ni aisé d'en témoigner.

Beaucoup en réclament la paternité ; mais la personne qui paraît en avoir fait la première proposition au Gouvernement ne serait autre que M. Waddington, un ingénieur de grand talent, et le frère d'un ancien ministre de l'instruction publique en France, actuellement ambassadeur à Londres.

La nécessité d'une telle entreprise, reliant par une ligne l'est à l'ouest, formant une chaîne non interrompue entre l'un et l'autre de ces deux points, et donnant aux provinces un lien entre elles et une voie de communication avec les régions quasi-inaccessibles du Nord-Ouest, était naturellement évidente.

L'admission de la Colombie Anglaise dans la Confédération, en 1871, sous la condition qu'un tel chemin de fer fut construit, fut la cause que le projet proposé par M. Waddington fut pris en considération par le gouvernement après une longue entrevue avec Sir John A. MacDonald.

L'idée que ce projet était praticable rencontrait beaucoup de sceptiques d'un côté et beaucoup d'enthousiastes de l'autre. Il y eut néanmoins une chaude concurrence pour le privilège de construire le chemin. Au début, il ne fut pas décidé de faire de l'entreprise purement une œuvre du Gouvernement, mais on promit de l'aider libéralement, tant en argent qu'en terres. Deux compagnies furent successivement formées ; mais elles tombèrent sans avoir avancé la ligne d'un pouce. Une troisième, avec feu Sir Hugh Allan en tête, fut formée et autorisée de construire la ligne depuis le Lac Nipissing jusqu'au Pacifique. A cette entreprise la somme de $30,000,000 et 50,000,000 d'acres de terre furent accordés par le Gouvernement. Sir Hugh Allan, avec cette vive pénétration qui le caractérisait dans les affaires, devina la haute importance de la construction de cette ligne, sous un point de vue commercial, et voyant quel serait assuré à sa splendide flotte de navires, mit toute son indomptable énergie à l'accomplissement de ce projet. Il y eut une forte opposition à ce plan, tant en dehors qu'en dedans du Parlement. L'agitation causée par le scandale du Pacifique fut suffisante pour faire tomber le cabinet d'alors dont Sir John MacDonald était le chef.

Les conventions avec la Colombie Britannique promettaient en premier lieu que le chemin serait terminé en dix ans, mais il devint bientôt évident que cela ne pouvait être accompli. La compagnie dont Sir Hugh Allan était le président abandonna la charte. Le peuple de la Colombie Anglaise commença à se plaindre de mauvaise foi à son égard, et le nouveau gouvernement dirigé par M. McKenzie dut prendre des mesures pour le satisfaire et faire quelque chose pour la construction du chemin. On fit des arrangements avec la province du Pacifique, par le moyen duquel le temps pour la construction du chemin fut prolongé, l'année 1891 étant fixée. Le progrès du chemin de fer de 1872-80 ne fut pas très rapide. L'on savait alors que M. Sanford Fleming poussait l'arpentage en avant, mais les difficultés que l'on disait rencontrer semblaient très grandes, c'est ce qui fit dire à M. McKenzie, dans une certaine occasion, à la Chambre des Communes, que toutes les ressources du Gouvernement Britannique ne pourraient réussir à construire la ligne en dix années. Un commencement se fit néanmoins. Une ligne fut construite de Winnipeg aux frontières des Etats-Unis, et des sections du chemin entre Fort William sur le Lac Supérieur et Manitoba.

En 1878 il y eut un

et en 1880 un changement nouveau et radical fut fait dans le contrat du chemin de fer du Pacifique Canadien. Une nouvelle compagnie fut formée, qui prit des arrangements avec le Gouvernement, par lesquels le syndicat, ainsi qu'on l'appelait, devait recevoir gratuitement les lignes terminées, dont 711 milles en tout étaient en voie de construction à l'est des Montagnes Rocheuses, et 88 milles de Port Moody et Yale. A part cela, le Gouvernement accorda à la compagnie $25,000,000 et 25,000,000 d'acres de terrain. De son côté la compagnie s'engagea à terminer la ligne pour le premier Mai 1891. Les conventions ne furent pas strictement observées, car la construction fut poussée d'une manière si remarquable, que le 7 Novembre, cinq ans moins trois mois après la signature du contrat, le chemin de fer du Pacifique Canadien était un fait accompli, et le passage du trafic de Québec à la côte du Pacifique rendu praticable.

La construction du chemin nécessitait de grandes dépenses, les difficultés que les ingénieurs avaient à surmonter étaient énormes. C'était le cas particulièrement sur la section du Lac Supérieur, où le taillage du roc et les passages souterrains exigeaient un labeur énorme et de gros déboursés. Cette partie fut la plus dispendieuse de la ligne, et comme route de trafic devait nécessairement pour quelque temps du moins rester inutile. De $600,000 à $700,000 par mille furent dépensées sur cette section. Les sections dans les Montagnes Rocheuses furent aussi très dispendieuses, coûtant une moyenne de $370,000 par mille. La compagnie a aussi en relation avec son service un système de vapeurs naviguant entre Vancouver, Yokohama et le Japon. Comme le disait le Premier du Canada, Hong Kong peut être considéré comme le terminus du chemin de fer du Pacifique Canadien. Il y a aussi communication par cette ligne avec Boston, lui donnant ainsi une issue sur l'Atlantique. Une charte fut obtenue durant une récente session du Parlement pour une ligne de chemin de fer devant être construite entre Caughnawaga et l'Etat de New York, passant par Beauharnois, Valleyfield, et traversant la ligne internationale près de Dundee, et se reliant avec ce système si étendu et compliqué des chemins de fer dont les nombreuses ramifications parcourent les Etats-Unis.

Le premier train "direct" quitta Montréal le 2 Novembre, et cette circonstance fut regardée comme étant d'une importance générale. Durant le temps écoulé entre la signature du contrat avec le Gouvernement, la ligne avait continué à progresser de diverses manières. Outre la ligne principale, plus de 1000 milles de branches avaient été acquis ou construits, et les actions s'élevaient à $65,000,000. Une ligne de vapeurs fut aussi placée sur le Lac Supérieur. En un mot, l'accomplissement de cette grande œuvre met le Canada en possession d'une ligne de chemin de fer de Québec à Vancouver, 3077 milles de longueur, 366 milles plus court qu'aucun autre chemin joignant San Francisco et New York. De Liverpool à Vancouver la distance est de 5761 milles par le Pacifique Canadien, et de ce premier port à San Francisco, par New York 6401 milles, donnant ainsi à la route canadienne un avantage de 640 milles. Deux tiers du chemin sont sous la direction d'une compagnie; le tout est sur le territoire britannique, et la ligne constitue la seule

Les officiers de la compagnie sont : Président, Sir Geo. Stephen, Bart.; Vice-Président et Administrateur Général, W. C. Van Horne, qui peut être considéré comme l'esprit conducteur de cette grande entreprise, dont la confiance en l'avenir du Canada et le succès positif de la route transcontinentale ne s'est jamais ralentie. M. C. Drinkwater, qui fut plusieurs années assistant de M. Hickson du G.T.R., est secrétaire, tandis que M. Van Horne a pour Assistant Administrateur M. T. G. Shaughnessy, dont l'activité et l'esprit d'entreprise, unis à son expérience étendue des détails, font de lui un aide inappréciable au Vice-Président. M. George Olds, l'administrateur du trafic, et M. Lucius Tuttle, administrateur du trafic des passagers, étaient tous deux bien connus dans le cercle des affaires de chemins de fer aux Etats-Unis avant de venir ici, et ont beaucoup travaillé à établir les affaires du chemin. Les autres officiers sont : Intendant, I. G. Ogden; Trésorier, W. Sutherland Taylor; Surintendant Général de la division Ontario et Atlantique, T. A. McKinnon; Surintendant Général de la division Est, C. W. Spencer; Surintendant Général de la division Ouest, W. White; Surintendant Général de la division du Pacifique, Harry Abbott; Agent Général du Fret et des Passagers pour la division Ouest et Pacifique, R. Ker; Agent Général des Passagers pour la division Ontario et Atlantique, D. McNicholl.

Une autre ligne de chemin de fer d'une grande importance pour Montréal doit aussi être décrite, on peut dire d'elle qu'elle est deuxième en importance à la ligne principale du Pacifique Canadien elle-même. La route du Sault Ste. Marie part de la Jonction Sudbury et se rend au pont du "Sault" via Algoma Mills. Une ligne avait été construite en 1882 jusqu'aux moulins d'Algoma, dont on avait fait le port de l'est des vapeurs de la compagnie. Il y eut passablement d'argent dépensé pour la construction d'une jetée, et un hôtel d'une certaine dimension fut projeté, mais des circonstances surgirent qui empêchèrent que l'on fit de ce port l'usage auquel il avait été destiné; quoiqu'il puisse peut-être devenir de quelque utilité dans l'avenir. Il y a un an et demi les travaux d'extension du chemin furent continués et complétés vers le commencement de la présente année. La ligne offrira beaucoup de facilités au trafic local, vu qu'elle parcourt une partie du pays qui est très fertile et fort bien établie. Le Grand Manitoulin, l'Ile St. Joseph et d'autres sections sont des terres agricoles de première valeur, et la ligne donnera sans doute plus d'émulation à ceux qui ont des intérêts dans les riches districts miniers qu'elle traverse. Le chemin est construit sur un pied aussi complet que la ligne principale. Les lisses les plus pesantes et du meilleur acier ont été employées, le plan ayant été tracé de manière que les pentes fussent aussi faciles que possible et les courbes des plus longues. L'ensablement du chemin est des meilleurs, et un des ingénieurs assure que cela est dû en partie au fait qu'une énorme quantité de quartz écrasé, le rebut d'une mine de cuivre abandonnée aux mines de Bruce, était à la main et rendait la tâche des plus faciles. Le pont sur la rivière Ste. Marie est un travail magnifique. M. J. W. Moffatt, ingénieur civil de Lachine, fit et la maçonnerie fut construite par M. R. G. Reid de la même place, la partie en fer du pont principal étant faite par la Dominion Bridge Co., et le pont-levis par la Detroit Bridge Co., M. G. H. Massey était l'ingénieur en chef. Le pont principal a dix arches, dont chacune a 242 pieds de long et 250 tonneaux de pesanteur. Le pont-levis est très gros, pesant plus de 3000 tonneaux, et ayant 386 pieds de long. La longueur entière du pont est d'environ un mille et cent vingt pieds. Il coûte $500,000. Cette ligne importante fut convenablement inaugurée le 8 Janvier de l'année courante, par le passage de ce qu'on appelle le "Grand Train de Farines" de Minneapolis, un événement relaté au long par les journaux à cette époque. Ce train comprenait 99 chars ayant 14,820 quarts de farine à bord, dont le tout se rendait à l'Océan Atlantique par la nouvelle route. Minneapolis le grand centre meunier de l'Ouest a manufacturé l'année dernière plus de six millions de quarts de farine, dont trois millions furent expédiés en Angleterre. Combien cette route influera sur le commerce maritime de notre port, peut être facilement imaginé. De Minneapolis à Liverpool via Chicago il y a 4,413 milles, et via le Sault et Montréal seulement 3,900, la plus grande partie de l'exportation de cette section de l'Ouest devrait parvenir à notre port. On sauve une différence de 40 milles par cette ligne entre Minneapolis et Boston. La route du Sault peut être considérée avec raison comme le principal élément de l'augmentation de l'exportation vers Montréal des produits des Etats de l'Ouest.

LE TERMINUS WINDSOR,

Un des principaux faits en rapport avec le chemin de fer du Pacifique Canadien est le magnifique dépôt construit sur les rues Windsor, Osborne et Donegana, et qui est appelé Nouveau Dépôt Bonaventure, pour le distinguer du premier dépôt Bonaventure. Ce nouveau dépôt a 200 pieds de front, s'étendant de la rue Osborne à la rue Donegana. Il est une des plus belles stations du continent. Les chambres d'attente font face à la rue Windsor, mais sont de niveau avec la rue Osborne. La partie de la bâtisse réservée aux trains a quatre-vingt-dix pieds de large et cinq cents de long. Les lisses sur lesquelles les trains entrent dans la station sont à 18 pieds au-dessus du niveau des rues Donegana et Windsor. L'entrée principale est sur la rue Donegana, où une place commode et abritée est réservée pour les voitures. Aux coins des rues Donegana et Windsor une magnifique tour est construite, dont quatre-vingt-dix pieds sur la rue Windsor et soixante et dix sur la rue Donegana, s'élevant à 204 pieds de hauteur. Six étages de cette tour servent pour des bureaux, ainsi que quatre autres dans l'aile sur la rue Osborne, pour les bureaux principaux de la compagnie. L'édifice est bâti en pierre d'Ecosse, dans le genre d'architecture généralement connu sous le nom de "Maçonnerie Ecossaise," d'un genre imposant, mais simple. Des cuisines, réfectoires et appartements destinés particulièrement aux émigrants sont dans le plan, et la station est un ornement à la ville, et un terminus convenable sous tous rapports à une ligne si importante et pour une aussi grande ville que Montréal. L'ambition de la compagnie a été de le faire tel, et elle a réussi. Les rails ne sortent pas de la ville de niveau mais sur un pont de tréteaux en fer.

LE PONT DU ST. LAURENT.

Un des points les plus frappants de cette ligne dans les environs de Montréal est le superbe pont tubulaire traversant le St. Laurent de la Pointe au Moulin à Vent, de Lachine à Caughnawaga. Ce magnifique pont comprend huit sections, de 240 pieds chaque et deux de 270, ainsi qu'une paire d'arches de 408 pieds. chaque, d'une hauteur de 60 pieds au-dessus de l'eau. Le pont est d'un dessein tout-à-fait élégant, la partie en fer du plan ayant été tracée par M. C. Shaler Smith. Le plan général adopté dans cet ouvrage est celui de double intersection. Les rails sont sur des arches placées entre les sections, afin d'assurer toute la stabilité et la sûreté possibles, des garde-corps y sont érigés afin d'empêcher les accidents, les arches ont des liens de formes courtes au-dessus et au-dessous qui les rendent légères et élégantes. Le pont est construit sur des piliers en grosse maçonnerie, dont les fondations sont d'autant plus solides qu'elles sont destinées à soutenir le choc des glaces qui ne manquent pas de les presser à la saison du printemps. La maçonnerie fut faite par M. R. G. Reid, et la partie en fer par la Dominion Bridge Co., dans ses usines à Lachine. Le tout fut construit sous la surveillance personnelle de M. Peterson, l'ingénieur en chef du Pacifique Canadien. Le pont, qui est d'un genre tout-à-fait nouveau, unit la légèreté et l'élégance à une solidité parfaite, et offre un aspect magnifique. De plus, comme il est ouvert, la vue des fameux Rapides de Lachine au-dessus desquels il passe est splendide. Les frais de construction de ce pont s'élèvent à $1,200,000.

LES ENTREPOTS DE MONTRÉAL.

Aucune revue du commerce de Montréal ne peut être complète sans une étude sérieuse de l'installation de ses élévateurs. Sortant comparativement de petits débuts, le commerce des grains aujourd'hui a atteint le premier rang et se trouve au même niveau que celui de New York, Baltimore et autres grands ports de navigation océanique dans la République voisine. Aucune ville dans le Canada n'a pu rivaliser ou ne peut avoir l'espoir de rivaliser avec Montréal pour la capacité des élévateurs.

La vieille méthode des élévateurs avant l'introduction de la vapeur, il y a trente ans environ, employée pour transborder le grain des barges des lacs aux navires océaniques, mérite d'être notée. Les hommes encore dans les affaires parlaient des "bagging days" (jours de la mise en sacs), quand les élévateurs reposaient sur des bras humains. Chaines d'hommes stationnant à la suite les uns les autres, jusqu'à ce qu'ils aient transporté le grain en sacs de la barque au grand vaisseau, l'ayant mesuré par avant à la mesure d'un demi boisseau, en deux coups la moitié du boisseau introduite dans chaque sac et allongés au bord du navire jusqu'à ce que vingt-cinq soient expédiés. Ceci était appelé "une taille." Deux de ces sacs étaient alors pesés, et la comparaison en était faite avec les vingt-cinq. Il fallait donc deux divisions d'hommes,—les peseurs et les rangeurs, ayant de 12 à 20 hommes chaque, afin qu'ils puissent mesurer et ranger 5000 boisseaux en 10 heures. Les élévateurs actuels font le même ouvrage en une seule heure et avec une fraction du prix d'autrefois.

Tel en est le système, la vieille mise en sac et l'ancien rangement ; parmi les plus considérables représentants de ce genre d'industrie furent MM. Glass et Jones, James Henderson, George Chaffee, Black et Bonner, John et Hugh McLennan, George E. Jacques & Cie., Michael Scanlon, et David G. Thompson. Parmi ceux-ci, M. Hugh McLennan est encore activement dans les affaires, son frère John s'est retiré avec une ample fortune. M. Black, notre respectable trésorier de la cité ; M. Scanlon, intendant de la ligne de Steamers Dominion ; et D. G. Thompson, de la Montreal Transportation Company, sont tous des survivants du commerce des élévateurs avant l'emploi de la vapeur. Le temps est arrivé où un changement complet est demandé. Il y a peu d'hommes qui n'aient jugé qu'avec l'extension que la navigation a prise à Montréal, l'entrepôt des grains venant de l'ouest, il ne faille appeler ensuite d'autres moyens pour accomplir l'ouvrage nécessaire.

LE SYSTÈME D'ÉLÉVATEURS FLOTTANTS.

Dans l'année 1857 la "Montreal Steam Elevating Company" fut organisée, avec un capital souscrit de $80,000. John Esdaile, président; directeurs: H. L. Routh, Andrew Shaw, Jas. H. Henderson et C. J. Cusack. L'œuvre de la compagnie fût définie à la réunion des actionnaires tenue en Mars de la même année, en une résolution votée comme suit: "qu'une société soit fondée dans le but de faciliter le chargement et le mesurage des grains." Tous ceux qui furent présents à cette assemblée étaient tous plus ou moins interceptés dans le chargement des navires, et conscients que pour le développement du commerce de grains dans notre port, il fallait chercher à le faciliter par des moyens indispensables. La compagnie étant formée, des contrats furent immédiatement donnés pour la construction d'élevateurs flottants, qui furent prêts pour le printemps suivant (1858). La quantité embarquée cette saison fut petite, et n'excédant guère 500,000 boisseaux; mais la saison 1860 fut marquée par une augmentation considérable dans l'embarquement et dans la quantité de grains arrivant ici; bientôt, d'autres élévateurs devinrent indispensables et furent requis à cause de l'augmentation du trafic. On construisit un second élévateur pour l'automne de 1860, et un troisième fut ordonné pour 1861, année qui montra de suite l'obligation où l'on était d'en construire d'autres, soit deux de plus; ce qui en tout fit cinq. Pendant quelques années, jusqu'en 1866, le commerce parût légèrement baisser. De 1866 à 1871, il y eut un nouveau développement, et plus de 19 millions de boisseaux de grains furent embarqués et emmagasinés par les sept élévateurs de la compagnie.

En 1872 la compagnie fut réorganisée en vue de l'accroissement de Montréal comme port d'exportation de grains, et ce par amalgamation avec une nouvelle compagnie qui s'était formée sous le nom de "Montreal Elevating Company." Le capital de cette association fut porté à $160,000, et la direction fut composée de Andrew Allan, président; directeurs: Hugh McLennan, Daniel Butters, J. H. Joseph et A. T. Patterson. Le but premier de la société fût par la fusion du capital, de fournir les moyens de transportement facile du grain arrivant dans le port de Montréal, et ce à prix modérés. L'outillage de la compagnie consistait en 1880 en 14 élévateurs, coûtant chacun $15,000, au total $210,000, avec une capacité de 5000 boisseaux à l'heure. En 1880 le transbordement des grains atteignit 20,000,000 de boisseaux avec l'emploi de tous les élévateurs. Depuis lors, le mouvement a toujours été un peu en dessus ou en dessous de ce chiffre.

Une récapitulation est inutile pour faire voir comment quelques élévateurs flottants en 1857 arrivaient à un demi million de boisseaux, tandis que le mouvement s'est tellement accru, que 14 élévateurs sont actuellement mis à réquisition avec une capacité totale de 70,000 boisseaux par heure, employant une bonne partie de la population ouvrière, et coûtant tous ensemble $210,000.

M. Andrew Allan est resté président de cette compagnie depuis sa formation. Les directeurs présents étant MM. Hugh McLennan, A. T. Patterson, J. A. Crane et Alex. McDougall; le dernier, gérant.

LES ENTREPÔTS OU ÉLÉVATEURS STATIONNAIRES

sont, si possible, non moins importants que les autres élévateurs flottants pour le grain. Les pionniers de cette ligne d'exploitation sont MM. Ira Gould et fils, qui dès 1848 érigèrent des entrepôts commodes le long du bassin du canal, et leurs moulins ne tardèrent pas à être connus dans cette cité sous le nom de "Gould's City Mills." Peu après M. McDougall érigea le "Canal Mill," et depuis MM. Ogilvie Frères prirent plus d'extension que leurs prédécesseurs ; ces trois meuneries ont une capacité de plus de 1 million de boisseaux de grain, une partie desquels est à l'usage de Montréal et demande d'autres entrepôts. La Montreal Warehousing Company, dont l'établissement marqua le dernier pas de ce genre de commerce, fut la première qui fit de l'entrepôt des grains une affaire spéciale. Leurs magasins immenses, qui occupent les deux côtés du canal, contiennent plus d'un million de boisseaux et quantité d'autres marchandises ; mais les plus grands élévateurs ont été construits par le Canadian Pacific Railway, à la Station Dalhousie, et proportionnés aux vastes entreprises de cette compagnie. Ils ont une capacité de 1,250,000 boisseaux.

- Le capital placé dans ces différents élévateurs est modérément évalué à 2 millions de dollars.

Le grain qui vient à Montréal n'est pas entièrement mis en entrepôts, car souvent l'expéditeur sauve une dépense en passant son grain directement au navire qui lui fera traverser l'Océan.

Il est cependant plus économique de conduire à l'élévateur le grain transporté par le chemin de fer.

La totalité du grain passé l'an dernier par les entrepôts peut être évaluée à dix millions de boisseaux, quantité qu'on croit devoir dépasser l'année prochaine. Comme on le voit, aussi bien en élévateurs flottants que stationnaires, Montréal est organisé pour l'immense quantité de trafic que lui préparent les développements du Nord-Ouest et l'abolition éventuelle des péages des canaux.

LE COMMERCE DES CHAUSSURES.

Montréal doit indubitablement devenir le centre de fabrication et d'approvisionnement de la chaussure, quoique le Canada possède de divers côtés un grand nombre de ces manufactures, il est un fait que beaucoup de maisons de cette cité achètent leurs chaussures à Québec, pour les travailler par ici. Il y a trente fabriques à Montréal, dont quinze peuvent être considérées comme importantes, les autres sont de second ordre.

Les personnes des deux sexes employées dans ces manufactures sont environ 4,000, et le chiffre de ceux qui dépendent indirectement de cette industrie peut s'évaluer à 15,000. Assez généralement, on n'emploie pas les enfants au-dessous de 14 ans, et vingt-cinq pour cent à peu près sont des filles ou femmes. Il n'y a pas moins de 250 grades ou genres de marchandises produits, le chiffre maximum de chaussures fabriquées par les plus grandes de ces fabriques est de 12,000 à 15,000 paires par jour. La valeur des produits atteint chaque jour 20,000 dollars environ ; en tenant compte du prix $1.20 par paire, et en 300 jours de travail on arrive à une production de 4,500,000 paires d'une valeur de $5,400,000 pendant l'année, 94 pour cent de cette quantité est produite dans Montréal, et le Canada en consomme 4,280,000 paires, 4 pour cent s'exporte en Angleterre, 2 pour cent dans les autres contrées. Il y a quelques années le commerce s'en faisait avec les Indes Orientales, mais il a diminué à cause des droits imposés par le gouvernement. Les Américains ont pris le commerce aux Canadiens, et on trouve un chiffre de 50,000 dollars par an.

L'augmentation des manufactures n'a jamais été en baisse, et depuis dix années ce genre de commerce a été aussi encourageant que n'importe lequel en ville.

La machinerie introduite dans les manufactures de Montréal ne se laisse dépasser par aucune autre au monde. Entre autres, les machines à coudre, à clouer, à river ; la machine peut clouer une chaussure d'hommes en huit secondes, et le travail est considéré aussi durable que fait à la main. Avec celle à border, on peut en border trois cents paires par jour, et le travail est de 50 pour cent meilleur que celui fait à la main.

	1883.	1888.
Machines à coudre.....	675	750
Machines à cheviller.....	34	45
Couseuses de semelles.....	28	34
Coupeuses de semelles.....	28	29

Machines à brunir les talons.....	23	29
Machines à border.....	23	29
Machines à brunir au papier sablé.....	26	35
Machines à gauffer.....	17	21

D'ailleurs, l'accroissement continuuel de ce genre de fabrication a toujours été à l'avantage du public, et malgré le nombre des couseuses, les gages payés aux travailleurs sont demeurés stationnaires depuis quelques années : un ouvrier à la machine ordinaire fait $12 à $14, et même 16 piastres par semaine, et la moyenne des gages $12 par semaine ou $48 par mois. Le travail des femmes fait une moyenne de $7, et pas une gagne moins de $3 par semaine.

On peut également constater qu'il y a cinq millions de dollars placés dans le commerce de chaussures en cette ville.

pour les fabricants de chaussures, en rapport avec l'école gratuite du soir et les classes industrielles fondées par le conseil des arts et manufactures. Ces classes furent ouvertes il y a deux ans, et ont été suivies avec une grande régularité pendant l'hiver. L'instruction est donnée en Français et en Anglais, et illustrée par des gravures et du matériel, et les classes traitent spécialement de ce qui suit :

Modèles plats, formes courbes et demi courbes, réduction du carré, réduction de l'arrière partie du soulier, élargissement du carré, arrondissement du soulier; modèles de bottes lacées, bottes lacées gauffrées, congress boutonnés, bottes lacées, et bottes à la Napoléon.

Comme le but de cette classe est d'apprendre aux élèves à faire des modèles, ils en façonnent dans les classes même, et beaucoup se trouvent très bien de ce genre d'instruction, et l'industrie de la chaussure en bénéficie certainement. L'établissement de semblables classes a eu le meilleur résultat en Europe, et s'il est continué ici il peut être un facteur fort appréciable pour maintenir le commerce de Montréal, et conserver la ville comme le centre de fabrication dans cette industrie pour le Canada entier.

Avec trente manufactures de bottes employant quatre mille personnes des deux sexes, et avec un capital d'au-delà de cinq millions investi là-dedans, Montréal plus que dans toutes autres branches peut être avantageusement comparé avec les autres grandes villes ; car c'est 4,500,000 paires de chaussures qui se fabriquent ici, représentant cinq millions quatre cent mille dollars, et produisant plus de 75 genres de chaussures différents, subvenant à tout le Dominion pour 4,230,000 paires, et expédiant la balance en Grande Bretagne et ailleurs ; ceci peut bien contribuer à faire de notre ville la première place canadienne. N'y a-t-il pas plus de 15,000 personnes dépendantes de ce genre d'industrie, vingt-cinq pour cent desquelles sont des femmes et des filles, ce qui donne à ces dernières surtout une grande chance d'existence dont elles sont privées ailleurs, et leur gain dans ce genre de travail vient en aide à elles-mêmes et à leurs familles.

TANNAGE.

L'intérêt des tanneurs de Montréal s'est trouvé être depuis longtemps de plus en plus important, en raison de la position que la ville tend à prendre comme centre commercial, industriel et manufacturier. En 1881, nous y trouvons 50 tanneurs de cuir à semelle, un plus grand nombre résidant dans le reste de la Province de Québec. Parmi ceux-ci, trente sont occupés à venir en aide au commerce propre de Montréal. En s'en tenant à la ville et à ses faubourgs, nous trouvons vingt-trois tanneries, en y ajoutant 852, autres en dehors, qui toutes ensemble représentent un produit annuel de $344,000. Cela suffit bien pour faire voir que les manufacturiers de cuire n'ont point diminué à Montréal dans ces dix dernières années. La quantité de tan usée annuellement atteint 50,000 cordes tirées surtout des Cantons de l'Est.

HISTOIRE DES BANQUES DANS MONTREAL.

PRÉSENTE SITUATION DES BANQUES CANADIENNES.

Le système des Banques canadiennes est modelé partie sur celui des Etats-Unis, et partie sur celles d'Ecosse. La responsabilité limitée attachée à nos banques et leur manière de faire les affaires sont américaines, tandis que le capital comparativement large, la circulation de billets, et la multiplicité des agences sont Ecossais.

On peut comprendre que la Province de Québec étant la plus vieille dans le Canada, c'est là que la première banque fût établie, et comme Montréal est la plus importante cité de cette même province, c'est dans ses limites que commença ce genre d'institution. Nous n'observerons pas en vain que c'est ici sous ses regards du vieux Mont-Royal que fut créé le plus vieux et le plus large établissement de ce genre, le plus large du Dominion et du continent même par le capital aussi loin qu'on puisse le voir.

LA SITUATION DES BANQUES CANADIENNES.

Si l'on prend le mouvement de l'avant de nos banques comme indication de la prospérité du Canada, on doit être fier de ce pays.

Au reste il n'y a pas de meilleur moyen de juger de la valeur du commerce d'un pays que celui du développement graduel de ses institutions financières.

En Canada ce développement a été extraordinaire depuis quelques années, et le tableau suivant, qui donne l'ensemble de la situation de toutes les banques Canadiennes au 31 Décembre 1889, fait voir que notre avancé est correct, et est en même temps bien propre à dissiper les doutes de ceux qui croient que le Canada ne progresse pas dans une proportion étonnante.

Au 30 de septembre 1887, l'actif des banques était de $233,352,748. A la même date en 1889 cet actif était de $258,483,038, soit une augmentation de plus de $25,000,000 en deux ans.

En septembre 1887, le surplus de l'actif sur le passif était de $80,586,908. En septembre 1889 le surplus de l'actif sur le passif était de $81,166,042. Un item important à considérer est celui des escomptes au commerce et aux corporations industrielles. En septembre 1887 les escomptes au commerce généralement étaient de $140,877,007, en septembre 1889, ce chiffre atteignait $149,154,645 ; les demandes de fonds des corporations industrielles généralement en septembre 1887 étaient de $15,613,024, à la même époque en 1889 elles étaient au chiffre de $22,421,952.

Parlerons-nous des dépôts publics, ou si l'on aime mieux des fonds que l'industrie canadienne confie aux soins des banques, pour ses besoins immédiats ; en 1887 ces dépôts étaient au mois de septembre de $107,853.⁷⁴⁹, au mois de septembre 1889 ces dépôts se chiffraient à $124,767,764. Ces chiffres sont éloquentes. Mais prenons une à une les principales banques qui fonctionnent dans la métropole du Canada, et jugeons les par les derniers états.

LA BANQUE DE MONTREAL.

Cette banque fut établie en 1817 par un nombre de marchands éminents et d'hommes notables de cette ville. Elle commença ses opérations avec un capital de £87,500, ou $350,000 ; l'intention des fondateurs étant d'élever cette somme à $1,000,000. La petitesse de ce capital d'alors, comparé avec ce qu'il est devenu aujourd'hui, prouve que les Canadiens étaient modestes en envisageant l'avenir du pays.

La banque n'eut pas de charte dès son origine, il fut même nécessaire d'un certain délai d'obtenir de la Législature Provinciale une charte régulière, mais l'autorisation privée du gouvernement était certaine. Ce manque de charte fit de l'établissement une banque privée ; aussi les fondateurs et les hommes qui étaient à la tête se préparèrent-ils solidement contre une possibilité de faillite, et pour protéger leurs fortunes privées résolurent de ne payer ni escompter rien au-delà du montant du capital mis en banque.

La banque fut incorporée en 1818, et sa première émission fut datée du premier Janvier de la même année. On peut ne pas savoir que le premier nom de l'institution "The Montreal Bank" était l'inversion de "Bank of Montreal," qui prit place ensuite.

LES PREMIERS OFFICIERS

furent : Président, John Gray, marchand de marchandises sèches retiré ; Caissier, Robt. Griffin ; Directeurs : Hon. John Richardson, son gendre George Auldjo, Samuel Gerard, Thomas Thain, Horatio Gates, John Molson, Thomas F. Turner, Wm. Ermatinger, Zabdiel Thayer et David David.

Pendant quelque temps la Banque éprouva quelques difficultés à faire accepter ses billets par la population française. Les habitants ayant souffert durement des assignats usés sous le régime français et rachetés à une faible portion de leur valeur, ils craignaient naturellement un retour vers le papier monnaie, et offrirent une certaine résistance à la nouvelle manière, s'en tenant aux couronnes et autres pièces de la précédente génération. Les citoyens doutèrent même longtemps de la solidité de la banque, ceci força Molson à endosser les billets que la banque mettait en circulation, mais finalement l'institution prospéra.

Cette prospérité ne s'arrêta pas là. En 1824, Samuel Gerard fut nommé Président, et sous son administration le capital fut réduit et en 1827 quand John Molson devint Président, près de la moitié du capital était perdue. En 1837, par suite de la panique américaine, la banque suspendit un moment ses paiements, mais en 1841 elle reprit le chemin du succès. Le cercle des affaires s'élargissant, on se départit de la règle qui exigeait que les directeurs demeuraient dans un rayon de neuf milles. Dans la même année le nom du caissier fut changé en celui plus aristocrate de directeur gérant, et on institua aussi un fonds de garanties et d'annuités pour préserver la banque contre ses propres employés ; ce fonds fut depuis versé dans la "Pension Fund Association."

En aucun temps la banque ne progressa aussi rapidement que sous l'administration de M. E. H. King. Cela fut dû largement à une masse de circonstances et d'heureuses opportunités qui en découlèrent. M. King tint sa charge dans les années 1860 à 1870 en partie, époque à laquelle les Etats-Unis sortaient à peine d'une guerre qui avait profondément paralysé les affaires. Les fortes primes sur l'argent américain rendaient le marché fiévreux. Ce fut alors au dire de tous, que par des manœuvres adroites, quelquefois téméraires, M. King devint maître de l'or sur le marché de New York, ce qu'aucun Canadien n'eut jamais fait. Ayant de fortes sommes à sa disposition, il put influencer les achats et les ventes sur le marché, ce qu'il n'hésita jamais à faire dans l'intérêt de la banque. L'histoire des traites d'or, dite

"GOLD DRAY STORY,"

A cette époque, le capital de la banque était de $6,000,000, mais en 1871, sur une motion de M. Wm. Murray, à la réunion annuelle, on autorisa les directeurs à augmenter à leur convenance ce même capital. Au 15 Janvier 1872, il fut augmenté de $2,000,000 et en novembre de la même année de $4,000,000 que les porteurs mirent à 25 pour cent de prime, le reste fut vendu à marché ouvert. La banque réalisa ainsi $1,500,000, qui furent portées au fonds de réserve. M. King donna sa démission peu après, et partit pour l'Angleterre, où il fait partie du conseil des aviseurs de la succursale anglaise de la Banque de Montréal.

Peu après l'établissement de la Banque de Montréal, la Banque du Canada partit avec un capital de £300,000, ou environ $1,500,000. En 1824, un voyageur écrivant au sujet de ces institutions les recommanda par la prudence qu'elles ont montrée, leur soin dans leurs affaires, et la Banque de Montréal bénéficia jusqu'à ce jour aux dépens de ce que les autres purent perdre.

La plus importante des institutions monétaires du Canada est sans contredit la Banque de Montréal. Cette institution est aujourd'hui à notre pays ce qu'est à l'Angleterre la Banque d'Angleterre et à la France la Banque de France, et généralement il est admis dans la finance canadienne qu'elle est le thermomètre financier au moyen duquel on peut juger de la santé du capital canadien.

Le dernier rapport publié sur cette banque donne les détails suivants :

Durant les neuf dernières années les profits nets réalisés par la banque ont été comme suit pour chaque période semestrielle finissant au 31 Octobre :

1881.....	$661,991	1886.....	$765,228

LA BANQUE DU PEUPLE.

Si nous exceptons la malheureuse "Banque de la Cité," qui fut fondée avec un capital de $1,200,000, nous pouvons dire qu'aucune autre banque ne fut fondée avant 1835. En cette année, Viger, Dewitt & Cie. organisèrent La Banque du Peuple avec un capital payé de $300,000, qui fut porté en 1844 à $800,000. Pour résumer les mouvements du capital en peu de mots : en 1861, elle fut autorisée à émettre 16,000 parts additionnelles de $50 chaque, ce qui porta ce capital à $1,600,000. En 1885, ce capital fut réduit de 25 pour cent, soit à $1,200,000, qui est celui d'aujourd'hui. Cette banque est unique dans son genre, étant gérée et administrée différemment de la méthode anglaise. Dans le discours que M. Cherrier prononça en 1884 "Les directeurs sont seuls membres de l'Association, et les actionnaires sont des capitalistes, et seront porteurs de parts, et qui prêtent leur argent à la banque, argent dont les directeurs sont personnellement responsables." Il n'y a pas ici d'élection par les actionnaires, le bureau suppléant lui-même aux vacances qui peuvent se produire.

La Banque du Peuple compte parmi les institutions financières comme une des plus prospères du pays. C'est une banque essentiellement canadienne en principe et en action ; aussi le rapport de ses opérations pour le dernier exercice finissant le 28 Février dernier offre-t-il un intérêt plus qu'ordinaire, surtout si l'on tient compte du mauvais état relatif des affaires pendant presque tout l'exercice 1888-89.

La réserve de la Banque du Peuple aujourd'hui atteint $350,000, et du train que les choses marchent, les directeurs de cette banque auront bientôt atteint l'objet de leur ambition bien légitime, celui de porter cette réserve à 50 pour cent du capital, c'est-à-dire $600,000.

BANQUE "BRITISH NORTH AMERICA."

Cette banque fut établie par Charte Royale en 1840, avec un capital de £1,000,000 sterling ou $4,866,616. D'après l'acte relatif aux banques et banquiers, 34 Vict. (1871), section 58, "dans le cas où le capital ou l'Actif d'une banque deviendraient insuffisants pour payer les dettes et engagements, les actionnaires seront responsables du déficit. C'est ce qu'on appelle la loi de double responsabilité. La Banque "British North America" et la Banque du Peuple, étant gouvernées par des chartes spéciales, ne tombent pas sous l'effet de cette loi.

La "Bank of British North America," ou si l'on veut la Banque de l'Amérique Britannique du Nord, dont le siège principal est en Angleterre, est une institution de premier ordre, qui a beaucoup contribué au développement de notre commerce par sa grande libé-ralité et par le soin de sa magnifique administration. Le dernier état fourni par cette banque donne les chiffres suivants qui ont leur éloquence :

BANQUE MOLSON.

Cette banque qui commença les affaires en 1853, sous le Free Banking Act de Sir Francis Hincks, obtint une charte en 1855, et eut à cette époque un capital payé de $320,000. Son capital actuel est de $2,000,000, dont $500,000 furent versés en Octobre 1871, et $500,000 au même mois en 1872.

Cette banque a eu une carrière de grand succès. Durant toute la période de son existence elle a payé des dividendes qui atteignirent presque toujours 8 pour cent. En 1871-72, après une émission du nouveau stock, cette banque acquit une forte influence.

Elle a maintenant dix-neuf succursales et une réserve de $1,075,000.

Le "Free Banking Act" fut passé en Canada dix ans avant la loi des banques nationales des Etats-Unis qui lui ressemble. Entre autres privilèges, il permettait à toute association de faire le commerce de banque sans une charte spéciale, même l'émission de billets, mais ces billets devant être garantis par des dépôts de bons du gouvernement faits dans les caisses du gouvernement. Plusieurs institutions, outre la Banque Molson, profitèrent de cet acte; mais cependant, comme ce n'était pas difficile d'obtenir une charte, le "Free Banking" tomba bientôt en désuétude.

La Banque Molson porte le nom de l'un des pionniers du haut commerce canadien.

Ce nom de Molson est familier depuis près de trois quarts de siècles au commerce du Canada. Tout ce qui porte ce nom s'est si intimement lié, non seulement au commerce de Montréal, mais aussi au commerce de la Province de Québec, que la publication du rapport annuel de la Banque Molson offre un intérêt plus qu'ordinaire. Constatons de suite généralement que cette banque est dans une situation prospère due à la prudence de son administration.

Durant les derniers douze mois, les profits réalisés ont atteint le chiffre de $273,301.-39, ce qui a permis la distribution aux actionnaires de deux dividendes de $80,000 chacun, soit en tout $160,000 ou 8 pour cent sur le capital.

Indépendamment de ces dividendes l'administration de la banque a pu ajouter encore $75,000 au fonds de réserve qui se chiffre maintenant à $1,075,000, soit plus de cinquante pour cent du capital.

Non seulement cela, mais encore on a pu distribuer un bonus spécial de $20,000 aux actionnaires, et donner $23,000 en gratifications aux officiers de la banque. Tout ceci se passe de commentaires.

L'état ci-dessous parle par lui-même; il donne le résultat des opérations pour l'année finissant le 30 septembre dernier.

LA BANQUE DES MARCHANDS.

La Banque des Marchands du Canada fut incorporée en 1861 avec un capital autorisé de 2,000,000 de dollars. Les promoteurs de l'entreprise ont dû trouver quelque difficulté à acquérir $200,000 du capital payé nécessaires aux opérations, car en 1863 ils petitionnèrent pour être autorisés à commencer les affaires avec $1,000,000 seulement du capital payé. Cette permission leur fut accordée en 1864, et la banque commença ses opérations.

Il y a quelque intérêt à noter que cette demande, sous prétexte de pauvreté ou d'inhabilité à obtenir ces $200,000, fut faite par Sir Hugh Allan (alors Hugh), Harrison Stephens, William Edmondstone, Andrew Allan, John Smith, Ira Gould et Robert Anderson. N'importe lequel aurait pu quelques années plus tard donner son chèque personnel pour ce qui leur avait manqué dans le temps, et ce, sans difficulté. Le capital de cette banque fut accru en 1867 de $1,000,000, en 1868 de $2,000,000, en 1869 de $2,000,000, ce qui faisait un total de 9,000,000 de dollars. En 1868 la banque avait acquis l'actif de la "Commercial Bank of Kingston," dans lequel se trouvaient les actions du Détroit et Milwaukee Railway, au montant de près de $2,000,000. Dans cette acquisition, la banque paraît avoir fait une erreur; il y eut perte sur ces actions, et avec d'autres pertes il devint nécessaire d'après une réduction du capital à $6,000,000. Cette réduction eut lieu en mai 1878, et le nombre des directeurs fût à la même époque porté de 7 à 9. C'est une institution prospère et qui fait honneur au Canada. La somme des profits réalisés pour cette banque durant la période de 12 mois finissant au 31 mai 1889 a été de $617,858; sur ce chiffre $405,944 ont été payés en dividendes, et $215,000 ont été portés à la réserve. Une somme de $5,484 a été reportée à l'exercice de 1889-90 au compte des profits et pertes. Le niveau des affaires de la banque s'est fort bien maintenu durant l'année 1888-89, annonçant une prochaine période prospère, comme on peut le voir par les chiffres ci-bas :

LA BANQUE JACQUES CARTIER.

Cette banque obtint sa charte en 1861, et commença les affaires avec $700,000, son capital ayant été autorisé pour un million. Elle prospéra et accrut son capital à $2,000,000 ; puis des revers le firent tomber à $1,000,000 en 1877. La banque chercha même l'autorisation de s'amalgamer avec une autre qui voudrait y consentir. Deux années sombres suivirent, et en 1879 le même capital fût réduit à 500,000 piastres, alors que dame Fortune reparût ; et la banque a prospéré depuis.

Dans un amendement à la charte était une clause donnant la mesure de la loyauté du sujet Franco-Anglais. Aucun étranger ne pouvait avoir le droit de vote dans cette banque, s'il n'était porteur de parts payées. Cette clause disparut lors de l'adoption de la loi des banques en 1880.

Il y eut encore beaucoup de troubles vers 1876 dans les affaires de cette banque. Les directeurs furent accusés de négligence grossière dans leur administration, et à la suite d'un compromis on ne reconnut point l'accusation, et l'on remit pour plus de 250,000 dollars de parts entre les mains de Jacques Grenier comme fidéi-commissaire pour les autres actionnaires dont les parts devaient être vendues et divisées à nouveau; les directeurs n'ayant rien à recevoir dans les profits, mais seulement dans la promesse de l'immunité de toute poursuite à intervenir pour mauvaise gestion antérieure à Juin 1875.

Le dernier rapport de cette banque est des plus encourageants. La confiance du public en cette institution s'est manifestée par une augmentation de $261,482.37 dans les dépôts et par la circulation de ses billets. Les profits de l'année se sont élevés à $42,276.82, et elle a payé $35,000.00 de dividende à sept pour cent. Puis elle a ajouté une somme de $7,276.82 à son fonds contingent. La Banque Jacques Cartier est une ancienne institution canadienne qui est toujours en faveur auprès du public. Les hommes d'affaires qui sont à sa tête sont une garantie du succès financier qui ne manque jamais de couronner ses opérations. Il n'y a qu'à consulter les chiffres suivants pour s'en convaincre :

LA BANQUE VILLE MARIE.

La Banque Ville Marie fut établie en 1872 avec un capital de près d'un million de piastres, dont $202,000 étaient entièrement payés. En 1881, le capital fut réduit à 500,000 piastres, dont $478,430 sont maintenant payées.

Pour l'exercice finissant le 31 mai 1889, les opérations de la Banque Ville-Marie ont donné un profit net de $48,419.51. Durant l'année cette banque a payé à ses actionnaires un dividende de sept pour cent, soit $33,490.00, et elle a porté $6,000 au compte du contingent.

Il s'est produit une augmentation considérable dans les affaires de la Banque Ville Marie durant l'exercice qui vient de se terminer. Les profits de l'année ont excédé de $10,000 ceux de l'an dernier. Cela démontre que les affaires de cette institution financière sont florissantes, grâce à la sage administration que lui a donnée le bureau des directeurs.

Cette institution marche vers un magnifique avenir comme le font voir les données suivantes :

LA BANQUE D'HOCHELAGA.

Depuis 1873 aucune banque n'a été établie à Montreal ; celle-ci fut incorporée en cette année avec un capital de 203,000 piastres, qui a été porté depuis à $710,100 ; le capital autorisé étant de $1,000,000.

Cette banque est une de nos bonnes institutions financières, et rend de très grands services au commerce, et généralement à ce que l'on appelle le petit commerce ; aussi sa clientèle est très nombreuse et lui rapporte de forts bénéfices. C'est une institution solide et transigeant sur des bases très libérales. L'état suivant fait voir une situation prospère.

LA BANQUE D'EPARGNE.

Elle se distingue des autres banques par la charte elle-même et sa méthode d'administration. Cette institution fut fondée au 26 mai 1846, sous le patronage de l'évêque catholique. Elle obtint une charte en 1871, et possède un capital autorisé de $2,000,000, dont $600,000 sont payées. Elle n'a point de billets en circulation, mais peut posséder des valeurs de banques, privilège refusé aux autres banques.

Quarante-quatre ans ! c'est un joli espace de temps signalé par une administration intelligente qui a marché de succès en succès, jusqu'au point de faire de cette institution une des plus fortes et des plus recommandables du Canada.

Le rapport accuse un état de prospérité incontestable, et est le meilleur témoignage qu'il soit possible d'apporter comme justification de la confiance publique.

En examinant la classification des comptes, on arrive à la preuve que la Banque d'Epargne n'a pas manqué à son objet principal, en ce qu'elle est encore la banque des petits déposants qui lui confient jour par jour le fruit de leurs économies. On y trouve que sur 42,466 comptes ouverts, il y a 25,320 dépôts de $50.00 et au-dessous pour 837 dépôts de $1600.00 et au-dessous.

LA BANQUE NATIONALE.

La Banque Nationale, comme presque toutes nos institutions de finance canadiennes et françaises, a eu ses hauts et ses bas attribuables à des causes qu'il n'est plus de saison de discuter ; mais nous constatons aujourd'hui qu'elle se trouve dans une position à figurer avantageusement dans notre monde financier, et à rendre au commerce de notre province d'excellents services.

Durant le dernier exercice, la Banque Nationale a réalisé $124,000 de profits, répartis comme suit : à Québec $38,000, à Montréal $45,000, à Ottawa $19,000, à Sherbrooke $22,000. Après une réduction considérable du capital, cette réalisation de $124,000 doit être considérée comme absolument satisfaisante par les experts en finance.

Quant à la succursale de Montréal, le chiffre de $45,000 de profits parle par lui-même.

Le compte de Profits et Pertes pour l'année 1888-89 se résume comme suit, savoir : 1888.

Huit succursales de banques ont été établies à Montréal dans les années récentes, et même font un commerce étendu. Ces succursales sont : La Canadian Bank of Commerce, dont le centre est à Toronto, capital $6,000,000 ; La Banque de Toronto, bureau central Toronto, capital $2,000,000. La Union Bank de Québec, capital $1,200,000. La Banque Nationale de Québec, capital $1,200,000. La Banque Nova Scotia, de Halifax, capital $1,114,300. La Merchants Bank of Halifax, avec $1,000,000. La Quebec Bank de Québec, capital $2,500,000. La Ontario Bank, Toronto, avec un capital de $1,500,000.

Montréal est célèbre pour ses vastes constructions, mais ce sont surtout ses banques qui attirent les regards des visiteurs. A trois exceptions près, les banques sont situées dans les rues St. Jacques et Notre Dame, deux rues parallèles dans lesquelles elles forment deux lignes de magnifiques édifices.

LES AFFAIRES DES BANQUES.

SOIXANTE ET DIX MILLIONS DE CAPITAL EN JEU.

Le capital des huit banques de Montréal, y compris celui de la British North America dont le siège principal en Canada est en cette cité, est de $27,554,396 avec un fond de réserve de $10,309,565, formant un total de $37,863,961. Le capital et la réserve des autres banques dans le Canada s'élève à $40,442,182.

Beaucoup du capital des banques de Montréal se trouve placé en dehors de cette province, les quatre principales de ces institutions ayant soixante-huit succursales dans l'Ontario, sept dans le Nouveau Brunswick, cinq dans le Manitoba, quatre dans la Colombie Anglaise, deux dans la Nouvelle Ecosse. Plus, des bureaux à New York, à Chicago, à San Francisco et à Londres.

Les banques ayant des succursales au dehors de la Province sont : la Montréal, la Molson, la British North America, et celle des Marchands. Les plus petites banques, telles que le Peuple, Hochelaga, Jacques Cartier, Ville Marie, ont à elles toutes vingt-quatre succursales dans la Province de Québec, mais rien au dehors.

Les banques de la cité, tout en étant des institutions locales étendent leurs relations et leurs influences par tout le Canada, depuis Halifax jusqu'à Vancouver. Elles ont en tout, cent-huit succursales, sans compter les agences extérieures.

La construction des chemins de fer dans le Dominion a beaucoup contribué à l'établissement d'agences de banques, et celles-ci de leur côté ont contribué à la prospérité des chemins de fer de la contrée environnante. Les facilités offertes par les banques aux chemins de fer et aux différents progrès de l'agriculture, aux entreprises manufacturières, ont donné une nouvelle vie aux énergies dormantes du peuple de tout le Dominion et uni dans un même intérêt communes les provinces les plus éloignées, qui, il y a vingt-cinq ans n'étaient que des territoires éloignés et solitaires.

Voyons ces progrès résumés dans le tableau suivant :

Capital.	Dépôts.	Circulation.	Escompte.	Banques.	Succursales
1858—13,457,904	6,123,958	6,205,866	1858—26,803,031	5	39
1868—18,781,283	20,388,171	2,452,317	1868—28,167,554	8	68
1878—33,895,111	30,718,571	10,147,426	1878—58,746,750	11	112
1888—27,554,396	43,489,428	13,503,531	1888—53,245,217	8	118

Le chiffre des dépôts ne comprend pas ceux du gouvernement, excepté pour 1858 ; à cette date la banque ne faisait pas de distinctions pour de tels dépôts.

On peut voir qu'en 1858 la circulation descendit à $2,462,317. Ceci fut dû partiellement à l'invasion de l'argent américain qui prit une grande extension, prit aussi la place des billets, et ne fut réellement changé qu'en 1870.

La plus grande avance cependant, se fait voir dans les dépôts qui ont varié de $6,153,958 en 1858 à $43,439,428 en 1888.

Plus de vingt millions de ces dépôts ne portent pas intérêt, ajoutant à ceci les fonds de réserve plus de dix millions, et la circulation plus de treize millions, on découvre que les banques de cette ville ont en main à manœuvrer au-delà de soixante-dix millions pour produire des dividendes à leur capital de $27,554,396 pour ne pas même parler des profits sur les dépôts portant intérêt.

La décroissance apparente dans les prêts courants est plus que compensée par les montants extra prêtés aux corporations où placés sur d'autres garanties. En outre, les besoins des marchands et des manufactures ont été amplement satisfaits.

On ne peut cependant pas détourner les yeux d'un point noir dans le tableau. Depuis 1878, quatre banques nommées la "Mechanic's," la "Métropolitain," la "Consolidated" et "l'Exchange" sont tombées, entraînant une perte pour les porteurs de part de presque

CINQ MILLIONS DE DOLLARS.

La Consolidated et la Metropolitan ont payé des dividendes à leurs porteurs de parts, tandis que dans le cas de la Mechanic's et de l'Exchange tout le capital a été perdu et la loi de double responsabilité appliquée.

Les pertes de banques pourraient faire supposer que le commerce au Canada est des plus hasardeux, et que les déficits sont la conséquence du manque de savoir et de la malhonnêteté, tandis que la cause en est due pour beaucoup à une expansion démesurée et à diverses entreprises dans lesquelles des ambitions les ont engagées.

Le succès dont a été marqué l'administration de la plus forte banque de cette ville à travers les dangers qu'elle a traversés peut être le sujet d'une notice particulière. Depuis soixante et dix ans, ses portes se sont ouvertes avec l'exatitute du soleil levant, et elle n'a jamais failli à payer son dividende de mémoire du plus vieux citoyen.

Quelques porteurs de parts attaquent la direction violemment lorsque les dividendes ne répondent pas à leurs espérances, absolument comme ces tribus Africaines qui finissent par briser leurs idoles quand elles ne leur ont point accordé ce qu'elles demandaient.

Une autre institution, la banque British North America, peut-être moins ambitieuse en apparence, n'en a pas moins eu une carrière de succès et demeure en crédit égale à sa grande voisine. Ayant le plus grand nombre de ses actionnaires en Angleterre, elle se trouve isolée de l'arène de la spéculation locale, et en conséquence échappa à l'orage d'Avril au travers duquel sa sœur aînée doit passer chaque année. Il est notable que la British a fourni à la banque de Montréal plusieurs de ses plus habiles officiers, entre autres MM. D. Davidson, E. H. King, et C. F. Smithers. Avant de clore, nous allons comparer les ressources et les affaires de nos banques avec celles de la reine de l'Ouest, Toronto, le centre de la Province d'Ontario.

La cité de Toronto a sept banques, dont les principales ressources et obligations se chiffrent comme suit :

Capital.....	$14,002,023
Dépôts.....	32,616,507
Circulation.....	8,177,192
Escomptes.....	41,825,450
Réserves.....	4,245,000
Succursales.....	100

à une très haute pression, et dans le cas de la crise de 1857 le pays avait les yeux sur le centre de Banques Montréalaises pour maintenir le crédit.

Les banques de Toronto comme celles de Montréal, ont été dans bien des cas, en pleins succès, comme d'autres dans l'infortune. La banque de Toronto sous la direction de M. Hague, maintenant à celle des marchands, acquit une position d'une grande force que ses successeurs surent maintenir, tandis que la Dominion Bank arriva à une remarquable prospérité sous celle de M. Bethune, mais il y a eu des jours sombres comme pour celles de Montréal. La première banque qui suspendit ses paiements fut en 1855 la "Bank of Upper Canada," son capital de près de quatre millions étant entièrement perdu. Plus tard, vint la suspension de la "Royal Canadian," enfin la dernière la "Central Bank" aussi mal administrée que "l'Exchange Bank," à Montréal.

STATISTIQUES POSTALES.

Montréal est le grand centre de distribution pour le service postal du Canada, et comme ce service s'est étendu, le bureau de poste de Montréal s'est naturellement accru, et malgré cela il advient encore bien des réclamations contre lui, quand il y a quarante ans un monsieur occupant une position marquante dans ce bureau entra en fonctions, ce bureau occupait un modeste emplacement rue St. François Xavier, et son état major se composait de treize hommes et six porteurs seulement. Mais quarante ans ont apporté beaucoup de changements, non seulement par l'augmentation de la population du Canada en général, mais aussi pour Montréal en particulier, c'est sous ce progrès fait dans le département des postes que le petit établissement s'est converti en un vaste édifice dans la rue St. Jacques, et que l'état major du maître de poste s'est accru à 187 hommes, comprenant 65 porteurs de lettres et tandis qu'au vieux temps, six ou sept traversaient le bureau le nombre en atteint aujourd'hui de 122 à 125 mille quotidiennement. Ceci peut être démontré par les tableaux comparatifs de la période de dix années entre décembre 1878 et décembre 1887 sur le chiffre des lettres et journaux postés en ce bureau.

Lettres de la ville.	Enregistrées.	Autres.	Total.
1878.....13,594	966	23,375	37,935
1887.....45,798	2,618	52,625	101,041

Papiers nouvelles.	Lettres et journaux, total.	Nombre des porteurs employés.
1878.....1,216	50,051	47
1887.....32,636	133,677	65

Le nombre des sacs quittant Montréal chaque jour se monte à environ 500, et ceux qui y arrivent à environ 450 ; à peu près 98 sacs de malles et une ou deux caisses de paquets arrivent chaque semaine d'Europe, par la ligne Canadienne, l'Inman, les Cunards et généralement le service de malles transatlantiques. D'autres arrivent à intervalles moins réguliers des Indes Occidentales, des Bermudes, et le service quotidien des malles entre Vancouver et Montréal devient de plus en plus croissant de même que celui de la correspondance avec le Japon, la Chine et l'Inde.

En connection avec le service postal, se trouve celui des mandats de poste qui nous montre le même accroissement rapide.

L'état intéressant qui suit préparé par M. H. A. Bourret, chef de ce département, montre les affaires transigées pendant les dernières années dans ce bureau.

Le système des banques d'épargne a été appliqué au département postal de Montréal au 1er avril 1868, et s'est signalé également par l'accroissement des dépôts du peuple, heureux de reconnaître les avantages qui lui étaient offerts.

Ces statistiques du département des postes prouvent à un point de vue fort intéressant l'accroissement de la population et l'importance commerciale de Montréal. Avec cet accroissement, il était indispensable d'accorder au public plus de facilités, soit dans la transmission des malles, des petits paquets, etc., etc., promptement à destination, et ceci se trouve à notre Bureau de Poste.

LE COMMERCE DE DÉTAIL.

C'est avec difficulté que la présente génération de Montréalais et les étrangers qui visitent notre ville peuvent se faire une idée de l'importance du commerce de détail et de son accroissement. Les rues Notre Dame, St. Jacques, Ste. Catherine, St. Laurent et autres, n'ont-elles pas la plus franche apparence de prospérité, par la quantité de leurs magasins, l'abondance et la richesse des stocks qu'ils contiennent ? Bien différent était l'état des choses il y a un siècle, quand la rue Craig était un véritable marais croisé de ponts en bois abordant la cité, car il n'existait guère de faubourgs au-delà. Le commerce alors était entièrement confiné à la rue St. Paul spécialement aux alentours de la place Jacques Cartier et de l'endroit où se trouve actuellement la douane. Dans la rue Notre Dame en 1820 il y avait environ trois ou quatre épiceries, un magasin de marchandises sèches, tandis qu'on en rencontrait à peu près une douzaine d'autres dans les rues adjacentes. Il y avait aussi quelques petites échopes tenues par des Allemands sur la rue St. Laurent, contenant des petits stocks d'épiceries, de marchandises sèches, etc. On n'en rencontrait peu ailleurs dans la cité.

Le commerce devint plus systématique après la guerre de 1815 et dans les années qui suivirent. Parmi les principales maisons de cette époque, nous signalons : Richard & Co. Girard, Parker & Ogilvy, prédécesseurs de Gillispie, Moffatt & Cie., Maitland, Gardiner & Auldjo, et quelques autres moins importantes. Elles vendaient aux clients les marchandises sèches, les épiceries, le fer et les liqueurs, mais leur organisation de détail était incomplète. Les marchands de fer, d'épiceries et de marchandises sèches vendaient en gros et en détail, on y trouvait également des ustensiles de cuisine et des liquides.

A peu près à la place du marché Bouscours et de la place Jacques Cartier, il y avait quelques magasins de marchandises sèches, de même près de la rue St. Pierre. Parmi les Canadiens Français la principale maison était celle de Robertson, Masson & Cie., qui n'importait d'abord rien que les marchandises sèches. Ces magasins furent petits à l'origine, ayant beaucoup de portes et peu de fenêtres, devant et près de la porte le patron et ses commis se tenaient prêts à saisir qui s'échappant des griffes d'un employé à la première porte, tombait à la suivante dans celles du second ; vainement protestait-il que c'était-là le même magasin, on cherchait à lui faire croire à l'erreur de ses propres yeux, et ainsi invariablement, jusqu'à ce qu'il eut fait une demi douzaine de ces magasins, il avait fait un ou plusieurs achats, souvent c'était de bonnes plaisanteries jouées sur le dos de l'habitant de bon caractère. Malgré les inconvénients de cette manière de faire le commerce, c'était l'usage et il n'y a guère que trente ans que les marchands l'abolirent d'un commun accord.

Plusieurs magasins de détail étaient disséminés dans certaines places le long de la rue St. Paul, depuis la place Jacques Cartier actuelle jusqu'à la rue McGill. On remarquait les magasins de marchandises sèches de Richard Watkins, successeur de Miller Parlange & Cie., Hector Russell & Cie. à trois portes de la Douane. M. Miller de la maison mentionnée plus haut retourna en Angleterre et Mr. Parlange entra dans le commerce de gros d'expédition et aida à la fondation de la maison H. & A. Allan. Hector Russell & Cie., dont les magasins communiquaient avec ceux du détail, étaient près du marché, et en face se trouvait le magasin de John Mackenzie, dont M. G. Mackay était le comptable et M. McKormack le vendeur aimé des dames. On voyait peu de Français dans cette partie de la ville ; ceux qui y avaient fait commerce étant retirés d'affaires avec d'honné-tes fortunes. Un certain nombre tomba en faillite ou perdit de l'argent. Pratt dans le commerce de fer laissa une riche maison continuée depuis par John Frothingham avec la même prospérité; John Torrance dans les épiceries se trouvait dans les mêmes conditions et après avoir agrandi la maison se mit en 1832 dans le qui furent bientôt mis à faire le service entre Montréal et Québec. En 1823 l'hon. James Ferrier établit le commerce d'épiceries sur la rue Notre Dame. En 1827 ou 1828 la maison Thomas Mussen ouvrit sur la rue St. Paul pour aller ensuite sur la rue Notre Dame où elle est encore.

Le commerce de détail marchait bien lentement sur la rue Notre Dame, où il n'y avait guère que celui de James Fleming; après, vint à grand bruit au coin de la Place d'Armes un magasin de drogues qui continua brillamment pendant plusieurs années. Beaucoup de lots étaient vacants sur la rue St. Jacques; aucun magasin d'aucune sorte n'y fut ouvert avant Richard Watkins qui déménagea en 1845 dans une maison de briques où se trouve maintenant le St. Lawrence Hall. Le commerce fut comparative-ment faible, attendu qu'en 1818 la population de Montréal n'était guère que de 20,000 âmes, celle de tout le Bas-Canada de 300,000 et celle du Haut-Canada de 100,000.

M. T. S. Brown dont nous tenons ces renseignements dit: " Nous avons à cette époque établi un commerce de fer en gros, notre magasin avait deux étages de 17 pieds par 30, et les ventes étaient faibles. Les profits pouvaient être bons, le loyer était de 400 piastres, nous avions un cheval et une voiture, un homme de service, nous donnions de bons diners et de joyeuses parties le soir. Quelque fois le commerce n'était pas tout profit, les banqueroutes vinrent nous surprendre, il n'y avait pas de prêteurs, sinon un vieil Italien marchand de tableaux et lorgnettes, qui tenait également une florissante place à boire appelée :

LES TROIS ROIS.

Etant trop consciencieux pour charger à ses clients plus de six pour cent d'intérêt, il leur mettait comme condition d'acheter chez lui un miroir, ou autre objet d'ameublement, de sorte que plusieurs de ses clients avaient leurs appartements meublés luxueusement avec le fruit de leurs extravagances. Ces magasins étaient dans une vieille bâtisse sur la rue des Commissaires directement derrière le Montreal House.

Avec l'ouverture de la navigation à vapeur et les chemins de fer, le commerce de Montréal prit une extension considérable et absorba bientôt pour le gros seulement, toute la rue St. Paul et les rues Notre Dame et St. Jacques. Les résidences se reculèrent peu à peu sur les emplacements formant la principal artère aujourd'hui la rue St. Laurent puis la rue Bleury, plus tard, se forma la rue Ste. Catherine et ces rues se peuplèrent de détaillants. Bouchers, épiciers, boulangers formèrent l'avant garde dans ces directions, suivis peu après par les marchands de marchandises sèches, les tailleurs et d'autres industriels non moins nécessaires à l'existence du monde civilisé.

Pour montrer le commerce de détail de Montréal existant alors et le nombre de mains qu'il employait, on peut dire que dans les sept principales rues, il y avait 149 magasins d'épiceries, 139 de chaussures, 113 de tailleurs et habillements confectionnés, 94 de marchandises sèches, 53 bijoutiers, 39 chapeliers et fourreurs, 37 magasins de fer, 31 pharmaciens, tous détaillants.

Un seul magasin de marchandise sèches employait 300 mains et avait un capital investi d'un demi million de dollars. Un autre employait 250 mains avec un capital de

Un immense changement s'est produit dans la manière de conduire le commerce dans la ville. Dans les marchandises sèches, le système par département a été adopté et même les chambres de travail divisées en département. De cette manière, il est aisé pour le commis de savoir de suite dans quelle partie un manque se produit et d'y apporter remède. Depuis qu'il a été inauguré il y a un peu plus d'une dizaine d'années, ce système a été avantageux à l'employeur et à l'employé. Celui des bonus introduit également dans nombre d'établissements a été trouvé avantageux. Une certaine agitation s'est produite à propos des heures de travail. Précédemment, il n'était pas extraordinaire à ces établissements de rester ouverts le samedi jusqu'à minuit; beaucoup maintenant ferment à six heures du soir, et durant juillet et août, on donne les samedis, une demi-journée de liberté aux employés. Dans quelques maisons même deux semaines de vacances sont données et les appointements sont payés quand même. On a observé que généralement le choix des employés a été plus sévère et que de cette façon, les patrons sont arrivés à épargner plus d'argent.

Le commerce d'épicerie, notamment, a subi de grandes améliorations, l'introduction des marchandises en boîtes de fer et en verre a créé un changement, et il est à considérer que tous les comestibles et articles sont mieux présentés de cette manière. Les affaires de la ville avec l'extérieur ont pris une très grande extension surtout dans la meilleure classe de marchandises, et une maison a même des clients à Ottawa et jusque dans la Colombie Anglaise, cette même maison a ouvert au dehors une ligne pour fournir dans les provinces de pêche, jusque dans les Etats-Unis, avec les marchandises de chaque saison, ainsi il semble que dans le commerce d'épicerie notamment, Montréal est appelé à devenir un centre distributeur des épicerie de choix. Pour suffire aux demandes de marchandises, on importe le saumon de la Colombie Anglaise et des provinces maritimes, les conserves, les gelées, marinades, des Etats-Unis, et plus spécialement de New York. Un grand avantage pour l'épicié en gros d'aujourd'hui, c'est l'amélioration apportée dans les crédits. Dans les premières années dont nous avons parlé, il n'y avait rien de plus commun que d'accorder trois, six et même douze mois de crédit aux clients, tandis que maintenant un mois est le terme le plus ordinaire à l'exception de quelques cas rares. Précédemment aussi, il était d'usage aux acheteurs de se grouper à Montréal à certaines époques pour attendre des ventes spéciales; on les voyait venir des parties les plus éloignées du Canada; c'est une chose du passé. De nos jours les voyageurs de commerce ont pris la place de ces ventes par encan, sur lesquelles on retenait une imposition; ce qui n'existait pas à Toronto.

A tous les points de vue, les détaillants envisagent la perspective du commerce de Montréal comme meilleure et plus forte que jamais; les paiements se font plus régulièrement, le volume des affaires est plus rémunérateur et fait espérer un avenir prospère.

CONFECTIONS, COMMERCE DE GROS.

L'esprit d'entreprise et d'initiative des hommes d'affaires de Montréal, joint aux prix modiques de la main-d'œuvre ont eu pour résultat de donner, dans les vingt dernières années, une impulsion très forte à l'industrie des confectons, et d'assurer à notre ville, la métropole commerciale, l'approvisionnement pour toutes les parties de la Puissance. Nous comptons actuellement huit établissements de ce genre en pleine opération dans Montréal. Sur ce nombre deux principalement se distinguent par leur volume d'affaires et l'importance de leurs transactions, ce qui n'empêche que les autres occupent un rang distingué parmi nos maisons de commerce. Le chiffre total des ventes par année dans cette branche d'industrie atteignait à peine $400,000 il y a vingt ans, tandis qu'aujourd'hui il s'élève à au delà de $2,500,000 avec un cercle d'opérations qui s'étend de Halifax, sur les bords de l'Atlantique, jusqu'à Vancouver sur l'Océan Pacifique. Le capital placé dans ce commerce représente un montant de $1,500,000. Là aussi on remarque un progrès notable depuis ces dernières années. Le travail se distribue à la pièce après que les hardes ont été taillées dans l'établissement même. La couture est faite par des femmes des faubourgs ou des localités avoisinantes de la ville qui apportent à la maison des parties de vêtements ainsi assorties. On compte un grand nombre de personnes ainsi occupées dans Ste. Cunégonde, St. Henri, Ste. Rose, Terrebonne, Chambly, St. Hilaire, Belœil et St Rémi, à travailler pour les maisons de Montréal. Une preuve irrécusable du développement de cette industrie est le nombre considérable de machines à coudre qui se détaillent dans presque toutes les maisons de la région que nous venons d'indiquer. On peut dire que 5000 ouvrières se livrent régulièrement à cette occupation, et si on calcule qu'une famille se compose en moyenne de cinq membres on arrive à un total de 20,000 personnes auxquelles le commerce de hardes faites fournit la subsistance de chaque jour. Le personnel des huit établissements dont nous avons parlé plus haut est de 2200 employés qui reçoivent annuellement comme gages et salaire une somme d'un demi million de dollars. Toronto et Hamilton ont essayé inutilement de faire la concurrence à Montréal dans ce commerce comme le disait un homme d'affaires bien connu et bien compétent, puisqu'il est engagé dans cette industrie depuis au delà de trente ans. "Toronto et Hamilton ne peuvent lutter avec Montréal pour la "bonne raison que cette dernière est le centre manufacturier le plus avantageux pour "ce genre d'opération."

Montréal est de toutes les villes du continent celle où le prix de la main-d'œuvre est le plus réduit, et c'est ce qui la fait préférer à tout autre centre manufacturier. La confection à Montréal se compose de vêtements de toute espèce pour hommes, adolescents ou enfants.

INDUSTRIES SECONDAIRES.

L'industrie du carton cuir fut introduite à Montréal, en 1873. L'importation de cet article de commerce qui nous venait des Etats Unis s'était continuée jusqu'à l'époque des changements apportés au tarif, en 1879. Malgré la concurrence de la part des produits étrangers, on ne tarda point à reconnaître notre supériorité, et des prix nous furent successivement décernés aux expositions du Centenaire Américain en 1876, à Sydney, à Berlin en 1877, à Paris en 1878, aussi bien qu'à Toronto, à Ottawa et à Montréal. La manufacture produit à peu près 450 tonnes par année.

VALISES ET SACS DE VOYAGE.

Cette branche de commerce va en augmentant d'année en année. Sur cinq manufactures en opération à Montréal, deux situées dans la partie Est de la ville se font remarquer par leur importance. On calcule que $700,000 sont placées dans cette industrie et qu'il se fabrique 400,000 valises par année.

PAPIER A TENTURES.

L'industrie du papier à tenture qui pourtant ne compte que quelques années d'existence accuse déjà un progrès rapide et constant. Déjà elle fournit de l'occupation à plus de cent ouvriers. De nombreuses presses fabriquent actuellement des papiers de près de 200 différents dessins. Dans le commerce de gros, les prix varient de 3½ cents à $2.50 la pièce.

FER ET CHARBON.

Montréal n'est pas seulement le foyer industriel du Canada, c'est aussi le centre manufacturier, le point de distribution du commerce du fer et de l'acier dans toutes les parties de la Puissance. Grâce à la politique nationale dont la ville ressent les effets bienfaisants, les manufactures d'acier se multiplient et sont toutes en pleine opération. Jour et nuit, ses hauts fourneaux retentissent du bruit du marteau et de l'enclume, pendant que les cheminées de ses ateliers vomissent la flamme et la fumée. Le minéral, qui se rencontre en abondance dans diverses parties de la province peut suffire à alimenter ses usines, et son approvisionnement d'eau qui est inépuisable ne demande qu'à être utilisé comme force motrice. Avec de semblables ressources à sa disposition, Montréal est en position de répondre non seulement à ses propres besoins, mais à ceux de toute la Puissance. Plus que cela, il s'exporte à l'étranger des produits manufacturés ici qui, à raison du fini du travail, de la qualité et du prix qu'on en demande, sont considérés comme égaux et très souvent supérieurs à ceux contre lesquels ils viennent en concurrence. Au nombre des manufactures de fer et d'acier, il faut mettre au premier rang les usines de nos deux plus puissantes compagnies de chemin de fer, le Grand Tronc et le Pacifique Canadien. L'une est située dans la partie Est de la ville, près d'Hochelaga, l'autre dans la partie Ouest, à la Pointe St. Charles. Toutes deux emploient bien au delà de 2000 ouvriers. Dans ces deux ateliers se fabrique tout ce qui est d'usage sur un chemin de fer, depuis la cheville d'accouplement jusqu'à la locomotive la plus grosse, et depuis le simple levier de frein jusqu'à l'énorme charrue pour la neige, enfin tout ce qui est nécessaire pour le transport du fer et de l'acier, soit à l'endroit le plus rapproché soit à la partie la plus reculée et la moins fréquentée du pays.

Un autre établissement du même genre, très considérable, ce sont les laminoirs de Montréal, assemblage de vastes et massives constructions dont quelques-unes ont au-dessus de 100 pieds de longueur. En passant sur la rue Notre Dame dans la partie Ouest de la ville, on peut voir ces grandes usines qui donnent de l'ouvrage à plus de 500 hommes et enfants. Elles produisent environ 8,000,000 de pieds de tuyaux en fer. La fournaise où s'opère la fusion des métaux est pourvue d'un appareil générateur de gaz de Swindell; 150,000 briques rouges et briques réfractaires sont entrées dans sa construction. Pour bien faire comprendre toute l'importance de cette manufacture du tuyau en fer, qu'il nous suffise de dire qu'en 1885 il s'en est importé 3,368,765 pieds dans toute la Puissance, et 4,209,884 en 1886, soit pour les deux années 7,578,649 pieds. Ainsi nos usines produisent plus dans douze mois que ce qui a été importé dans les deux années plus haut mentionnées ; dans ces ateliers immenses on fabrique aussi des clous de toutes sortes ; nous reviendrons sur ce sujet un peu plus tard ; mentionnons seulement en passant le chiffre de production qui s'élève à 10,000 tonnes par année. On trouve aussi à Montréal une manufacture de roues en acier trempé pour les chars ; c'est l'établissement le plus considérable de ce genre de tout le Canada, il est situé sur le bord du Canal Lachine et fournit au besoin des chemins de fer du Grand Tronc et Intercolonial. Dans le quartier d'Hochelaga, où remarque une usine où l'on fabrique des essieux et des ressorts en acier en nombre suffisant pour faire face aux besoins de toutes les voies ferrées du Canada. Sans compter le travail des machines qui remplacent pour la main-d'œuvre ou moins 1000 hommes, 100 ouvriers habiles y sont employés à l'année. Vient ensuite l'industrie des clous et des chevilles en fer. On compte aujourd'hui dans Montréal huit manufactures où ces articles de commerce sont fabriqués. Pour donner une idée des opérations de ces différentes usines, il nous suffira de mentionner qu'elles consomment chaque année de mille à quinze cents tonnes de fer puddlé, sans compter un montant égal de vieux rails et de ferrailles, et plusieurs milliers de tonnes pesant de fer en feuilles. Pas moins de trente mille tonnes de charbon sont employées dans ces établissements. Au-dessus de deux millions de dollars sont placés dans l'exploitation de cette industrie qui est un moyen de subsistance pour seize cents ouvriers et leurs familles. Ajoutons quatre manufactures de clous pour les fers à cheval, les seuls établissements de ce genre en Canada. On fabrique aussi à Montréal les broquettes et les clous qui servent à la pose des tapis ou pour suspendre les tableaux dans vos demeures, trois maisons seulement font ce commerce dans cette ville ; une autre fabrique les tuyaux en fer forgé. Dans les produits secondaires nous citerons les ouvrages en fonte de toutes les espèces, tels que poêles, poêles de cuisine, fournaies, pompes, réverbères, clôtures, fontaines &c. &c., pour lesquels il existe douze fonderies continuellement en opération. Un de nos industriels fait une spécialité des articles en fer ou en fonte moulés, un autre des objets en acier et un troisième de tout ce qui entre dans la fabrication des poêles à huile de charbon ou à gaz. Il y a aussi trois maisons qui se livrent à la manufacture de coffres-forts à l'épreuve des voleurs ; toutes trois font de bonnes affaires. Deux autres manufacturent les poêles de cuisine en fonte que l'on voit aujourd'hui dans un si grand nombre d'hôtels et de résidences. Nous avons aussi une manufacture de soies en acier qui sont d'un usage si général. Bien que les machines à coudre soient d'invention américaine, il s'en fabrique aussi à Montréal et 600 hommes sont employés à ce travail dont le résultat est destiné à venir en aide à nos bonnes ménagères. Il y a un établissement pour les haches et les pics, et un autre pour les tarières, les mèches, les outils, les pelles de fer, les bèches et tous les produits de la coutellerie à partir de l'énorme coutelas du boucher jusqu'au canif mignon dont le journaliste se sert pour apprêter le crayon avec lequel il écrira des articles destinés à révolutionner les masses ; depuis les engins de boucherie jusqu'aux petits ciseaux que reposent douillettement sur leur lit de velours dans les boîtes de travail. Plus loin on rencontre une manufacture de pompes et une autre de balances. Nous comptons pareillement six usines où l'on fait le fil de fer barbelé pour les clôtures, ainsi que les ressorts de voitures et les sommiers élastiques ; dans cette catégorie doivent entrer les ateliers de la compagnie de lumière électrique "La Royale" et la compagnie de Téléphone Bell.

Terminons cette énumération en ne citant qu'en passant, la "Dominion Bridge Company" dont les usines considérables contiennent douze engins énormes et un outillage complet. En somme, des calculs exacts ont établi que l'industrie du fer et de l'acier fournit ici, de l'ouvrage à 10,500 ouvriers.

La fonderie du cuivre qui se rattache sous tant de rapports à celle du fer et de l'acier a aussi fait de grands progrès dans ces dernières années. Un établissement de ce genre a été élevé à grands frais cette année et emploie actuellement 200 hommes. Pour nous résumer, nos quatre fonderies de cuivre qui représentent un capital de placement d'un demi million de dollars, et où travaillent six ou sept cents hommes produisent des articles en cuivre, qui, par leur fini et leur qualité peuvent rivaliser avec ceux d'aucune autre manufacture de l'Amérique.

LE CHARBON.

Grâce à la politique nationale qui met nos propriétaires de mines à l'abri de la concurrence du combustible étranger, le commerce de charbon se fait à Montréal sur une grande échelle et a acquis une prospérité remarquable qui va toujours en augmentant. Sa population qui s'accroît continuellement et ses industries nouvelles qui surgissent font que notre ville est devenue le marché du charbon venant des provinces maritimes dont les différentes mines appartiennent à des capitalistes de Montréal. On calcule que trois millions de dollars, l'argent de notre métropole, sont ainsi engagés dans les mines du charbon canadien. De cet argent une partie est à la Compagnie Minière Intercoloniale de charbon, une autre à la Compagnie Internationale de charbon, une autre à la Compagnie Vale de charbon, une autre à la compagnie de chemin de fer et charbon de Cumberland. Toutes ces sociétés commerciales ont leurs places d'affaires et d'opérations dans le comté de Cumberland, à Pictou et dans le Cap-Breton, province de la Nouvelle Ecosse. Ce charbon qui est de nature bitumineuse nous arrive en chargements de barges; cependant nous en recevons directement de Cumberland, par voie ferrée. Il est surtout employé par les chemins de fer et les manufactures. Pour donner une faible idée de la consommation de ce combustible, nous nous contenterons de dire que la compagnie du chemin de fer du Pacifique Canadien en fait une dépense annuelle de 80,000 tonnes. Ajoutons à ces chiffres 50,000 tonnes pour la Compagnie du Gaz et 35,000 tonnes pour le Grand Tronc, en tout 165,000 tonnes qui nous arrivent par la voie de la navigation, la balance qui représente à peu près 25 pour cent sur la quantité totale est transportée par chemin de fer. La consommation totale pour Montréal, a été, l'année dernière de et sur ce chiffre seulement que sept pour cent ont été importés d'Angleterre ou d'Irlande. Il n'y a pas encore six ans, Montréal ne dépensait que 334,000 tonnes ce qui établit un surplus de 10,000 tonnes pour l'espace de trois ans. Au reste voici les chiffres pour 1885 :—

443,000 TONNES,

	Tonnes.
Grande Bretagne et Irlande.....	48,000
Cap Breton.....	139,600
Pictou.....	76,000
Par voie ferrée.....	83,000
	— 346,600

Voici l'augmentation pour l'année suivante :—

	Tonnes.
Grande Bretagne et Irlande.....	23,277
Cap Breton.....	200,000
Pictou.....	66,000
Par voie ferrée.....	75,000
	364,277

Voici le chiffre de la consommation en 1887 :—

	Tonnes.
Grande Bretagne et Irlande.....	31,000
Cap Breton.....	272,000
Pictou.....	65,000
Par chemin de fer.....	75,000
	443,000

Les prix pour le charbon bitumineux ne subissent pas beaucoup de changements, ils n'ont cependant jamais été aussi bas que l'année dernière.

Le tableau ci-dessous indique les prix pour le charbon des mines de Pictou pendant les onze dernières années :—

1877.....	$4.00 à $4.50	1883.....	$4.50 à $5.00
1878.....	3.50 à 3.60	1884.....	4.15 à 4.00
1879.....	3.75 à 4.25	1885.....	3.50 à 4.00
1880.....	3.75 à 4.25	1886.....	3.30 à 3.50
1881.....	4.00 à 4.50	1887.....	3.30 à 3.50
1882.....	4.00 à 4.75

Afin d'avoir la valeur correspondante pour le charbon du Cap Breton, il suffit d'ajouter de 30 à 50 cents par tonne. Tant qu'aux frais de transport les marchands de charbon disent qu'ils ne sont pas plus élevés ici qu'ailleurs.

Le charbon anthracite nous vient en grande partie de la Pennsylvanie et sert surtout pour les usages domestiques. Son transport se fait d'Oswego par barges ou directement des mines par le chemin de fer Delaware & Hudson. Montréal consomme à elle seule 220,000 tonnes par année de ce charbon qui est employé dans toutes les résidences. Il s'est brûlé dans cette ville, en 1885, 190,000 tonnes et 194,000 tonnes en 1886. Auparavant on chargeait le charbon dans des bateaux plats qui le déposaient ici pour aller ensuite prendre des cargaisons de bois à Ottawa. La demande devenant de plus en plus active, il fallut avoir recours aux chemins de fer et même plusieurs compagnies se sont construit des voies ferrées qu'elles exploitent pour l'écoulement de leurs produits. Grâce à ces facilités de transport le charbon nous arrive en immenses quantités, soit par voie d'eau ou par chemins de fer, il s'accumule en montagnes dans les nombreux clos de la ville, afin de répondre aux besoins de la population, qui va toujours s'agrandissant surtout par le grand nombre d'ouvriers et d'artisans qui nous arrivent sans cesse de toutes les parties de la Puissance. Et voilà pourquoi Montréal est un des meilleurs centres de toute l'Amérique et de tout l'Europe pour le commerce de charbon.

MANUFACTURES DE PAPIERS.

Même dans l'art de faire le papier, Montréal est beaucoup en avant des autres villes du Canada et fait une forte concurrence aux plus grandes villes des Etats Unis dans cette ligne d'industrie. Au commencement de ce siècle le papier d'emballage de même que le papier à écrire était aussi rares que dispendieux à Montréal et dans toutes les parties du Canada, la manufacture du papier était chose entièrement inconnue. La première manufacture du Canada fut établie, avec un capital réalisé à Montréal, à St. André sur la rivière du Nord, près de Montréal, il fallait posséder un courage à toute épreuve pour s'embarquer dans une telle entreprise. Elle fut ouverte en 1806, et à cette époque, dans tout le pays entre Halifax et Toronto, il n'y avait qu'une demi douzaine de petits journaux hebdomadaires publiés, qui ne dépensaient pas plus de 300 livres de matériel par semaine. Comme la capacité de la manufacture fournissait environ 100 livres par jour, toutes faites à la main, la quantité quoique petite en apparence, était beaucoup au-delà de la demande. Depuis lors cette industrie a eu de nombreux revers tant dans Montréal que dans les environs ; d'une petite manufacture il en est surgi quinze autres qui contrôlent la moitié de la valeur totale de cette industrie dans le Canada, et situées dans un territoire, où abonde le bois pour la pulpe, avec des centaines de montagnes boisées, des lacs innombrables et des chutes et autres pouvoirs d'eau. Ils promettent de monopoliser avant peu d'années le commerce de papeterie. Comme preuve de ceci nous pouvons avancer que des travaux seront commencés sous peu pour la construction d'un des plus grand magasin de papeterie du Canada qui sera bâti à Montréal. Il ne coûtera pas moins de $100,000 sans parler du mobilier, du fond de commerce, ainsi du reste, et comprendra huit étages. Il sera construit en brique terra cotta et en pierre sableuse de Perth dont on fera usage pour la première fois à Montréal. Cet établissement sera destiné non-seulement à recevoir les marchandises mais aussi à la manufacture de sacs, d'enveloppes, d'étiquettes, d'adresses, à laquelle cent cinquante personnes seront employées. Ce n'est que dernièrement aussi que dans la paroisse de St. Jérôme une autre manufacture de papier considérable a été érigée avec un capital de $250,000 et d'une capacité proportionnée, et dont les propriétaires sont des capitalistes Canadiens Français de Montréal.

 LES MANUFACTURES DES SOIES.

La manufacture des soies, qui depuis son début a toujours continué à prospérer, est ainsi que la plupart des autres industries, contrôlée en grande partie par Montréal ; il n'y a qu'une seule manufacture hors de la ville, et son capital vient en partie des capitalistes de Montréal. Les proportions de cette industrie aujourd'hui montrent une grande augmentation, les rubans et mouchoirs qui sont ajoutés à sa ligne de production ont été reçus par le commerce avec la plus grande satisfaction. Les opérations qui naturellement étaient d'abord sur une petite échelle, ont tellement augmenté qu'un établissement au moins a été plus d'une fois obligé de doubler sa capacité productive, et emploie maintenant, une moyenne d'environ deux cents mains. Les gages payés s'élèvent à environ $50,000 par année, la valeur du matériel brut étant d'à peu près $200,000, tandis que la valeur des objets manufacturés doit être entre $350,000 à $400,000.

Malgré les difficultés à surmonter, les articles manufacturés sont égaux à n'importe quel autre de ce genre importé des Etats Unis, le matériel brut dont on fait usage étant de Canton, de Tsattee et le meilleur du Japon, et la liste des prix canadiens est la même que celle adoptée aux États Unis. Toutes les améliorations dans la machinerie et la confection sont introduites aussitôt que possible, de sorte que Montréal est toujours capable de tenir pied avec l'époque; ses soieries trouvant toujours une vente facile par tout le Canada, et l'on ajoute même que la classe inférieure de marchandises se vend côte à côte avec les marchandises de première qualité à des prix de première classe. Ceci n'affecte pas cependant la qualité des marchandises de grade supérieur, tels que les soieries pour robes, les satins, etc., produits par les mêmes manufactures, mais stimule plutôt l'ambition de produire des articles de qualité supérieure compatible avec des taux de profit raisonnable, et le paiement de telles gages qui procure le service des meilleurs opérateurs. Le fait que Montréal a atteint une des plus haute positions en cette ligne est amplement prouvé par le fait que es acheteurs sont dans l'impossibilité de faire la différence entre les produits des manufactures de Montréal et ceux des autres villes depuis beaucoup plus longtemps engagées dans cette industrie.

L'INDUSTRIE DES COTONS.

HISTOIRE DU DÉVELOPPEMENT DES MANUFACTURES DE COTON.

Le trône du Roi Coton est situé dans la métropole commerciale du Canada. Plus de la moitié des manufactures de l'Amérique Britannique du Nord sont entièrement contrôlées par les capitalistes et hommes d'affaires de Montréal. Le développement de la manufacture du coton commença au Canada lorsque fut établi le régime de protection. A cette époque il n'y avait que sept manufactures de coton en opération, toutes de la même capacité. Sous le nouveau régime l'intérêt languissant qu'on avait témoigné jusqu'à-lors pour cette industrie se raviva, et les manufacturiers étendirent leur commerce et multiplièrent leurs productions même au-delà de la demande du pays, montrant ainsi non pas trop de foi en la politique nouvelle, mais trop peu de calcul par rapport à la consommation. Plusieurs des vieilles manufactures doublèrent et triplèrent leurs produits en quelques années, et les nouvelles furent établies sur une base beaucoup plus libérale. Aujourd'hui nous comptons vingt-trois manufactures en Canada, un demi million de fuseaux, et environ 10,000 métiers, sur lesquels 8,000 à 9,000 personnes font résonner la musique de leur labeur, dont le refrain est le récit des faits accomplis dans cette ligne par les manufactures de coton.

Les premières opérations de cette industrie en Canada furent retardées en grande partie par le manque de jugement des manufacturiers. Il n'y avait pas assez de diversion dans le caractère de leurs produits. Les marchés du pays étaient encombrés de cotons non blanchis, tandis qu'on ne pouvait obtenir de nos manufactures aucun autre genre ni qualité de marchandises en coton. Cet état d'affaires a maintenant subi une évolution complète, et les marchés canadiens fournissent aujourd'hui les marchandises les plus fines et les plus variées qui puissent se trouver n'importe où, toutes les qualités de cotons blanchis et non-blanchis, cotons à draps, à oreillers, ainsi qu'un nouveau coton à oreiller tissé sans couture, serviettes, piqués, ginghams de fantaisie, seersuckers uni et rayés, coutils, coton à tricoter, braids et mèches à lampes. On prétend que les cotons blancs manufacturés en Canada surpassent aucun des produits de ce genre manufacturés en Amérique. La production annuelle des 23 manufactures maintenant en opération en Canada s'élève à environ 9,000,000 de verges de coton, que l'on doit partager entre les manufactures suivantes, la Compagnie de Coton Hochelaga étant la plus considérable :

Compagnie de Coton Hochelaga
Compagnie de Coton Windsor
Compagnie de Coton Moncton
Wm. Parks & Fils (Lté.)
Compagnie de Coton Chambly
Compagnie de Coton Montréal
Compagnie de Coton Canada
Compagnie de Coton Kingston
Moulin à Coton Ontario
Moulin à Coton Lybster
Compagnie de Coton Dundas.

Compagnie de Coton Ste. Croix
Compagnie Manufacturière de Coton Nouvelle Ecosse Moulin à Coton St. Jean
Moulin à Coton Coaticook
Compagnie de Coton des Marchands
Compagnie de Coton Stormont
Compagnie de Coton Hamilton
Compagnie de Coton Meritton
Compagnie de Coton Brantford
Magog Print and Textile Co.

Du nombre ci-haut mentionné, la Compagnie Hochelaga avec 110,000 fuseaux et une production annuelle de 1,500,000 verges de coton, la Compagnie de Coton Chambly, la Compagnie Coaticook, la Compagnie de Montréal, la Compagnie des Marchands, la Compagnie Canadienne, la Compagnie Stormont, la Compagnie Kingston, la Compagnie Hamilton, les moulins à Coton Ontario, la Compagnie de Dundas, et la Magog Print and Textile Company sont en grande partie contrôlés par le capital de Montréal à Montréal.

La location géographique des marchés de coton canadiens en rapport avec les planteurs admet d'une plus grande étendue de cette industrie pour l'exportation, les capitalistes et hommes d'affaires de Montréal devraient par tous les moyens possibles s'en assurer le contrôle. Ils sont mieux en lieu d'entretenir le trafic d'exportation avec tous les marchés du monde directement tributaires de leur port, et par là avec toute cette surface du globe dans l'Orient via la route du Pacifique Canadien vers la Chine, le Japon et l'Inde.

NOTRE INDUSTRIE DU SUCRE.

APPROVISIONNANT SON PROPRE MARCHÉ.

Montréal fournit les trois-quarts du sucre consommé dans tout le Canada, et ses raffineries de sucre ont surmonté tous les dangers que la compétition des importateurs de sucre leur ont fait encourir, et qui ont été cause que toutes les autres raffineries du Canada ont succombé.

Au commencement de ce siècle tout le sucre consommé en Canada était importé d'Angleterre et des Etats Unis. En 1854 cependant, M. Peter Redpath, le pionnier de l'industrie du sucre en Canada, acheta un site sur la rue St. Patrick et partit une petite raffinerie. Pendant plusieurs années cette jeune entreprise dut faire de pénibles efforts pour soutenir son existence, mais sa persévérance fut enfin couronnée de succès. C'est alors que la St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Company s'établit ici en l'année 1879.

La "Canadian Sugar Refining Company" lors de son établissement, ne produisait qu'environ 20,000,000 de livres par année et a maintenant atteint une production de 150,000,000 de livres par année. Le total de la consommation du sucre en Canada est un peu au-delà de 200,000,000 de livres par an. Comme tout le sucre qui se produit en Canada est consommé dans le pays il est clair que nos raffineries suppléent au besoin entier.

Le sucre brut vient principalement des Indes Occidentales, du Brésil et des Iles Philippines. Tous les degrés du sucre se produisent ici depuis le cassonnade du jaune le plus foncé au sucre blanc de meilleure qualité.

Le capital de la Canada Sugar Refining Company est de $1,000,000, tandis que celui de la St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Company est un compte rond de $850,000.

Les produits des raffineries d'Halifax, Moncton et Berthier varient annuellement entre 50 à 100 millions de livres, tandis que leur capital n'excède pas $800,000.

La St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co. a aussi plus que triplé sa capacité et elle produisait environ 2000 barils chaque jour avant le feu désastreux qui détruisit son vaste établissement de la rue du Collège le printemps dernier.

Une plus forte preuve de l'accroissement de cette industrie est le fait qu'en 1874 le tonnage total des navires apportant le sucre brut à Montréal était environ de 10,000 tonnes et qu'il a atteint en 1888 le chiffre de 54,000 tonneaux.

La qualité de l'article sortant des manufactures de Montréal ne peut être surpassée. La compagnie St. Laurent a complété son vaste établissement qu'elle a fait construire à Maisonneuve dans lequel les opérations sont commencées depuis un an.

Le profit du raffineur de sucre étant faible à cause de la forte concurrence des pays étrangers, où le travail est meilleur marché, le principal succès des raffineries de sucre de Montréal a consisté dans une rigide économie et une direction soignée. Ces deux qualités ont assuré à Montréal la masse du commerce de raffinage du sucre dans tout le Canada. L'entreprise emploie environ et directement 4200 personnes, et donne une occupation indirecte à plus de 40,000. Les impôts sur le sucre raffiné deviennent de plus en plus faibles d'année en année.

En 1878, le montant total du sucre raffiné importé était de 107,412,307 livres. En 1880, il descendit à 31,080,064 livres. Ce chiffre fût encore plus réduit en 1881 quand le plus fort montant n'atteignit que 16,000,000 de livres, et en 1882 seulement 14,275,500 livres.

Ces chiffres ont été encore plus réduits dans les années qui suivirent, de 14,275,500 livres sont-ils tombés à 8,000,000 par an.

Les faiseurs de sucre de betterave en conséquence en éprouvèrent une faillite, perdant un montant considérable d'argent et brisant ainsi le travail entrepris. La cause de cette faillite est attribuée à ce fait que les cultivateurs ne pouvaient pas faire croître la betterave et la vendre aux prix que les fabricants de ce genre de sucre voulaient la leur acheter.

Cependant, on peut espérer qu'avec de nouvelles facilités croissantes, ce genre de fabrication sera bientôt repris à Montréal par des capitalistes qui lui trouveront une issue pleine de succès.

Les officiers de la Canada Refining Co, sont : MM. Geo. A. Drummond, président ; Gilbert Scott, vice-président ; W. W. Watson, secrétaire. Ceux de la St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Company sont : MM. W. L. Elmenhorst, A. Baumgarten, vice-président ; et T. Labatt secrétaire.

CIGARES.

L'exposé sommaire et intéressant suivant montre la grandeur atteinte par cette importante industrie dans la Puissance du Canada.

Pendant l'année fiscale prenant fin le 30 juin 1885, il a été manufacturé dans le Canada 90,408,025 cigares avec du tabac étranger et 19,250 avec des feuilles de tabac canadien avec lesquelles Montréal produisit seul 45,241,275 cigares ; Toronto 6,613,100 et Hamilton 6,738,225. Le nombre total des licences accordées étant : 24 pour Montréal, 9 pour Toronto et 14 pour Hamilton. Le montant total du produit manufacturé représentant 1,733,895 livres de tabac, Montréal donnant 830,367 livres, Toronto 132,821 livres et Hamilton 135,675 livres. La balance se partageant parmi les manufactures de moindre importance dans le pays.

Durant la première année prenant fin le 30 juin 1887, il y avait 125 licences de manufactures au Canada, dont 25 étaient pour Montréal, 10 pour Toronto et 15 pour Hamilton. Le nombre des cigares manufacturés étant de 85,587,505, consommant 1,600,780 livres de tabac. Dans ce montant, Montréal fournissait 40,435,190 cigares ; qui demandaient en fabrique 760,538 livres de tabac, Toronto contribuait pour 5,665,700 cigares fait avec 104,243 livres de feuilles, et Hamilton 6,221,525 fait avec de 115,375 livres de feuilles.

Une fois, une seule maison de Montréal livra plus de quatre millions de cigares en 1886-87 de plus que tous ceux fabriqués dans les manufactures de Toronto et d'Hamilton ensemble. Son commerce s'étendant de Terre-Neuve à la Colombie Anglaise.

Le nombre de mains employées à Montréal dans cette ligne de fabrication est environ de 1800. Les gages gagnés varient beaucoup, dépendant en grande partie de l'habileté des ouvriers, quelques-uns gagnant par semaine de seize à dix-huit dollars. En plus tout homme connaissant bien son travail ou étant capable de l'apprendre, gagne de huit à dix dollars, quelque fois plus par semaine avec un labeur de huit heures par jour, le samedi la paye étant de moitié.

Le tabac qu'on manufacture dans ce pays provient de

principalement des Indes, de l'Ouest, de l'Archipel des Antilles et des Etats-Unis. Le paquetage prend différentes formes ; quelque fois un sac pesant 85 à 160 livres et d'autres en caisses de 3 à 400 livres chaque ; quand on reçoit le tabac, il est comparativement sec et après avoir été tiré avec soin des paquets on le trempe dans l'eau claire, ensuite il est entassé et couvert pour vingt-quatre heures environ, le temps dépendant beaucoup de la température. Il n'en faut pas tant en été qu'en hiver. Quelque fois quand le tabac n'est pas suffisamment soigné, il peut prendre un progrès de moisissure. Alors les feuilles sont transportées au département de l'effeuillage où on ôte la tige du milieu de la feuille, la divisant en deux, ce qu'on appelle le côté gauche et le côté droite. Il en sort en feuilles classées en différentes catégories, chez les gratteurs, les rouleurs, et les lieurs. Les gratteurs sont généralement dans des casses séparées, les enveloppeurs et ceux qui sont connus comme rouleur de feuilles les mettent en petits paquets, les pesant d'une demi-livre à une livre chaque. Le tabac est alors mis entre les mains du faiseur de cigares, dont quelques-uns sont faits à la main et d'autres au moule. Les outils dont on se sert consistent en une planchette de bois dur coûtant de 75 cents à $1.25 cents, un couteau coûtant environ 25 cents une gouge pour mesurer la longueur du cigare coûtant environ de 75 cents à $1.50; un bon faiseur de cigares étant capable d'en produire de 200 à 300 par jour, ou 8 à 8½ par heure à la main et de 300 à 500 par jour au travail du moule. Les bouts du cigares son façonnés avec de la gomme peu attrayante généralement mais de première qualité. Les cigares son habituellement ramassés chaque soir et envoyés au où différents degrés de couleurs sont choisis, placés en boîtes et marqués en conformité de choix, tels que Claro, Colorado Claro, Colorado, Colorado Maduro, Maduro et Oseuro, ce sont là généralement les dénominations sous lesquelles se désignent les différents choix de couleurs dans les boîtes et paquets de tabac. Les boîtes avant d'être paquetées sont mises en papier et étiquetées montrant le nombre et la sorte de cigares. Il y a, différents genres de bois usés pour la fabrication de ces sortes de boîtes, le principal étant le cèdre espagnol, le noyer et le bois de nattes. La meilleure qualité de cigares étant naturellement placés dans les boîtes de qualités supérieures. Les cigares sont alors prêts pour l'envoi, après avoir subi la taxe du revenu qui se paye six cents par mille.

L'accroissement qui s'est produit dans cette industrie de la fabrication des cigares depuis dix ans dans ce pays est d'environ vingt-cinq pour cent.

MOULINS À FARINE

L'extension du commerce de farine du Canada a toujours commandé un vif intérêt et il est bon de noter que Montréal tient toujours le haut du pavé dans le commerce des farines et il serait difficile de lui enlever cette position. La ville contient les plus grands moulins de tout le Canada. Ils ont une capacité actuellement de 4000 quarts par jour. La farine de Montréal est expédiée dans toutes les parties du Canada de Vancouver à Halifax, de même en Grande Bretagne, à Anvers et Hambourg, et le chemin de fer du Pacifique a ouvert un vaste débouché avec la Chine et le Japon, lequel s'accroît de jour en jour. Antérieurement il y a quinze ans, l'industrie des moulins à farine avait fait bien peu d'avance. Les meules de pierres et les broyeurs étaient connus de toutes parts. En 1868 la machinerie à Pesth en était encore au vieux système des meules de pierre. Les Hongrois, cependant, commençaient à substituer des petites meules de porcelaine et dès qu'on en connut le succès en Canada, plusieurs maisons en exigèrent. On alla en Europe étudier les améliorations. Un agent découvrit à Zurich, Suisse, un matériel nouveau d'une meule qui est encore ce qu'il y a de mieux en usage et dont les plus gros moulins rebâtis à Montréal sont encore pourvus. Les moulages des grosses maisons ont été rebâtis et aménagés pendant les dernières années et sont devenus de magnifiques établissements; une quantité de farine américaine venait à Montréal, mais avec les splendides grains des récoltes du Manitoba, les maisons américaines éprouveront chaque année de plus en plus une réelle difficulté à faire la concurrence au Canada. Les meuniers de Montréal ont dépensé à peu près un quart de million de piastres pour établir des moulins dans le Manitoba et les énormes élévateurs du chemin de fer du Pacifique.

LES COMPAGNIES D'ASSURANCE.

Nous trouvons dans les livres bleus d'intéressants détails au sujet des compagnies d'assurance contre l'incendie et sur la vie qui opèrent dans le Canada.

Ces compagnies sont toutes dans un état prospère, et leurs opérations se sont accrues et s'accroissent dans de notables proportions.

Prenons d'abord les compagnies d'assurance contre l'incendie et distinguons les, comme elles le sont réellement, en compagnies canadiennes, anglaises et américaines.

Dans l'espace de vingt ans, de 1869 à 1888, les compagnies canadiennes ont triplé le chiffre de leurs assurances.

En 1869 le chiffre des polices était de.....	$141,090,604
En 1888, il s'élevait à.....	120,158,592
Et pendant les vingt années le chiffre des polices a produit.....	2,319,452,612
Les opérations des compagnies anglaises ont suivi la même proportion, puisque, en 1869, la montant des polices est de.....	120,747,515
Et en 1888 de.....	376,408,322
Et pour les vingt années de.....	4,869,281,355
Les compagnies américaines ont progressé plus rapidement; leurs opérations ont à peu près quintuplé.
En 1869, leurs polices donnent.....	$9,702,356
En 1888 elles atteignent.....	44,881,343
Pendant les vingt années à.....	572,616,297
Durant cette période de vingt ans, les compagnies canadiennes ont reçu pour primes sur leurs polices.....	22,391,304
Et ont payé pour sinistres.....	16,328,319
Ce qui leur a donné un bénéfice de.....	6,062,985
Les compagnies britanniques ont touché.....	46,106,321
Ont payé.....	33,340,188
Elles ont donc eu un bénéfice de.....	12,106,321
Les compagnies américaines ont perdu.....	5,919,104
Et payé.....	4,068,595
Bénéfice.....	1,850,509

Si maintenant nous considérons les compagnies d'assurance sur la vie, nous allons voir que leurs opérations ont suivi, elles aussi, des développements rapides et considérables.

Le livre bleu nous montre cette marche ascendante pendant une période de quatorze ans, de 1875 à 1888.

En 1875, le montant des assurances pour les compagnies canadiennes était de $21,957,296; en 1886, ce montant s'élève à $114,034,279, c'est-à-dire est devenu six fois plus fort.

Les compagnies britanniques et américaines sont bien loin d'avoir atteint un accroissement aussi considérable. En effet les compagnies britanniques qui, en 1875, avaient un montant d'assurances de $19,455,607, ne sont pas arrivées à doubler ce montant puisque; en 1888, il atteignait seulement $30,665,455.

Il en est de même pour les compagnies américaines. En 1875, le montant de leurs assurances est de $43,596,361 et en 1888 de $67,724,094.

De cet accroissement du nombre des assurances des compagnies canadiennes si supérieur à celui des compagnies britanniques et américaines, il résulte qu'à elles seules les compagnies canadiennes ont réalisé pendant les quatre années de (1885-88) un chiffre d'assurances plus élevé que celui des autres compagnies.

Ce chiffre se monte pour ces quatre ans à $378,604,033, et celui des compagnies britanniques et américaines à $345,791,919.

Nous ne trouvons pas dans le livre bleu pour les compagnies d'assurance sur la vie, le détail des primes reçues et celui des primes payées ; nous ne pouvons donc établir les bénéfices réalisés par ces compagnies ; mais il est clairement démontré que l'actif de ces compagnies dépasse de beaucoup le passif.

Ainsi pour les seules compagnies canadiennes, pendant l'année 1888, le livre bleu donne pour le chiffre.

De l'actif.....	$16,050,764.68
Et comme passif.....	14,075,334.29
Ce qui fait ressortir l'excédent de l'actif sur le passif à.....	1,975,430.29

De ces bénéfices réalisés par les compagnies d'assurance contre l'incendie et sur la vie, et de l'accroissement considérable de leurs opérations, on doit hautement se féliciter ; car c'est une des preuves les plus évidentes du progrès de notre patrie.
